SOUTH CAROLINA arts COMMISSION

COVID-19 and the arts in South Carolina

As with the rest of state government, the South Carolina Arts Commission remains open and serving our constituents. Our team continues working diligently to respond to your needs. During this time, the best way to reach us is via email. We will resume in-person business as soon as state/local authorities and public health experts deem it safe to do so. For further info visit (<https://www.southcarolinaarts.com/covid-19-response/>).

The National Endowment for the Arts is open for business. Our staff, while working remotely for the next several weeks, is available to you via phone or email, as usual. We look forward to receiving and reviewing our next round of grant applications in the coming weeks. We're also evaluating our grant application deadlines and may adjust them to help applicants dealing with the effects of COVID-19.

We know that there are more than five million Americans who make their livelihoods in the broader arts and cultural sector across the country and are potentially at risk. We also know that the arts provide comfort, resilience, wisdom, and the means for self-expression and connection, perhaps even more so during challenging times such as these. We have FAQs and relief resources and opportunities related to COVID-19 available on our website at (<https://www.arts.gov/covid-19-resources-for-artists-and-arts-organizations>), and we will continue to update these sections with new information as it becomes available.

Editorial COMMENTARY

by Tom Starland, Editor and Publisher

Your State Art Collection

The Greenville Center for Creative Arts in Greenville, SC, is presenting Contemporary Conversations, curated by Eleanor Heartney, featuring select works from the 466-piece SC State Art Collection, under the care of the SC Arts Commission, a SC State arts agency, on view through Jan. 27, 2021.

Did you know South Carolina has a State Art Collection? Have you ever seen an exhibition featuring works from it or even any work from the collection? Well, if you hang around some State of SC government buildings, you probably have, but you probably didn't know what you were looking at. It's perfectly normal for people to pass by art they see in public buildings and never question who created that art or why it's hanging where it is. Most people don't take time to see or smell the roses along their pathway as they travel through life. But here, you have the opportunity to go see a selection of works out of the 466 works in that collection. I don't know how many works, the press release didn't say, or volunteer which artists who are lucky enough to be in the State Collection have works featured in this exhibit. But, at least you'll see the works Eleanor Heartney liked. I can't show you any of the works as my request for a few high res images from the exhibit didn't come to us as of this publishing.

Heartney is a New York-based contemporary art critic and author, who curated this exhibit and seems to be the official historian of the State Art Collection. At least she's the only person I know besides David Houston, a former staff member of the SC Arts Commission who left SC years ago, who seems to have some say about how this Collection is used or presented. Of course I don't want to leave out Wim Roefs, a gallery owner in Columbia, SC, who has the ear of the Arts Commission, and Jeffrey Day, a former art critic for The State newspaper in Columbia, now in California. Heartney, Houston, Roefs, and Day seem to have great influence over Harriett Green, who has been the long time Visual Arts Program Director at the SC Arts Commission. In fact I don't think she has done anything without consulting one or all of them on what she should do.

When I first heard of this Contemporary Conversations, exhibition I went to the SC Arts Commission's website to see what's been going on with the collection and didn't find a complete list of works in the collection listed there or mention of anything purchased after 2006. The Arts Commission has been off my radar since our Impeached President, Donald J. Trump has been on the scene. It's hard to keep up with both of them at the same time. Someone at the Commission once compared me to Rush Limbaugh. If that was true the Commission and I would be pals, but we're not. I've got nothing against the people who work at the Arts Commission, but I do with many of their policies and how they carry them out.

So, after not finding much on the website I sent an e-mail to Harriett Green asking why there wasn't a complete list of works on the website and why I didn't see anything after 2006.

Green replied that the Commission wasn't actively collecting after 2006, but she would send me a list of works they have collected after 2006. I wondered what "actively" meant since they have acquired some works.

When I got the list (in a timely fashion) I saw Green was right, less than 20 works

Redux Contemporary Art Center in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Anne Abueva

Redux Contemporary Art Center in Charleston, SC, is presenting yellow and blue makes green, featuring works by Anne Abueva, on view in Gallery 1056, through Jan. 30, 2021.

This marks Abueva's first solo exhibit in Charleston, SC. This collection of work originates from the most basic lessons in art that we all learned as kids: mixing colors. One color leads to the next, and in turn dictates shape, texture and overall composition.

The exhibit reminisces in the simple joy of mixing paint colors. At the same time, the abstracted compositions are unapologetic in asking the viewer to open to new possibilities and accept alternate points of view. Art is a powerful tool in creating bridges and connections between people - something many of us are very in need of as we cope with the pandemic. This show strives to find common ground in the memory of learning yellow and blue makes green, while simultaneously asking for expansion into new points of view.

Abueva's experience with intuitive and expressionist artmaking, combined with over 10 years working in interior design guide her studio practice. Experimentation, playfulness and ruthless editing are all key ingredients in each piece.

Born and raised in Chicago, IL, Abueva moved to Charleston in 2019 and is loving the process of making this place her home.

have been acquired after 2006 and only three since 2019. Some years in that time span no works were added to the Collection. But I hope those works make it on to the list on the Commission's website soon. They have had over a dozen years to update the list.

While looking for info on the State Collection I learned for the first time about the Nina Liu Fund, a fund set up by two anonymous donors in 2019 to honor my old conversation friend and gallery owner in downtown Charleston, SC, to help add works and maintain the State Collection. Something to enhance the support the SC Arts Foundation gives to the State Art Collection.

Don't ask me to explain who or what the SC Arts Foundation is. The best I can make out is they and the SC Arts Commission are the same - they are in the same building, have the same phone number and a staff member of the Commission answers that phone if you call the Foundation (most likely you'll get an answering machine). But, they say they are different. You figure it out. Some say it's the Commission's slush fund, to do things the state government wouldn't allow them to do, but I just don't see that much separation between the two. And a slush fund would imply there is money slouching around, but I doubt that's the case.

I'm getting distracted from my real point here, the exhibit being presented at the Greenville Center for Creative Arts. It's easy to get distracted when dealing with the subject of the SC Arts Commission - there are so many unanswered questions. And, believe me, when asking them questions you have to cover all the bases, as they will never volunteer any info without you asking first, even when they know what you are trying to find out.

When it comes to this exhibit, what interested me the most is what's not said about it or offered, like how many works out of the 466 works in that Collection are in it and who the artists are being featured. This isn't the first time this exhibit has been presented in SC, but there is little info about it on the Arts Commission's website or in a search done on Google. Why is that?

In my world and the world of many people these days with the Pandemic and all, we live by what's in a press release or article written about an exhibit and sometimes photos offered. All we can give our readers is what we get in a press release. Sometimes what's not there can be enhanced by offering a link to some online info - in this case the press release mentioned a virtual tour of the exhibit would be offered sometime after the exhibit opened for those who at this time would not or could not travel to see this exhibition. You can view this virtual tour at (<https://www.artcentergreenville.org/scac-virtual>). But you're not going to learn much there. Sure, you'll see a few 360 degree images of the exhibit and can watch an almost 8 minute video of the exhibit, but no commentary is offered or text to go with the video to tell you what you're looking at or who the artists are who created these works. I can identify a few works with my 34 years of experience, but just a few. You can read an essay written by Eleanor Heartney, the curator of this exhibit, which was written some years ago when the Arts Commission started it's "Art In Sight" program started in 2009, yet I saw works in the virtual tour that were purchased just a few years ago. So there might have been works added after her essay was written, which would seem strange. So, you might say that, Contemporary Conversations, has been recycled over the last ten years.

It's a pretty lazy effort on both the Greenville Center for Creative Arts and the SC Arts Commission in presenting this show of some select works from the State Art Collection - even if it is an old recycled exhibit. I'll let the folks in Greenville off the hook some, as I know how hard it is for any non-profit in SC to question the Arts Commission and not see their funding reduced or outright cut in the future. That's the way they roll in South Carolina - to get along, just go along - don't ask too many questions or soon you'll be on the outside looking in.

For me, I don't have to put up with just getting along with the Arts Commission and not questioning what they have done and don't do. And, in my humble opinion the State Art Collection is a mess and doesn't represent much but artists who were in the good graces of the Arts Commission at some point or knew someone powerful enough to get them in it.

You've heard of one hit wonders in the music industry - groups who had a one hit single and then you never heard from them again, well the State Art Collection is full of them. Works by artists just passing through South Carolina, works by artists you've never heard of and never will other than reading the list of artists in the State Art Collection. And, there are some there that have no business being there. Again, that's my opinion, you go look and judge for yourself.

I've been doing an arts publication about the visual arts in South Carolina for more than 34 years. I don't know everything or every artists in that community, but I've followed the exhibition activity going on in SC and a lot of these artists in the Collection haven't been included in many of those exhibitions, unless they were presented by the Arts Commission, if even then.

Don't get me wrong, the bulk of the Collection is filled with works by artists who should be there, but many might be represented by one single work in their 40 or 50 year career working in South Carolina. And, there are a lot of artists who have been working in South Carolina 40 or 50 years and have no works in the Collection - these are the artists the people of SC love, but they don't seem to cut the mustard with the Arts Commission - especially if you sell a lot of your work. For example, you ever hear of the Elizabeth O'Neill Verner Award? The Arts Commission now likes to call this award the Governor's Award. The State Art Collection doesn't have any works by Elizabeth O'Neill Verner in it (at least I didn't see any listed), yet they used her name to put on the state's highest art award an artist can be given in SC. But Verner's work was not good enough to be in the collection? The Arts Commission might argue that you can go to an art museum to see her works. So is the State Collection for those who can't make it in art museums? It doesn't make sense.

Now I could provide you with a list of long time SC artists who I'm shocked that their work is not in the Collection, but that would be embarrassing to them - it's the same reason I won't mention those who are in it and I can't figure out why they are.

The Arts Commission likes to say that the State Collection belongs to the people of SC, but does it? If you can't see it when you want, how can it be yours? And, if it includes works by artists those same people of SC have never heard of, yet artists they do know and like are not - how much is it their Collection? And, don't get me wrong I don't want to see the Collection be a People's Choice Collection - that really would be a mess, but I would like to see one that doesn't exclude artists who happen to be lucky enough to sell their work.

I also think the State Collection should be at the SC State Museum and on display in a special gallery space on a rotating basis so we can see it all - not in some agency head's office or a few government buildings you will never visit.

Here's a list of buildings in Columbia, Charleston or Bluffton where you might come in contact with a work from "your" State Art Collection:

I've been to the SC Arts Commission a few times (not lately), but I've never had occasion to be in any of those other buildings. I've been to the SC State Museum to see art much more and so have more SC citizens. Of course the State Museum probably doesn't have the money to do that, but then again, the Arts Commission and their buddies at the SC Arts Foundation should fund the display of that art, for all to see. They started it - they are responsible for displaying it where the people of SC can see it - if they really want to.

And what if you live in Florence, Rock Hill or Sumter? No government buildings are there? How about SC DMV buildings? I'd like to see some art in the rooms people spend hours waiting in to be served - #243!

The Arts Commission says on its website that exhibits are available to tour around the state to other facilities, at least those equipped to handle these works of art - just for the asking, but is anyone asking? How much interest does the general public have in these works? I haven't noticed any of our major art museums around the state signing up to show works from the State Collection.

If you'd like to scroll through the list of works in the collection on the Arts Commission's website, let me save you some time in finding it. The link is (<https://www.southcarolinaarts.com/direct-programs/state-art-collection/sac-artists-works/>) and it only covers works purchased by 2006.

Funny thing is, the problem is the same reason the SC Arts Commission stopped hosting juried exhibitions - they're not curated, they're not focused, they're a hodgepodge of works that don't say much about SC's visual art community. And, that's the problem with our State Art Collection. It's a mess, it's irrelevant, has no focus, and nobody is knocking down the Commission's doors to show it. And maybe that's why the Commission isn't "actively" collecting. Well, I'm sure it has more to do with a lack of funding.

Many art museums deaccession works from their collections when they no longer fit the scope of the museum's focus - it's a nice word for selling off what they don't want anymore. Sometimes they trade works to other museums who might want the works that fit their collections, but I don't know if the Arts Commission could find any buyers or takers for some of the works in the Collection, but if they could it might generate funds to buy more relevant works to be included in our State Collection. I'm just saying - other collections are run that way. Why have some works just collecting dust in some storage room?

Who decided to buy the works in the State Collection? That's another can of worms, and I'm just too tired and frustrated to go into that at this time, but it's not a pretty process or wasn't - info about that process has been removed from the Commission's website, but I've got copies of older info, but it could be embarrassing to some of SC's artists today. Some things are better off snoozing in history, like some of the works in "our" SC State Art Collection.

Furman University in Greenville, SC, Offers Works by the Late Matthew C. Baumgardner

Furman University in Greenville, SC, will present Matthew Baumgardner: Grids and Glyphs, featuring paintings, sculptures, notes, journals and other artifacts, celebrating the life and work of visual artist Matthew C. Baumgardner (1955-2018), presented by the Furman University Department of Art, on view in the Thompson Gallery of the Roe Art Building, from Jan. 19 through Feb. 19, 2021.

As the campus remains closed to the public due to COVID-19 protocols, in-person viewing of the exhibition is limited to Furman students, faculty and staff. However, the online Zoom exhibition opening, which takes place Thursday, Jan. 28, from 6:30-7:30pm, is free and open to the public. RSVP by e-mail to the Furman Department of Art at (furmanart@furman.edu) to obtain a Zoom link. Installation images and video of Baumgardner's work in Grids and Glyphs will be available online at (https://baumgardnerarchives.com/) by late January 2021

Curated and organized by Furman art students, the exhibition, Matthew Baumgardner: Grids and Glyphs, is the culmination of the Curatorial Issues and Practices class taught by Diane Fischer, adjunct professor of art history, and marks the second exhibition of Baumgardner's work hosted at Furman.

The show explores Baumgardner's creative process and inner spirit through a selection of works and ephemera spanning the artist's career from 1977-2018, and includes 17 paintings, sculptures, notes, journals and materials from his Travelers Rest studio.

Central to the exhibition are paintings rendered on birch plywood with Baumgardner's signature medium – "mud" – a thick, paint-like paste created with gypsum and powdered pigments he applied to surfaces in multiple layers of grids and glyphs. This technique and the series of paintings born from it won him a Visual Arts Fellowship in Painting by the National Endowment for the Arts in 1993.

For the Jan. 28, Zoom opening, Furman's Sarah Archino, associate professor of art history, and Fischer will give context for the exhibition, followed by students who appear in pre-recorded mini-presentations, including a video walk-through of the gallery, a chronological study of Baumgardner's work, a discussion of a special display, and explanations of artifacts from the artist's estate. A live Q&A will follow the student presentations.

One of the students integral to the exhibition is Furman senior Brandon Barney, an art major from Marietta, SC. He said the hands-on experience of curating and organizing the exhibition never felt like a typical class, but rather, a vocation.

Other student curators for Grids and Glyphs include: Mercy Fisher '21 (Pottsville, PA), Rebecca Fulford '21 (Miami Beach, FL), Gracey Greco '21 (Dublin, Ireland), Micaela Hogan '21 (San Antonio, TX), Lily Russell '22 (Elon, NC), Sophia Scheibeler '21 (Port Washington, NY) and Adare Taylor '22 (Berwyn, PA).

Fischer, former chief curator of the Allentown Art Museum (Pennsylvania), joined the Furman faculty in August 2020. She said the class represented a "rare opportunity" for students to get a real-world understanding of the curatorial side of art and much more.

"They learned teamwork and transferable skills – not just how to organize an exhibition, but skills like project management, drafting and editing, connoisseurship, marketing, and creating presentations," Fischer said. "This class has perhaps been the most amazing experience in teaching I've ever had."

launched his professional career in the 1970s while studying under South Carolina artists Carl Blair, Emery Bopp and Darell Koons. In 1982, he earned his MFA in painting from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. A year later, he moved to New York City, where most of his work was created. During that time, he built a family and watched his career climb to new heights, exhibiting in 14 solo and 30 group shows. He relocated in 2006 to Travelers Rest where he designed and fashioned a home/work studio on an acre of land and worked until his death in November 2018.

Greenville Center for Creative Arts in Greenville, SC, Features Works From the SC State Art Collection

The Greenville Center for Creative Arts in Greenville, SC, is presenting Contemporary Conversations, curated by Eleanor Heartney, featuring select works from the 466-piece SC State Art Collection, on view Jan. 27, 2021. You can view a virtual tour of this exhibit online at (<https://www.artcentergreenville.org/scac-virtual>).

Heartney, a New York-based contemporary art critic and author, is the curator for Contemporary Conversations. She will give an artist talk Tuesday, Jan. 12, 2021, from 6-7pm at the gallery.

Heartney offers the following statement about the exhibit: "The works in this exhibition can be seen as a series of conversations about the place of art in contemporary life. Works address such questions as: how important are beauty and craftsmanship to contemporary artists? What is the meaning of abstraction? What responsibility does an artist bear toward the public? Can art serve as an agent of social change? What is the role of place in an artist's imagination?"

"Numerous debates and movements have roiled the art world over the last fifty years. These selections reflect that rowdy history. Thus, for instance, works from the 1960s and 70s suggest the once pitched battle over the primacy of realism or abstraction that preoccupied artists and curators during that period. In the 1980s, artists began to blur long-established categories of medium, style, and format in keeping with the pluralist tendency known as postmodernism. Meanwhile, the period from the 1960s to the present saw fundamental changes in the hierarchy and make-up of the art world. Narrow definitions of art that had often served to exclude women, artists of color, and members of various ethnic minorities gave way to movements like feminism, multiculturalism, and globalism. All these developments are reflected here."

"For five decades South Carolina Arts Commission has been collecting and promoting the work of the state's artists in the belief that art is a public resource to be shared by all. The region's rich artistic heritage is a reminder that a society that nurtures the arts is one that cherishes the values and meanings of human life."

The State Art Collection is supported in part by the SC Arts Foundation. To find out more about the State Art Collection and the South Carolina Arts Commission, visit (www.SouthCarolinaArts.com).

Established in 1967 as one of the first programs of the SCAC, the State Art Collection has grown to include 466 works in a variety of media and styles by 288 South Carolina contemporary artists. It serves to encourage, support, and promote South Carolina's creative visual artists (#SCartists) and is of historic and cultural importance to the people of the state. Small exhibitions featuring work from the collection are organized on a regular basis for rural and isolated areas inside and outside of the state. Greenville Technical College in Greer, SC, Features Works by Patrick Owens

Greenville Technical College in Greer, SC, will present Alabama, Y'all, a collection of Alabama photographs and sculptures made by an Alabama collector, Patrick Owens, on view in the Benson Campus Galleries, from Jan. 11 through Feb. 19, 2021.

Owens' Alabama fascination began with childhood family trips to the home place in Tuskegee. Though never an Alabama resident, he was bred of Alabama stock. His people, his roots, his family stories and myths are all Alabama born. Now and particularly over the past decade, Owens makes intentional, frequent trips to Alabama to glean the landscape for images and detritus to bring home to his South Carolina studio. Each image, each discarded bit has its own origin story and its own history of usefulness. Owens has reimagined these stories making them his own.

The provenance of Owens' photographs is mysteriously vague. The barbecue arrow, does it point to mouthwatering dinner for tonight or is it a eulogy for a long-gone mom and pop diner? The parlor chair, though threadbare and hemorrhaging cotton stuffing, has the presence of a dais in the wilderness or the happenstance destination of a discard. Even many of the storefronts he photographs could be just closed for the day or closed years ago. Owens honors and preserves the history of these destinations as he incorporates them reverently within his myths.

Owens' wall hung assemblages are closer kin to quilts than relief sculptures or paintings. He has pieced together bits of detritus from his Alabama scavenging with the whimsy of an outsider artist but also with deliberate and learned precision. In speaking of these works, Owens says, "These collections stem from a desire to preserve the memory of authentic lived experiences, and their stories lend evidence to our existence in this world." Alabama, Y'all proudly takes us on a fun trip of visual joy through an undetermined era in a very specific location but not just to make fun or have fun. Alabama, Y'all reminds us that memories and storied myths once abandoned lose us in the current cultural quagmire of disorientation, greed, and grief.

Owens is a Greenville Tech Department of Visual Arts alumnus and is currently DVA's Studio Manager/Gallery Assistant. He recently completed his BFA degree Magna Cum Laude from Clemson University in sculpture. His photography has been included in exhibitions across the US including Rayko Photo Center in San Francisco, CA; the Midwest Center for Photography in Wichita, KS; Redux Contemporary Art Center in Charleston, SC; and Mobile Museum of Art, Mobile, AL. He has photographs in the Looking at Appalachia project of the Archive of Documentary Arts at Duke University, Durham, NC. He continues to make regular trips to Alabama, the home of generations of his family, to photograph and collect.

Face coverings are required on campus.

Artists Collective | Spartanburg, SC, Offers Works Focused on Surviving COVID-19

The Artists Collective | Spartanburg, in Spartanburg, SC, will host The Art of Survival, an art exhibition on tap for Jan. 5 through Feb. 27, 2021, that will explore how regional artists have been impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic and expressed its influence creatively.

The exhibit will have more than 70 visual artists from Upstate South Carolina participating. All pandemic safety protocols will be observed when entering the building.

"This exhibition was conceived in early April of this year when I was sharing on Facebook with some fellow artists how it felt to get motivated to work when all else was falling apart due to the pandemic," the Collective's Board Chair Beth Regula said. "The discussion led to motivating each other to continue to work and create. Knowing that motivation to make art comes sometimes when an exhibit is scheduled, I proposed that we encourage each other

Regula's idea took root with the Collective's Management Board, and the exhibition was scheduled for January and February 2021. "Artists are good recorders of history, and we felt that this is a major historic event and this was our way to help the artists of the area show their work and express their feelings about 'surviving' this Age of COVID," Regula said. The subtitle to The Art of Survival is "An Exhibition of Epidemic Proportions."

The submitted works of art do not have to be about the pandemic but must have been produced during it. Entries will be judged by local noted citizens or celebrities for these categories:

- Most Fearful
- Most Hopeful
- Most Moving
- Most Creative
- It's 2020
- People's Choice
- Best in Show

One of the most powerful aspects of this exhibition is the artists' statements that will accompany each entry. "Our plan is to hang the statements with the works," Regula said. "When I read some of these statements my heart soared with hope and cried for what many people have been going through. To me, this is the core of this exhibit: survival through art."

An example of these powerful statements is by artist Anna Seiler, whose entry shows a distressed and bleeding woman holding religious icons, while walking through turbulent water. It reads: "This piece serves as a direct representation of the struggles personally faced this year. Isolation, sacrifice, physical trauma, and a struggle with faith. She holds tight the sacrament, the lamb, which also holds closed her purple drape, the only thing keeping her from being completely exposed. She walks barefoot through a river, injured and in the nighttime. The words 'Gott has uns vergessen' are German for 'God has forgotten us,' the sentiment of wavering faith in a time of struggle."

In addition to the art being on physical display in the Collective's Solomon Gallery, images of the entries will be posted to the Collective's website, (ArtistsCollectiveSpartanburg.org). People will be able vote for their favorite artists by donating $5 to the "People's Choice" award. There is also a dedicated donation campaign on the website's homepage. "Any and all monies collected through the exhibition will be used for awards," Regula said. "The more money that is donated, the more the artists will receive."

"I think this exhibit has the potential to

Spartanburg Art Museum in Spartanburg, SC, Offers Exhibition of Fake Masters by Local Artists

The Spartanburg Art Museum in Spartanburg, SC, will present counterfeit, featuring works by local artists replicating famous paintings, on view from Jan. 21 through Feb. 28, 2021. An opening reception will be held on Jan. 21, from 5-8pm. Due to the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic, SAM's in-person events have been pared back and we've reduced capacity in the Museum. Please RSVP for any events you are interested in attending. RSVP at (<https://www.spartanburgartmuseum.org/events/opening-reception-counterfeit>).

Have you ever wanted to own a Picasso, a Ringgold, or a Matisse? This is your opportunity! Some of Spartanburg's finest visual artists have come together for this incredible exhibition showcasing their talents and skills by replicating popular paintings from the Western canon as well as more contemporary works. Proceeds will benefit participating artists as well as the museum.

Participating artists include: Page Davis Baehr, Bailie, George Brandt, Nancy Corb-

Artists Collective | Spartanburg is a membership-based art center in Spartanburg, located on West Main Street. It has three art galleries, about 30 member studios, two stages, an extensive gift shop, and locally made art throughout the three-story building that was originally a Baptist church. As one of the Spartanburg's leading art institutions, it has about 50 members and hosts three art exhibitions each month by members and guest artists. It is a nonprofit agency with a primary focus on the advancement of its members and presenting local art to the general public.

Bechtler Museum of Modern Art in Charlotte Offers Works by Josef Albers

The Bechtler Museum of Modern Art, at the Levine Center for the Arts, in Uptown Charlotte, NC, will present Josef Albers: The Interaction of Color, on view in the Museum's Second Floor Gallery, from Jan. 9 through July 4, 2021.

The exhibition is inspired by the Bechtler Museum's rare German edition of The Interaction of Color, featuring 81 silk-screen color studies that serve as a record of Albers's experiential way of studying and teaching color.

Born in Germany in 1888, Josef Albers was one of the most influential artist-educators of the 20th century. Best known for his iconic color square paintings, his exploration and expansion of complex color theory principles and dedication to experiential education based on observation and experimentation, radically altered the trajectory of arts education in the United States.

Forty-five years after the artist's death, this exhibition presents a selection of works from The Interaction of Color, which was originally conceived of as a handbook and teaching aid for artists, educators and students. On view in the Bechtler's intimate second-floor gallery, the exhibition features 42 double-page screen prints, each demonstrating the ways in which colors can interact and influence each other. Albers suggested that color is best studied via experience, underpinned by experimentation and observation. Visitors see examples of different color study exercises that demonstrate principles including color relativity, vibrating and vanishing boundaries, and illusion of transparency and reversed grounds.

After enrolling at the Weimar Bauhaus in 1920 as a maker of stained-glass, Albers soon began teaching in the foundational preliminary course (Werklehre) of the department of design. In 1925, the year that the Bauhaus moved to Dessau, he was promoted to professor and taught Cover of Josef Albers' book, "Interaction of Color" alongside artists such as Paul Klee, Oskar Schlemmer and Wassily Kandinsky. In 1933, under pressure from the Nazis, the Bauhaus was forced to shutter and the American architect, Phillip Johnson, made the introductions to secure Albers and his wife Anni (a Jewish German born textile artist and printmaker) an invitation to teach at the newly formed Black Mountain College just outside of Asheville, NC. This experimental college was ideologically organized around John Dewey's principles of education and a belief in democracy and freedom.

The Albers arrived at Black Mountain in 1933 and remained at the College until 1949. As the head of the painting program, Albers set out with the primary goal "to make open the eyes" and in this pursuit, he developed a unique anti-hierarchical teaching method rooted in liberalism and strategies of defamiliarization. In his courses, Albers often talked about the formal elements of an artwork, such as color, as though it were alive, and linked the behavior of colors to elements of human behavior while encouraging the development of an artistic practice that prioritized participation, human connection, and empathy.

"Moving from simple to complex, the color exercises in the portfolio were not intended as a fixed body of wisdom to be handed down from a professor to a student," said Anastasia James, Curator, Bechtler Museum of Modern Art. "These studies were to be understood as a guide for ongoing investigations and explorations of the possibilities of color and the

Central Piedmont Community College in Charlotte, NC, Features Works by René Gaete

Central Piedmont Community College (CPCC) in Charlotte, NC, will present Still Life, featuring works by René Gaete, on view in the Overcash Gallery, from Jan. 11 through Mar. 18, 2021. An Artist Lecture will be offered on Mar. 11, beginning at 4pm, with a reception to follow at 5pm.

Chilean artist René Gaete's work emits a tone of mystery and longing drawing the viewer into the scene. Sparking discourse, his compositions and techniques echo elements of Impressionism, Expressionism, Baroque and Abstraction. The figures are recognizable as human beings, yet seem to be echoes of the past, like an imprint or a dream.

Straining between a sense of control and spontaneity Gaete combines these two motivations together with an expert hand. Human forms seem to fleet in and out of focus bending the confines of time and space, giving the illusion of active movement in still life forms. Still Life is an exhibition that links the past to the present, the old to the new, bonding painting ideals in a novel way.

results of their interaction and influence on each other in our own individual perceptions."

Today, Albers's works are held in the collections of The Museum of Modern Art in New York, the Art Institute of Chicago, the National Gallery of Art in Washington, DC, and the Tate Gallery in London, among others. He was the first living artist to be given a solo exhibition at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in 1971. His 1963 The Interaction of Color remains one of the most influential texts used in contemporary arts education.

Central Piedmont Community College in Charlotte, NC, Features Works by Monique Luck

Central Piedmont Community College (CPCC) in Charlotte, NC, will present Into Memory, featuring works by Monique Luck, on view in the Elizabeth Ross Gallery, from Jan. 11 through Mar. 11, 2021. An Artist Lecture will be offered on Feb. 10, at 1pm, on Facebook Live, and a reception will be held on Mar. 4, from 5:30-7:30pm.

Mixed media artist, Monique Luck artfully arranges collage pieces in a desired way, all the while contemplating how simple it would be if we could rearrange the pieces of life in a similar fashion. Her muse is the human figure in mixed media. Luck's work evokes an emotive response speaking to personal loss. While misfortune may be unavoidable, it remains a common thread uniting us all. We live through a time of fear and uncertainty threatening to tear us apart, but by coming together we, like Luck's artwork, form a cohesive and harmonious picture.

Luck's goal is to foster a sense of unity capable of transcending cultural differences and social divides. Part of her exhibition will feature an interactive wall. Using magnetic paint and handmade paper, gallery visitors and students will be able to write a memory or thought on the piece of paper and adhere it to the wall. By the end of the exhibit this will become a collage of memories from all of us at Central Piedmont.

Central Piedmont Community College is highly accessible and convenient to people of all ages who seek a real-world, affordable, hands-on education that will transform their lives and strengthen the economic, social, and cultural environment of Mecklenburg County. Central Piedmont is also a smart investment. At a fraction of the cost, students learn by doing, receiving a combination of technical and soft skills training from quality faculty who prepare them to enter the workforce and make a difference in their family, business, community, and world. Founded in 1963, Central Piedmont Community College has eight locations throughout Mecklenburg County, offering nearly 300 degree, diploma, and certification programs; customized corporate training; market-focused continuing education; and special interest classes. The Gallery at Carillon in Charlotte, NC, Features Works by Mark Flowers

The Gallery at Carillon in Charlotte, NC, will present Collective Instincts, featuring new works by Asheville, NC, artist, Mark Flowers, on view from Jan. 3 through Apr. 30, 2021. The six works represent a new direction for his familiar narrative style.

"My work has evolved this past year, from an obvious narration to a more 'visual jazz' approach to painting. Images are more layered and involved as I plan less and trust my instincts more."

The title of the exhibition refers to his new approach to painting. His shaped panels of more than 30 years are still the core format. He now builds his works with an initial layer of original photographic imagery. Flowers then edits his way to completion with paint and mark making. The final result is a more abstract visual experience that still reflects a personal vision.

"Outlander" by Mark Flowers

Mark E. Flowers earned his BFA in Studio Arts from The University of South Carolina in 1977 and his MFA in Painting from Western Michigan University in 1979. Along with his academic career, he has exhibited his work throughout the United States and in Europe. Throughout his career, he has exhibited his work in 30 one-person shows and numerous group exhibitions. Flowers' work can be found in 30 public and over 300 private collections. He has won multiple awards for his art in both regional and national competitions. Most recently, he was awarded a residency at Golden Artists Colors Foundation in New Berlin, NY.

Flowers offered the following statement: "My work has many layers; formally, it is about shape, objective and non-objective imagery existing in the same field of illusionary space. Conceptually, I see my work as visual jazz seeking to make sense of the world around me. My challenge as an artist is to put them in a visual composition that will engage you and me."

More of Flowers's work can be found on Instagram@markflowers, on Facebook at Mountain Tea Studios, and at (www.foundwork.art/artists/markflowers).

Arts Council of York County in Rock Hill, SC, Offers Works by Catawba River Art Guild

The Arts Council of York County in Rock Hill, SC, will present Creative Isolation, featuring works by members of the Catawba River Art Guild, on view in the Dalton Gallery at the Center for the Arts, from Jan. 8 through Feb. 5, 2021.

Inspired by the extended periods of isolation experienced during the COVID-19 lockdowns of 2020, members of the Catawba River Art Guild express the solitude, peace, and tranquility of the time through their artwork.

The Catawba River Art Guild (CRAG) was formed in 2008 to support, encourage, and inspire the interest of art and artists in the community through its members by providing programs, fellowship and opportunities for its members. The Guild welcomes artists of all skill levels and all media. Many of our members are professional artists or have been professional artists their entire adult lives. Others are emerging artists, students and enthusiasts.

The Guild reaches out to the community at large through public presentations, demonstrations and exhibits. Our members have contributed their artwork and time to charitable fundraisers and have conducted workshops and art-related activities for children and adults.

USC Lancaster in Lancaster, SC, Is Still Closed, But You Can View Exhibits Online

The University of South Carolina @ Lancaster's Native American Studies Center in Lancaster, SC, will remain closed to the public, but offers several online exhibits for the public to view.

After considering safety concerns related to the current spikes in COVID-19 cases, USC Lancaster's Native American Studies Center will remain closed to the public through spring of 2021.

"With the continued rising cases of coronavirus in our area, we feel it is prudent to act in the best interest of our students, faculty, and staff and remain closed at this time," said Center Archaeologist and Facilities Manager Christopher Judge. "While our doors are closed, we encourage the public to engage with us through our social media and our virtual programming and exhibits."

Though guests may not be able to stroll through the Center's galleries right now, three exhibits are available to view online. The Story of Catawba Pottery, explores the art of Catawba pottery, the oldest Native American pottery tradition in the United States and Humor, Parody, and Satire: The Artwork of Tom Farris and Chris Olszewski, showcases the satirical contemporary works of Native artists Tom Farris (Otoe-Missouria-Cherokee) and Chris Olszewski (Chippewa). The third exhibit, Georgia Harris and Catawba Indian Pottery, gives a look into the life and artwork of the traditional Catawba potter. The exhibits can be viewed at (https://sc.edu/about/system_and_campuses/lancaster/study/student_opportunities/native_american_studies_center/galleries_collections/virtual_exhibits/).

The monthly W. Brent Burgin Lunch and Learn Lecture Series, which went virtual last August, continues in 2021 via Zoom on the third Friday of each month. Pre-registration is required for the program by e-mailing the Center at (usclnasp@mailbox.sc.edu).

SC State Museum in Columbia, SC, Features Exhibit Focused on Design

The South Carolina State Museum in Columbia, SC, is presenting The Graphic Eye: South Carolina and the Intersection of Art and Design, on view for an undertimed time.

What is the difference between art and design? When can art also be design? This new exhibition addresses these questions and showcases South Carolina art with a graphic sensibility, both "fine" and commercial.

From mass-produced media of the late 19th century to the concert posters of today, The Graphic Eye explores South Carolina's strong and diverse connection to the graphic arts. Included in the show are Jasper Johns' prints, Shepard Fairey's political posters, commercial art and advertisements from the 1950s and 60s, and work by artists such as Sallie Frost Knerr, Anna Heyward Taylor, and Leo Twiggs. The thriving industry of contemporary graphic design will also be represented, with posters and other projects by prominent creatives currently working across the state.

Guests will also learn about different methods of printing and printmaking, typography, advertising in the last century, and post-WWII artists who blurred boundaries and challenged the definition of "fine art." After you have explored the galleries, an interactive activity will put your design knowledge to the test. Learn how to better read images, and analyze how color, composition, and font can convey a message.

Work by Marcelo Novo

This exhibit is included with museum general admission or membership.

For further information check our SC Institutional Gallery listings, call the Museum at 803/898-4921 or visit (<http://semuseum.org/>).

Every once in a while I feel like just filling one of these spaces with a kind of nothingness. You know as if nobody reads what's in these spaces anyway. So if one time I said something like the first person to read this and send me an e-mail to (info@carolinaarts.com) during the month of January, they'll get a free 1/4 ad in our February 2021 issue or the month that is most useful for them. But who reads these space fillers anyway? Not many I bet.

Asheville Art Museum in Asheville, NC, Offers Exhibit from Whitney Museum of American Art

The Asheville Art Museum in Asheville, NC, is presenting Vantage Points: Contemporary Photography from the Whitney Museum of American Art, on view in the Museum's Explore Asheville Exhibition Hall, through Mar. 15, 2021.

Vantage Points features a selection of photographic works from the 1970s to the mid-2000s that highlights how photography has been used to represent individuals, places, and narratives. Drawn exclusively from the Whitney's permanent collection, this presentation includes approximately 20 artists, including Diane Arbus, Richard Avedon, Gregory Crewdson, William Eggleston, Nan Goldin, Sally Mann, Peter Hujar, Robert Mapplethorpe, Cindy Sherman, Lorna Simpson, and Andy Warhol.

"We're thrilled to bring this presentation of photographs from the Whitney Museum of American Art's collection to Western North Carolina," said Hillary Schroeder, assistant curator. "The diverse group of artists in this exhibition offer views through the lenses of their cameras into the stories, individuals, and places of contemporary Americana that varies from the viscerally real to fantastically imagined."

These artists began working at a time when photography was becoming increasingly integrated into the art world. Technological developments permitted them to use many different photographic processes and to print their works in various sizes, including ones that would create an immersive impact. The photographs included in this exhibition range from seemingly straightforward representations to those with an imaginative or conceptual perspective that challenge traditional notions of photography as revealing a singular reality.

Many of the artists during this period used photography to portray their communities, friends, and themselves. Robert Mapplethorpe's portraits highlight the physicality of his subjects, while those by Peter Hujar, Nan Goldin, and Andy Warhol emphasize a personal intimacy. Diane Arbus's photographs, such as Untitled #16 (1970-1971), expose the relationship between the photographer and the subject as they reveal themselves to her. In Cerise (2002) Richard Artschwager transformed photographs taken of his subject from different angles into a three-dimensional freestanding form.

Other artists portrayed the characteristics and poetics of place through photography. William Eggleston's spontaneous color photographs, such as Untitled (Flowers in Front of Window) (circa 1970), depict a landscape of everyday life in the South, while Richard Avedon's black and white photograph Bill Curry, Drifter, Interstate 40, Yukon, Oklahoma, 6/16/80 (1980) from his In the American West (1985) series is a tribute to the way the body can reflect a sense of place. Historical and social aspects of place are emphasized in Vera Lutter's ominous photograph The Appropriation of Manhattan, Fire boat House, Fulton Ferry Landing, Brooklyn New York, May 20, 1996 (1996), made from a large-scale camera obscura. A conceptual relationship between perspective and sense of place is highlighted in Rodney Graham's inverted photographs of solitary trees taken in the English countryside, such as Oak, Banford (1990).

Depictions of the individual and of place often overlap in photographs that explore the narrative potential of photography. By combining images or fragments of images, sometimes with text, artists used photography during this time to explore imaginary or conceptual narratives that speak to personal, social, and political histories. The text in Lorna Simpson's Outline (1990), which is printed on plastic plaques and affixed to two black-and-white photographs, can be read from left to right and in relationship to the photographs. They suggest various social and historical experiences of African American women. Other artists photographed staged situations in order to encourage narratives. These range from an imaginary personal history - based on assumptions drawn from a gesture, clothing, hair, and makeup - as in Cindy Sherman's Untitled (2000), to a fantastic story of a moment in time, as in Gregory Crewdson's Untitled (beckoning bus driver) (2001-2002), set on a dark suburban street.

This selection of works from the permanent collection of the Whitney Museum reveals the strength of the photographic image in the late-20th and early-21st century in the United States. In surprising and inventive ways, the artists included in this presentation have pushed the boundaries of the medium and expanded the role of photography within the history of art.

Admission to Vantage Points is free for Museum Members or included with general admission. This exhibition was organized by the Whitney Museum of American Art, New York, and curated by Carrie Springer, assistant curator, Whitney Museum. Additionally, Vantage Points was organized around transformative gifts and promised gifts to the Whitney Museum from Emily Fisher Landau.

Generous support for this project provided by Art Bridges.

The Asheville Art Museum's galleries, the Museum Store, and Perspective Café are open with limited capacity. Art PLAYce, our intergenerational maker-space, and the Frances Mulhall Achilles Art Research Library remain temporarily closed.

Established by artists and incorporated in 1948, the Asheville Art Museum is committed to being a vital force in community and individual development and to providing lifelong opportunities for education and enrichment through the visual arts. The Museum's mission is to engage, enlighten, and inspire individuals and enrich community through dynamic experiences in American art of the 20th and 21st centuries. The Museum is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization accredited by the American Alliance of Museums, which receives support for its programs from Museum Members; other generous individuals, corporations, businesses, and foundations; the North Carolina Arts Council; the Institute of Museum and Library Services; the National Endowment for the Arts; and the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Asheville Gallery of Art in Asheville Offers Group Show for the New Year

Asheville Gallery of Art in Asheville, NC, is presenting Bringing in the Light, featuring works by four new gallery artists: Olga Dorenko, Rebecca Gottesman, Donny Luke, and Susan Voorhees, on view through Jan. 31, 2021.

The Asheville Gallery of Art is ringing in the new year with optimism and vigor by featuring artwork from four new gallery members.

Olga Dorenko is a familiar name in the Asheville art scene, having run her own fine art gallery since 2008 as well as maintaining a local studio space. Her vivid landscape paintings are meticulously executed and often dreamlike in their composition. Dorenko's travels through her birthplace in the former Soviet Union inspired the love of nature evident in her work.

Work by Susan Voorhees

Rebecca Gottesman is a new painter to Asheville, having traded her home of 30 years in the Vermont mountains for the calling of the Blue Ridge Mountains. Her oil paintings take inspiration from the beauty of the natural world, depicting sweeping landscapes and delicate florals with a bright, lively palette. Gottesman often treats the act of painting as a kind of meditation, conveying a sense of reverence for both the paint and the subject, which she hopes to pass on to every person who encounters her art.

Donny Luke retired from his 40-year career as an architect and discovered a passion and proficiency for watercolor painting after an inspiring trip out West. His captivating landscapes invite the viewer to dwell in the precise joy of seeing a new place, an experience Luke pursues in his treks through North America in search of fresh material.

Susan Voorhees is a prominent local painter, coming from a family of established creatives in the Asheville area. Voorhees works primarily in pastels and demonstrates a masterful, impressionistic approach to her subjects, from wildflower fields in the Blue Ridge Mountains to the bounty gathered from her local farmer's market.

The Asheville Gallery of Art invites viewers to experience these artists through their common use of light in their work, each mastering the play of light and shadow in fresh ways to stir hope for the year ahead.

For further information check our NC Institutional Gallery listings, call the gallery at 828/251-5796 or visit (www.ashevillegallery-of-art.com).

NC Arboretum in Asheville, NC, Offers Citizen Photography Project

The North Carolina Arboretum in Asheville, NC, invites viewers to deepen their connections to the natural world with its upcoming exhibit The Enveloping Landscape: A Contemplative Photographic Journey, on view in the Baker Exhibit Center Gallery, from Jan. 16 through May 2, 2021.

What began as an individual documentary photography project has turned into a unique collaboration between the Arboretum, an environmental artist, and members of the local community that encourages meaningful dialogue, and most importantly, inspires an increased commitment to caring for our planet.

The Enveloping Landscape started as a project launched by documentary photographer Susan Patrice in 2016. Using contemplative photography practices and hand-built cameras designed to produce round images, Patrice captured the same three square-miles of forest for two years, both in and around the Arboretum. Her intimate photographs, which have been exhibited nationally, use the power of art and love to instill environmental stewardship. Patrice believes that now more than ever we need to fall in love with the natural world. "To do so, wholeheartedly, would change everything," she says. "Our actions would spring from reverence and would be informed by our deep interconnectedness with the natural world."

Work by Susan Patrice

Earlier this year, the Arboretum partnered with Patrice for what was supposed to be a year-round workshop in tandem with her documentary photography project. Unfortunately, those plans took a turn due to the COVID-19 pandemic. What originated as an in-person, onsite program developed into a virtual citizen photography workshop where participants joined Patrice online, turning their cameras toward their most familiar surroundings. The resulting photographs were so moving in their honesty, vulnerability, and subtle beauty that Exhibit Curator, Ashlee Lanier, designed an exhibition in celebration of the collective work.

Work by Jennifer Powell

"I rediscovered a part of my garden with a bench that had been ignored and was overgrown," says workshop participant Jennifer Powell. "I sat there each day and photographed the peonies in bloom. It was an entirely new vantage point, one that created connection to my home, a balm during a time of isolation."

The Enveloping Landscape shows Patrice's photographs alongside those of the workshop participants. This stunning and expansive exhibition demonstrates the rich biodiversity of Southern Appalachia through the eyes and hearts of 25 regional photographers.

"Just as Susan Patrice's beautiful photographs resonated with me when I first saw them and planted the seed for this project," says Adult Education Manager Rebecca Caldwell, "I anticipate ways for the Arboretum to continue as a source for creative inspiration and to nurture earth-based mindfulness practice through our educational programs."

Each year more than 500,000 visitors experience the Arboretum's gardens, trails, exhibits and plant shows, educational programs and lectures. The Arboretum's ability to meet its mission and enrich the visitor experience is made possible by a community of supporting resources - from members, volunteers and staff to state and local funds, special events, tribute gifts, grants and community partners.

The central mission of The North Carolina Arboretum, an affiliate institution of the 17-campus University of North Carolina System, is to cultivate connections among people, plants and places. A standard $14 per vehicle parking fee is required for non-members. Special events and after-hours activities may require additional fees.

River Arts District in Asheville, NC, Offers Second Saturday - Jan. 9, 2021

On the Second Saturday of each month, Asheville, NC's River Arts District holds gallery walks with demonstrations, workshops, live music, wine tastings, delicious food, and more. Visitors meander the mile-long district and discover all that the "RAD" has to offer. There are more than 200 artists in the 22 buildings throughout the district. Many of them open during this monthly event to describe or show their techniques and share their inspirations. Join them on Jan. 9, 2021.

There will be no trolley service on Second Saturdays for the time being, due to coronavirus concerns. Ample free parking is available in the district and walkability is increasing every week with the greenway expansion underway.

Both in person and virtual events are happening for Second Saturday. Events are available online at (<https://www.riverartsdistrict.com/temporary-hours-by-day/>).

As always, we invite everyone to peruse our website, (riverartsdistrict.com) to have a virtual visit, which is a great jumping off point to explore Asheville's art community, whether for educational purposes, entertainment, or if you're looking for a great piece of art for your home or business.

Work by Peter Roux

Many studios and galleries are open and welcoming visitors throughout the month, following county and state guidelines. We have a new page on our website for a quick glance at some of the artist's open hours at (<https://www.riverartsdistrict.com/temporary-hours-by-day/>).

For further information contact Rachel Roux, River Arts District Coordinator, by e-mail at (info@riverartsdistrict.com) or visit (www.riverartsdistrict.com).

North Carolina Pottery Center in Seagrove, NC, Offers New Exhibits

The North Carolina Pottery Center in Seagrove, NC, will present several new exhibits including: North Carolina Ceramic Gems, on view from Jan. 22 through June 19, 2021, and Raku: Spontaneity in the Flames, on view from Jan. 22 through June 19, 2021.

Every day potters across North Carolina take clay and other natural resources, combine them using their knowledge, shape them into both simple and wonderful things using their artisan skills, and forge them using extreme heat (and sometimes flames) into a kaleidoscopic array of ceramic gems.

North Carolina has a large number of potters all making their own ceramic gems ranging from historical to utilitarian to more contemporary. This show, Ceramic Gems, focuses on the work of a dozen of those potters. You may already be familiar with some of the featured artists, others may be a bit less familiar and a little further off the beaten path, figuratively or literally, for you. Come explore their work with us.

Work by Terry Childress

Featured artists include: Stanley Mace Andersen, Alan Bennett, Marina Bosetti, Benjamin Burns, Terry Childress, Garry Childs, Becky Lloyd, Chris Luther, Dian Magie, Michael & Ruth Fisher Rutkowski, Brad Tucker, and Jim Whalen.

Most if not all of the pieces in this show will be available for purchase. Purchased pieces must remain in the show until the show's end date.

Raku pottery incorporates elements of knowledge, experience, excitement, unpredictability, and spontaneity, and is somewhat akin to a semi-controlled convergence of science, craft, art, and magic with a bit of chaos thrown in for good measure. Come see a colorful variety of Western-style work by a number of North Carolina's Raku potters from across the state, in the exhibit, Raku: Spontaneity in the Flames, and learn more about the making of Raku.

Work by Steven Forbes-deSoule

Featured artists include: Edge Barnes, Steven Forbes-deSoule, David & Deborah Garner, Katherine Graham, Delores Hayes, Harry Hearne, Charlotte Munning, Phil Pollet, Colleen Black Semelka, Andy Smith, Courtney Tomchik, and Dan Trice.

All of the pieces in this show will be available for purchase. Purchased pieces must remain in the show until the show's end date.

The North Carolina Pottery Center is a dynamic and engaging place where people of all backgrounds, ages, and interests discover the beauty and the stories behind North Carolina's world-class clay culture. We are the first stop for visitors arriving in Seagrove and a place to which people will return to learn about North Carolina pottery. Visitors enjoy the beauty of our campus and are delighted by our interior spaces. We provide them with information about ceramic artists in the local area and throughout the state, and we are a gateway through which visitors enhance their appreciation of North Carolina's clay culture.

We tell these stories through excellent exhibitions and visual and participatory multimedia, as well as by providing experiential and educational opportunities. Our research and documentation focuses on the concepts and themes necessary to support our exhibitions and programming, thereby deepening our understanding of our state's clay culture. We are conscientious advocates for all of North Carolina's potters and North Carolina pottery in general.

North Carolina Wesleyan College in Rocky Mount, NC, Features Works by Willie Thorne

North Carolina Wesleyan College in Rocky Mount, NC, will present POP, featuring wood reliefs by local artist, Willie Thorne, on view in the Mims Art Gallery, from Jan. 14 through Feb. 14, 2021.

Self-taught artist Willie Thorne will be exhibiting his wonderfully crafted, painted wood constructed wall reliefs at Wesleyan College's Mims Art Gallery in the Dunn Center.

Thorne is a graduate of Rocky Mount schools. After a hitch in the Army he went to work at Firestone in Wilson, NC. Inspired to woodworking by his father, Thorne began making his painted wood cut outs about 30 years ago with his first being a portrait of his daughter. Friends and workmates asked for family portraits and commissions followed.

Work by Willie Thorne

Gregg Museum 2015. Often inspired by newsworthy subject matter his recent work memorializes the late Kobe Bryant and daughter who died in a tragic plane crash in California.

Never settling or standing still as an artist, Thorne will select challenging subjects and is a peerless craftsman in wood working and paint...recently adding collaged materials to his artworks.

Selection of Valentine's Cards for sale

8, from 5-8pm.

The Craven Arts Council and the Twin Rivers Artists Association are proud to present the 2021 Craven County Valentine's Day Card Sale. Created by students in all grades in Craven County Schools, all proceeds are donated to Craven County art teachers for purchasing classrooms supplies.

Priced at $3.50 each, these affordable Valentines gifts help fund arts education in Craven County, by donating all proceeds for the purchase of art supplies. The cards were created by the public school students during their arts class, and include a wide range of grades, skill levels, and techniques. This year's sale was made possible by funding and support from Craven Arts Council and Twin Rivers Artists Association, a local artist guild. The mission of both organizations believes in the importance of arts education, for students of all levels.

The Trouble is You Think You Have Time is an exhibit of photography by Brenda Hayun in the Director's Gallery. Hayun is local photographer of nature and this will be her first time exhibiting work in the Bank of the Arts. She has been a resident of Carteret County for the past 22 years. She is a wife, mother of three daughters, small business owner in Emerald Isle and former nurse. She has always had a passion for photography and this passion has led her to win several local photography contests.

Work by Brenda Hayun

Photography became a therapeutic escape for Hayun after the passing of her father. Driven by nature and beautiful landscapes, Hayun uses a Mavic drone and a Canon camera to capture images of the Crystal Coast. This exhibition is no different and is filled with images of the beautiful North Carolina coast.

Burroughs - Chapin Art Museum in Myrtle Beach, SC, Features American Society of Marine Artists

The Franklin G. Burroughs • Simeon B. Chapin Art Museum in Myrtle Beach, SC, will present the 18th National Exhibition of the American Society of Marine Artists, on view from Jan. 16 through Apr. 17, 2021.

Marine art is a genre that depicts maritime activities, inshore and harbor scenes, naval scenes, ship portraits, waterscapes and marine wildlife. Marine art took root as its own genre during the Dutch Golden Age of the 17th century, when artists began to make their careers by specializing in naval and trade ship portraits and scenes. Many of the conventions of the Dutch tradition of marine painting are still practiced today. The Romantic period of the 1900s ushered in the dawn of the popularity of the seascape, making waterscapes absent of vessels common for the first time. European marine artists, who came to America, helped establish this genre in prosperous port cities, including Boston, New York and Salem.

Francis Marion University in Florence, SC, Features Works by Ashley Hamilton

Francis Marion University in Florence, SC, will present Ashley Hamilton: [Sum] liminal, on view in the University Place Gallery, from Jan. 19 through Feb. 26, 2021.

[Sum]liminal is a multimedia painting exhibition by artist Ashley Hamilton. Hamilton's emotionally charged work addresses themes of loss, meditation, grief and joy. The artist's sensitivity to the human experience is conveyed through vibrantly colored paintings which range in size from the very small to large scale works. Images are abstracted repetitively and completed through a process of excavation and multilayering that includes acrylic, spray paint, oil pastels, and paint pens.

Ashley Hamilton is a painter currently living in Lake City, SC. A native of Nashville, TN, Hamilton began her art education at Nashville School of the Arts. She spent a year studying abroad at Queensland College of Art in Brisbane, Australia, where she focused mainly on printmaking and installation. She received her BFA in drawing and painting from University of Tennessee in Chattanooga.

Hamilton works as an artist and curator. She was the co-founder and curator of Easy Lemon, the first artist's residency program in Chattanooga, TN, where she hosted "happenings" of established inter-media artists from around the country. She was the founder of various curatorial projects and was featured as a "game-changer" in Chattanooga Now's "Changing Chattanooga" series. Additionally, she worked as the public relations and creative director for New Dischord, an interdisciplinary arts festival in Chattanooga. In 2013, she was honored with the prestigious "Artists and Authors Club" scholarship from UTC. In the years following college, she worked as a curator and assistant at Tanner Hill Gallery in Chattanooga in addition to her studio practice.

Hamilton's work has been shown both nationally and internationally. Recent exhibitions include a group show at Trax Visual Art Center in Lake City, SC, as well as various juried shows in the southeast. International exhibitions include a group show at Circle Gallery in Brisbane, Australia. Group show highlights include a first place award at the 2013 UTC juried student exhibition.

Hamilton offered the following artist statement: "My work exists in a space between struggle and play. My ritualistic process weaves in and out of an effort to control within an intrinsic tendency towards chaos. Using the variegated rainbow as repetitive motif, I am constantly longing for fragments of hope; a portal to escape. Navigating through individual and collective anxiety, trauma, and grief, my work seeks to find balance between gritty raw emotion and a desire for meditative playfulness."

The Center for Craft in Asheville, NC, is presenting Sleight of Hand, on view in the Bresler Family Gallery, through Jan. 22, 2021. The exhibit brings together eleven works by six contemporary artists of color working in ceramics who use humor as a tool to navigate a range of pressing social issues. For these artists, humor is not merely an aesthetic choice; it is also a tool of resistance, resilience, and healing. The deliberate use of humor in ceramics traces back to the 1950s and 1960s Bay Area Funk art. However, in recent years, a younger and far more diverse generation of artists has revitalized this artistic strategy. This exhibition highlights this critical shift in the field of ceramics through the lens of artists of color. While the exhibition focuses on clay, the objects on display point to an expanded field that moves beyond sculpture to include video and paintings featuring ceramics. Participating artists include: Diana Yesenia Alvarado, Natalia Arbelaez, Salvador Jiménez-Flores, Yvette Mayorga, Woody De Othello, and Maryam Yousef. The exhibit was curated by Angelik Vizcarrondo-Laboy. For further information call the Center at 828/785-1357 or visit (www.centerforcraft.org).

The University of North Carolina at Greensboro, NC, is presenting Ties that Bind: Selections from the Collection, on view in the Weatherspoon Art Museum's 2nd Floor: The Gregory D. Ivy and the Weatherspoon Guild Galleries, through Feb. 14, 2021. John Fawcett wrote a hymn on the theme in 1800. Bruce Springsteen took a different approach in an eponymous song popular in 1980. Whether entwined in fellowship with kindred spirits or stretched to the point of breaking, the ties that bind us to one another are often some of the most significant markers in our lives. Ties that Bind explores the various types of relationships that define, brighten, aspire, or perhaps even challenge us on a daily basis. These works

"Orpheus", by Adrian Rhodes, part of an installation works at SECCA

The Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art in Winston-Salem, NC, is proud to announce the upcoming opening of DRAWN: Concept & Craft, an expansive exhibition featuring more than 200 works by a wide array of artists including LeRoy Neiman, Kara Walker, Fab 5 Freddy, Kiki Smith, Sarah Sze and Buckminster Fuller. DRAWN brings together the diverse works of over 60 artists from around the world in an exhibition that provides a rare, revealing look into the creative process and artists' unique relationship with the art of drawing. The exhibition was curated by project founder Tomas Vu and SECCA Curator Wendy Earle with the assistance of Brian Novatny. The exhibition will remain on view through Feb. 15, 2021, in SECCA's Main and Potter Galleries. DRAWN expands the very idea of drawing. What began with the beautiful simplicity of two-dimensional works has now evolved to include animation, video projection, sculpture, collage, and cut-paper. For further information visit (secca.org/drawn/), and follow SECCA on social media @SECCAcontempart.

ratification of the 19th Amendment and explores the ways in which female artists in Cameron Art Museum's permanent collection persist in their own lives, in their communities, in their world, both personally and politically - through art. From Mary Cassatt, whose paintings and prints were featured in exhibitions supporting suffrage, to feminist Audrey Flack, whose work Medea is a conscious redeeming of that tragic figure, to Beverly Buchanan, who fiercely explored identity as an African American woman through sculpture, land art, photography, and painting, this exhibition of 100 works for the 100th anniversary of the 19th Amendment creates a powerful dialogue about what it means to be a woman. You can see a smaller version of this exhibition on CAM's website at (<https://www.cameronartmuseum.org/index.php?c=current>). The Gibbes Museum of Art in Charleston, SC, is presenting Charleston Collects: Devotion and Fantasy, Witchcraft and the World's End, featuring works from a private Charleston collection of Northern Renaissance art, on view in Galleries Two and Three, through June 27, 2021. This selection of paintings and prints from a major, private, Charleston collection of Northern Renaissance art introduces a world of intensely, and sometimes disturbingly, vivid imagery that speaks to uncertainties of the period and remains relevant today. This exhibition is a selection of art curated by

Lawrence Goedde, Ph.D., professor of art history at the University of Virginia. The collection, which is comprised of objects created in the Low Countries and Germany between 1440 and 1590, showcases a world of contradictions and unease - whether the subject is a troubled Virgin Mary contemplating her young son, or a menacing group of malevolent figures inspired by Hieronymus Bosch, or Albrecht Dürer's famous scenes from Revelations. Gibbes Museum of Art, 135 Meeting Street, Charleston. Galleries Two & Three, Through June 27 - "Charleston Collects: Devotion and Fantasy, Witchcraft and the World's End". This selection of paintings and prints from a major, private, Charleston collection of Northern Renaissance art introduces a world of intensely, and sometimes disturbingly, vivid imagery that speaks to uncertainties of the period and remains relevant today. This exhibition is a selection of art curated by Lawrence Goedde, Ph.D., professor of art history at the University of Virginia. The collection, which is comprised of objects created in the Low Countries and Germany between 1440 and 1590, showcases a world of contradictions and unease—whether the subject is a troubled Virgin Mary contemplating her young son, or a menacing group of malevolent figures inspired by Hieronymus Bosch, or Albrecht Dürer's famous scenes from Revelations. In the turbulent era of the Renaissance and beginning of the Reformation in Northern Europe, patrons found their hopes, desires and anxieties mirrored in these artistic images, further inspiring pious beliefs or depicting fantastic visions of good and evil. Gallery 8, Through Jan. 10 - "Building a Legacy: The Vibrant Vision Collection of Jonathan Green and Richard Weedman". Over the past forty years, acclaimed artist Jonathan Green and his partner and studio director, Richard Weedman, have amassed an astonishing collection of nearly 1,300 paintings, sculpture, and works on paper. The exhibition presents a selection of forty-nine works of art from this significant private collection, offering a rare glimpse at the couple's aesthetic interests and the artistic inspiration behind Green's own artwork. Gallery 9, Through Jan. 10 - "A Return to the Grand Tour: Micromosaic Jewels from the Collection of Elizabeth Locke". Micromosaics arrived at their height of pictorial perfection from the late 18th to the mid 19th centuries. These exquisitely crafted plaques, which contain up to 1,400 delicately shaded tiles of glass per square inch, were sold to travelers on their Grand Tour through Italy. Made into jewelry, boxes, and paper weights and sold as easily carried mementoes, micromosaics passed out of fashion toward the end of the 19th century and are now a lost art. This exhibition features 92 brilliant examples from the private collection of Elizabeth Locke. Galleries 1, 4, and 5, Permanent Exhibition - "18th and 19th Century American Paintings and Sculpture". American paintings, from colonial portraits to Civil War-era landscapes, occupy the Gibbes Main Gallery. Portraits of leading political, social, and military figures include works by Jeremiah Theus, Henry Benbridge, Benjamin West, Gilbert Stuart, Thomas Sully and Samuel F.B. Morse. The gallery also features landscape and genre scenes by Angelica Kaufmann, Louis Mignot, Eastman Johnson, Conrad Wise Chapman, and William Aiken Walker. The paintings collection is complemented by examples of neoclassical sculpture on view in the Campbell Rotunda, and decorative art objects on loan from the Rivers Collection. Gallery 5, Permanent Exhibition - "Miniature Portraits". The first American miniature portraits were painted in Charleston, and today the Gibbes is home to one of the most prestigious portrait miniature collections in the United States. Containing more than six hundred objects, the collection spans nearly two hundred years and represents the work of over a hundred artists. Small enough to fit in the palm of the hand, these tiny portraits were treasured remembrances of loved ones in the age before photography. Presented in state-of-the-art display cases, and in viewable storage drawers featured miniatures include works by Mary Roberts, Jeremiah Theus, Henry Benbridge, Charles Wilson Peale, Pierre Henri, Edward Greene Malbone, George Engleheart, and Charles Fraser. Gallery 6, Permanent Exhibition - "20th Century American Regionalism and the Charleston Renaissance". At the turn of the twentieth century, American artists looked to their European counterparts and beyond as they developed identifiably American artistic movements. Two particularly strong influences during this time period were French Impressionism and Japanese woodblock prints. Another prevailing theme during this period was the growing interest in American subject matter. American regionalism and social realism played important roles in the development of art in Charleston, which flourished as a destination for artists, particularly during the years of 1915 to 1945 a period now known as the Charleston Renaissance. Gallery 7, Permanent Exhibition - "Modern and Contemporary". Modern and contemporary art in America encompasses a wide range of styles, subject matter, and media. As a whole, the diversity of modern and contemporary art reflects the rich and varied heritage of our nation and the lowcountry region. Works in this gallery were created over the past forty years by artists who are native to the area, who have worked here, or who have created objects that reflect the complex story of the region. The works are grouped to reflect several themes including the southern landscape, the human figure, abstraction, and the legacy of slavery in America. Ruth and Bill Baker Art Sales Gallery, Through Feb. 7 - "Mementos Entwined: The Sentimental Art of Hairwork by Gina Iacovelli". Iacovelli was an artist in residence at the Gibbes Museum from Oct. 26 – Nov. 22, 2020. While at the Gibbes, Iacovelli demonstrated hairwork and weave techniques on her homemade braiding table, while sharing her research into hairwork history and how it was shaped by evolving concepts of life and death. "Mementos Entwined" explores sentimental tokens and the deeply rooted connection between life and death. Through Feb. 7 - "How it Was..."

Charleston in 1963 by Andrea Hazel". Hazel was an artist in residence at the Gibbes Museum Oct. 26 – Nov. 22, 2020. "How It Was...Charleston in 1963," depicts scenes of homes and communities that have been demolished and displaced in the wake of Charleston's rapid growth and development. Hazel is a member of the Southern Watercolor Society, the South Carolina Watermedia Society and the Charleston Artist Guild. Museum Shop - Now offering the inventory of the Tradd Street Press, reproductions of works by Elizabeth O'Neill Verner among other exhibit related art objects. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 10am-5pm & Sun., 1-5pm. Admission: Yes. Contact: 843/722-2706 or at (www.gibbesmuseum.org).

Work by Morgan Kinne

Redux Contemporary Art Center, featuring Redux Studios, 1056 King Street, Charleston. Main Gallery, Through Jan. 30 - "True North," featuring works by Morgan Kinne. An Artist Talk will be offered on Jan. 21, beginning at 6:30pm. This exhibition presents a body of work created by Morgan Kinne, using the house as the "North Star" of metaphors. Buildings naturally speak of contrasts, of opening and closing, revealing and concealing. They penetrate deep into the imagination and stimulate mystery, poetry, beauty and play. Stories lie in the history, labor and structural intelligence of the built environment. Even in its finished form, it bears the imprint of the people who have built it. We leave traces of ourselves every day, in everything we encounter. These traces offer clues to our identity. Even the smallest impression holds within it the creation of place, memory and history. Gallery 1056, Through Jan. 30 - "yellow and blue makes green," a solo show by Anne Abueva. Ongoing - In May, 2017, Redux relocated to 1056 King Street with 38 studios, three galleries, a larger print shop, classroom, dark room, and photo studio. Hours: Mon., 11am-4pm, Wed., 11am-4pm & Fri., 11am-3pm. Contact: 843/722-0697 or at (www.reduxstudios.org).

The Charleston Museum, 360 Meeting Street, Charleston. Founded in 1773, is America's first museum. Lowcountry Photography Gallery, Through Apr. 4 - "Portraits Of The Lowcountry": Cased Images From The Archives". We're bringing it back! Because the Museum had to close its doors in the middle of the exhibit earlier this year, we decided to bring it back! In case you missed it, a selection of daguerrotypes, ambrotypes and tintypes will once again be exhibited featuring individual and family portraits of the Lowcountry. The invention of photography made it possible to record an accurate portrait, rather than an artist's notion. For the first time a true portrayal of the sitter, who oftentimes wanted their image immortalized performing a particular task or with specific props, could be captured. Textile Gallery, Through Apr. 25 - "Designers & Artisans: Made In The Lowcountry". What does it mean to be a maker? This exhibit explores the designers and artisans working in the Lowcountry from the 18th century to the present day, and how creativity and identity go hand-in-hand. Designers and artisans play an important role in the Lowcountry, as makers of both goods that serve a purpose and artistic creations that inspire the community. With objects ranging from 1788 to 2019 and grouped by craft, this exhibition displays some of the finest textile artistry from the Museum's collection, and examines what it means to be a maker, both amateur and professional. Ongoing - "Becoming Americans: Charleston in the Revolutionary War". Charleston played a critical role in the Revolutionary War. South Carolina was the wealthiest of the thirteen rebellious colonies and Charleston was its key port to maintain its trade with the outside world. The British would make three attempts against the city during the Revolutionary War. Their defeat at the Battle of Sullivan's Island on June 28, 1776 was a crucial patriot victory, which convinced many that independence could be achieved. The Siege of Charleston, meanwhile, was the longest siege of the Revolutionary War and the largest battle in South Carolina. These events and others are chronicled in the new exhibit, which will also features artifacts and period images that have not been exhibited at the Museum before. Ongoing - Featuring the most extensive collection of South Carolina cultural and scientific collections in the nation, it also owns two National Historic Landmark houses, the Heyward-Washington House (1772) and the Joseph Manigault House (1803), as well as the Dill Sanctuary, a 580-acre wildlife preserve. Admission: Yes. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 9am-5pm & through the Summer months, Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 843/722-2996 or at (www.charleston-museum.org).

from India: 21st-Century Art from the Pizzuti Collection". The exhibition presents a breathtaking sweep of 21st-century painting, sculpture, and multimedia works from India and its diaspora. It features some of the most sought-after international artists alongside younger rising stars, including Sudarshan Shetty, Bharti Kher, and Jitish Kallat. The exhibition showcases a remixing of traditional crafts with radical new applications, interactive sculpture and stunning paintings. Based on private collectors Ron and Ann Pizzuti's original 2017 presentation in Columbus, Ohio, this will be the only other opportunity to see "Visions from India" in the United States. On loan from the Pizzuti Collection. Through Jan. 3 - "The Mind of a Renaissance Man: A Celebration of Dr. Randy Mack," focuses on the life and generosity of Charles Randall Mack. A well-respected and well-loved professor at the University of South Carolina's art department for over 30 years, Dr. Mack was also a treasured friend to the CMA. His connection with the museum began in 1970, and over the course of three decades he not only shared his expertise, including writing many of the essays in the CMA's Renaissance art catalogue, but he and his family also donated over 135 art works to the collection, ranging from Renaissance pieces to contemporary works on paper and photography to Bunzlauer ceramics. Through Jan. 1, 2025 - "The Collection". Come see the newly organized collection. We've gathered ancient and modern works of art, together in one space, that explore our shared archetypes, myths, and ideals. Galleries 5 & 6, Ongoing - "Modern & Contemporary Art from the Collection". Celebrating a feature of the CMA's greatest hits, this exhibition focuses over 30 paintings, drawings, photographs and sculptures from the Museum's collection that have not been on view recently. It offers the visitor experiences both serious and sensual and is designed to both entertain and enlighten. Notable works included are by Jasper Johns, Howard Thomas, Sally Mann and Edward Ruscha, whose famous image of the Hollywood Hills (on view) has become a staple of the art world. Ray Taylor Fair Gallery, Ongoing - Featuring a new and permanent installation of its ancient art collection. The installation includes approximately 50 objects that introduce the major ancient civilizations from the Mediterranean and Near East. Examples of the earliest form of writing from 12th century B.C. Mesopotamia, are shown next to Egyptian scarabs and Greek painted vessels. The world of the ancient Romans is represented by 2nd century glass and bronze items and portrait sculpture. Many of these works have not been seen since the Museum moved to its location on Main Street in 1998. The collection has grown over the last several years with the donation of 12 fine Roman sculptures in 2002 from Pennsylvania collector Dr. Robert Y. Turner. Admission: Yes, but there is no admission charge on Sun. Hours: Tue.-Sun., from 10am-5pm. Contact: 803/799-2810 or at (www.columbiameuseum.org).

Greenville Center for Creative Arts, 25 Draper Street, Greenville. Main & Community Gallery, Through Jan. 27 - "Contemporary Conversations," featuring works from the SC State Art Collection, curated by Eleanor Heartney, New York-based contemporary art critic and author. She will give an artist talk Tuesday, Jan. 12, from 6-7pm at the gallery. "The works in this exhibition can be seen as a series of conversations about the place of art in contemporary life. Works address such questions as: how important are beauty and craftsmanship to contemporary artists? What is the meaning of abstraction? What responsibility does an artist bear toward the public? Can art serve as an agent of social change? What is the role of place in an artist's imagination?," says Heartney. The exhibit can be seen virtually on the Center's website. Ongoing - Home to 16 studio artists. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-5pm & Sat., 11am-3pm. Contact: call 864/735-3948 or at (www.artcentergreenville.org).

Greenville County Museum of Art, 420 College Street, Greenville. Closed for renovations, Ongoing - "The Real Thing". Selected from the GCMA permanent collection, The Real Thing reflects the authenticity of experience that informed the creation of powerful works by African-American artists. The exhibition title is derived from the 1968 song Ain't Nothing Like the Real Thing, written by Nickolas Ashford and Valerie Simpson and originally performed by Marvin Gaye and Tammi Terrell. Ongoing - "Andrew Wyeth: Eight Decades". Andrew Wyeth (1917 - 2009), regarded as one of the most important American artists of the 20th century, launched his career in 1937 with a sold-out exhibition of his watercolors in New York. On the occasion of the young artist's remarkable debut, his father and mentor, noted illustrator N.C. Wyeth wrote him a congratulatory letter prophesying, "You are headed in the direction that should finally reach the pinnacle in American art." Ongoing - "Impressionism and the South 2019". On April 15, 1874, in an act of defiance against the official French government-sanctioned Salon exhibitions, thirty self-proclaimed Independent artists opened an exhibition at photographer Nadar's vacated Paris studio. Shortly after, a satirical review that mocked Claude Monet's Impression, Sunrise gave the movement its name. Impressionism was the first bombshell launched against academic tradition. The movement defined light as color, becoming the first modern language of paint. Ongoing - "Art and Artists of South Carolina: David Drake, Jasper Johns, William H. Johnson, and Grainger McKay". The contributions of South Carolina artists to our culture are as varied and rich as the stories of the artists themselves. The GCMA is proud to dedicate an entire gallery to the accomplishments of four of the nation's greatest artists, each of whom has called South Carolina home. Ongoing - "How? Who? Why?". According to Rod Stewart, every picture tells a story. Whether its subject is a familiar Old Testament morality tale or an apocalyptic warning of impending nuclear doom, the physical process of making a picture (or a print, painting, or sculpture) sometimes assumes an equal role to the story's telling. If nothing else, the manipulation of a medium can be the message. Admission: Free. Hours: Wed.-Sat., 10am-6pm and Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 864/271-7570 or at (www.gcoma.org).

Work by Patrick Owens

Visual Arts Institute, on the Greer Campus of Greenville Technical College about 4 miles north of Greer on Highway 290, Locust Hill Road, Taylors. Benson Campus Galleries, Jan. 11 - Feb. 19 - "Alabama, Y'all," is a collection of Alabama photographs and sculptures made by an Alabama collector, Patrick Owens. His Alabama fascination began with childhood family trips to the home place in Tuskegee. Though never an Alabama resident, he was bred of Alabama stock. His people, his roots, his family stories and myths are all Alabama born. Now and particularly over the past decade, Owens makes intentional, frequent trips to Alabama to glean the landscape for images and detritus to bring home to his South Carolina studio. Each image, each discarded bit has its own origin story and its own history of usefulness. Owens has reimaged these stories making them his own. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 8am-5pm. Orangeburg

Cecil Williams Civil Rights Museum, 1865 Lake Drive, Orangeburg. Ongoing - Established in 2019, the exquisite ultra-modern facility displays 1000 images of the Civil Rights Movement, but from the perspective of The Epochal South Carolina Events That Changed America. The massive archives comprise the largest collection of images of this type among all museums in the United States; including the Atlanta based High Museum which archives 300 images. The images were created by the founder, Cecil Williams, who began photography at age 9 and covered almost all historically significant events in South Carolina; from 1950 Briggs v. Elliott in Summerton, thru the 1969 Charleston Hospital Workers' Strike...and Beyond. From 1955 through 1969, Williams was a freelance journalist for "JET" magazine. His images have appeared in thousands of magazines, newspapers, historical publications, and motion picture productions. The museum design itself is part of the founders' DNA because; upon graduating from high school, Williams wanted to attend Clemson University to study architecture but denied because of his race. He then purchased a drafting board and through the years, designed three residences; including one featured in "EBONY", and the museum's design which has evolved into a living history facility. Hours: call ahead for hours.

Spartanburg

Throughout downtown Spartanburg's Cultural District, Ongoing - The Creative Crosswalk Project is a public art initiative in which local artists and designers design and paint a series of crosswalk murals, transforming the crosswalks into works of art, on Main Street in Spartanburg, SC. The downtown cultural district area is often bustling with events and pedestrians, and the pedestrians rely heavily on a multitude of crosswalks to safely traverse the downtown Spartanburg area. The problem is that crosswalks are incredibly easy to overlook, they are rarely visually appealing, and they can even be quite dangerous. In an effort to remedy these issues, Chapman Cultural Center, the City of Spartanburg, and the Spartanburg Area Chamber of Commerce came together to organize the Creative Crosswalk Project. For more info visit (<https://www.chapmanculturalcenter.org/pages/blog/detail/article/c0/a1555/>).

Work by Barb Bordogna

Artists Collective I Spartanburg (formerly West Main Artists Cooperative), 578 West Main St., Spartanburg. Jan. 5 - Feb. 27 - "The Art of Survival," an art exhibition that will explore how regional artists have been impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic and expressed its influence creatively. The exhibit will have more than 70 visual artists from Upstate South Carolina participating. The general public will be able to see the exhibition Tuesday-Saturday, 10 a.m.-4 p.m. at no charge. All pandemic safety protocols will be observed when entering the building. "This exhibition was conceived in early April of this year when I was sharing on Facebook with some fellow artists how it felt to get motivated to work when all else was falling apart due to the pandemic," the Collective's Board Chair Beth Regula said. "The discussion led to motivating each other to continue to work and create. Knowing that motivation to make art comes sometimes when an exhibit is scheduled, I proposed that we encourage each other in the community and then come together at Artists Collective I Spartanburg for an exhibit." Ongoing - The Collective features a twenty thousand square foot facility offering affordable studio space, retail space, three galleries, a full ceramics studio, printery, and works by 50 local artists. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-4pm; with extended hours on the 3rd Thur. of each month until 9pm for Spartanburg's Art Walk. Contact: 864/804-6501 or at (artistscollectivespartanburg.org).

New York City. For the last two decades, Ruben Natal-San Miguel has been challenging the expectations of who gets memorialized and celebrated in our art spaces. His portrait Mama (Beautiful Skin) has been one of the most impactful photographs in the Mint galleries in recent years. The woman—arms crossed, shoulders back—stares at us, the viewer, with confrontation that may outshine her own confidence. The bold red backdrop—a van, with slight reflections in the refulgent surface—highlights not only her stalwart posture, but also, her skin, an effect of vitiligo. The details—her skin, her cornrows, the white T-shirt, even the red van—are not elements often seen in an art gallery or museum. This is Natal-San Miguel's mission: to introduce a new range of venerated beauty for our consideration.

Asheville Art Museum, 2 South Pack Square at Pack Place, Asheville. Through Mar. 15 - "Question Bridge: Black Males". The three-hour documentary-styled art installation "Question Bridge: Black Males" will be on view at the Asheville Art Museum. This innovative transmedia project facilitates a dialogue between Black men from diverse and contending backgrounds, and creates a platform for them to represent and redefine Black male identity in America. Through Mar. 15 - "Vantage Points: Contemporary Photography from the Whitney Museum of American Art". The exhibit features a selection of photographic works from the 1970s to the mid-2000s that highlights how photography has been used to represent individuals, places, and narratives. Drawn exclusively from the Whitney's permanent collection, this presentation includes approximately 20 artists, including Diane Arbus, Richard Avedon, Gregory Crewdson, William Eggleston, Nan Goldin, Sally Mann, Peter Hujar, Robert Mapplethorpe, Cindy Sherman, Lorna Simpson, and Andy Warhol. Through Apr. 5 - "Fantastical Forms: Ceramics as Sculpture". The 25 works in this exhibition—curated by associate curator Whitney Richardson—highlight the Museum's Collection of sculptural ceramics from the last two decades of the 20th century to the present. Each work illustrates the artist's ability to push beyond the utilitarian and transition ceramics into the world of sculpture. North and South Carolina artists featured include Elma McBride Johnson, Neil Noland, Norm Schulman, Virginia Scotchie, Cynthia Bringle, Jane Palmer, Michael Sherrill, and Akira Satake. Works by American artists Don Reitz, Robert Chapman Turner, Karen Karnes, Toshiko Takaezu, Bill Griffith, and Xavier Toubes are also featured in the exhibition. Ongoing - The Asheville Art Museum, the hub for 20th- and 21st-century American art in Western North Carolina, has re-opened to the public. The $24+ million, state-of-the-art facility encompasses 54,000 square feet and adds 70 percent more Collection gallery space. For the first time in the Museum's history, it has the capacity to host major traveling exhibitions from nationally recognized museums. The expansion increases its physical space and dramatically increases its role as a community center, educational resource, economic engine for WNC, and cultural concierge for the region's residents and visitors. Opening exhibitions include: "Appalachia Now! An Interdisciplinary Survey of Contemporary Art in Southern Appalachia," is the inaugural special exhibition of the newly renovated Museum. Curated by Jason Andrew, the juried exhibition features 50 artists of diverse backgrounds from the Southern Appalachian states of North Carolina, Georgia, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia. The exhibit provides a regional snapshot of the art of our time—a collective survey of contemporary Southern Appalachian culture. "Intersections in American Art," is the largest presentation ever drawn from the Museum's Collection of 5,000+ works and 4,000+ architectural drawings. It celebrates the unique qualities of art from Western North Carolina, placed within the context of art from across the United States. The intersections of regional and national art are highlighted throughout the galleries, as are three specific ways of understanding the works here: Time & Place; Experiments in Materials & Form; and Collaboration & Interdisciplinary Dialogue. Admission: Yes. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm; Fri. till 8pm & Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 828/253-3227 or at (www.ashevilleart.org).

Black Mountain College Museum + Arts Center, 120 College Street, Asheville. Ongoing - "Leap Then Look Digital Exhibition, a virtual exhibit at (<https://bit.ly/2lwouky>). This digital exhibition brings together images and texts from Leap Then Look's BMC+AC Archive Archive Digital Residency. "Leap Then Look" is a collaboration between British artists Lucy Cran and Bill Leslie. Together the duo creates artworks, participatory projects, workshops, and events for people of all ages and abilities. Over the 10 days of the Active Archive residency, Leap Then Look responded to the history of BMC—the images, stories, happenings, and people. They used Instagram (@bmc_museum / @leap_then_look) to post archival images and quotes, and to create new work in response to the college's diverse history. Their focus was on process, experience, and material exploration. It was an invitation to the public to join in actively engaging with the archival material, opening up the historical archive and practices of Black Mountain College, making them relevant and accessible for the twenty-first century. Ongoing - An exhibition space dedicated to exploring the history and legacy of the world's most acclaimed experimental educational community, Black Mountain College. Hours: Wed.-Sat., noon-4pm or by appt. Contact: 828/350-8484 or at (www.blackmountaincollege.org).

Center for Craft, 67 Broadway, Asheville. Bresler Family Gallery, Through Jan. 22 - "Sleight of Hand". The exhibition brings together eleven works by six contemporary artists of color working in ceramics who use humor as a tool to navigate a range of pressing social issues. For these artists, humor is not merely an aesthetic choice; it is also a tool of resistance, resilience, and healing. The deliberate use of humor in ceramics traces back to the 1950s and 1960s Bay Area Funk art. Participating artists include: Diana Yesenia Alvarado, Natalia Arbelaz, Salvador Jiménez-Flores, Yvette Mayoroga, Woody De Othello, and Maryam Yousif. The exhibit was curated by Angelik Vizcarondo-Laboy. Ongoing - Encompassing an additional 7,000 square feet of program space, including expanded galleries, event and meeting spaces, and coworking space serving the creative sector, this one-of-a-kind National Craft Innovation Hub will engage both the national craft community and western North Carolina residents, further establishing the Center for Craft as a thought-leader in what craft means today, as well as how to support emerging voices and makers. Hours: Mon.-Sun., 10am-6pm. Contact: call 828/785-1357 or at (www.centerforcraft.org).

Turchin Center for the Visual Arts, Appalachian State University, 423 West King Street, Boone. Mezzanine Gallery, Through Feb. 6 - "Afterimage Anxiety: Joshua Rose." "Perhaps I am just in awe of everything when I settle down to really look at things," says Joshua Rose. Community Gallery, Through Feb. 6 - "Rain and the River: Jacklyn St. Aubyn." Painter Jacklyn St. Aubyn creates a magical space in which things aren't what they appear to be. First perceptions may be misleading. She has landscapes and interiors in mind as she works, but not in the realistic sense; rather, she conjures imaginary spaces that defy logic. Mayer Gallery, Through Feb. 6 - "CANTAR DE CIEGOS/ SONG OF THE BLIND: Esperanza Cortés". In conjunction with the 42nd anniversary Tri-State Sculpture Conference, the Turchin Center for the Visual Arts is proud to partner with the 2020 Conference Chair, Travis Donovan, assistant professor of sculpture, Department of Art in Appalachian State University's College of Fine and Applied Arts to host the conference and bring the award-winning sculptor, Esperanza Cortés to campus as a keynote speaker and guest artist for an exhibition. Tri-State Sculptors is an association of education sculptors in the Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina areas. Main Gallery, Through June 5 - "Fictive Strategies: Suzanne Sbarge & Holly Roberts". Sbarge and Roberts share a similar sensibility; they both use collage, weaving textures and images into surrealist enigmatic artworks that open subconscious doorways into the ambiguous space of the night: haunting dreams brim with narrative probability remaining stubbornly resistant to a literal interpretation. Both artists live in and are intimately familiar with the New Mexico landscape where a deep stillness is part of the character of both the land and the people who inhabit it. - Excerpt from Mary Anne Redding. Gallery A, Through May 1 - "Refugium: Christina Laurel". Laurel is a paper artist creating installations and two-dimensional art, all with a Japanese aesthetic. Her mission is to create an "exhale" moment, an oasis that offers a respite and refuge from our daily sensory overload. Suspended lace panels support a migrating pattern of butterflies that cast shadows and respond to air movement. Perambulating—whether with shoes, walker or wheelchair—through the suspended cocoons and grounded totems of "Refugium," the viewer will become a part of the installation and a part of the art. Gallery B, Through May 1 - "Longing for Amelia—The Historical and Mythological Landscape: Matthew Arnold". On May 20, 1937, Amelia Earhart and navigator Fred Noonan took off from Oakland, California on the first leg of their historic round-the-world flight. They disappeared 43 days later while trying to locate tiny Howland Island in the remote Pacific, 83 years after Earhart's disappearance her legend survives in the many individuals still searching for evidence of what happened to her on that fateful day in 1937. With this photographic project, Matthew Arnold documents the environs that play host to the many theories which attempt to resolve the mystery of Amelia Earhart's disappearance. The work presented here is from the first stage of Arnold's project—a five-week expedition to the outer reaches of the Northern Mariana and Marshall Islands, photographing the seascapes and landscapes specific to the "Japanese Capture" theory. It is a theory that involves a forced landing in fortified Japanese territory followed by capture, imprisonment, and possible execution at the hands of their Imperial Navy. Hours: 10am-6pm, Thu., Wed., Thur., & Sat. and Fri., noon-8pm. Contact: Hank T. Foreman at 828/262-3017 or at (www.turchincenter.org).

Chapel Hill - Carrboro

Ackland Art Museum, UNC - Chapel Hill, Columbia & Franklin Streets, Chapel Hill. Through July 4 - "holding space for nobility: a memorial for Breonna Taylor". Breonna Taylor was fatally shot by officers of the Louisville Metro Police

Work by Shanequa Gay

Department after they forced entry into her home on March 13, 2020. She was twenty-six years old. In the months since her death, her story has become a part of national conversations about racial violence and an impetus for activism against systemic injustices. In this immersive commission, artist Shanequa Gay (American, born 1977) transforms the museum's mixed-use ART& room into an area that can "hold space" for Taylor's memory. Through acrylics and oils, Gay renders publicly shared images of Taylor's face from happy times in her life as a reminder of her roles as daughter, niece, friend, and, as Gay writes, "someone who was loved and is worthy of justice and being seen." Through Sept. 12 - "Clouding: Shape and Sign in Asian Art". This year-long installation explores the diverse forms and functions of clouds in the arts of Asia, juxtaposing works of art in different media and from different time periods spanning the Bronze Age to the present. Museum Store Gallery (Franklin and Columbia Street), Store hours: Mon.-Sat., 10am-5:30pm & Sun., noon-5pm. Museum Hours: Wed. & Thur., 10am-9pm; 2nd Fris. 10am-9pm; all other Fris., 10am-5pm; Sat. 10am-5pm & Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 919/966-5736 or at (www.ackland.org).

Cover of Josef Albers' book, "Interaction of Color"

Bechtler Museum of Modern Art, Levine Center for the Arts, 420 South Tryon St., Charlotte. Fourth-Floor Gallery, Now - "TEN". Since the Bechtler Museum of Modern Art opened our doors in 2010, we have hosted more than thirty modern art exhibitions. TEN features a selection of works from sixteen past fourth-floor exhibitions, all brought together to showcase the excellence and share the joy of the Bechtler collection as we look back at the past decade in celebration of our ten-year anniversary. Second-Floor Gallery, Through Jan. 3 - "1 Cent Life," presents a selection of color lithographs from the landmark 1964 print portfolio, "1 Cent Life", written by Walasse Ting (born Ding Xionguan), edited by Sam Francis, and published by E.W. Kornfeld. Developed by Anastasia James, Bechtler Museum of Modern Art Curator, the exhibition is dedicated to the life of Chinese-American visual artist and poet Walasse Ting and follows his journey from Shanghai to Paris to New York City. The exhibition features 18 lithographs by 18 artists from the Bechtler Museum of Modern Art's signed limited edition of the "1 Cent Life Portfolio", as well as poetry and a selection of books by Ting. Artists whose work will be on view include Andy Warhol, Joan Mitchell, Pierre Alechinsky, Kiki O.K. Claes Oldenburg, James Rosenquist, Robert Indiana, Bram Van Velde, Asger Jorn, and Allan Kaprow. Jan. 9 - July 4 - "Josef Albers: The Interaction of Color". The exhibition is inspired by the Bechtler Museum's rare German edition of The Interaction of Color, featuring 81 silkscreen color studies that serve as a record of Albers's experiential way of studying and teaching color. Born in Germany in 1888, Josef Albers was one of the most influential artist-educators of the 20th century. Best known for his iconic color square paintings, his exploration and expansion of complex color theory principles and dedication to experiential education based on observation and experimentation, radically altered the trajectory of arts education in the United States. Ongoing - The Bechtler Museum of Modern Art is named after the family of Andreas Bechtler, a Charlotte resident and native of Switzerland who assembled and inherited a collection of more than 1,400 artworks created by major figures of 20th-century modernism and donated it to the public trust. The Bechtler collection comprises artworks by seminal figures such as Alberto Giacometti, Joan Miro, Jean Tinguely, Max Ernst, Andy Warhol, Alexander Calder, Le Corbusier, Sol LeWitt, Edgar Degas, Nicolas de Stael, Barbara Hepworth and Picasso. Only a handful of the artworks in the Bechtler collection have been on public view in the United States. Admission: Yes. Hours: Mon., Wed.-Sat., 10am-5pm; Sun. noon-5pm; and open until 9pm the 1st. and 3rd. Fri. of each month. Contact: 704/353-9200 or at (www.bechtler.org).

Davidson College, Belk Visual Arts Center, 315 North Main and Griffith Streets, Davidson. Van Every/Smith Galleries, Jan. 7&8 (for general public) - "True Likeness," co-curated by Tom Stanley and Director/Curator Lia Rose Newman, is a snapshot of America today, featuring a contemporary portrait exhibition. Appointments may be reserved via this link (<https://www.signupgenius.com/go/9040414fa4aa2daaf0-true>). Portraits serve as expressions of identity, popular taste, social standing, and as documents of who, when, and where. Representing one's self in the best light or seeing others in understandable terms are motives behind why we record images of each other, whether for rituals, documentation of events, art making, or as expressions of status. A printed catalogue including an essay by Tom Stanley will accompany the exhibition. Ongoing - While on campus, be sure to take a tour of our Campus Sculpture. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 10am-5pm and Sat. & Sun., noon-4pm. Contact: 704/894-2519 or at (www.davidsoncollegeartgallery.org).

Elizabeth Ross Gallery, Central Piedmont Community College, Central Campus, Overcash Performing Arts Center, Elizabeth Avenue and Kings Dr., Charlotte. Jan. 11 - Mar. 11 - "Into Memory," a solo exhibition featuring work by Monique Luck. Mixed media artist, Luck artfully arranges collage pieces in a desired way, all the while contemplating how simple it would be if it could rearrange the pieces of life in a similar fashion. Her muse is the human figure in mixed media. Monique's work evokes an emotive response speaking to personal loss. While misfortune may be unavoidable, it remains a common thread uniting us all. We live through a time of fear and uncertainty threatening to tear us apart, but by coming together we, like Luck's artwork, form a cohesive and harmonious picture. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 10am-2pm. Contact: 704/330-6211.

curators, Sanjit Sethi, former Director of the Corcoran School of Arts and Design and Rosie Gordon-Wallace, founder and chief curator of the Diaspora Vibe Cultural Arts Incubator, Inc. (DVCAI) of Miami, Florida, have designed this collaboration to provide a lens through which communities and community leaders internationally can begin to better understand themselves, their diversities and their unlimited possibilities. This global exhibition represents 25 Miami based artists, 17 countries and two Charlotte guest artists—Monique Luck and Stephanie J. Woods. Ongoing - "... and justice for all". America has the highest incarceration rate in the world. In just 40 years, those confined in this country's prisons and jails has grown 500%. Over 2 million people are incarcerated today. This rise is not due to increased criminal activity, but the callous and inequitable execution of the nation's laws and public policies. While 37% of the country's population represents people of color, an incongruous 67% make up the prison population. ... and justice for all illuminates this racially unjust system. Ongoing - Featuring selections from the John & Vivian Hewitt Collection of African-American Art, one of the nation's most important and comprehensive collections of African-American art. Hours: Thur. - Sat., noon-6pm & Sun., noon-6pm. Extended hours from noon-8pm on Fridays, Oct. 2, Nov. 6 & Dec. 4. Contact: 704/547-3700 or at (www.ganttcenter.org).

Latin American Contemporary Art Projects (LaCa), 1429 Bryant Street, in the heart of the revitalized FreeMoreWest neighborhood, Charlotte. Through Jan. 16 - "Carlos Estévez: BEACHCOMBER". This will be Carlos Estévez's third solo exhibition at LaCa Projects. The exhibition is a multimedia exhibition consisting of over fifty artworks in painting, found object assemblage, and ceramics. Join us for the unveiling of a pivotal juncture in the continuous evolution of Carlos' artistic process, with references to archetypal themes of metaphysics, transformation, and human spirituality. In these works, Estévez builds worlds, allegories for the tension between our microcosms of imagination and our macrocosms of existence, as we try to suspend ourselves between the two to maintain our sanity. He draws from experiences as varied as his compositions: a life started in Cuba, but with significant time in Paris, Charlotte, and in the last few decades, Miami. He bends these experiences through the conceptual lens of illuminated manuscripts, medieval texts, and contemporary philosophy, what Estévez has described as "transcriptions and translations of my everyday observations into images." Ongoing - LaCa Projects is a platform dedicated to the presentation, development, and promotion of Latin American art and culture within the United States. The gallery encourages cross-cultural dialogue by representing a small group of influential and thought-provoking contemporary, emerging and mid-career artists, as well as exhibiting a broader range of work by established and Master Latin American artists. The gallery, which has expertise in a number of different art media with a significant focus on paintings, will also be part of a larger planned expansion that includes open artist studios and a dining concept. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 1-5pm or by appt. Contact: Neely Verano at (neely@lacaprojects.com) or call 704/609-8487.

Mint Museum Randolph, 2730 Randolph Road, Charlotte. Visit the Mint Museum at Home at (<https://mintmuseum.org/museum-from-home/>). Bridges and Levine Galleries, Ongoing - "Contemporary British Studio Ceramics: The Grainer Collection". Focused on the collection of Diane and Marc Grainer, this installation is a survey of contemporary British studio ceramics. Comparing functional and sculptural objects made between the 1980s and today, the show features work by artists either born or residing in Great Britain, including established "contemporary classics" like Gordon Baldwin and Rupert Spira, and cutting-edge ceramicists such as Julian Star and Kate Malone. Several recently-gifted works from the Grainers are included. Alexander, Spangler, and Harris Galleries, Ongoing - "Portals to the Past: British Ceramics 1675 - 1825". The Mint Museum's collection of eighteenth-century British pottery and porcelain is widely respected for its scope and quality. The collection numbers over 2,000 objects and includes important examples of both salt-glazed and dry-bodied stoneware from Staffordshire; tin-glazed earthenware from Bristol, Liverpool, and London; and cream-colored earthenware from Derbyshire, Staffordshire, and Yorkshire. Notable eighteenth-century porcelain factories represented include Chelsea, Bow, and Vauxhall in London, Longton Hall in Staffordshire, Worcester, Bristol, and others. Individual works in the collection are exceptional because of their rarity, craftsmanship, provenance, or as representative examples of particular types or methods of production or decoration. Ongoing - "American Glass". The nineteenth and early twentieth centuries represented a time of extraordinary growth for the American glass industry. Such companies as Boston & Sandwich Glass Company in Sandwich, MA; Steuben Glass Works in Corning, NY; and Libbey Glass Company in Toledo, OH, began operation and soon developed notable reputations for producing fashionable wares that were coveted by many middle- and upper-class consumers. "American Glass" showcases objects by these and other American glass companies, illustrating the variety of forms and styles that prevailed during this period. Glass-manufacturing techniques will be another focus of the exhibition, with representative examples of pressed, cut, blown, and molded glass. Nearly all of the works on view are from The Mint Museum's permanent collection of glass, which is second in size only to the ceramics collection in the museum's Decorative Arts holdings. Ongoing - "Arts of Africa". The African continent is remarkable in its geographic, social, political, and cultural diversity. This impressive diversity is reflected in the visual arts through a variety of media and forms including ceramics, masks, textiles, sculptures, prestige staffs, and shrines. With exceptional loans from private collectors and The Mint Museum's own collection of African Art, the museum is pleased to announce the expansion of its presentation of Arts of Africa, thereby providing visitors a more in-depth, meaningful, and exciting overview of African art. Heritage Gallery, Ongoing - Feature works of art, archival documents, and photographs documenting the growth and evolution of the museum, from its beginnings as the original branch of the US Mint to its founding as an art museum to the present and beyond. Ongoing - "Art for the Millions: WPA Prints" and "Carolina Clay," featuring a display of colorful wares made between 1920 and 1950 as potters from NC adapted their works to a market economy. "Art of the United States," featuring contemporary works from the Mint's permanent collection, including works by Romare Bearden, Maud Gatewood, John Biggers Juan Logan, Tarlton Blackwell, Radcliffe Bailey, Kojo Griffin, and others. "Art in the Americas," featuring paintings, precious metalwork, sculpture, furniture and decorative arts from the 17th through the 19th centuries illustrate the unique culture that emerged from the Spanish colonization of the Americas. Crossland Gallery - Featuring a presentation of portraits with many fascinating images presented. Rankin Gallery - Featuring a presentation of the Romare Bearden Collection, including two "new" Beardens. Delhom Gallery, Ongoing - The European Collection of ceramic works. Admission: Yes. Hours: Wed., 11am-9pm (free admission 5-9pm); Thur.-Sat., 11am-6pm; & Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 704/337-2000 or at (www.mintmuseum.org).

Mint Museum Uptown, Levine Center for the Arts, 500 South Tryon St., Charlotte. Now - The Mint Museum's new four-story installation "Foragers" offers a transcendent experience while celebrating the tradition of women as makers and providers. Unlike anything ever seen at The Mint Museum before, Brooklyn-based artist Summer Wheat's "Foragers" is a monumental piece of public work of art spanning 96 windows, four stories, and 3,720 square feet at Mint Museum Uptown's Robert Hayward Morrison Atrium. The myriad of vibrant panels that give the illusion of stained glass and celebrates the tradition of women as makers and providers. "Foragers" is part of a larger exhibition "In Vivid Color," which brings together four innovative contemporary artists—Wheat, Gisela Colon, Spencer Finch, and Jennifer Steinkamp—who create works celebrating the power of color and its ability to permeate the space around us. Their work is juxtaposed with a selection of paintings and works on paper, drawn primarily from The Mint Museum's permanent collection, which showcase artists' more traditional exploration of color. Ongoing - "El Tajin:

Photographs and Drawings by Michael Kampen". El Tajin is a UNESCO World Heritage archeological site located in northern Veracruz, Mexico, one of the largest and most important cities of classical era Mesoamerica. It is home to hundreds of carved sculptures which have deteriorated over time due to acid rain and wind erosion. Drawings created by Dr. Michael Kampen, now a retired professor emeritus of art history, are the best representations in existence of the site sculptures at El Tajin. Ongoing - The Mint Museum Uptown houses the world renowned collections of the Mint Museum of Craft + Design, as well as the American Art and Contemporary Art collections and selected works from the European Art collection. The building also includes a café, a Family Gallery, painting and ceramics studios, classrooms, a 240-seat auditorium, a Special Events Pavilion with outdoor terrace, and an expanded Museum Shop specializing in crafts of the Carolinas. Diane Arbus, "Man and a Boy on a Bench in Central Park, NYC", 1962, gelatin silver print, 20 x 16 in. Weatherspoon Art Museum. Museum purchase by exchange, 2012. © Diane Arbus.

Weatherspoon Art Museum, University of North Carolina - Greensboro, Cone Building, Tate and Spring Garden Streets, Greensboro. Closed for Winter Break Through Jan. 2 Jan. 2 - Apr. 3 - "Markmaking: Selections from the Collection". The artworks in this exhibition show a plethora of approaches to markmaking, a term used to describe the different types of lines, scratches, smudges, patterns, dots, and textures that result from the way an artist applies a material, such as graphite or paint, to a surface. Because each mark possesses unique characteristics as well as contributes to the entire composition, it is an effective way to communicate. Marks can be descriptive, intuitive, or expressive. For example, some marks suggest vigorous energy or movement owing to the way they were applied, while others denote close attention to detail. Still, others feature novel techniques such as cutting and burning. On display are works by, among many others: Natalie Alper, Keith Carter, Sol LeWitt, Vik Muniz, Alyson Shotz, and Robert Smithson. In all, these objects show how distinct strokes and application methods make each—and its artist—unique. Jan. 16 - June 19 - "Slow Looking/Deep Seeing". Research has shown that visitors to art venues spend only a few seconds looking at each work on display. The Weatherspoon's curatorial and education staff has organized an exhibition drawn from the museum's collection that will offer visitors a chance to slow down, make discoveries, and effectively connect with works of art. "Slow Looking/Deep Seeing" features a variety of works, both modern and contemporary, and is divided into three sections to facilitate immersive viewing: Reading the Narrative/Image, Noticing as Contemplative Practice, and Interpreting Movement. Figurative paintings with complex narratives will prompt viewers to take some time to decipher their meaning, while both representational and abstract artworks will allow for in-depth examination and peaceful contemplation. Slow Looking/Deep Seeing will be used by UNCG courses this spring as part of the museum's Art of Seeing program. Now in its eleventh year, the program is designed to help students in health and human science fields hone their visual, diagnostic, interpretative, and communication skills. 2nd Floor: The Gregory D. Ivy and the Weatherspoon Guild Galleries, Through Feb. 14 - "Ties that Bind: Selections from the Collection". John Fawcett wrote a hymn on the theme in 1800. Bruce Springsteen took a different approach in an eponymous song popular in 1980. Whether entwined in fellowship with kindred spirits or stretched to the point of breaking, the ties that bind us to one another are often some of the most significant markers in our lives. Ties that Bind explores the various types of relationships that define, brighten, aspire, or perhaps even challenge us on a daily basis. Atrium and Lobbies - Featuring works of art complementing current gallery exhibitions which are rotated in the atrium and public areas throughout both floors of the gallery. Tom Otersness' site-specific work, "The Frieze" is permanently installed in the atrium. Sculpture Courtyard - Featuring selections of American sculpture from 1900 to the present from the Weatherspoon Collection and on loan works from contemporary artists. Admission: Free. Hours: Tue., Wed. & Fri., 10am-5pm, Thur., 10am to 9pm and Sat. & Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 336/334-5770 or at (<http://weatherspoon.uncg.edu>).

The Museum of the Southeast American Indian, Old Main (first floor) at the University of North Carolina Pembroke, 1 University Drive, Pembroke. Ongoing - As part of the Southeast American Indian Studies Program at UNC Pembroke, The Museum of the Southeast American Indian maximizes the capacity of the University to address the complex historical, cultural and contemporary issues facing American Indian communities in North Carolina and the American Southeast. The Museum's cross-disciplinary collaborations greatly enhance the University's programs of research, service, outreach and instruction. The Museum is a multi-faceted museum and resource for scholarly research and community outreach. While the Museum contains exhibits of authentic Indian artifacts, arts and crafts from Indian communities all over the Americas, our primary focus is on tribes from the American Southeast. Many items come from North Carolina Native communities, with special emphasis on Robeson County Indian people. Specific focus is placed on the largest North Carolina tribe, the Lumbee, but our outreach activities have extended into Virginia and South Carolina with plans for further outreach throughout the Southeast. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-5pm. We typically close for lunch from noon-1pm. Contact: call 910/521-6282 or e-mail to (nativemuseum@uncp.edu).

Gregg Museum of Art & Design, The Historic Chancellor's Residence, NC State University, located at 1903 Hillsborough Street, Raleigh. Valeria C. Adams Gallery, Through July 18 - "A Thousand Thrown," an installation by artist and potter Daniel Johnston. An immersive experience of controlled pace, interaction, and a compelling mix of traditional pottery and contemporary art. After studying under such masters as J.B. Cole and Mark Hewitt, Daniel Johnston traveled from his home in Randolph County, NC to England and Thailand, studying techniques such as large vessel making and working among master potters and long held traditions. As he explored his skills and mastery of the craft of pottery, he also began also to develop his appreciation of different ways of looking at his work and how he might realize their conceptual possibilities, by using these vessels to manipulate light, scale and space. Ongoing - One of NC State University's most historic buildings is now the permanent home of the Gregg Museum of Art & Design. The Historic Chancellor's Residence, located at 1903 Hillsborough Street, along with a 15,000 sq. ft. addition, increases the museum's visibility while significantly adding to its exhibition and programming space. Haywood Street fresco announces, in plaster and pigment, that you matter," said The Rev. Brian Combs, Haywood Street congregation. This exhibition features monumental drawings, intimate portraits, and studies by artist Christopher Holt (b. 1977, Asheville, NC; lives Weaverville, NC) for the Haywood Street Beautides fresco completed in September 2019. East Building, Level B, Joyce W. Pope Gallery, Extended through Jan. 31 - "Front Burner: Highlights in Contemporary North Carolina Painting". Organized by guest curator Ashlynn Browning in collaboration with the North Carolina Museum of Art. Throughout modern art history, painting has been declared dead and later resuscitated so many times that the issue now tends to fall on deaf ears. Despite any debate over painting's viability, artists continue to persevere in keeping the medium fresh and new. Currently painting is enjoying a revival in the art world, and innovative North Carolina artists are helping to maintain its vibrant place on the front burner. Participating artists include: Brett Baker, Raleigh, Cynthia Bickley-Green, Greenville. Maria Britton, Carrboro, Mark Brown, Chapel Hill, Ashlynn Browning, Raleigh, Luke Miller Buchanan, Raleigh, Martha Clippinger, Durham, Hannah Cole, Asheville, Celia Johnson, Chapel Hill, Benjamin Knight, Deep Run, Ashley Lathe, Charlotte, Georges Le Chevallier, Garner, Juan Lujan, Belmont, Jerry Lynch, Apex, Donald Martiny, Chapel Hill, Mario Marzan, Chapel Hill, George McKim, Raleigh, Bonnie Melton, Durham, Katy Mixon, Chapel Hill, Carmen Neely, Charlotte, Shaun Richards, Raleigh, Barbara Campbell Thomas, Climax, William Paul Thomas, Durham, Lien Truong, Chapel Hill, and Antoine Williams, Greensboro. East Building, Level B, Meymandi Exhibition Gallery, Feb. 14 - July 11 - "Golden Mummies of Egypt," from the Manchester Museum in England, the exhibition's first appearance at an American art museum. On view through July 11, 2021, it features eight extraordinary gilded mummies and more than 100 related objects including papyri, jewelry, ceramics, and deities that connect the domestic, daily sphere of these Greco-Roman Egyptians to the religious world of the gods. NCMA Park - The North Carolina Museum of Art (NCMA) announces new works of art to be installed in the 164-acre NCMA Park. The works include a bronze tree by Italian artist Giuseppe Penone, a playful pair of benches designed by Hank Willis Thomas, and a 10-day installation of 23-foot-tall illuminated rabbits by Australian artist Amanda Parer. The sculptures will be featured at the NCMA's Park Celebration on Nov. 6, when the public is invited to experience the newly expanded Park with a variety of outdoor activities. Ongoing - Featuring 10 additional sculptures by the celebrated French artist Rodin on loan from Iris Cantor's private collection. Ongoing - "John James Audubon's The Birds of America". The state has owned this treasured volume since 1848, but it has never been exhibited. Ongoing - The North Carolina Museum of Art has an outstanding permanent collection of more than 5,000 objects spanning antiquity to the present day. On the occasion of the expansion, the Museum has acquired more than 100 new works of art. Representing commissions, gifts, and purchases, the new works encompass important and diverse examples of historic and contemporary art from around the world, and will be installed in the Museum's new building and the surrounding landscape. Highlights include a gift of 28 sculptures by Auguste Rodin, and work by such internationally acclaimed artists as Roxy Paine, Ursula von Rydingsar, ElAnatsui, Jaume Plensa, Jackie Ferrara, Ellsworth Kelly, and David Park, among others. Admission: Yes for some exhibits. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 9am-5pm; Sun., 10am-5pm; & open until 9pm on Fri. Contact: 919/839-6262 or at (www.ncartmuseum.org).

Work by Steven Forbes-deSoule

North Carolina Pottery Center, 233 East Avenue, Seagrove. Through Jan. 16 - "ECU Ceramics Guild: Clay in Pandemic Times," a mini pop-up show. 2020 has been a challenging year for everyone because of the COVID-19 virus, and it has certainly presented challenges for education and academic programs. Despite remote and online learning challenges, the students of East Carolina University's Ceramics Program are still managing to find ways to do what they love... creating art! Can't make it to the center to see the rest of the pieces in person? Check out our publicly accessible ECU Ceramics Guild: Clay in Pandemic Times Facebook Photo Album at (https://www.facebook.com/media/set/?vanity=ncpotterycenter&set=a.10158776005591007) to see all the pieces in the show. Jan. 22 - June 19 - "North Carolina Ceramic Gems". Every day potters across North Carolina take clay and other natural resources, combine them using their knowledge, shape them into both simple and wonderful things using their artisan skills, and forge them using extreme heat (and sometimes flames) into a kaleidoscopic array of ceramic gems. Featured artists include: Stanley Mace Andersen, Alan Bennett, Marina Bosetti, Benjamin Burns, Terry Childress, Garry Childs, Becky Lloyd, Chris Luthan, Dian Magie, Michael & Ruth Fisher Rutkowsky, Brad Tucker, and Jim Whalen. Jan. 22 - June 19 - "Raku: Spontaneity in the Flames". Raku pottery incorporates elements of knowledge, experience, excitement, unpredictability, and spontaneity, and is somewhat akin to a semi-controlled convergence of science, craft, art, and magic with a bit of chaos thrown in for good measure. Come see a colorful variety of Western-style work by a number of North Carolina's Raku potters from across the state and learn more about the making of Raku. Featured artists include: Andy Smith, Charlotte Munning, Steven Forbes-deSoule, David & Deborah Garner, Colleen Black Semelka, Harry Hearne, Courtney Tomchik, Delores Hayes, Edge Barnes, and Dan Trice. Ongoing - Featuring permanent and changing exhibits on the history of North Carolina pottery, "The North Carolina Pottery Tradition" and "Seagrove Area Pottery". The Center also offers information on activities, maps and information about the potteries located in the Seagrove area and across the state. A display of representative works from more than 90 area potteries is also offered. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-4pm. Contact 336/873-8430 or at (www.ncpotterycenter.org).

Come see a colorful variety of Western-style work by a number of North Carolina's Raku potters from across the state and learn more about the making of Raku. Featured artists include: Andy Smith, Charlotte Munning, Steven Forbes-deSoule, David & Deborah Garner, Colleen Black Semelka, Harry Hearne, Courtney Tomchik, Delores Hayes, Edge Barnes, and Dan Trice. Ongoing - Featuring permanent and changing exhibits on the history of North Carolina pottery, "The North Carolina Pottery Tradition" and "Seagrove Area Pottery". The Center also offers information on activities, maps and information about the potteries located in the Seagrove area and across the state. A display of representative works from more than 90 area potteries is also offered. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-4pm. Contact 336/873-8430 or at (www.ncpotterycenter.org).

North Carolina Pottery Center, 233 East Avenue, Seagrove. Through Jan. 16 - "ECU Ceramics Guild: Clay in Pandemic Times," a mini pop-up show. 2020 has been a challenging year for everyone because of the COVID-19 virus, and it has certainly presented challenges for education and academic programs. Despite remote and online learning challenges, the students of East Carolina University's Ceramics Program are still managing to find ways to do what they love... creating art! Can't make it to the center to see the rest of the pieces in person? Check out our publicly accessible ECU Ceramics Guild: Clay in Pandemic Times Facebook Photo Album at (https://www.facebook.com/media/set/?vanity=ncpotterycenter&set=a.10158776005591007) to see all the pieces in the show. Jan. 22 - June 19 - "North Carolina Ceramic Gems". Every day potters across North Carolina take clay and other natural resources, combine them using their knowledge, shape them into both simple and wonderful things using their artisan skills, and forge them using extreme heat (and sometimes flames) into a kaleidoscopic array of ceramic gems. Featured artists include: Stanley Mace Andersen, Alan Bennett, Marina Bosetti, Benjamin Burns, Terry Childress, Garry Childs, Becky Lloyd, Chris Luthan, Dian Magie, Michael & Ruth Fisher Rutkowsky, Brad Tucker, and Jim Whalen. Jan. 22 - June 19 - "Raku: Spontaneity in the Flames". Reynolda House Museum of American Art, Reynolda Road, Winston-Salem. Northwest Bedroom Gallery, Through Mar. 21 - "Girlhood in American Art". In this small exhibition planned for the Northwest Bedroom Gallery, we will examine different constructions of girlhood from the eighteenth to the twentieth century. In Gilbert Stuart's double portrait of two Irish cousins, the artist emphasized the girls' fine embroidery as evidence of the refinement and accomplishments that will soon make them eligible marriage partners. Similarly, William Merritt Chase's In the Studio presents a young girl of sophisticated taste admiring a collection of prints. Later works, by artists such as Mary Cassatt and Robert Henri, convey a complex range of emotions, from delight to amusement to annoyance. All of the pieces in the exhibition reflect the cultural and social environments the girls inhabited. Master Bedroom Gallery, Through July 25 - "A Self in the Remaking." Katharine Smith Reynolds Johnston." Katharine's achievements as a business-woman and social reformer often overshadow who she was as a woman. Her accomplishments at Reynolda make it all too easy to forget that she had her own complex needs, yearnings, and vulnerabilities. After the death of R.J. Reynolds in 1918, Katharine entered the 1920s ready to embrace an era shaped by new ideas, new technologies, and new fashions. Despite the privilege bestowed by her wealth and status, Katharine could not escape the stress of her many familial and social responsibilities, but in the 1920s, she looked to cultural pursuits and more stylish pleasures. This exhibition examines the modern sensibilities and new relationships that defined Katharine in her final years before her death at age forty-three. Ongoing - Collection of 18th through 20th century art, sculpture, American art, and pottery. Admission: Yes. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 9:30am-4:30pm & Sun., 1:30-4:30pm. Contact: 336/725-5325 or at (www.reynoldahouse.org).

Work by Julian Davis

Blue Spiral 1, 38 Biltmore Ave., Asheville. Main Gallery, Through Jan. 8 - "Mark Making". Including painting, sculpture, and ceramics, this exhibition explores the many nuances of mark making as an artistic practice. Whether incorporating line through incised patterns on clay, charcoal sketching on canvas or carving in wood, artists featured rely on these highly gestural qualities to make their work more textural and complex. Participating artists include: Tom Jaszczak, George Peterson, Michael Ponesh, Rob Pulley, Jeremy Russell, Jon Sours, and Katie Walker. Conference Gallery, Through Jan. 8 - "Form to Table - Ceramics Invitational". The exhibit pays homage to a movement focused on the handmade and its makers. This ceramics invitational merges beauty with everyday objects and includes contemporary functional and sculptural pieces from local and nationally recognized ceramicists. Participating artists include: Rickie Barnett, Josh Copus, Will Dickert, Judith Duff, Casey Engel, Courtney Hassmann, Candice Hensley, Lynne Hobaica, Yeonsoo Kim, Eric Knoche, Margaret Kinkeade, Manguam Pottery, Candice Methe, Eric Parke, and Lindsay Rogers. Small Form Gallery, Through Jan. 8 - "Kreh Mellick". Mellick's handcut and collaged prints combine childhood stories, folklore, nostalgia and history. Showcase Gallery, Through Jan. 8 - "Landscapes and Dreamscapes: New work by Julian Davis and Brad Sells". Julian Davis presents Southern landscapes and surreal, narrative paintings exploring our visual culture during these unprecedented times. Brad Sells' accompanying abstract, undulating wood sculptures echo the rise and fall of the hills, valleys and rivers, while also referencing the ups and downs of this historic year. Lower Level Gallery, Through Jan. 8 - "Bill Killebrew - Bear Hollow with Sculptures by Victor Chiarizia and Ted Lott". In this most recent body of work painter Bill Killebrew takes inspiration from the mountainous forests of Bear Hollow. Combining his love of nature, home and family, and memory, Killebrew creates painterly visual metaphors with colorful, expressionistic strokes. The brightly hued blown glass vessels of Victor Chiarizia and carefully rendered architectural sculptures of Ted Lott accentuate the color and subject matter of the surrounding paintings. Ongoing - Featuring works in a variety of mediums by regional, national and international artists. "The Social Distance" by Mark Flowers

ALTERNATE ART SPACES - Charlotte The Gallery at Carillon, 227 West Trade Street, Charlotte. Jan. 3 - Apr. 30 - "Collective Instincts," featuring new works by Asheville, NC, artist, Mark Flowers. The six works represent a new direction for his familiar narrative style. "My work has evolved this past year, from an obvious narrative to a more 'visual jazz' approach to painting. Images are more layered and involved as I plan less and trust my instincts more." The title of the exhibition refers to his new approach to painting. His shaped panels of more than 30 years are still the core format. He now builds his works with an initial layer of original photographic imagery. Flowers then edits his way to completion with paint and mark making. The final result is a more abstract visual experience that still reflects a personal vision. The exhibition is sponsored by Hines Charlotte Carillon LP (<https://www.hines.com/properties/carillon-charlotte>). Hours: Mon.-Fri., 8am-8pm; Sat., 8am-7pm & Sun., noon-8pm. Contact: e-mail Larry Elder at (lelder@elderart.com).
