Mixed-media sculptures, paintings, drawings, glassworks, and photographs, invite you to reflect upon the connection between our own existence and that of the wild, natural world. Drawing inspiration from various disciplines such as biology, evolution, and anthropology, the exhibition prompts reflection and reverence towards these illustrated species. Painter Bill Killebrew and Sculptor Ellie Richards each employ their distinct artistic styles to reference commonplace objects and moments found in natural environments and domestic spaces. Ellie primarily creates her sculptures by carving with a bandsaw, resulting in fabricated works that feel familiar yet elevated, such as; manipulated brooms, benches, lamps, and sculptural tableaux. Additionally, Bill anchors his paintings with unexpected color and light, using gestural brushstrokes to vividly capture the portrayal of people, spaces, and objects found within daily life. Side by side, these artists elevate the ordinary and familiar through their signature approaches. Small Format Gallery, Through Oct. 25 - "Eleanor Anderson: Ciphers". Multi-disciplinary artist Eleanor Anderson creatively explores world-making through the process of play and material deviation. In her latest body of work, Eleanor uses craft traditions as a flexible constraint by experimenting with bold colors and graphic patterns to discover new visual possibilities for form and surface design. This spirited practice delves into techniques such as embroidery, beading, weaving, applique, and stitching; resulting in vibrantly textured 2D works. Showcase Gallery, Through Oct. 25 - "Daniel Robbins: Hourglass". Robbins elegantly paints a variety of images — painterly landscapes, still life compositions, and interiors with figurative elements. He studies the constantly evolving relationship between the natural and the manmade; presenting subjects that are ordinary and commonly overlooked with a curious eye. Because he paints from life, he responds honestly and directly to the subject in its environment. This intimate exploration results in sensitively observed pictorial compositions. Ongoing - Featuring works in a variety of mediums by regional, national and international artists.
