City of North Charleston, SC, Features Works by Alice Colin and Elizabeth Northcut Williams

The City of North Charleston, SC, will present Holding It Together , featuring a joint exhibition of mixed media works by Alice Colin (Mount Pleasant, SC) and oil paintings by Elizabeth Northcut Williams (North Charleston, SC), on view at the Park Circle Gallery, from Mar. 5 - 29, 2025. A reception will be held on Mar. 7, from 5-7pm.

Holding It Together is an evocative exhibition presented by artists Alice Colin and Elizabeth Northcut Williams exploring the intricate themes of ancestry and identity. Through their unique artistic lenses, both artists delve into personal and collective histories, creating a powerful dialogue that highlights the bonds between past and present.

By intertwining various mediums and techniques, Colin and Williams invite viewers to reflect on their own heritages and the complexities of self-identification in a rapidly changing world. This exhibit promises to be a thought-provoking journey, urging audiences to consider how our roots shape who we are and how we connect with one another across generations.

patterns in a constant search for balance between shapes and shades. Colin's inspiration comes from her travels, adopted countries, and people's facial expressions, thus her numerous portraits that seek to capture the emotional charge, background, and experience a figure can exude.

A self-taught artist, Colin currently works from her studio at Redux Contemporary Art Center in downtown Charleston and was a Visiting Artist at the Gibbes Museum of Art in late 2024.

Elizabeth ("Beth") Northcutt Williams is the current Visiting Artist at the Gibbes Museum of Art. Her diverse body of work can be found in collections all over the country. Since receiving her BFA in painting from the University of Evansville, she has developed a wide range of techniques in oil painting, watercolor, drawing, and mixed media.

Creating everything from portraits to murals, Williams loves to translate ideas into meaningful visual expression, often combining traditional techniques with more contemporary, expressive applications. Inspired by beauty and redemption, she is forever grateful to honor the significance of her subjects.

The Park Circle Gallery is located on Jenkins Avenue in North Charleston. Admission is free and free street parking is available on Jenkins Avenue in front of the gallery, as well as on the adjacent streets and in parking lots close by.

For further information check our SC Institutional Gallery listings, call the gallery at 843/637-3565 or e-mail to (culturalarts@northcharleston.org). Work by Alice Colin Originally from Bordeaux, France, Alice Colin studied, worked, and lived in many countries like India, Spain, Italy, Ireland, and England, before settling in Charleston. Influenced by her background in psychology and communication, she developed her love of creating visual artworks using vibrant acrylics combined with recycled elements from daily life such as newspaper, leather, fabrics, discarded packaging, jar labels, and more.

Her creative process aims to express emotions and thoughts using colors and

Charleston Artist Guild in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Mary Glenn Keadle

The Charleston Artist Guild in Charleston, SC, will present The Vintage Gardener , featuring works by Mary Glenn Keadle, on view in the Guild Gallery, from Mar. 1 - 31, 2025. A reception will be held on Mar. 7, from 5-8pm, as part of the Charleston ArtWalk.

Her exhibit captures the beauty and essence of the Lowcountry, with the inspiration she finds in Charleston's coastal landscapes and historic charm.

Growing up, Keadle spent her summers at the picturesque Pawleys Island. Her artistic journey began at the age of 7 with watercolor lessons from her aunt. Those early lessons fueled a passion, and by middle school, Keadle was displaying and selling her own paintings alongside her aunt's on a clothesline at Pawleys. These formative years instilled in her a deep appreciation for both nature and art, shaping her creative vision.

Keadle's paintings, deeply rooted in her love for the Lowcountry, evoke a sense of serenity and nostalgia. Her ability to capture the interplay of light and color in natural

by Tom Starland, Editor and Publisher

On Our Cover This Month

On our cover this month is a work by Clyde Butcher, part of the exhibition, Clyde Butcher's America the Beautiful, showing at the Upcountry History Museum in Greenville, SC, through May 25, 2025.

Acclaimed photographer Clyde Butcher has spent more than 50 years capturing some of America's most unique and beautiful landscapes, from the Redwood forests of California to the Everglade swamps of Florida. Butcher majestically captures the public natural lands set aside by the Federal and State governments for the enjoyment, education, and inspiration of this and future generations. Read the article on Page 11.

Trump And The Arts?

So our dear leader has taken charge of the Kennedy Center so it gets back to representing the real artists in America. I guess he wants to pay tribute to stellar artists like Kid Rock and Ted Nugent. He's making PBS and NPR do away with DEI - there goes Big Bird and All Things Considered - get ready for Elon's Chopping Block (a children's learning show about funding) and All Things MAGA.

I guess the National Endowment of the Arts will be run by Eric Trump. Why not? It won't be long before he's (dear leader) sitting at his desk signing one of those decrees that from now on all art will be a reflection of him - in a positive light only - like those cards he sells to his followers.

If you're an artist who thinks politics is too messy or too below yourself to be involved in, well you get what you get - and don't pitch a fit!

If you are one of those who says they don't want to read about this kind of stuff in an arts publication - don't read it, you don't normally anyway, and don't download a copy, and you sure as hell shouldn't be sending us anything to be included in it. Hey You! Get off of my cloud!

What You'll See On Facebook

The other day I was scrolling down my feed in Facebook when something unexpected came up - a post promoting the State Art Collection, managed by our SC Arts Commission. Wow, did my blood pressure kick into high gear. I should have passed it by, but I just couldn't, I had to see what this was all about.

Did you know South Carolina has several art collections? The SC State Museum has one and the SC Arts Commission has one (sort of) but I guess the Arts Commission's collection is probably held at the SC State Museum - that is, what's not on the walls of the Arts Commission's offices and on loan to other State facilities. The chances of the public seeing much of this collection is slim or none or every other blue moon, as the Arts Commission has provided no space to put its collection on view to the public - like a SC (State) Art Museum, much like they have in North Carolina. I added that little inside joke as the SC Arts Commission always says its policies are in line with other state art agencies, but in many cases they are not - they are more helter skelter.

So I'm going to put what I found at this site promoted on Facebook in regular type and then some insights I've made over the years in italics. Here we go:

The South Carolina State Art Collection, 1967-2020, Managed by the South Carolina Arts Commission

Info about this collection can be found online at (<https://www.southcarolinaarts.com/direct-programs/state-art-collection/>).

Curated by a committee of knowledgeable art enthusiasts (like Wim Rolfe, Jeffrey Day, and David Huston), the South Carolina State Art Collection (SAC) serves as a time capsule, representing the historic importance and cultural vitality of the visual arts in South Carolina from 1967-2020. Containing 466 works by 288 South Carolina artists, the collection serves as an educational tool to help promote the state and its cultural resources and to encourage creativity and support the artists of South Carolina.

First off, I don't know how they think this collection does any of those things in that last sentence. OK, in the past this selection committee was made up of artists who selected other artists to be in the collection and then members of the committee would go off the committee and new members (some of the artists selected to be in the collection) would get on the committee, to return the favor and select works by those former committee members to be in the collection. It was a "you scratch my back, I'll scratch yours later" system. A lot of folks in this collection were college and university art professors and some of their favorite students. As I was once told by one of these professors, "Who else should be in the collection, but us?"

Well, I would think you would find works by Jim Harrison, an artist voted the most popular artist in SC, during a SC Arts Commission survey, but he's not. He was given the Order of the Palmetto and an honorary doctorate degree from the University of South Carolina. For what? I guess his contributions of art. Don't know that he did anything else to get those awards. But, his art is not worthy of being in the Commission's collection. Or take Elizabeth O'Neill Verner, an artist from the Charleston Renaissance period. The Art Commission named its highest award after her, but she doesn't have one work in the SC Arts Commission's Collection. She was also very popular with the public. They now call the award the Governor's Award.

I challenge you to go check out the list of artists in this collection and see if you know who they are and are not struck like me, more about who has works in and who is not or has very few works in this collection. I know there are probably a lot of artists in SC who think they are somebody, but not by looking at this list. I know I've done this arts publication for 38 years and a lot of the names on the list are not that active, if they ever were. Some were only here as an adjunct professor for a few years and moved on to the next state to get that state's awards, but they have works in the collection.

Artwork Loans

The South Carolina Arts Commission (SCAC) encourages loans to advance public understanding of the rich and diverse history of the arts in South Carolina, and to enable a wider audience to see and enjoy the State Art Collection.

Up to five (5) works of art from the State Art Collection may be loaned to qualified State institutions for one (1) year. The State Art Collection will only be loaned to South Carolina state institutions* that are open and accessible to the public. Artworks must be displayed in public spaces. (*I left out a lot of the boring requirements to get these five works.)

How many days or hours do you spend in SC Institutions? Not many I bet, and if you were there to get your driver's license, pay your taxes, or visit a state representative to lobby them about something - did you check out the walls or did you spend most of the time looking at your watch or your phone? Every blue moon the Arts Commission puts together an exhibit of just a few of these works and shows them in some art facility, but you can't see even half of the collection or a quarter in any one place. The best works will probably be out on loan - somewhere. South Carolina needs a state art museum.

The South Carolina Arts Commission is not currently accepting submissions to the permanent State Art Collection.

You would think by this statement and their headline (1967-2020) that no new works have been added since 2020. But is that right? A Charleston artist and gallery owner, Nina Liu, and another anonymous donor, established The Nina Liu South Carolina Arts Commission State Art Collection Fund in 2019. What's been happening with that money? And, where did the money come from to buy all those works of art for 53 years and what happened to that funding source. Why have they stopped adding to this collection? Artists in SC didn't stop making art.

State Art Collection Recognition Award

To ensure the State Art Collection remains a relevant and contemporary footprint of South Carolina's cultural heritage, the SCAC will begin in FY27 (July 1, 2026) to induct up to five works of art from each year's cohort of fellows into the SAC.

So the artists scratching each other's back system is gone and now they will obtain art from the Fellowship winners each year. That's not much of a change, the Fellowship game is another - who's in this year and who's out of favor with the Arts Commission. It's all politics. Is the collection a footprint of the state's artists or the SC Arts Commission's opinion of what that footprint should look like? The Arts Commission has always put their foot on the scales of what is and what's not to be considered "good" art in SC. Shame on them and shame on us for letting them do it.

This recognition award brings works by contemporary artists into the State Art Collection as a part of its digital archive. The SCAC will not own or physically house these works.

OK, this is a real puzzle. The statement, "The SCAC will not own or physically house these works." Does this mean they are no longer buying physical artworks - just digital copies of works by the Fellowship winners or what? What are they paying for digital copies? There's a lot of smoke and mirrors here. If so, what are they doing with The Nina Liu Fund and is that for the collection? Will no other artist get their physical artwork in this collection? I've heard of the day the music died, but is this the end of visual art in South Carolina?

Now you might be thinking, Tom you need to get some answers out of the Art Commission and I'm saying, I've wasted enough of my time trying to get the truth out of those folks over the years, so go do your own asking - if you care. Most won't as there is no SC Art Museum, so they are not missing out on anything but some cash, and any good artist can just sell their work to the general public. Jim Harrison and Elizabeth O'Neill Verner did, and are still doing it long after their deaths. Besides, the folks at the Arts Commission are what I call wordsmiths. They can bend the truth like metal with the words they use. And, if you don't ask the right questions - they don't volunteer answers, even though they know what you want to know.

I can hear my doctor now, "Tom, let it pass, let it pass, it's not worth it".

Well Doc, there are some things you just can't let pass without saying something. This art collection was maybe a good idea at first, but after a number of years when no facility was planned to house and display this collection, it should have been stopped and what they had already collected transferred to another non-profit arts facility - if anyone wanted it.

From the beginning there was no curator involved to make sure purchases represented a real artistic footprint of the art being created in South Carolina at any one time. And the selection committees had no focus other than making sure their friends and colleagues made it in so they could later be selected by them. In the past they had to hire a big name curator to put shows together and justify the works being presented. As time marched on the concept of having an art collection became nothing but a big

Ella Walton Richardson Fine Art in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Richard Oversmith

Ella Walton Richardson Fine Art in Charleston, SC, will present Strolling Towards Spring, featuring new works by North Carolina artist, Richard Oversmith, on view from Mar. 1 - 31, 2025. A reception will be held on Mar. 7, from 5-8pm, to coincide with The Charleston Gallery Association's First Friday Art Walk

For this show, Oversmith takes us on a stroll through serene landscapes and coastal scenes that hint at spring coming around the corner. "My recent work is reflective of leaning into original design with more studio time and working with new mediums such as acrylic and gouache over the last few years. The focus of these pieces is the time of day and shape of light that comes through at twilight and dusk," says Oversmith.

He expressed exploring and developing his techniques through various mediums including oil, acrylic and for the past 6 years gouache. It has been especially freeing in his larger works. A freedom to approach his scenes with a less literal interpretation and more opportunity to share the essence of the natural world. He hopes to guide the viewer to follow the curves of defined shapes that bring the entire composition together beautifully.

Along with large scale oil paintings, several of his gouache pieces that boast the work of his fine tuned skills will be shown in this exhibition. Oversmith shares, "Expect to see more defined shapes, bold colors and splendid skies bringing a sense of nature that fit organically on a canvas." From arching Lowcountry clouds to mountain trees full of cherry blossom buds, there is a quiet stillness that has a moment of rest for each viewer to escape for a moment of pure peace.

Oversmith's purpose in painting is to provoke the viewer to interact with his pieces. His paintings are his voice, and stroke by stroke, he composes a whole that relates his vision. Richard works in oil on linen, a medium compatible with the passion he puts into his creation. He strives to achieve a mood in every painting through the use of such visual stimuli as color, edges, value and drawing. He has derived his style from the lifelong study of past masters, the influence of contemporary painters he admires, and elements that have evolved from deep within himself. He allows the setting to speak to him, creating only as many brush strokes as are needed for the viewer's eyes to understand and connect.

Oversmith received formal training in Fine Art and Illustration at Kendall College of Art and Design in Grand Rapids, MI. While at Kendall he was invited to study at the Royal College of Art in London, England. There he gained experience in Plein Air painting and found direction in his work as an oil painter. He graduated from Kendall College with a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree in 1995 and moved back to his home state of North Carolina to pursue his dream of becoming a professional artist.

Lowcountry Artists Gallery in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Pat Puckett

Lowcountry Artists Gallery in Charleston, SC, will present Once Upon A Season, featuring works by Pat Puckett, on view from Mar. 1 - 31, 2025. A reception will be held on Mar. 7, from 5-8pm, during the Charleston ArtWalk.

Once Upon A Season is a solo show presenting Pat Puckett's most recent body of work in oils dedicated to the art of visual storytelling with vivid color, creative compositions and emotional context.

Each painting in this stunning collection captures a unique glimpse of the Lowcountry's subtle seasonal transitions, Spring's resurgence of greens, hot humid summers along the shoreline, salt marsh grasses shifting from green to gold and Winter's arrival of cooler temperatures signifying oyster season.

Puckett offered the following artist statement, "There is a special allure in bodies of water and openness of space that draws me. The beautiful ocean, rivers and salt marshes that have surrounded me all my life have become my muse, and I love painting them in various seasons".

Founded in 1982, the Lowcountry Artists Gallery is the oldest artist-owned fine art gallery in Charleston, South Carolina. Located in the historic French Quarter of downtown Charleston, this fine art gallery is managed and curated by nine nationally and internationally renowned artists, along with 20 guest artists exhibiting original paintings, photography, prints, sculpture, and jewelry.

Lowcountry Artists Gallery prides itself on the variety of subject matter and styles included in the collection. In addition to traditional Charleston scenes and lowcountry landscapes, contemporary, abstract, still life, and figurative work is also available. Life-size copper frogs, miniature construction, sweetgrass baskets and jewelry are also part of the display.

Robert Lange Studios in Charleston, SC, Feature Works by Brett Scheifflee and Ted Walsh

Robert Lange Studios in Charleston, SC, is pleased to announce Into the Quiet, a captivating duet show featuring the works of acclaimed landscape painters Ted Walsh and Brett Scheifflee, on view from Mar. 7 - 28, 2025. A reception will be held on Mar. 7, from 5-8pm, as part of the Charleston ArtWalk.

"Into the Quiet is an exploration of quietude and presence," said Robert Lange, gallery owner and curator of the exhibition. "Ted and Brett's paintings complement one another in a way that's both striking and deeply moving, encouraging viewers to pause, reflect, and appreciate the subtle moments of peace that so often go unnoticed."

This evocative collaboration invites viewers to step into moments of serene solitude through the masterful lens of two distinctive artists. Ted Walsh, celebrated for his intimate depictions of quiet structures, brings a soft and contemplative touch to his paintings. His work often captures forgotten spaces and still corners, rendering them with a delicate balance of warmth and wistfulness.

Brett Scheifflee, known for his stunning portrayals of vast and intricate landscapes, offers a complementary perspective. His works highlight the grandeur and quiet majesty of nature, inviting viewers to lose themselves in the beauty of expansive horizons and hidden natural details.

Scheifflee said of the upcoming combination, "Ted's work and my own have grown out of the same soil it seems, just the fruit is different. To me, his work is always trying to find your way back home and mine is often about stepping out."

Together, Walsh and Scheifflee create a harmonious visual dialogue that resonates deeply with the exhibition's theme. Both artists explore the essence of solitude and the quiet moments that define our connection to place and self. Their works, while continued above on next column to the right distinct in subject and approach, share a profound sensitivity that speaks to the stillness and beauty found in both human-made and natural worlds.

For the show Walsh said, "Pairing painters with a shared direction, allows you to discover the subtle similarities and differences within the work. And, in some ways, that's what art is all about, isn't it? Finding those little things in the world that allow you to open-up your palate and hone your capacity for flavor."

All artists have their own process for creation, and just like handwriting, their brush strokes become distinct. Walsh said, "The surface quality of a painting is pretty important. These paintings are heavily layered, and I spend a lot of energy getting the surface exactly right. I like to interweave passages of thin washy paint, thick dollops of opaque paint, paint drips, and areas scuffed with sandpaper, newsprint, or cardboard."

Scheifflee adds that the process of selecting the image is also personal. He said, "The process for selecting a subject is unique to all of us, I think it's based on memory, nostalgia, interest and ultimately what just makes for a good painting. If a scene is important to you and makes you feel something, more often than not, those feelings will be transferred to the viewer. Usually, a scene is not able to be painted without small or large changes being made, but some are and when that happens, it's special. I like to think those alterations are what makes a piece unique."

This collaboration will transform the gallery into a serene and immersive space, replacing chaos with the tranquility of nature and the stillness of quiet.

Art League of Hilton Head on Hilton Head Island, SC, Features Works by Nancy Mitchell and Susie Parker

The Art League of Hilton Head on Hilton Head Island, SC, will present Land and Sea: Animals Above and Creatures Below, a joint exhibit featuring works by local artists Nancy Mitchell and Susie Parker, on view at the Art League Gallery, from Mar. 4 through Apr. 4, 2025. A reception will be held on Mar. 5, from 5-7pm.

The show is a celebration of nature, featuring paintings and sculptures depicting land animals and sea life found in the Lowcountry and beyond. Mitchell's impressionistic animal forms and paintings in soft, muted tones contrast beautifully with Parker's boldly colored sculptures, often made from found objects and finished with whimsical details.

Work by Nancy Mitchell

Mitchell has been a Lowcountry artist for 40 years, creating murals and faux finishes in private homes and businesses while also teaching both at Art League and in her studio. Her love of animals inspires and informs her work. "Animals in nature are under assault, so Susie and I are donating a portion of our sales to The Nature Conservancy and 4ocean," says Mitchell. "Habitat is key, always remember to let it be..."

Parker, originally from Pennsylvania and later Bethesda, MD, has created props and designed sets for corporate and hotel functions, and painted murals and faux finishes for private homes. Since her move back to Hilton Head in 2022, she has concentrated on sculpture, and more recently her work has centered around sea life. "I've always drawn, painted, sculpted nature. The lines and shapes of life."

Mitchell and Parker will also be holding artists' demos on Mar. 8, from 1-3pm. The exhibit, reception and demos are free and open to the public.

Art League of Hilton Head is the only 501(c)(3) nonprofit visual arts organization on Hilton Head Island with a synergistic art gallery and teaching Academy.

problem as to what they could do with it and I'm sure that's why it has been ended.

For some artists in South Carolina, getting into this collection or receiving a fellowship is a false measuring stick of their artistic career. I've heard that some artists feel their career would be considered incomplete without reaching one or both of these goals, and that is just sad.

In my opinion, in my 38+ years of being involved in SC's visual art community the SC Arts Commission is not a friend of all artists working and living here. They select who they will help based on them having to be a non-profit and passing some sort of grade which will pass muster with their friends in other arts agencies, they spend a lot of time and effort keeping up with the Jones and in most cases they fall far short of even keeping up.

They do not provide help and opportunity to the average artists by not providing skills training, exhibit opportunities, and helping them to become self-sufficient. Many of the groups they fund are just not cutting it and probably never will. Giving money to groups who are just getting by isn't doing any good in South Carolina. The visual artists need more and I don't think they will ever get it under the current system.

Think of what all that money they spent on this collection could have done building up the needs of those other non-profits in SC's art community. Some could have more than one paid staff member, some could update their websites, and some could publicize the activities they present. But why start dreaming now - they probably would have given the money to the performing arts groups anyway. Oh well.

The Citadel in Charleston, SC, Features Works From the Collection of the National Museum of the Marine Corps

The Citadel in Charleston, SC, is presenting the traveling art exhibition, The U.S. Marine Corps Air-Ground Team: Art from the Collection of the National Museum of the Marine Corps 'On the Road', sponsored by the Marine Corps Heritage Foundation, on view in the Winfred B. Moore, Jr. Art Gallery in Capers Hall, through June 8, 2025.

The show includes 30 works by 21 artists, portraying the partnership of Marine Corps aviators and Marines on the ground. The list of artists includes Howard Chandler Christy, Mike Gish, Henry Casselli, Donna Neary, and Charles Waterhouse. Many of the artists themselves wore the Marine Corps uniform. After making its debut at The Citadel, the exhibit will travel to several American cities through 2027.

"As The Citadel's robust Fine Arts program is focused on the intersection of the arts, the military, and the community, this compelling exhibition is perfectly aligned with our mission," said Tiffany Reed Silverman, Director of Fine Arts at The Citadel. "The honor, duty, and respect evident in each work of art allows every visitor to engage with our nation's history in a meaningful way."

The Marine Corps Combat Art Program relies on talented Marines and civilians to document the ongoing missions of the Corps. The guidance they get is simple: "Go to war and do art." The works of art speak to the experiences of the artists, most of whom were deployed around the globe. The show is divided among five themes: origins of Marine Corps aviation, World War II, the Korean War, Vietnam, and today's global force in readiness.

"Marine Corps art is up close and personal. It is about the individual Marine - in combat, during training, or while delivering assistance during times of great need," said Lin Ezell, Curator Emeritus of the Marine Corps. "This art helps us better appreciate those who wear the uniform of today's military service members."

The artwork includes portraits, landscapes, moments of training and combat, and recruitment posters, allowing visitors to experience the honor, courage, and commitment exemplified by every U.S. Marine.

"The Marine Corps Heritage Foundation is pleased to sponsor this exhibition," said Major General James W. Lukeman, USMC (ret.), who serves as President and

"Night Maintenance on the Skyhawk" by Colonel Peter Michael Gish, USMCR

CEO of MCHF. "Not everyone is able to travel to the National Museum of the Marine Corps to see its treasures. This program enables us to share Marine Corps history - and its art - more widely."

The mission of The Citadel's Fine Arts program is to facilitate transformative experiences at the intersection of the arts, the military, and the community for principled leaders in all walks of life. The Citadel Fine Arts presents exhibitions in the Winfred B. Moore, Jr. Art Gallery in Capers Hall to educate and inspire through artwork. The Moore Art Gallery is located on the first floor of Capers Hall near the American Atrium. It is free and open to the public during the school semester. Cadet-led tours are available for groups up to 25 guests; please e-mail Director of Fine Arts Tiffany Silverman at (silvermant@citadel.edu) to schedule a visit.

The National Museum of the Marine Corps opened in 2006. Its soaring design evokes the WWII image of the flag-raisers on Iwo Jima. Immersive exhibits surround visitors with the artifacts, sights, and sounds of Marines in action. The Museum is a public-private partnership between the U.S. Marine Corps and the Marine Corps Heritage Foundation. For more information, visit (www.usmcmuseum.com).

Dedicated to the preservation and promulgation of Marine Corps history, the Foundation was established in 1979 as a non-profit 501(c)(3) organization. The Foundation supports the historical programs of the Marine Corps. It provides grants and scholarships for research and the preservation, restoration, and commissioning of Marine Corps art, artifacts, and landmarks. Hillsborough Arts Council in Hillsborough, NC, Features Works by Ryan Rakouskas

The Hillsborough Arts Council (HAC) in Hillsborough, NC, is presenting Mono-chrome and Metals, featuring works by IB Art Student Ryan Rakouskas, on view through Mar. 23, 2025. A reception will be held on Mar. 1, from 4:30-6pm.

The International Baccalaureate (IB) Program is a challenging two-year college preparatory curriculum for 11th and 12th-grade students.

HAC partners with Cedar Ridge High School's IB Art Teacher, Lori Shepley, to host annual student exhibitions at the HAC Gallery & Gift Shop.

Ryan Rakouskas offered the following Artist Statement: "The dichotomy of paint and steel has been merged to present an exploration of both media separate yet unified by the underpinnings of in-depth research that fueled the exploration of methodical painting techniques and metal fabrication. Representational grayscale grid paintings and abstract three dimensional steel work is the focus of my exhibition".

"I was born in Durham, NC, but have lived in Hillsborough for most of my life. Four years ago I learned to weld at Cedar Ridge High School and began making steel sculptures," added Rakouskas. "I turned my hobby into a small business, which grew alongside my interest in other forms of visual art. Eventually, I decided to enroll in the IB program. I am currently an IB Art Senior at Cedar Ridge and hope to pursue metal working as a career."

Rakouskas's sculpture work is also on display on the front lawn of Margaret Lane Gallery - be sure to check it out during the Art Walk!

Upcountry History Museum in Greenville, SC, Features Works by Clyde Butcher

The Upcountry History Museum in Greenville, SC, is presenting Clyde Butcher's America the Beautiful, on view through May 25, 2025.

Acclaimed photographer Clyde Butcher has spent more than 50 years capturing some of America's most unique and beautiful landscapes, from the Redwood forests of California to the Everglade swamps of Florida. Butcher majestically captures the public natural lands set aside by the Federal and State governments for the enjoyment, education, and inspiration of this and future generations.

As one of the most renowned photographers of our time, Clyde Butcher has dedicated his life to capturing the natural beauty of the world around us. The exhibit showcases his unparalleled talent and features a stunning collection of his best work from his illustrious career.

Butcher's images of these treasured landscapes, including the Great Smoky Mountains, document the changing environment, capturing what is there today and encouraging us to enjoy the beauty of nature. His images speak for countless diverse places of wilderness and respite found throughout all of America, allowing us an appreciation of our land.

of the American landscape, spanning beautiful sites across the United States. Butcher's views include some of the same locations shot by the photographer Ansel Adams, demonstrating the unique light and clarity that his artistic vision brings to those scenes.

The beauty of Butcher's photographs is further emphasized by the epic size of his works. The exceptional size of his compositions - the largest is 5 by 8.5 feet - allows viewers to experience the beauty of each site from an almost first-hand perspective.

Butcher's unique technique enables him to capture a breathtaking amount of detail within his images. He shoots with an 8 x 10 wooden large-format view camera from the 1940s, creating an extraordinary depth of field through a synthesis of wide-angled lenses and a small lens opening. Greenville County Museum of Art in Greenville, SC, Features Works by Bob Ray

The Greenville County Museum of Art in Greenville, SC, will present Bob Ray: Suit Yourself, on view from Mar. 19 through May 23, 2025.

Bob Ray (b. 1952) works in a variety of media, including drawing, painting, collage, sculpture, and even correspondence and performance. Born in Warrensburg, Missouri, just east of Kansas City, he now lives with his wife in the small town of Washington in eastern North Carolina.

Guest-curated by Mark Sloan, Bob Ray: Suit Yourself features a selection of the artist's most recent paintings and drawings. Inspired by the Abstract Expressionist painters, Ray also draws from the Dada and Fluxus movements. Each of Ray's artworks offers evidence of its own evolution. Erasures, false starts, notes, scribbles, overpainting, and tentative asides are visible on the layered surfaces. The artist incorporates household substances into his work, including house paint, tar, masking tape, coffee, butter, tea, and collaged fragments of previous works.

Since 1990, he has actively participated in international correspondence art activities and projects. Ray's contributions to correspondence art - or art sent through the postal service - have brought his work to Great Britain, Germany, Italy, Egypt, Japan, the United States, Bolivia, Spain, Hungary, Switzerland, and Latvia. He has participated in extended exchanges with some of the most significant mail artists in the world, including Ray Johnson, Richard C., Giorgio Cavallini, and Torma Cauli. Tiger Strikes Asteroid in Greenville, SC, Features Exhibition Focused on Water

Tiger Strikes Asteroid-Greenville in Greenville, SC, is presenting Beyond The Surface, on view through Mar. 22, 2025.

Beyond the Surface, presented by Clemson Extension, the South Carolina Sea Grant Consortium, the South Carolina

Water Resources Center, and Tiger Strikes Asteroid-Greenville, invites viewers to explore the vital role of water in sustaining life. This juried exhibition showcases works that address critical issues surrounding water resources, including water quality, contaminants of emerging concern, and water resilience. Jurors selected pieces based on both technical skill and conceptual depth, offering a powerful reflection on water's role in our ecosystem and its importance to human and ecological well-being.

Artists engage with pressing environmental challenges affecting South Carolina and the broader Southeastern region, such as pollution, climate change, and the disproportionate impact of water crises on marginalized communities. Using a diverse range of materials - from painting and monofilament to found objects and submersible pumps - as well as harvesting natural resources, the works reflect the complexity of human reliance, dependence, and vulnerability in our collective future.

The exhibit features the work by: Freddie Bell, Kristy Bishop, Ian Curcio, Sky Dai, Gabe Duggan, Morgan Serreno East, Adam

Spoonbill Gallery in Greenville, SC, Features Works by Emily Furr

Spoonbill Gallery in Greenville, SC, will present Birds, featuring a solo exhibition by Charleston-based oil painter Emily Furr, from Mar. 7 - 29, 2025. A reception will be held during First Fridays on Mar. 7, from 6-9pm, during which attendees will have the opportunity to meet the artist and experience the collection firsthand.

The exhibition showcases a series of paintings that pay homage to Furr's childhood spent immersed in the natural beauty of Johns Island, SC.

Emily Furr, a graduate of Winthrop University (BFA) and the University of North Carolina at Greensboro (MFA, 2020), is known for her sculptural approach to oil painting. Her work embraces playfulness and sentimentality, creating visually striking yet inviting compositions. With shaped substrates and vibrant color palettes, Furr's paintings convey a sense of wonder and curiosity, encouraging viewers to explore the narratives she weaves through her layered forms.

In Birds, Furr draws inspiration from by the quiet hum of nature. Her fascination with birds - their delicate bones, quick, knowing eyes, and ethereal movements - shines through in each piece. The collection reflects the enchantment she felt encountering these creatures, capturing their personalities and the magic they embody.

"It is a privilege to share these works at Spoonbill Gallery," says Furr. "This collection is a tribute to the birds that filled my childhood with wonder and to the landscapes that shaped my sense of home."

Spoonbill Gallery is vibrant and experiential providing a unique and immersive art experience for the Greenville, South Carolina community and beyond. Founded by nationally award-winning artist, Joseph Bradley, and located adjacent to his studio, the gallery's collection features a variety of national artists complemented by a showcase of rising talents. Spoonbill Gallery is dedicated to fostering a deeper appreciation for art and culture, serving as a hub for artistic expression and creativity in the southeast.

Art & Light Gallery in Greenville, SC, Features Works by Lauren Bolshakov and Morgan Walker

Art & Light Gallery in Greenville, SC, will present Surrender, a two-person exhibition of work by Lauren Bolshakov (Charlotte, NC) and Morgan Walker (Florence, SC), on view from Mar. 4 - 29, 2025. A reception will be held on Mar. 7, from 6-8pm, part of Greenville's 1st Friday event.

Surrender explores the cycles of life, using flowers as a shared metaphor for the impermanence of all things and the unique significance of each stage in the journey. Bolshakov and Walker are drawn to florals not merely for their aesthetic appeal but for their embodiment of the dualities of life and constant change that we all experience and often try to control. The artists intentionally take on the flower for its ability to embody the duality of growth and decay, resilience and fragility. This delicate balance between holding on and surrendering reveals the profound strength in embracing both effort and ease.

Work by Lauren Bolshakov

Her latest work draws inspiration from collected nature, focusing on the layering of paint and linework, to create expressive, movement driven paintings.

Morgan Walker received a Bachelor of Fine Arts from Clemson University with a focus in painting, then worked in interior design before ending up in the fashion world. After observing the stark contrast between her father's declining penmanship due to Parkinson's disease and her young daughter's lack of control when drawing, Walker wanted to create work that emulates the intentionality of her father's tiny marks with the freeness of her daughter's large chaotic scribbles.

In her work, Walker finds balance by combining order with chaos, forming a loosely painted paper background which she then cuts to form into controlled collages.

For further information check our SC Commercial Gallery listings, call the gallery at 864/252-5858 or visit (www.artandlightgallery.com).

Work by Morgan Walker

Lauren Bolshakov is best known for her abstract mixed media paintings, defined by soft colors, balance, and elegant linework. Bolshakov works in mixed media, incorporating charcoal, pastels and most recently oils on a variety of surfaces.

Artists Collective | Spartanburg, SC, Features Works on Open Doors Studio Tour

Artists Collective | Spartanburg in Spartanburg, SC, will present Open Doors Preview Exhibition, featuring works which will be found on the Tour, on view in the Solomon Gallery, from Mar. 11 through Apr. 26, 2025. A reception for the exhibit will be held from 5-8pm, on Mar. 20. A second reception will be held from 5-8pm, on Apr. 17. Both are in conjunction with Spartanburg ArtWalk.

The Artists Collective | Spartanburg will give a sneak peek of works by artists participating on the third annual Open Doors Studio Tours.

idea of the artwork they will see when visiting artists' studios during the tour weekend April 26 and 27, 2025," says participating artist Glenda Guion, co-chair of the events with Beth Regula, chair of the management board of the Artists Collective. "All 45 participating artists have been invited to exhibit one to two pieces of original artworks in the preview exhibit. It's a great way for people to decide which artist they want to see more of or which studios they want to visit during the tour."

During the self-guided Open Doors Tour, participating artists will open their studios to visitors to come to see how they produce their works. Visitors can pick and choose which studios to visit and when, on the schedule provided in catalogs produced for the event. They also can view all the participants, their artwork and the tour catalog at (opendoorstudios.art).

The preview show "is a representation of the broad range and the high quality of art being created across Spartanburg County," Guion says. "The Artists Collective hosts the Open Doors Studio Tour and the preview exhibition annually to promote and support artists beyond its membership."

The works exhibited will include a wide variety of forms and media, including photography, mixed media, jewelry, glass, painting, sculpture, printmaking, fiber art, ceramics and more.

The Open Doors exhibit and the tour are both free and open to the public, she notes.

"Art studio tours are a unique, fun attraction for all ages - from the seasoned art collector - to the youngest art student," Guion says. "The focus of the Open Doors tour is to provide both support for local visual artists and to heighten artistic and cultural awareness within our community. Collectors, supporters and the art-interested public will have the opportunity to see how art is created by visiting the artists in their studios all across the county."

The studios are required to include a "working" artist space. All artists will show their creative process inside their studios, some doing demonstrations.

The Artists Collective | Spartanburg, is located on W. Main Street, and provides a forum and home for the arts and creative population of Spartanburg, providing facilities and services to artist members for exhibits, performances and creation.

Columbia College in Columbia, SC, Offers A Celebration of Contemporary Art with Two New Exhibitions

Columbia College in Columbia, SC, will present two new exhibits including: The Structure Nexus, featuring work by Brooke Day, Ashley Rabanal, Jessica Swank of Zero Space Collective, and guest artist Tyson Gentry, on view in the main space of the Goodall Gallery, from Mar. 10 through Apr. 11, 2025. A selection of works by Lucia Riffel, will be on view in Goodall's LOFT Gallery, from Mar. 10 through Apr. 11, 2025. A reception for both exhibits will be held on Mar. 20, from 6-7:30pm. Come alone, with family, or with friends! Enjoy complimentary refreshments and hear a few words from the artists. Artist talks with a Q&A start at 6:30pm.

"Join us at Goodall Gallery on Mar. 20, for Interspace, a celebration of contemporary art by five artists working across a diverse range of media. display in the LOFT Gallery.

While The Structure Nexus explores the interactions between structure and body, Riffel's work guides visitors into a meditative, liminal space. Together, these exhibitions inhabit the space between reality and the virtual fostering consideration of how spaces, structures, and screens shape the collective experience.

The Zero Space Collective +, offered the following statement, "This exhibition sits at the juncture of overt and subtle structures, utilizing the fragmented, altered, covered, or absent body as a means of probing the interaction between structure and body. Structure may be hidden behind shrouds of ritual or culture or seen in the objects we touch and routines we blindly follow."

"The paintings, drawings, photographs, and sculptures invite the viewer to consider the scope of both quiet and loud structures the body encounters, in moments ranging from mundane to memorable, from physical to digital."

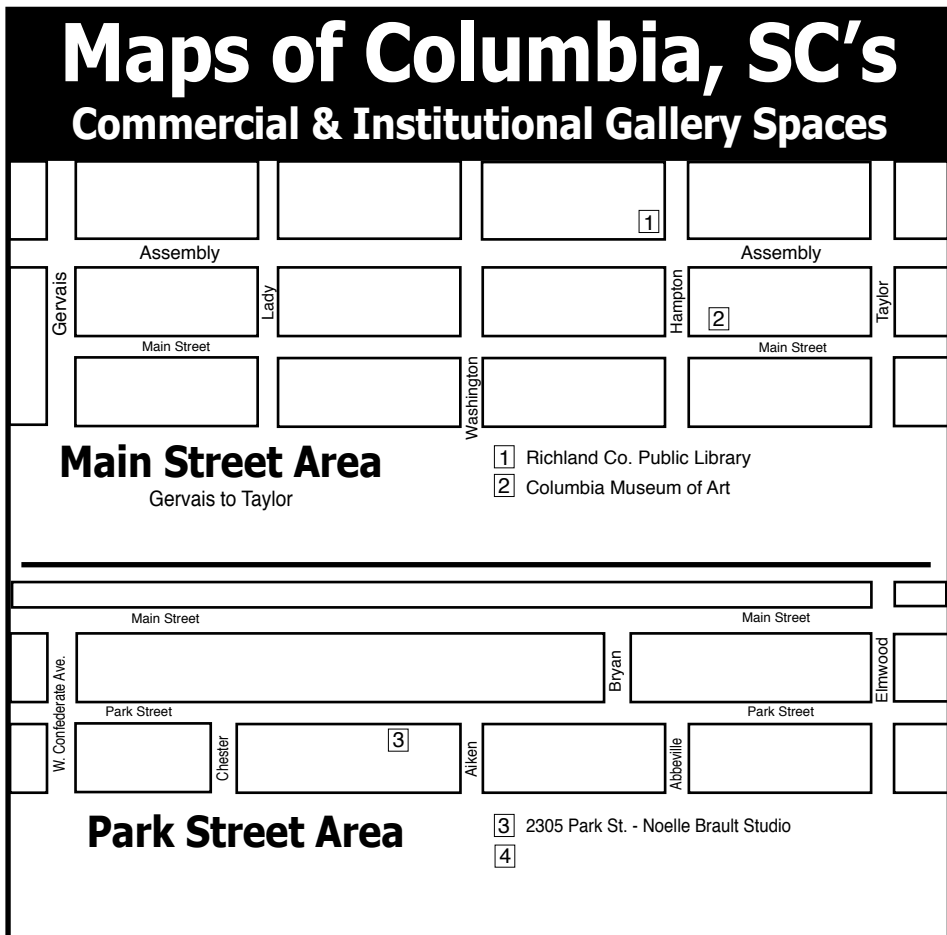

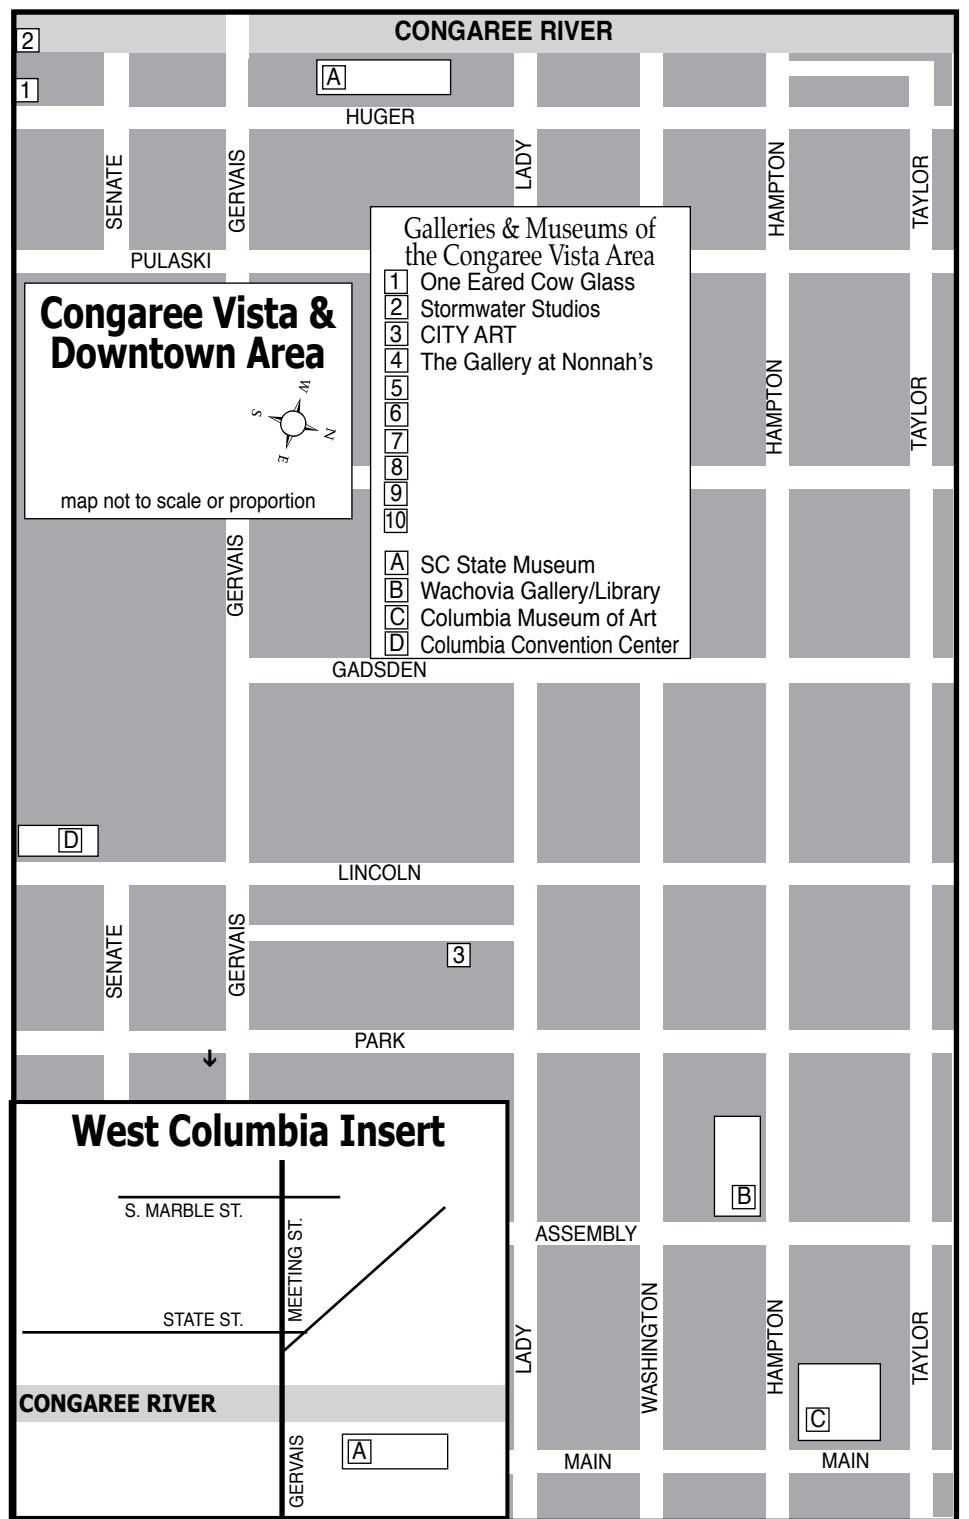

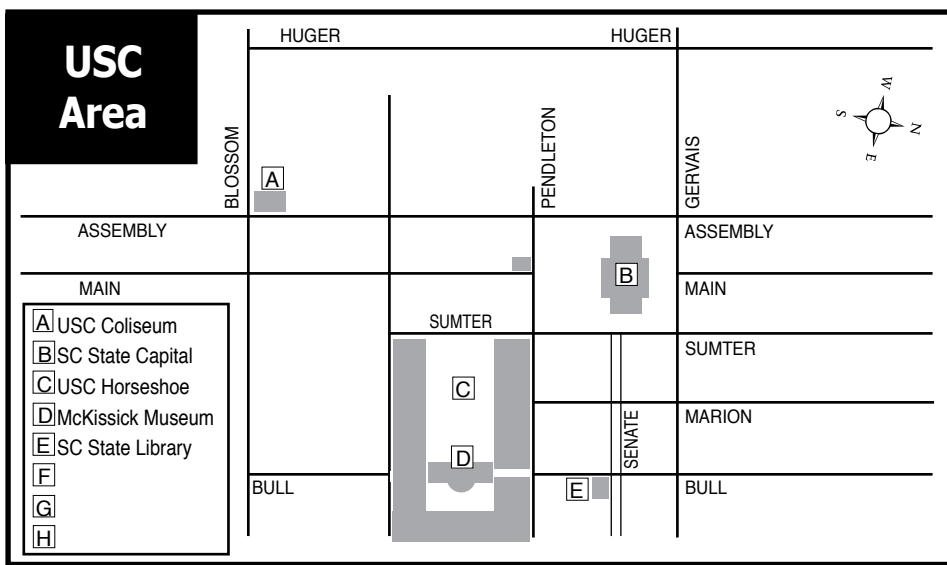

Jessica Swank references the fusion of body, nature, and digital technology in her photographs and sculptures to explore the breakdown of boundaries and the body.

Stormwater Studios in Columbia, SC, Offers Works by Miguel Milló

Stormwater Studios in Columbia, SC, will present Throbbing Life, featuring works by Miguel Milló, on view from Mar. 19 - 23, 2025. As part of the exhibition, a special Building Bridges Session will take place on Mar. 20, 2025. The reception runs from 5-7pm, featuring a talk by Ivan Segura, Executive Director of Palmetto Luna Arts, from 5:30-6pm.

Experience the captivating work of Mexican artist Miguel Milló, who transforms the human body into living art using natural materials like clay, flowers, and fruit. Featuring large-format prints on linen, this exhibition celebrates the deep connection between humanity and nature.

Originally from Baja California, Milló merges magic and beauty in his photography, focusing on the female form and body diversity. His vibrant compositions, adorned with organic elements, reflect a profound appreciation for the aesthetics of womanhood. Through a balance of creativity and technique, his work transforms the human body into a canvas, capturing fleeting moments of beauty and inviting viewers to pause in reflection.

His exhibitions have reached audiences worldwide, spanning America, Asia, and Europe, with showcases in Los Angeles, New York, Madrid, and numerous locations across Mexico.

Brooke Day blends bodily forms with furniture and domestic objects to probe constructed societal roles and the dehumanization of marginalized genders.

Ashley Rabanal pulls from the perspective of how chronic pain distorts the sensation of touch and alters how the body experiences environment. Soft, comforting, and fluid forms become stiff, harsh, and unforgiving. Mundane objects become loud rather than muted and unmemorable. In some works, the breakdown of domestic relationships and environments are probed through the abstraction of form and color.

Tyson Gentry asks viewers to consider how the structure of our bodies and identities are slowly morphing and melding with the pixelated digital realm. The intangible digital footprint becomes visible and physical as the body shifts between curved flesh and rigid pixel.

Lucia Riffel offered the following statement about her LOFT Gallery exhibit, "My work leads one to the place between their mind and their screen, between space and time, between thought and feeling, and into the everyday sublime. I create spaces in-screen and in-real-life that mix the surreal, cinematic, and commonplace through 3D animation and installation. Looping slowly yet infinitely, these spaces allow one to look through the mirror of the screen and enter a meditative head-space beyond as well as within. The post-internet culture of distraction leads our minds to occupy themselves in any way except internally - my work utilizes these same experiential stimuli to awaken interiority in a suspended metaphysical twilight zone."

Hickory Museum of Art in Hickory, NC, Features Several Exhibits Focused on Native American Artists

The Hickory Museum of Art in Hickory, NC, will present two new exhibitions including Indigenous Ancestral Memory: Virgil Ortiz, on view in the Museum's Entrance, Shuford & Coe Galleries, from Mar. 1 through Aug. 31, 2025, and Indigenous Ancestral Memory: Catawba Nation, on view in the Museum's Third Floor Mezzanine Gallery, from Mar. 1 through Aug. 31, 2025. Receptions for both exhibits will be held on Mar. 1, beginning at 7pm.

Cochiti Pueblo artist Virgil Ortiz continues his REVOLT 1680/2180 saga at Hickory Museum of Art with a brand new chapter. The artist draws inspiration from the most successful Indigenous uprising against a colonizing power in North American History, the 1680 Pueblo Revolt. Ortiz keeps Cochiti pottery traditions alive but transforms them into a contemporary vision that embraces his Pueblo history and culture and merges it with apocalyptic themes, science fiction, and his own storytelling.

Ortiz brings his narrative to life at HMA through immersive projection and sound, augmented reality, traditional Cochiti pottery, monumental contemporary pottery, and surprises being debuted at our Museum. This exhibition encourages repeat visitation as you engage with the story and meet the rebellion's protagonists.

Ortiz has developed 19 groups of characters that represent the 19 Pueblos that still remain. HMA's storyline highlights Tahu, leader of the Blind Archers. The beautiful, evocative Tahu reflects the strength, power, and resilience of the Pueblo women.

Ortiz describes Tahu: "Tahu is purposely blinded by the oppressors for her combat prowess. She recruits a 'spirit army' and relentlessly battles the enemy [the colonial oppressors]. Tahu is a Pueblo superhero. Her example leads young people to seek the truth and defeat their fear. Tahu is inspired by and honors Pueblo women, including my late mother. Women keep the stories of our people, our traditions, and ceremonies alive. Our mothers teach us to face adversity with a positive outlook. We have endured because we face our fears, both real and imagined.

One of the most revolutionary potters of his time, Ortiz's works have been exhibited in museum collections worldwide, including the Design Museum Den Bosch, Fondation Cartier pour l'Art Contemporain, Triennale Milano, Smithsonian Institution, Denver Art Museum, Lowe Art Museum in Miami, and the Autry Museum in Los Angeles. His latest exhibition, I AM: Indigenous Ancestral Memory at Hickory Museum of Art, is a testament to his global influence and visionary artistry.

Ortiz, the youngest of six children, grew up in a creative environment in which storytelling, collecting clay, gathering wild plants, and producing figurative pottery was part of everyday life. His grandmother Laurencita Herrera and his mother, Seferina Ortiz, were both renowned Pueblo potters and part of an ongoing matrilineal heritage. "I didn't even know it was art that was being produced while I was growing up," he remembers. Ortiz keeps Cochiti pottery traditions alive but transforms them into a contemporary vision that embraces his Pueblo history and culture and merges it with apocalyptic themes, science fiction, and his own storytelling.

tral lands along the banks of the Catawba River dating back at least 6,000 years. Before contact with the Europeans it is believed that the Nation inhabited most of the Piedmont area of South Carolina, North Carolina and parts of Virginia. Early counts of the Catawba people made by Spanish explorers estimated the population of the tribe at the time as between 15,000-25,000. After settlers arrived in the area, two rounds of smallpox decimated the tribe's numbers, and by 1849 the once large group was down to under 100 citizens. Now there are currently over 3,300 enrolled members of the Nation. The Catawba have a long history and a rich culture that lives on today.

An unbroken chain of pottery production has helped preserve a cultural identity that was nearly lost after European settlement. Traditionally, women made pottery; but when the population declined so severely, everybody had to make pottery. This activity helped maintain community traditions and is now one of the purest folk art forms in this country.

Utilizing clay dug near the Catawba River, the Catawbas' methods of production are nearly unchanged since the Woodland (1000 B.C.E.–600 C.E.) and Mississippian (600–1600 C.E.) periods. It is the oldest continuously practiced traditional art form found east of the Mississippi River. This unbroken tradition helped preserve the cultural identity of the Catawba and restore their Federal status that was taken during the Termination Act.

Catawba pottery is handbuilt using traditional coiling techniques. Handles and legs are attached by riveting, pushing the attachment through a hole pierced in the pot. This technique creates features that will not break-off easily. Once pots are air dried, the surface is scraped even with a piece of bone, antler, or a knife and then burnished to a shine with a smooth river stone (or other favorite object). Decoration, if desired, is then incised into the surface. Firing is often in two stages. A fire is built in a pit and the pots placed near it to heat. Then the warmed pots are placed in the pit to complete the process. Smoke from the burning wood creates distinctive patterns on the surfaces of the pots. Glazes are not used.

SOCO Gallery in Charlotte, NC, Features Works by Anne Buckwalter

SOCO Gallery in Charlotte, NC, is presenting a solo exhibition of new gouache on panel and gouache on paper works by Anne Buckwalter: Still Life At Home, on view through Apr. 9, 2025. This is Buckwalter's first exhibition with SOCO Gallery.

Still Life at Home is a meditation on the small pleasures of rural life, and the intersection of domesticity, interiority, and erotic imagination. The paintings focus on the rituals of housework and daily rural living. Seasons change, as seen in the background of the compositions, but there is a striking loyalty to the serenity of an interior world despite an ever-changing exterior one.

Living in rural Maine, Buckwalter found that "in the undistracted stillness, there is the invitation to obsess, to fantasize, to burrow inwards and see how deep you can go." This body of work calls attention to the artist's close-looking at simple details mixed with unexpectedly provocative subject matter.

Strawberry Jam depicts a scene where a steaming pot sits on the stove beside a bowl of softened strawberries. On the shelf above, a nude statuette can be seen among mugs, a candle, and a patterned pitcher. "I see my work as a kind of exercise in making what is boring erotic, and what is erotic boring," says Buckwalter. Her childhood home was full of Pennsylvania Dutch folk art, decorative crafts, painted furniture, and textiles. These items bring her a sense of comfort and finding their way into her current home and into her paintings, create an ideal environment for these juxtapositions to occur.

Buckwalter strives to create work where viewers can comfortably engage with a potentially uncomfortable subject. She is interested in normalizing sex and sexuality, appreciating it as a meaningful topic deserving of intellectual attention, and de-sensationalizing it by situating the erotic within the context of the everyday.

Figures are not always seen in her interiors, but when they are, they are cropped or shown through a door in the background of the work in a way that conceals their faces, and sometimes even their gender. Their actions, therefore, take precedence. In Knees in the Moonlight, a couple's legs are seen entangled in bed while in Snowstorm Breakfast, a female figure nude from the waist down enjoys a meal of eggs, toast, and avocado as snow falls outside.

Pretzel Day displays a variety of objects across a large kitchen that only hint at the homeowner's actions. While some items are explicit, others make viewers question what is and what is not meant to be suggestive, achieving Buckwalter's intention to blur the lines of sexuality and its perception.

Work by Anne Buckwalter

Anne Buckwalter's creative practice explores female identity and the coexistence of contradictory elements. Inspired by the folk art traditions of her Pennsylvania Dutch heritage, her work arranges disparate objects in mysterious domestic interiors and ambiguous spaces. By imagining obscure narratives that embrace paradoxes, her paintings delve into questions about the body, femininity, sexuality, and desire.

Buckwalter is the recipient of a 2020-2021 Pollock-Krasner Foundation Grant, a 2020 Idea Fund Grant, and a 2016 Joan Mitchell Foundation Emerging Artist Grant. She has been an artist-in-residence at the Galveston Artist Residency, Vermont Studio Center, Studios at Mass MoCA, Hewnoaks Artist Colony, and Banff Centre for Arts and Creativity.

Her solo exhibition, Manors, opened at the Farnsworth Art Museum in February 2025. Her exhibition history includes the Portland Museum of Art, Portland, ME; Woodmere Art Museum, Philadelphia, PA; Boston University Gallery, Boston, MA; The Painting Center, New York, NY, and others. Her paintings have been highlighted in New American Paintings, Juxtapoz, Hyperallergic, and The New York Times, and included in the collections of the Institute of Contemporary Art Miami; Aishti Foundation, Lebanon; Zuzeum, Latvia; X Museum, Beijing; Art Museum of West Virginia, and Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts.

Buckwalter's writing has been featured in McSweeney's Internet Tendency. She is represented by Rachel Uffner Gallery (New York, NY), Pentimenti Gallery (Philadelphia, PA), Micki Meng (San Francisco, CA), and Rebecca Camacho Presents (San Francisco, CA). She currently lives and works in Durham, Maine.

Jerald Melberg Gallery in Charlotte, NC, Features Works by Lee Hall

Jerald Melberg Gallery in Charlotte, NC, will present Collages, featuring works by Lee Hall, on view from Mar. 15 through Apr. 26, 2025. A reception will be held on Mar. 14, from 6-8pm.

Jerald Melberg Gallery proudly presents a solo exhibition of collages on both canvas and paper by Lee Hall, a North Carolina native and renowned Abstract Expressionist. Hall's poetic landscapes are iterations of the tradition of abstraction derived from meditations on nature.

Hall's legacy is one of an exceptional painter as well as a respected educator and writer. Hall stood with the great artists of the New York School, earning herself representation at Betty Parsons' famed New York gallery. She also served as President of the esteemed Rhode Island School of Design, and wrote a number of books, including biographies of Willem and Elaine DeKooning and Betty Parsons.

Hall generously left her estate to the Bechtler Museum of Modern Art. The proceeds from acquisitions of her work through the gallery directly fund the museum's educational programs.

Morganton, NC, Celebrates Murals Focused on Art, Community, and Economic Growth - Mar. 7 & 8, 2025

This March, Morganton will celebrate art, culture, and community as TOSS unveils three stunning murals created by regional artists in partnership with the Community Mural Institute (CMI). TOSS, a program of The Industrial Commons, is an art studio founded by local artists and arts educators. TOSS has led this project from conception to completion with community volunteers dedicating countless hours through input, decision making, artists housing, and collaborative painting. The three murals, which explore the concepts of identity, opportunity, and belonging in Burke County, will be unveiled with unique ribbon cuttings on Mar. 7 and 8, 2025. These murals depict Women at Work, Rural Futures: Pathways to Thriving, and Celebrating the Deaf Community.

In the US, the arts and culture sector is a $1.1 trillion industry, representing 4.3% of the nation's gross domestic product (GDP). In Burke County, we have plenty of room for growth. Currently, less than 1% of our workforce is employed in Arts, Entertainment, and Recreation. In a letter of support for this project, Alan Wood, President/CEO of Burke Development Inc., shared: "The success of this project will not only broaden access to public art in Burke, but the training program for local muralists will result in sustainable employment for the participating individuals." By positioning Morganton as a hub of creativity and innovation, this project aligns with The Industrial Commons' mission to promote community resilience and equitable economic development.

More than just beautifying neighborhoods, this project highlights the role of public art in economic development and creative placemaking. Through TOSS' partnership with the CMI, 24 artists from across North Carolina and neighboring states have gained skills in large-scale mural creation, project management, and community engagement. This initiative amplifies the vision and voice of Appalachian communities while building a corridor of creative talent, now numbering 40 artists in Kentucky, West Virginia, Virginia, Georgia, North and South Carolina, and who have been trained by CMI and its founders, GoodSpace Mural.

While community murals are popular, few programs provide artists with a stipend to learn how to make them through democratic decision-making and community-centered design. CMI's training combines online and classroom instruction, hands-on learning, and professional mentorship for artists, using the "GoodSpace Method," which utilizes the indirect polytab mural technique.

So you're the Marketing Director of a visual arts organization, art museum, arts center, arts council or artist guild and you're wondering why you never see the exhibits presented at your facility included here. Maybe you're the owner of a commercial art gallery and you've never seen your exhibits included with others presented in your area. You might even be an individual artist who is having an exhibit in a non-profit space or commercial space and you don't see your exhibits included.

My question to you is - How long will you put up with that before you ask someone, "Why that is the case?" If you're not included - it's your fault.

Morganton, NC, Murals

This experience not only impacts our community, but also the artists who are being trained by CMI. Artists who participated in the first round of TOSS murals explained the impact on their careers and broader lives. Sachi Dely, shared, "My experience with CMI was life-changing. I made connections and learned a new skill that I can carry on long after the program is over." Mia Loia stated, "I truly enjoyed so many aspects of this residency. It has been one of the most impactful experiences I have been a part of since moving to NC. I have no doubt it will influence the way I engage as a public artist for the rest of my career."

During the beginning stages of the project, artists learned to engage communities and gather input for the design. In May 2024, three artist teams held Community Input Meetings with over 120 Burke County residents to better understand and conceptualize each theme by focusing on collecting personal stories and experiences. You can read more about the input and decision making process for each mural on our website.

Burke County residents were able to participate in bringing the murals to life firsthand in July, 2024, through a Paint Party at Forest Hill Elementary School. TOSS invited the community to participate in the mural production process by using a paint-by-number technique on polytab fabric. Over 240 community members attended. Britt Ruhe, Co-Director of the Community Mural Institute, shared: "Community paint parties are one of our favorite parts of this process. You don't need to have any experience - just show up with your family and friends, ready to help! Once the murals go up, you'll be able to point to a section and say, 'See that part right there? I painted that!'"

Successes rarely come without challenges. TOSS faced a few roadblocks along the way, including:

Site Selection - Securing mural locations without historic approval requirements caused delays. Two sites, over 70 years old, required reports for the North Carolina State Historic Preservation Office, adding unexpected time constraints. The big lesson here: plan extra time and always have a backup plan.

Defining the Scope - the mural themes were focused broadly - "Women at Work," "Celebrating the Deaf Community," and "The Future of Work" - to allow for community input. The richness of shared history made narrowing designs difficult, leaving some input behind. This reinforced the importance of clear creative constraints. To honor all contributions, they archived input on their website.

Weather Delays - Hurricane Helene disrupted the installation and ribbon-cutting in October, forcing timelines to be adjusted for safety.

From Mar. 1-7, artists will install the murals, piecing panels together like permanent wallpaper, refining and overpainting seams. If you're nearby, drive by to see the progress!

To sustain this impact, TOSS is developing a documentary and K-12 curriculum exploring cultural care, entrepreneurship, and local history. The murals will also be featured in the Hometown Walkabout Tour, another program of The Industrial Commons, fostering ongoing dialogue about the community.

Morganton Mural Project Ribbon Cuttings: 1) "Rural Features" at 1001 Burkemont Ave., Morganton, NC, on Friday, Mar. 7, from 5-5:45pm; 2) "Signs of the Times" at 408 S. Sterling St., Morganton, NC, on Saturday, Mar. 8, from 10-10:45am; and 3) "Mountain Matriarchs" at 216 E. Union St., Morganton, NC, on Saturday, Mar. 8, from 11-11:45pm.

Parking suggestions include: Western Piedmont Community College - Ample parking off Technology Dr. and Community continued above on next column to the right

College Drive. You must then walk to the "Grassy Commons." Debbie's Embroidery - Park along Sterling Street. Root and Vine - Ample parking behind the movie theater.

We do not plan to have chairs at the ribbon-cutting sites. Each ribbon cutting will be 45 minutes, and if you think a chair might be nice, bring along a lawn chair or folding chair.

This project is supported by the National Endowment for the Arts, North Carolina

Arts Council, and North Carolina Museum of Art, along with contributions from the Huffman Cornwell Foundation, Morganton Main Street Office, and Good Books LLC. Our work would not be possible without the care, guidance, and sponsorship of The Industrial Commons. We are deeply grateful to all our funding allies who champion the arts in Burke!

Southern Highland Craft Guild in Asheville, NC, Celebrates Quilting at Folk Art Center - Mar. 13-15, 2025

Come celebrate National Quilting Day at the Folk Art Center in Asheville, NC, on Mar. 13 - 15, 2025, in the Center's Lobby, from 10am-4pm. Visitors can enjoy live quilting demonstrations, view antique quilts, and learn about the history and artistry of quilting.

Guild member Connie Brown, an accomplished quilter and quilt historian, will demonstrate traditional hand-quilting techniques throughout the event. Brown, also an AQS Quilt Appraiser, will be joined on Saturday, Mar. 15 by fabric artist and quilter Jude Stuecker, who will share additional quilting insights and techniques.

In addition to the live demonstrations, a curated selection of antique and vintage quilts from Brown's collection will be displayed. Brown will host informal talks at 11am and 1pm each day, offering a closer look at the quilts and inviting visitors to ask questions about their history. These discussions will cover key aspects of quilt dating, including fabric types, patterns, and historical context - providing a unique opportunity to connect with the rich traditions of quilting.

Upstairs Artspace in Tryon, NC, Offers Works by Four Regional Artists

Upstairs Artspace in Tryon, NC, is pleased to announce three spring shows featuring dynamic works by four regional artists: Glenda Guion, Luis Jaramillo, Dana Jones, and Ralston Fox Smith. The joint exhibition will feature an array of paintings, works on paper, and ceramic sculptures - all demonstrating a unique view of nature and relationships.

The show will be on view from Mar. 16 through Apr. 25, 2025, with an opening reception and Artist Walk & Talk on Mar. 16, beginning at 2pm. The public is invited to this free event.

Born and raised in Nashville, TN, Glenda Guion works with clay as material and metaphor. Her sculptural works in this show titled, "From Earth to Archetype," delve into the connection between humanity and the natural world. Her latest series evokes timeless archetypes, bridging ancient traditions with contemporary expression.

Luis Jaramillo, from Greenville, SC, explores personal and collective memory through colorful paintings and works on paper in his show "Mapping My Universe." His layered compositions reflect a process of mapping emotions, experiences, and exploration, offering a poetic interpretation of place and self.

Dana Jones, based in Greenville, SC, and Ralston Fox Smith, based Asheville, NC, engage in a visual dialogue through parallel explorations of geometric abstraction in their show "Parallel Line." Their paintings share common themes - nature, weather, and patterns - but their different styles create a back-and-forth visual conversation about how we see and present art.

Blowing Rock Art & History Museum in Blowing Rock, NC, Offers Exhibit Focused on Blue Ridge Music

The Blowing Rock Art & History Museum in Blowing Rock, NC, will present A Cardboard History of Blue Ridge Music, on view in the Museum's Alexander Community Room Gallery, from Mar. 1 through Apr. 26, 2025.

This unique exhibition offers an in-depth look at the rich history of Blue Ridge music, including 36 original, letterpress-style posters dating back to as early as 1939. Each poster has detailed information about the life and legacy of the featured musicians.

Originally, window cards and other announcement posters were created to advertise upcoming entertainment events staged by troupes of traveling performers. By design, they were printed on inexpensive paper or cardboard to last only a few months and were nailed to telephone poles, plastered onto the sides of buildings, and placed in store windows.

After the event, most were discarded or left to deteriorate outdoors. These pieces, designed to be ephemeral, document the story of Bluegrass music from infancy to international popularity. All posters on display in the exhibition A Cardboard History of Blue Ridge Music are from the private poster collection of Tom Murphy. As a collector, Murphy has been preserving window cards, handbills, mailers, broadsides, and other posters of various genres for over 50 years.

Work by David Finn

Visitors to the exhibition will enjoy an immersive experience, including a curated playlist of music by artists featured in the posters.

This exhibition is made possible through a grant from America 250 NC, an initiative by the North Carolina Department of Natural and Cultural Resources. Presenting sponsor for this exhibition is The Mountain Times: The High Country's Art and Entertainment Source and Watauga Democrat: Watauga County's independent news source and newspaper

To deepen visitors' engagement with the region's musical history, BRAHM will host two months of special programs and performances, offering a variety of perspectives on Blue Ridge music and culture. For more information or to RSVP or view the full calendar visit (blowingrockmuseum.org/calendar).

BRAHM's mission is to curate, preserve, educate and inspire. Rooted in the creative cultures of Appalachia, BRAHM aims to cultivate a community that extends beyond its walls and region, positioning Western North Carolina as a leader in the arts. The 25,000-square-foot Blowing Rock Art and History Museum, known as BRAHM, opened its doors on Oct. 1, 2011. Located off Main Street in Blowing Rock, NC, BRAHM provides cultural enrichment by promoting the arts and history through educational programs, exhibitions and activities. The permanent collection of more than 600 objects includes works by Elliott Daingerfield, Maud Gatewood, Elizabeth Bradford, Mark Hewitt and other American impressionist and post-impressionist artists. Open year-round, BRAHM welcomes 24,000 visitors free of charge to experience 25 changing exhibitions. BRAHM also has an outreach education program that encourages arts education in local schools, daycares and senior centers.

GreenHill Center for NC Art in Greensboro, NC, Celebrates the Art of Puppetry

GreenHill Center for NC Art in Greensboro, NC, will present, Of Wings and Feet: The World of PAPERHAND and Jeghetto's Moving Sculptures, on view from Mar. 22 through June 21, 2025.

GreenHill's spring exhibition celebrates the art of puppetry. Meet the makers and discover large and small-scale puppets by PAPERHAND, the Graham, NC-based collective co-directed by Donovan Zimmerman and Jan Burger now in their 25th year as well as works by Tarish Pipkins of Jeghetto's puppets. Free and open to the public.

In 1998, Paperhand Puppet Intervention's directors Donovan Zimmerman and Jan Burger met and began a collaboration of epic proportions. Since then, 25 years ago, they have been using papier-mâché, cardboard, bamboo, your old house paints, cloth, and other assorted junk to create incredible giant puppets, masks, shadow plays and spectacle performances for all ages.

They continue to tell stories, beat drums, sew cloth, get sweaty, push boundaries and carry heavy things to help make the world a better place. Paperhand's parades, pageants, and award winning performances aim to be an inspiration, a call to action, and a celebration for everyone to enjoy.

"Paperhand Puppet Project's mission is to create art that inspires connection. By practicing, performing and teaching the art of puppetry, we strive to nurture the best in humanity, build creative culture, and help celebrate and protect the natural world," says Zimmerman and Burger.

They go on to say, "Our vision is inspired by our love for the earth and its creatures (including humans). We will synthesize many art forms including, but never limited to, sculpting, painting, dance, music, improvisation, costume design, set design and theater. We are committed to creating multi-scaled and multi-disciplinary puppet performances that support this vision."

"We will use this puppetry, performance and creativity to undermine and eradicate greed, hate and fear and promote justice, equality and peace. We will work uncompromisingly to these ends."

In accompaniment with Of Wings and Feet, GreenHill presents a special showcase of work by renowned puppeteer and artist Tarish Pipkins, aka Jeghetto. A self-taught master builder, Jeghetto creates abstract, moving sculptures from found and recycled materials. His visionary puppetry has earned recognition from the Jim Henson Foundation and collaborations with artists like Missy Elliott, Pharrell Williams, and PAPERHAND Puppet Project. This additional exhibition features several of his dynamic works, offering a glimpse into his unique craftsmanship and storytelling.

Programming for this exhibition includes a PAPERHAND participatory parade in celebration of Earth Day at South Lawn in LeBauer Park on April 19; an artist talk with Donovan Zimmerman on May 14, where he will share insights into PAPERHAND's creative process and community-driven work; and Jeghetto's Workshop on June 7, a family-friendly puppet show with Tarish Pipkins of Jeghetto Puppets, followed by a conversation with the artist. All events are free and open to the public. To learn more visit (<https://www.greenhillnc.org/of-wings-and-feet>).

intimate partner violence in their lifetime, making this exhibition's message of healing and resilience particularly vital to our community.

Elizabeth Foley says, REBIRTH brings together a powerful collection of artworks that challenge traditional narratives about domestic violence. The exhibition prominently features Foley's own work, including new pieces from her "Finding Wings" collection – a series of ceramic swan-inspired sculptures that incorporate survivors' stories within their forms. Additionally, the show includes works from artists across the United States working across various mediums including sculpture, painting, and mixed media.

"I want this work to inspire more conversation about domestic violence," says Foley. "It's important to show myself and others that we don't need to hide this part of who we are."

The exhibition features deeply personal works from participating artists, each piece reflecting the journey from trauma to healing. Featured artist Natalie Robinson reflects on her contribution, "This work captures the mental toll such an experience can take, and reflects the resilience needed to reject the harmful words and negativity that once sought to define me."

Artist Sage Adderley adds, "Sharing my painting, Seeds of Survival, is my way of breaking the silence, challenging misconceptions about survivors, and finding power in the vulnerability of healing."

A portion of all art sales will support YVEDDI, a local nonprofit providing vital services to survivors of domestic violence in Davie, Stokes, Surry, and Yadkin Counties. This collaboration underscores the exhibition's commitment to creating tangible support for survivors while raising awareness through art.

Elizabeth Foley is a multi-passionate artist, author, and creativity coach based in Asheville, NC. As an artist working for social change, Foley's artistic practice is deeply rooted in the belief that creativity can transmute pain into healing. Her passion for art drives her to create work that not only beautifies but also catalyzes important conversations about social issues. While she works across multiple mediums, her first creative love is ceramics. "I love being able to take a humble lump of clay and turn it into something marvelous," Foley says.

With over 25 years of creative experience, including studies at the University of Oregon's Fine Art program, Foley's work has been shown in galleries and events across the United States.

UNC-Wilmington in Wilmington, NC, Features Works by Rachel Gloria Adams

The University of North Carolina @ Wilmington in Wilmington, NC, is presenting Rachel Gloria Adams: Bloom for Yesterday, on view in the CAB Art Gallery, through Mar. 26, 2025.

Bloom for Yesterday is a collection of 10 quilts that highlight moments of tenderness within the Adams family. A combination of paint and quilting are patched together to capture these seemingly small moments that reflect the happiness, pride and depth of motherhood. These moments are depicted in an illustrative style that distills the essence of its subjects. Subtle clues of the subject's identity are exposed whether it be the strong emphasis on hair to allude to the blackness of the subjects or patterning within their clothing. In many ways each piece serves as self-portraiture as they are moments that have evoked an emotional response from the artist.

Adams comes from a lineage of quilters and creatives. The practice of quilting allows Adams to work from home within the chaos of raising two daughters. Her girls, Zoe and Norah, are able to experience these moments and witness the process of translating life into art through their mother's lens. Adams has created heirlooms that memorialize these specific points in time for the Adams and provide a tangible means of holding onto these moments.

Work by Rachel Gloria Adams not often Black families are represented enjoying the Maine landscape. These moments provide a narrative of joy despite the hardships people of color endure.

Funding for this exhibition at UNCW's CAB Art Gallery is supported by UNCW'S Seahawks Advancing Interdisciplinary Learning (SAIL) and UNCW's Department of Art and Art History's Visiting Artist and Scholars Program.

Rachel Gloria Adams is a multidisciplinary artist living in Portland, ME. Adams has developed a vibrant, graphic pattern-based visual language filled with references to the natural world that possess an heirloom quality. Her work takes form by way of quilting, painting, design and large-scale murals.

Adams moved to Maine in 2005 to pursue her BFA from the Maine College of Art and Design. She has gone on to exhibit artwork at Center for Maine Contemporary Art Dowling Walsh Gallery and Portland Museum of Art. She has attended residencies at Speedwell, Stephen Pace House and is an Indigo Arts Alliance David C Driscoll Fellow. Her artwork has been acquired by the Farnsworth Art Museum and several personal collections. In addition to her studio practice, Adams has been commissioned to create murals for several institutions including the Children's Museum of Portland, University of Maine and the Farnsworth Art Museum.

This spring Adams alongside her husband and creative partner will install a mural at the Worcester Art Museum in Massachusetts.

Adams says, "I am interested in distilling personal memories and experiences into abstractions. I am constantly bouncing back and forth between sewing shapes and painting them. I find that I sew what I can't paint and paint what I can't sew. These shapes, icons, and portraits are patched and pieced together as a way of documenting family connections."

The quilts themselves breakdown art institution norms by bringing together painting and craft. These objects give the viewer the sensation of warmth, comfort and home.

Bloom For Yesterday in essence is a love letter to Adams' younger self. As products of divorce and troubled youths, both Rachel and Ryan are dedicated to providing a life for their girls that is full of adventure, creativity and love. In many ways they are able to experience things for the first time alongside their girls and in return their own inner child is able to blossom in ways they didn't know they were capable of. On a broader scale the work serves as a reminder of Black joy. As a Black family living in Maine it is

Sunset River Gallery in Calabash, NC, Features Works by Debanjana Bhattachurjee

Sunset River Gallery in Calabash, NC, is presenting works by its current Spotlight Artist, Debanjana Bhattachurjee, a plein air artist, on view through Mar. 29, 2025.

Born in Mumbai, India, Bhattachurjee moved to Myrtle Beach, SC, in 2015 from Texas. She holds a bachelor's degree in mathematics from the University of Mumbai and a post graduate diploma in computer applications. She also has a post graduate diploma in Modern and Contemporary Indian Art History from Dr. Bhau Daji Lad Museum in Mumbai. Her artistic practices are a blend of her Indian and western aesthetic sensibilities.

Sunset River Gallery Director Samantha Spalti said, "I was immediately drawn to Debanjana's plein air work because of her ability to convey the beauty of seemingly simple moments. And while she is already an accomplished artist, she doesn't shy away from expanding her practice so she can maintain a fresh eye."

Work by Debanjana Bhattachurjee

In 2015 Bhattachurjee was recognized with a proclamation from the Mayor of Edinburg, TX, for her artistic (painting and sculpting) achievements. A self-taught artist, she works in acrylic, oil and gouache. In 2020 she was the curator for Twitter Art Exhibit (now called Postcard Art Exhibit) in Myrtle Beach.

Bhattachurjee has earned numerous awards and honors, including 2024 Artfields, Lake City, SC; juried 2023 Piccolo Spoleto; 2022 Seacoast Artist Guild Fall

Show, third place; and more. She says, "I am a plein air artist trying to capture those fleeting beautiful moments outdoors. My paintings are my instant reaction to the scene."

Located in coastal Brunswick County, NC, Sunset River Gallery caters to both area visitors and a growing local community of full-time residents seeking fine art for their homes and businesses. Featuring works by over 100 fine regional artists including Betty Anglin Smith, Marcus McClanahan, Janet Sessoms, and Richard Staat, among others, the gallery is well known in the area for its selection of oil paintings; watermedia; pastels; photography; hand-blown, stained, and fused glass; pottery and clay sculpture; turned and carved wood; unique home décor items; and artisan jewelry.

There are two onsite kilns, and five wheels used by the gallery's pottery students. The gallery also offers ongoing oil/acrylic and watercolor classes as well as workshops by well-known instructors.

The gallery's carefully curated selection of investment-grade 20th century fine art is one of the largest in the Carolinas. Current inventory can be found in the gallery website's 20th Century Artists section. It includes works by Wolf Kahn (1927-2020), Raimonds Staprans (1926),

North Carolina Museum of Art in Raleigh, NC, Features Annual Art in Bloom Event

The North Carolina Museum of Art (NCMA) in Raleigh, NC, announces the return of its annual fundraiser Art in Bloom, presented by PNC Bank. The popular event will take place Mar. 19 - 23, 2025.

More than 30 floral designers from across North Carolina and beyond will interpret artwork and objects in the NCMA's People's Collection during this five-day festival of florals. This year's theme, Art in the Park, will be reflected in six large-scale gallery installations celebrating artworks featured in the Ann and Jim Goodnight Museum Park's 164 acres.

As the NCMA's largest annual fundraiser, Art in Bloom supports the Museum's public programming, annual exhibitions and the NCMA Foundation, Inc. "We're thrilled to welcome visitors for this highly anticipated and special Museum fundraising event," said Museum Director Valerie Hillings. "Art in Bloom is a fresh and unique way to experience the People's Collection."

The five-day event also includes floral workshops, lectures and programs, as well as special extended hours and expanded food options. This year's featured workshop florist is Sue McLeary from Ann Arbor, Mich. McLeary, author of "Flowers for All" and "The Art of Wearable Flowers," will lead the Flowers for All Floral Demonstration and the Zoe Webster Floral Workshop on Fashion-Forward Floral Jewelry, both held on Thursday, Mar. 20.

PNC Bank returns as the founding presenting sponsor of Art in Bloom. "Year after year, Art in Bloom has delighted visitors, generated support for one of the state's most important cultural and educational resources and created economic impact for the Triangle," said Jim Hansen, PNC regional president for Eastern Carolinas and Southeast territory executive. "As the North Carolina Museum of Art embarks on its second decade of curating this remarkable experience, all of us at PNC look forward to helping welcome visitors to Art in Bloom."

North Carolina Museum of Art in Raleigh, NC, Features Works by Black Artists

The North Carolina Museum of Art in Raleigh, NC, will present The Time Is Always Now: Artists Reframe the Black Figure, on view in the East Building, Level B, Meymandi Exhibition Gallery, from Mar. 8 through June 29, 2025.

The exhibition features the work of 23 contemporary African diasporic artists from the United Kingdom and the United States, with a focus on works of art that depict and celebrate the Black figure from the perspective of Black artists. Museum director Valerie Hillings states, "We are thrilled to bring this exhibition to North Carolina. It is a powerful and thought-provoking experience celebrating the unique experiences, narratives, voices, and perspectives of a remarkable group of contemporary Black artists."

Curated by British writer and curator Ekow Eshun, The Time Is Always Now takes its title from an essay on desegregation by American writer and social rights activist James Baldwin. Through their work in figuration, artists such as Michael Armitage, Claudette Johnson, Titus Kaphar, Kerry James Marshall, Toyin Ojih Odutola, Nathaniel Mary Quinn, Amy Sherald, Lorna Simpson, and more, illuminate the richness, joy, beauty, and complexity of Black life. Themes throughout the exhibition invite a shift in the dominant art historical perspective, from "looking at" the Black figure to "seeing through" the eyes of Black artists and the figures they depict.

The NCMA is the final venue for this exhibition, previously on display at the Philadelphia Museum of Art and the National Portrait Gallery in London, its organizing institution. Bank of America is Ticketing: $20 Adults, free for Members, $17 Seniors age 65 and older, $12 Students (ages 7-22), free for children 6 and under. Through June 29, The Time Is Always Now and Grace Hartigan: The Gift of Attention are ticketed together.

Exhibition organized by the National Portrait Gallery, London, and presented by the North Carolina Museum of Art. Support for this exhibition is made possible, in part, by the North Carolina Department of Natural and Cultural Resources; the North Carolina Museum of Art Foundation, Inc.; and the William R. Kenan Jr. Endowment for Educational Exhibitions. Research for this exhibition was made possible by Ann and Jim Goodnight/The Andrew W. Mellon Foundation Fund for Curatorial and Conservation Research and Travel.

UNC-Chapel Hill in Chapel Hill, NC, Features Works From the Terra Foundation

The University of North Carolina @ Chapel Hill in Chapel Hill, NC, is presenting Triple Take: Dialogues with the Terra Collection-in-Residence, on view at the Ackland Art Museum, through May 11, 2025.

The Ackland is fortunate to have American paintings on long-term loan from the Terra Foundation for American Art. These paintings are the centerpieces of the three sections of Triple Take: Dialogues with the Terra Collection-in-Residence. Each section of about twenty objects has different curators, who have gathered works from the Ackland that connect in often unexpected ways with the Terra Foundation loans.

This three-part exhibition begins with Lyonel Feininger's Denstedt (1917), a powerful and expressionistic view of a German village. This painting serves as the starting point for an exploration of the artist's achievements across his career, curated by Peter Nisbet. Dana Cowen explores themes of looking, the mirror, and privacy through Archibald Motley's Between Acts (1935). Ammi Phillips's Girl in a Red Dress (c. 1835) and Robert Henri's Sylvester (1914) anchor a selection of representations of children chosen by Lauren Turner and Carolyn Allmendinger. This final part of the exhibition explores how knowing or not knowing the names and biographical details of the people depicted can affect our experience of the artworks.

Cumulatively, Triple Take invites the visitor to experience the Terra Foundation loans in a new way. The three contrasting curatorial approaches show how the Ackland's rich and deep collection can create

Craven Allen Gallery in Durham, NC, Features Works by Damian Stamer

Craven Allen Gallery in Durham, NC, will present Twins, featuring works by Damian Stamer, on view from Mar. 8 through May 8, 2025. A reception will be held on Mar. 8, from 5-7pm.

Twins features a selection of paintings exploring Damian Stamer's life as an identical twin, and how that identity intersects with his experience of memory and place. "I have long experienced the subtle dance between mirror and self - a relationship marked by both profound similarity and unique divergence" he explains. "This exhibition transforms that lifelong dynamic into a visual exploration that delves into the psychological depths of what it means to see oneself in another."

Stamer continues his practice of using Artificial Intelligence as part of his artistic process. To supplement his own memory of a scene, he will input a text description of a moment from his childhood as he recalls it into an AI program, generating images that range from the familiar to the uncanny. Using these as inspiration, Stamer paints in oil on board with his unmistakable brushstrokes, beginning as sweeping gestural marks at the edges of the composition that come together to form expertly rendered interiors and landscapes.

Stamer says his paintings "... are layered conversations between organic memory and digital possibility, inviting viewers to contemplate not only the intimate bond between twins but also the broader dialogue between human creativity and emerging technology."

Work by Damian Stamer

Stamer has quickly become one of the region's most important artists, with paintings in notable museum, corporate and private collections. Museum exhibitions include Ruminations, a solo show at the Gibbes Museum of Art in Charleston, SC; Altered Land at the North Carolina Museum of Art in Raleigh, NC, and Area 919 at Duke University's Nasher Museum in Durham.

Stamer offered the following statement, "Twins is a deeply personal meditation on duality, reflection, and the unseen layers that define our identities. As an identical twin, I have long experienced the subtle dance between mirror and self—a relationship marked by both profound similarity and unique divergence. This exhibition transforms that lifelong dynamic into a visual exploration that delves into the psychological depths of what it means to see oneself in another."

"The creative process behind Twins is as much about collaboration as it is about introspection," says Stamer. "I began by entering a childhood memory containing the word Twins into DALL-E 2, an AI image generator, to produce reference imagery that resonates with the abstract and multifaceted nature of duplication. These images, emerging from an algorithm's unpredictable interpretation, provided me with a reservoir of visual cues that oscillate between the familiar and the uncanny. They serve as the initial spark that informs each painting I create. Similarly, the title of each painting contains the prompt that created its reference image."

"In reinterpreting these digital renderings onto panel, I embrace both meticulous technique and the spontaneity inherent in working with AI-generated forms," adds Stamer. "This dual approach mirrors the twin experience: one part deliberate human expression, the other part the unpredictable reflection of machine learning. The resulting works are layered conversations between organic memory and digital possibility, inviting viewers to contemplate not only the intimate bond between twins but also the broader dialogue between human creativity and emerging technology."

"Twins thus becomes a metaphor for the multiplicity of identity in the digital era. It interrogates how our internal landscapes - shaped by shared histories, intimate bonds, and personal memories - are simultaneously mirrored and transformed by the external forces of technological innovation. In this series, the artist's deeply sentient and intuitive brushwork stands in stark contrast to the algorithmically driven, non-sentient suggestions of an AI collaborator, creating a space where human emotion and digital computation converge and transform one another."

"Engagement with these works encourages an exploration of the complex layers of selfhood, prompting questions about where one identity ends and another begins (as the boundaries between human and AI become blurrier by the minute).

The reflective surface of every painted image reveals not merely a twin of some kind, but a portal to a deeper understanding of how identities are constructed in an increasingly interconnected, algorithmically influenced world," says Stamer.

Damian Stamer (b. American, 1982) received his Master of Fine Arts from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill as a Jacob K. Javits fellow in 2013 and his Bachelor of Fine Arts from the Herberger Institute of Art and Design and Barrett, The Honors College at Arizona State University (where he studied painting with Craven Allen Gallery artist Beverly McIver) as a National Merit scholar in 2007. He also studied at the Hungarian University of Fine Arts as a Fulbright grantee, and the State Academy of Art and Design in Stuttgart, Germany as a Rotary Ambassadorial scholar.

Damian's contemporary paintings explore themes of memory and loss through formal and conceptual approaches. Detailed architectural forms reminiscent of his childhood memories of the South are combined with gestural brushstrokes that push and pull the images into existence. The artist lives and works in Durham, NC.

Craven Allen Gallery is located on Broad Street in Durham.

Metal sculptor, Jason Smith, has created a variety of large and small-scale sculptures for this show. Smith combines found objects with metal that he has cut, welded, and forged, to create sculptures of great balance, strength, and beauty. Smith writes, "As an artist, I am driven by the belief that spirit resides in the overlooked and the ordinary. My work is a journey of transformation, where I take found objects - discarded fragments of the world - and reforge them into metal sculptures that embody tranquility and mindfulness."

Smith sees his sculptures as "invitations to pause, to breathe, and to find harmony in the interplay of strength and softness, chaos and calm."

Jude Lobe is an artist who enjoys working with many different types of media, and she will be exhibiting both sculptures and paintings in this show. Lobe writes that her new collection presents "an expression of the Native American philosophy of interconnectedness, balance, and respect for nature, manifesting in both my totemic sculptures and my endangered landscapes." Her totems are intended to bridge the ancient and the contemporary, serving "as both a narrative and a conversation" through the use of bold expression and thoughtfully crafted details.

inspired by an awareness of details, both in nature and in the everyday items from our lives. Danek writes, "I looked back at the meanings assigned to flowers during Victorian times, as well as the symbolism that many cultures have connected to animals, for inspiration in creating this collection of gourd sculptures. I love the images that our title, "Tapping into Spirit", evokes - I believe that there are messages of inspiration all around us, and that our lives are enriched when we allow ourselves to notice them."

Danek's mixed-media wall sculptures incorporate found objects, such as old washboards or pieces of barn wood, to create sculptures that reflect different aspects of contemporary life. The found objects themselves are already filled with history and potential symbolism; Danek enjoys marrying these objects with small paintings and sculptures of her own making, creating assemblages that nod to the past while representing life today.

The Hillsborough Gallery of Arts is owned and operated by 21 local artists and represents these established artists exhibiting contemporary fine art and fine craft. The Gallery's offerings include oil, acrylic and watercolor painting, sculpture, pottery, weaving, jewelry, glass, gourd sculpture, scratchboard, and handcrafted furniture.

Lobe's endangered landscape paintings are done in the minimalist style, allowing the viewers "to infuse their own emotions into the landscape." She hopes that they will serve a dual purpose of encouraging the viewers to consider the interconnectedness of all things while reminding us to respect the fragile balance we share with our surroundings.

Martha Danek's painted gourd sculptures and mixed-media assemblages are

Cedar Creek Gallery Owner, Lisa Oakley in Creedmoor, NC, Creates Glass Eggs For Food

Lisa Oakley, glass blower and second-generation owner of Cedar Creek Gallery in Creedmoor, NC, has blown 55 exquisite glass Spring Eggs to raise money for the Food Bank of Central and Eastern North Carolina. The fundraiser begins on Mar. 7 and ends Apr. 13, 2025.

More of the eggs up for grabs

Oakley has been hosting this fundraiser for over 5 years, raising over $32,000 in 2024. She donates the resources, her time, and 100% of the funds raised to this cause. She states, "When I go home, it's a privilege to look in my pantry and decide what I will eat instead of some who look in their pantry and don't have anything to eat." Lisa loves using her artistic talent to support her community.

Five of these eggs will be auctioned to the top five bidders, who will be able to select their favorite egg. The remaining 50 will be raffled for $10 per ticket. Tickets can be purchased at the Cedar Creek

The Florence County Museum in Florence, SC, has partnered with the Smithsonian American Art Museum to bring Fighters for Freedom: William H. Johnson Picturing Justice, on view through Aug. 10, 2025. This exhibition marks the first national tour of the magnum opus by William Henry Johnson (Florence, SC) entitled Fighters for Freedom. Johnson painted the series in the mid-1940s, creating a pantheon of historic and contemporary leaders who fought for the freedom of individuals worldwide. The exhibition of 25 works showcasing Johnson's later iconographic style is on loan from the Smithsonian American Art Museum and features works rarely exhibited outside our nation's capital. According to the Smithsonian, "By almost any standard, William H. Johnson (1901-1970) can be considered a major American artist. He produced hundreds of works in a virtuosic, eclectic career that spanned several decades and continents. It was not until very recently, however, that his work began to receive the attention it deserves." Work by Corrie McCallum (1914 - 2009)

The Greenville County Museum of Art in Greenville, SC, is presenting Art and Artists of South Carolina: Three Mighty Gamecocks, on view for an ongoing time. Three Mighty Gamecocks features works in various media by Corrie McCallum (1914 - 2009), Jasper Johns (born 1930), and Grainger McKoy (born 1947), all of whom graduated from high school in Sumter, South Carolina. Corrie McCallum, a Sumter native, graduated in 1932 from Sumter High School, after which she enrolled at the University of South Carolina, and later studied at the Boston Museum School of Art. In addition to sustaining her career as a painter and printmaker, McCallum pioneered art education in the South, teaching at the Gibbes Art Gallery (now Gibbes Museum of Art), Telfair Academy in Savannah, GA, Newberry College, and the College of Charleston. In 1960, she became the first professional Curator of Art Education at the Gibbes. For further information call the Museum at 864/271-7570 or visit (www.gcma.org).

Some Exhibits That Are Still On View

Our policy at Carolina Arts is to present a press release about an exhibit or event only once and then go on, but many major exhibits are on view for months. This is our effort to remind you of some of them.

Work by Jo Ann Morgan

On view in the Cary Arts Center Gallery, in Cary, NC, through Mar. 21, 2025, will be works by Jo-Ann Morgan. The wall-mounted hangings are constructed in layered cotton fabric. Because they resemble quilted comforters, which are familiar and approachable, the medium is ideal for addressing provocative topics related to social justice and inequality. Despite the unsettling themes, these stitched fabric pictures offer a soothing counterpoint to the harsh events of contemporary reality. If there is a message running throughout this work is "seeking comfort in a fraught world." Art can be a way to process events and experiences that are almost too much to bear. Aiken

Aiken Center for the Arts, 122 Laurens St., SW, Aiken. Main Gallery, Through Mar. 20 - "Portrait Society of America". SC members of the Portrait Society of America present "Spirit of America". Step into the "Spirit of America". The exhibit embodies the diverse essence of the nation. From sweeping landscapes that capture the natural beauty of our country to vibrant figurative work. This collection celebrates the myriad facets of American identity. Visitors will find themselves immersed in a visual narrative that honors the finest of fine art in our country. Mar 27 - May 1 - "The Tomato of Time," featuring works by members of the Upcountry Fiber Artists group. A reception will be held on Mar. 27, from 6-8pm. "The Tomato of Time" is a textile exhibit by Upcountry Fiber Artists. As a group challenge to practice the Pomodoro Technique (working steadily in 25-minute increments, with 5 minute rest periods in between – developed by Francesco Cirillo in the late 1980's. Cirillo used a tomato ("pomodoro" in Italian) shaped timer.), each artist designed and created a 12x12 art quilt inspired by the phrase "Tomato of Time". We found we tended to approach concepts of time in unique ways, reflecting our diverse styles of art. This was the starting point for artistic reflections on the meaning of time. From interpretations of the tomato-shaped timer itself, we delved into examinations of the past, the present, and the future. This resulted in everything from nostalgic looks backward to representations of how clocks rule our lives, from the promise embedded in a tiny seed to the natural world's transformations across seasons over time. Hours: Tue.-Fri., 9:30am-5:30pm. Contact: 803/641-9094 or at (www.aikencenterforthearts.org).

Anderson

Anderson County Museum, 202 East Greenville Street, Anderson. Through the Summer of 2025 - "Silver of South Carolina and Beyond". The Anderson County Museum is one of the most comprehensive collections of South Carolina silver ever assembled in our area. Many of the pieces are very rare. British soldiers evacuating Charleston in 1782 after the American Revolution took with them thousands of pounds of silver from the city's homes and churches. The pieces that have survived into the modern day are made more precious by their scarcity. Today Palmetto State silver attracts collectors from all over the globe. Ongoing - The Anderson County Museum has one of the largest galleries in the state! You can book a tour with one of our docent volunteers or explore on your own and get lost in history. We also have event space for rent if you would like to host your next event here. Anderson County Museum takes great care to catalog our artifacts. In fact, our artifact database is one of the most comprehensive in South Carolina. Check out our virtual exhibits or our past perfect collection to see some of our artifacts, and visit the Anderson County Museum to see them on display! Hours: Tue., 10am-7pm & Wed.-Sat., 10am-4pm. Contact: 864/260-4737 or at (<https://andersoncountymuseum.sc.gov>).

Two kinetic sculptures by Mike Winkelmann, aka Beeple. - Gibbes Art Museum

Gibbes Museum of Art, 135 Meeting Street, Charleston. Galleries 1, 2, and 3, Through Apr. 27 - "Beeple". In collaboration with Beeple Studios, led by Mike Winkelmann, aka Beeple, the Gibbes Museum of Art will feature three of Beeple's latest kinetic sculptures. Beeple, a trailblazer in digital art, gained worldwide recognition after his NFT artwork "EVERYDAYS: THE FIRST 5000 DAYS" sold for a record-breaking price at Christie's in 2021. His work, particularly the generative sculpture "HUMAN ONE", has been showcased in several prestigious museums, including the Crystal Bridges Museum of American Art in Arkansas—the first US institution to display this piece. Galleries 8 & 9, Through Apr. 27 - "Statement Pieces: Contemporary Fashion Design and the Gibbes Collection". Produced in conjunction with Barrett Barrera Projects, this exhibition juxtaposes dynamic works of fine art from the Gibbes permanent collection with contemporary fashion objects. Extraordinary garments by Alexander McQueen, Dapper Dan, Gucci, and beyond will be presented alongside fashion forward figures in paintings from the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, abstract works of the mid-twentieth century, and contemporary sculpture and mixed media works of today. The exhibition will introduce innovative fashion to museum audiences and demonstrate the importance of design in a visual arts context. Galleries 4, and 5, Permanent Exhibition - "18th and 19th Century American Paintings and Sculpture". American paintings, from colonial portraits to Civil War-era landscapes, occupy the Gibbes Main Gallery. Portraits of leading political, social, and military figures include works by Jeremiah Theus, Henry Benbridge, Benjamin West, Gilbert Stuart, Thomas Sully and Samuel F.B. Morse. The gallery also features landscape and genre scenes by Angelica Kaufmann, Louis Mignot, Eastman Johnson, Conrad Wise Chapman, and William Aiken Walker. The paintings collection is complemented by examples of neoclassical sculpture on view in the Campbell Rotunda, and decorative art objects on loan from the Rivers Collection. Gallery 5, Permanent Exhibition - "Miniature Portraits". The first American miniature portraits were painted in Charleston, and today the Gibbes is home to one of the most prestigious portrait miniature collections in the United States. Containing more than six hundred objects, the collection spans nearly two hundred years and represents the work of over a hundred artists. Small enough to fit in the palm of the hand, these tiny portraits were treasured remembrances of loved ones in the age before photography. Presented in state-of-the-art display cases, and in viewable storage drawers featured miniatures include works by Mary Roberts, Jeremiah Theus, Henry Benbridge, Charles Wilson Peale, Pierre Henri, Edward Greene Malbone, George Englehart, and Charles Fraser. Gallery 6, Permanent Exhibition - "20th Century American Regionalism and the Charleston Renaissance". At the turn of the twentieth century, American artists looked to their European counterparts and beyond as they developed identifiably American artistic movements. Two particularly strong influences during this time period were French Impressionism and Japanese woodblock prints. Another prevailing theme during this period was the growing interest in American subject matter. American regionalism and social realism played important roles in the development of art in Charleston, which flourished as a destination for artists, particularly during the years of 1915 to 1945 a period now known as the Charleston Renaissance. Gallery 7, Permanent Exhibition - "Modern and Contemporary". Modern and contemporary art in America encompasses a wide range of styles, subject matter, and media. As a whole, the diversity of modern and contemporary art reflects the rich and varied heritage of our nation and the lowcountry region. Museum Shop - Now offering the inventory of the Tradd Street Press, reproductions of works by Elizabeth O'Neill Verner among other exhibit related art objects. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 10am-5pm & Sun., 1-5pm. Admission: Yes. Contact: 843/722-2706 or at (www.gibbesmuseum.org).

Redux Contemporary Art Center, featuring Redux Studios, 1056 King Street, Charleston. Mar. 22, from 10am-4pm - "2025 Redux Spring Art Market," featuring art, family fun, food truck, and good times. Suggested donation, $10. Mar. 21, from 5-8pm - "1st Dibs Night," enjoy bites from our dear pals Harvest Catering, and beer and wine. Be the first in Charleston to get your eyes on the show! Tickets are $35. Main Gallery, Through Mar. 15 - "Charzewski: The Sword of Damocles," a solo site specific installation. A reception will be held on Feb. 7, from 5-8pm. is a site-specific installation that examines humanity's delicate and often futile attempts to control the natural forces surrounding us. Visitors can expect to see objects found after a flood, suspended off the gallery floor, hovering in a dreamlike state, existing both within and beyond our reality. Referencing the Greek myth of Damocles, the tension of the suspension symbolizes binding and restraint controlling the objects, as much as a fear of losing and having them fall. Gallery 1056, Through Mar. 15 - "Warrior Queens in Time," featuring works by Kris Hanson. The will focus on the feminine archetype of a Warrior Queen; embodying courage, strength, and persistence throughout time. This feminist solo exhibition will incorporate the use of found objects in the creation of three-dimensional objects. The black and white images anchor the Warrior Queens in the context of the past, present and future lives of women in society. Lightning Gallery, Through Mar. 15 - Featuring works by Kenish Harmon and Sophia Angela. Ongoing - In May, 2017, Redux relocated to 1056 King Street with 38 studios, three galleries, a larger print shop, classroom, dark room, and photo studio. Historical Timeline of America's First Museum: 1773 - 2023". This timeline highlights the rich history of The Charleston Museum from its beginning to the present. Selected events from the past 250 years are showcased using iconic photographs from the Museum's Archives. The forebear of The Charleston Museum was founded on January 12, 1773, by members of the Charleston Library Society, when South Carolina was still a British colony. Although the form and substance of the institution has changed over two and a half centuries, its general purpose at the time of its creation - to educate - is still central to its mission today. Throughout its history, the Museum has experienced wars, natural disasters, and most recently a worldwide pandemic, yet it has continued to thrive. Today, The Charleston Museum houses more than 2.4 million objects, and each year over 100,000 people, from around the world and from all walks of life, come here to learn. We invite you to enjoy this timeline highlighting selected events from the Museum's rich past, from its beginning to the present, with iconic images from the Museum's Archives. Ongoing - "Beyond The Ashes: The Lowcountry's New Beginnings". This exhibit will cover topics such as the political and social changes that took place in the wake of the Civil War, the Jim Crow Era, the Earthquake of 1886, the Charleston Renaissance, the transformation of Charleston in the 20th century, the impact of the World Wars on the area, and the local Civil Rights struggle. Ongoing - Featuring the most extensive collection of South Carolina cultural and scientific collections in the nation, it also owns two National Historic Landmark houses, the Heyward-Washington House (1772) and the Joseph Manigault House (1803), as well as the Dill Sanctuary, a 580-acre wildlife preserve. Admission: Yes. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 9am-5pm & through the Summer months, Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 843/722-2996 or at (www.charleston-museum.org).

ALTERNATE ART SPACES - Clemson Cooper Library, 4th floor, Clemson University Campus, 116 Sigma Drive, Clemson. Through Apr. 12 - "Initial Impressions: Selections from the Print Studio Art Exhibition," featuring works by Clemson undergraduate art majors, BA and art minors enrolled in the Beginning Printmaking studio. "Initial Impressions: Selections from the Print Studio" is an exhibition of work by undergraduate art majors, B.A. and art minors enrolled in the Beginning Printmaking studio. The course was taught by Mandy Ferguson, Lecturer of Art, during the spring 2024 semester. This juried exhibit showcases works utilizing two printmaking processes, monotype and relief printing. The monotype prints were an open assignment focused on the student's interests and played with the one-off aspect of the monotype print process. One relief print assignment invited the students to express aspects of their personality to create their likeness or bring other aspects of self into their final artistic expression using only black and white. For the second relief process, students interpreted the idea of "conflict" to create a colorful reduction woodcut. Participating artists include: Joscelyne Clark, Antonia Kiriakides, Kirsten Lanning, McCall Massey, Kailey Nelms, Maddie Pinion, Margaret Smith, Julia Shuler, Molly Tippey, Katlee Tran, Ellie Tucker, and Eliza Valero. Hours: regular library hours. Contact: call Denise Woodward-Detrich, Lee Gallery Director at 864/656-3883 or at (http://www.clemson.edu/centers-institutes/cva/).

Columbia Area

Outside view of the Columbia Museum of Art

Columbia Museum of Art, Main & Hampton Streets, Columbia. Galleries 5 & 6, Ongoing - "Modern & Contemporary Art from the Collection". Celebrating some of the CMA's greatest hits, this exhibition features over 30 paintings, drawings, photographs and sculptures from the Museum's collection that have not been on view recently. It offers the visitor experiences both serious and sensual and is designed to both entertain and enlighten. Notable works included are by Jasper Johns, Howard Thomas, Sally Mann and Edward Ruscha, whose famous image of the Hollywood Hills (on view) has become a staple of the art world. Ray Taylor Fair Gallery, Ongoing - Featuring a new and permanent installation of its ancient art collection. The installation includes approximately 50 objects that introduce the major ancient civilizations from the Mediterranean and Near East. Examples of the earliest form of writing from 12th century B.C. Mesopotamia, are shown next to Egyptian scarabs and Greek painted vessels. The world of the ancient Romans is represented by 2nd century glass and bronze items and portrait sculpture. Many of these works have not been seen since the Museum moved to its location on Main Street in 1998. The collection has grown over the last several years with the donation of 12 fine Roman sculptures in 2002 from Pennsylvania collector Dr. Robert Y. Turner. Admission: Yes, but there is no admission charge on Sun. Free admission through Labor Day - The Columbia Museum of Art has been selected to participate in Art Bridges Foundation's Access for All program, a transformative, three-year funding initiative aimed at increasing access to museums across America and fostering engagement with local audiences. Through this generous support, the CMA is launching Free Summer at the CMA, a new endeavor that offers all residents of South Carolina free general admission to the museum from. Work by Dian Farfan, "Linthead", 2022, Ceramic, mixed media, 30 x 20 x 20 inches. In the late 1960s and early 70s, more than 30 families from Medellin, Colombia, then the most vital textile region in Latin America, arrived in Greenville, recruited by the mills for their expertise as machine operators and loom technicians. Not part of the existing social fabric, these families were separated from home for years, the women working tirelessly 12 hours a day, six days a week in social isolation compounded by language barriers and racism. These Latino women wove not only cotton, but also nests from w hich they raised their families and made new lives as the city flourished and prospered until the day when the thread was snipped, and the cotton textile industry died out.

Mill District Public Art Trail (MDPAT), throughout the Whaley, Olympia and Granby neighborhoods, known as Columbia, SC's Mill District, Columbia. Ongoing - The MDPAT was conceived as a project in 2017 by 701 Center for Contemporary Art board and staff to connect the three neighborhoods through a creative endeavor. The inaugural works on the trail were created by 11 South Carolina artists - collaborators David Cianni (Aiken) and Anna Redwine (Columbia), Diana Farfan (Greenville), Flavia Lovatelli (Columbia), Susan Lenz (Columbia), Robert Lyon (Columbia), Doug McAbee (Greenwood), Philip Moody (Rock Hill), Carey Morton (Charleston), Jordan Sheridan (Columbia), Brittany Watkins (Columbia), and Fletcher

Williams III (Charleston). The works on the Mill District Public Art Trail invite us to explore the art and highlight the unique character of the distinctive neighborhoods within the Mill District. Part of this journey is discovering art in unexpected and surprising spaces. It is also an indication of the ongoing transformation taking place in this historically important community. Hours: normal daylight hours. For further information call 803/238-2351 or visit (<https://www.701cca.org/mill-distict-public-art-trail-rtq-questions-answers>).

Bob Ray (born 1952) "Date Night", 2023, latex, gouache, acrylic, and charcoal on paper.

Greenville County Museum of Art, 420 College Street, Greenville. Mar. 19 - May 25 - "Bob Ray: Suit Yourself", Bob Ray (b. 1952) works in a variety of media, including drawing, painting, collage, sculpture, and even correspondence and performance. Born in Warrensburg, Missouri, just east of Kansas City, he now lives with his wife in the small town of Washington in eastern North Carolina. Guest-curated by Mark Sloan, "Bob Ray: Suit Yourself" features a selection of the artist's most recent paintings and drawings. Inspired by the Abstract Expressionist painters, Ray also draws from the Dada and Fluxus movements. Each of Ray's artworks offers evidence of its own evolution. Ongoing - "Three Mighty Gamecocks," features works in various media by Corrie McCallum (1914 – 2009), Jasper Johns (born 1930), and Grainger McKoy (born 1947), all of whom graduated from high school in Sumter, SC. McCallum, a Sumter native, graduated in 1932 from Sumter High School, after which she enrolled at the University of South Carolina, and later studied at the Boston Museum School of Art. In addition to sustaining her career as a painter and printmaker, McCallum pioneered art education in the South, teaching at the Gibbs Art Gallery, Telfair Academy in Savannah, Newberry College, and the College of Charleston. In 1960, she became the first professional Curator of Art Education at the Gibbs. Johns graduated as the valedictorian of his 1947 class at Edmunds High School, which was known as Sumter High School until the 1939-1940 school year. After attending the University of South Carolina, he relocated to New York City, where he gained prominence in the mid-1950s for his paintings of American flags, targets, alphabets, and numerals ("things the mind already knows," as Johns famously said). He is considered one of the most influential painters of the Post-World War era and America's preeminent living artist. McKoy graduated in 1965 from Edmunds High and has spent most of his life in Sumter. After studying architecture and biology at Clemson University, he joined his knowledge of the sciences with his uncanny skills as a carver, draftsman, and painter to achieve unique sculptures that fool the eye and defy gravity. His works are found in major public and private collections, most notably at Brookgreen Gardens and the Greenville County Museum of Art. Ongoing - Watermedia in the Age of Wyeth. When he was only 20, Andrew Wyeth (1917 – 2009) enjoyed a sold-out exhibition of his watercolors at New York City's Macbeth Gallery in 1937. The young artist was heralded for revitalizing the medium, and his career was launched. Over the next 72 years, as his methods evolved from broad abstracted washes of color to the intricate hatching of his signature drybrush technique, Wyeth firmly established his mastery of modern watermedia, which may include watercolor, gouache, tempera, acrylic, or ink (and combinations thereof). Selected from the GCMA permanent collection, this exhibition offers the opportunity to witness Andrew Wyeth's artistic evolution over time and invites comparison with other accomplished watermedia luminaries who worked during Wyeth's life. Ongoing - "Art and Artists of South Carolina: For Real". The GCMA's newest exhibition is drawn from the Museum's permanent collection. Celebrate the Palmetto State with a diverse selection of watercolors by Mary Whyte and Stephen Scott Young, sculptures carved by Grainger McKoy, and varied South Carolina landscapes. Ongoing - "Collection Highlights: African-American Art," features 17 works by as many artists. At the forefront of the exhibition is a realistic sculpture by John Wilson, whose monumental bronze head of Martin Luther King, Jr. captures the dignity and strength of the civil rights leader. Post-World War II non-objective painting is reflected in works by Beauford Delaney, Hale Woodruff, and Frank Wimberly. A lighter, but no less powerful, touch is embodied in a brilliant Color Field painting by Thomas Sills. The exhibition also includes evocative examples by Romare Bearden, Frederick Brown, Jacob Lawrence, Betye Saar, Meriton Simpson, and Bob Thompson. Ongoing - "Andrew Wyeth: Running with the Land". This stunning retrospective showcases 59 works on paper, capturing Wyeth's preference for painting intimate subjects that were tied to the homes established by his father in both Chadds Ford, Pennsylvania, and Cushing, Maine. Wyeth drew inspiration from the distinctive characteristics and denizens of these locations, revealing universal traits in his depictions of landscapes, objects, and people. Ongoing - "All in the Family (Connections)," which assembles work by three generations of Wyeths--the first family of American painting--taking advantage of several rarely exhibited loans from a private collection and complementing the exhibition "Andrew Wyeth: Running with the Land". Admission: Free. Hours: Wed.-Sat., 10am-6pm and Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 864/271-7570 or at (www.gcma.org).

Lancaster

USC Lancaster Native American Studies Center, 119 South Main Street, Lancaster. Five Points Gallery & North Gallery, Through Aug.

Squirrel effigy by Catawba Nation artist Cheryl Sanders (1997) Thomas J. Blumer Collection

30 - "Soul of the South." Curated by the Morris Center for Lowcountry Heritage, "Soul of the South" takes visitors on a musical journey highlighting the influences that Native Americans, enslaved Africans, and the European colonizers in the Lowcountry had on various genres of music: gospel, jazz, blues, musical theater and rock and roll. Largely sponsored by Gretsch, the renowned drum and musical instrument maker, the exhibit also showcases local musicians and groups whose notoriety reached beyond the Lowcountry. Red Rose Gallery, Through May 3 - "What the Fire May Gift," featuring artwork by USCL's 2023 Artist-in-Resident William "Bill" Harris, a Catawba potter and former Catawba Nation Chief. The exhibit features over 30 pieces of pottery, some created during Harris's term as the Center's 2023 Artist-in-Residence last fall, where he appeared courtesy of a 2024 South Carolina Arts Commission Folklife and Traditional Arts Grant. The exhibit also contains work from Harris' proteges Elizabeth Harris and Kent Harris, whom Harris works with as part of the group Blue Herron Clay, as well as work from his grandmother, Georgia Harris, a prolific potter who taught her grandson the traditional artform. Duke Energy Gallery, Through Aug. 5, 2026 - "Clay and Play!" After four years of planning and preparing, the Native American Studies Center is pleased to open its first-ever exhibit geared just for elementary-aged children. The exhibition is an educational children's exhibit designed with immersive play in mind, including colorful displays and wall murals, hands-on pottery replica displays, an interactive Three Sisters Garden where guests can "pick" corn, beans, and squash, and more. Center Special Projects Coordinator Elisabeth Avelar developed the exhibit, wanting to not only create a kid-friendly exhibit, but also to create an exhibit correlating to South Carolina's educational standards in history and covering the educational disciplines of STEAM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Art, and Mathematics) and literacy. D. Lindsay Pettus Gallery, Ongoing - "The Story of Catawba Pottery". This National Endowment for the Arts funded exhibit traces the art, culture and history of Catawba pottery, the oldest Native American pottery tradition in the United States. Back Gallery, Semi-permanent Exhibit - "This is Us: Native American Studies". This exhibit celebrates the history and 10th Anniversary of USCL's Native American Studies, including artifacts and artwork from Collections, and a history of the building our Native American Studies Center calls home. Ongoing - The Center is 15,000 square foot facility in historic downtown Lancaster. Guests will have the opportunity to tour the NAS Center's gallery spaces, archives, classrooms, and archaeology, language, and audio-visual labs. Home to the world's largest collection of Catawba Indian pottery, the NAS Center will offer exhibits of regional Native American Art, classes and programs focused on Native American history, culture, archaeology, folklore, and language. Hours: Tue., Wed., Fri., & Sat., 10am-5pm; Thur., 10am-7pm; by appt. Closed Mon.&Sun. To make an appointment for visitation, call the Native American Studies Center at 803/313-7172 or e-mail to (usclnasp@mailbox.sc.edu). Myrtle Beach / Grand Strand

Franklin G. Burroughs • Simeon B. Chapin Art Museum, 3100 South Ocean Blvd., beside Springmaid Beach, Myrtle Beach. Through May 18 - "Mary Edna Fraser I Awakening". Artists find inspiration in many places. For artist and environmental activist Mary Edna Fraser, it's the bird's-eye views of North and South Carolina coastlines and waterways seen from her grandfather's vintage 1946 Ercoupe plane. This is an exhibition of her awe-inspiring images of these views in batiks and oils. Fraser's half a century of producing batiks on silk (an ancient process using wax and dye on cloth), oil paintings, short documentaries, exhibitions and events have had a single aim: to overcome apathy and educate her viewers about our fragile environment. With her stunning batiks installed to look like draped silk sculptures, as well as both large and intimate-sized oils, the artist seeks to inspire an awe of and a protective affection toward the planet. Ongoing - Myrtle Beach's Franklin G. Burroughs-Simeon B. Chapin Art Museum strives to be one of the finest visual arts museums in the Carolinas. With 11 galleries that change throughout the year, Myrtle Beach's only art museum offers exhibitions featuring paintings, textiles, sculpture, photography, video, ceramics, assemblage, collage and more. Orangeburg

Cecil Williams Civil Rights Museum, 1865 Lake Drive, Orangeburg. Ongoing - Established in 2019, the exquisite ultra-modern facility displays 1000 images of the Civil Rights Movement, but from the perspective of The Epochal South Carolina Events That Changed America. The massive archives comprise the largest collection of images of this type among all museums in the United States; including the Atlanta based High Museum which archives 300 images. The images were created by the founder, Cecil Williams, who began photography at age 9 and covered almost all historically significant events in South Carolina; from 1950 Briggs v. Elliot in Summerton, thru the 1969 Charleston Hospital Workers' Strike...and Beyond. From 1955 through 1969, Williams was a freelance journalist for "JET" magazine. His images have appeared in thousands of magazines, newspapers, historical publications, and motion picture productions. The museum design itself is part of the founders' DNA because; upon graduating from high school, Williams wanted to attend Clemson University to study architecture but denied because of his race. He then purchased a drafting board and through the years, designed three residences; including one featured in "EBONY", and the museum's design which has evolved into a living history facility. Hours: call ahead for hours. Contact: call 803-531-1662 or at (www.cecilwilliams.com).

Spartanburg

Throughout downtown Spartanburg, 3rd Thursday, from 5-8pm - "Spartanburg ArtWalk," a free self-guided tour through participating galleries across Spartanburg's Cultural District. Contact: visit (www.chapmanculturalcenter.org).

Throughout downtown Spartanburg's Cultural District, Ongoing - The Creative Crosswalk Project is a public art initiative in which local artists and designers design and paint a series of crosswalk murals, transforming the crosswalks into works of art, on Main Street in Spartanburg, SC. The downtown cultural district area is often bustling with events and pedestrians, and the pedestrians rely heavily on a multitude of crosswalks to safely traverse the downtown Spartanburg area. The problem is that crosswalks are incredibly easy to overlook, they are rarely visually appealing, and they can even be quite dangerous. In an effort to remedy these issues, Chapman Cultural Center, the City of Spartanburg, and the Spartanburg Area Chamber of Commerce came together to organize the Creative Crosswalk Project. For more info visit (<https://www.chapmanculturalcenter.org/pages/blog/detail/article/c0/a1555/>).

Work by Bridget Benton

Artists Collective I Spartanburg, 578 West Main St., Spartanburg. Galleries II & III, Through Mar. 29 - "Come Hell AND High Water: Surviving the 2024 Flood with Resilience and Purpose," showcases work of 310 ART artists. A reception will be held on Mar. 20, from 5-8pm, as part of Spartanburg ArtWalk. An artist's life is a creative and rewarding journey that involves hard work, dedication and passion. Sometimes, it also means overcoming unimaginable hardships, such as those experienced in September 2024 by Western North Carolina artists impacted by Hurricane Helene. More than a dozen impacted artists with 310 ART and Friends in Asheville, NC, will have works in this exhibition. "We hope to convey to everyone that artists will persevere through hardship and loss," says Fleta Monaghan, founder of 301 ART and Friends and one of the 14 exhibitors. "The artists of 310 ART and Friends in this exhibit lost a vast amount of work in the flood of 2024 caused by Hurricane Helene. Our studios, art and art materials were lost over night. We have come together in this first group show of 2025 to proclaim our resilience and perseverance as we continue to create, teach and spread the joy of creativity." Solomon Gallery, Mar. 11 - Apr. 26 - "Open Doors Preview Exhibition," featuring works which highlights the upcoming Open Doors Studio Tour. A reception for the exhibit will be held from 5-8pm, on Mar. 20. A second reception will be held from 5-8pm, on Apr. 17. Both are in conjunction with Spartanburg ArtWalk. "The Open Doors Preview Exhibition is an opportunity for the public to get an idea of the artwork they will see when visiting artists' studios during the tour weekend April 26 and 27," says participating artist Glenda Guion, co-chair of the events with Beth Regula, chair of the management board of the Artists Collective. "All 45 participating artists have been invited to exhibit one to two pieces of original artworks in the preview exhibit. It's a great way for people to decide which artist they want to see more of or which studios they want to visit during the tour." Ongoing - The Collective features a twenty thousand square foot facility offering affordable studio space, retail space, three galleries, a full ceramics studio, printery, and works by 50 local artists. Beer and wine are available for those 21+. Ongoing - Works by Carl Tait and Harold Krisel are on display. Tait was a successful painter, textile designer, and interior designer. His ties to the Spartanburg community originate from his longtime employment at Milliken and Company. Tait was born in Old Town, Maine in 1917 and graduated from the New Hampshire Institute of Arts and Science. In the late 1940s, he moved to New York City where he designed an exclusive line of ladies' handkerchiefs for the department store B. Altman, now considered vintage, collectible items. He also became associated with the American Artist Group designing Christmas cards, an occupation which he kept up throughout the majority of his artistic career. Krisel was a distinguished artist, architect, and teacher as well as a loving father and husband. Though Krisel may not be a household name among Spartanburg residents, he has made a significant artistic contribution to the Spartanburg community. Born in Brooklyn, NY in 1920, Krisel's interest in art and design started at a young age. He attended the American Artist School in New York city as a teenager where he met renowned modern artists, including Piet Mondrian, who greatly influenced his abstract style. After studying architecture at the New Bauhaus in Chicago from 1946-1949, he received his graduate degree from Illinois Institute of Technology in 1952. The following year, he began working for architectural firm Skidmore, Owings and Merrill when Roger Milliken hired them to design Milliken's new research facility in Spartanburg. Upon realizing Krisel was also a sculptor, Milliken hired him to design the spray fountain outside of the facility which functions as a recycler of air conditioning water. He then went on to design the Trident Fountain located outside of the Papadopoulos building on Wofford College's campus. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 10am-7pm & Sat, 9am-3pm. Meyer Vogl Gallery, 122 Meeting Street, Charleston. Mar. 7 - 28 - "Marissa Vogl," featuring a solo show. A reception will be held on Mar. 7, from 5-8pm, during the Charleston Art Walk. We can't think of a better way to kick off our 2025 exhibition schedule than with a solo show for painter Marissa Vogl. Having grown up in Montana, Marissa's work is a response to her observations of life's beauty, most often relating to florals and landscapes. After more than a decade of a more suburban-style life in Charleston, Vogl has now returned to her country roots: Her gorgeous new home and studio in Meggett, SC overlooks a vast, Lowcountry marsh, and the work coming out of her new studio is brimming with inspiration. The move has set her painting career an entire step forward, and she's creating her strongest work yet. On-

Asheville Area

Work by Kire Bursky

Asheville Art Museum, 2 South Pack Square at Pack Place, Asheville. Mar. 7 - July 28 - "Flora Symbolica: The Art of Flowers". For millennia, humans and flowers have shared a rich, intertwined history, with flowers appearing in early burial sites and in medicine. Beyond their beauty, flowers symbolize love, purity, and rebirth. Showcasing the work of photographer and artist Edward Steichen, whose lifelong fascination with flowers deeply influenced his art, "Flora Symbolica: The Art of Flowers" explores these meanings in American art of the 20th and 21st centuries, highlighting the connections between art, nature, and human experience. Appleby Foundation Exhibition Hall, Through May 5 - "Asheville Strong: Celebrating Art and Community After Hurricane Helene." will showcase work from artists who live and work in the Helene-affected Appalachia region. This special, non-juried exhibition will celebrate the strength and diversity of our regional arts community acknowledging the significant impact of Hurricane Helene on the lives of artists across Southern Appalachia. Asheville Strong features a variety of mediums, including painting, drawing, printmaking, sculpture, ceramics, and photography. Each work is accompanied by the artist's information, allowing viewers to connect and learn more about the creators. A reception and member preview will be held on Feb. 13, from 3:30-6pm. A special afternoon honoring artists and their families. A special afternoon honoring artists and their families will be held on Feb. 14, opening day (Included with Museum admission). On Mar. 15, from noon to 5pm: Community Day—Free community event celebrating the artists and the exhibition, featuring related tours, activities and entertainment for all ages. The Van Winkle Law Firm Gallery, Through May 31 - "Anti Form: Robert Morris's Earth Projects". The Asheville Art Museum presents Anti Form: Robert Morris's Earth Projects. The suite of lithographic drawings by Robert Morris presents a series of ideas for ten works of art shaped out of earth, atmospheric conditions, and built environments. Created in 1969, the series marks an important moment when artists began to reimagine what art could be. Morris was a pioneer in conceptual art working at the forefront of Minimalism, Process art, and Land art. He theorized and championed the work of art as an idea rather than a physical form, influencing generations of artists to come. This exhibition is organized by the Asheville Art Museum and Jessica Orzulak, Associate Curator and Curatorial Affairs Manager. Debra McClinton Gallery, Through Mar. 31 - "Forces of Nature: Ceramics from the Hayes Collection". Ceramic artists throughout history have become masters of all four elements - creating clay from a mixture of earth and water to shape their work, drying it in air, and hardening it in fire. Throughout this process, the artist decides which aspects of the work will be tightly controlled, and when the elements can step in to leave nature's mark. This exhibition traces the historical, stylistic, and conceptual origins of work that either embraces or refuses the element of chance in ceramics, looking at modern and contemporary work made in Western North Carolina. The ceramics in this exhibition are all drawn from the robust collection of Andrew and Hathiya Hayes, who have been collecting important regional pottery and sculpture for decades. Through their close relationships with artists, they have brought together works that show not only the different aesthetics seen in the region, but also a picture of the ceramics community. Regional artists including Cynthia Bringle, Donna Craven, Mark Hewitt, Fred Johnston, Ben Owen III, and Norm Schulman will be on view, demonstrating the many different approaches to ceramics in this region. Ongoing - The Asheville Art Museum, the hub for 20th- and 21st-century American art in Western North Carolina, has re-opened to the public. The $24+ million, state-of-the-art facility encompasses 54,000 square feet and adds 70 percent more Collection gallery space. For the first time in the Museum's history, it has the capacity to host major traveling exhibitions from nationally recognized museums. The expansion increases its physical space and dramatically increases its role as a community center, educational resource, economic engine for WNC, and cultural concierge for the region's residents and visitors. Admission: Yes and Pay-What-You-Wish admission for visitors from areas affected by Hurricane Helene. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm; Fri. till 8pm & Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 828/253-3227 or at (www.ashevilleart.org).

Black Mountain College Museum + Arts Center, 120 College Street, Asheville. Through Mar. 15 - "The Farm at Black Mountain College". The story of Black Mountain College (BMC) has grown to mythical proportions since the liberal arts school officially closed its doors in 1957. Countless books, exhibitions, and artworks have been created to capture what it was like to live and learn at this singular college and to chart its unparalleled cultural legacy. But before this exhibition and accompanying book, nobody had written about the farm at BMC in any great detail. Built on more than a decade's worth of deep, original archival research, "The Farm at Black Mountain College" exhibition constitutes a deep new history of BMC. By focusing on the farm, the exhibition sidesteps the popular paradigm of approaching BMC through its famous faculty and students, and instead offers a new cast of characters, one that includes mostly students, women, and farmers. It spotlights the importance of collaboration, both on campus among students, faculty, and faculty families, and in the community with farmers and organizations in nearby cities and towns. Finally, the exhibition shows what happens when communal living is no longer communal, and offers a detailed account of the final dark days of the college, a dramatic and often dangerous story. Ongoing - An exhibition space dedicated to exploring the history and legacy of the world's most acclaimed experimental educational community, Black Mountain College. Hours: Wed.-Sat., noon-4pm or by appt. Contact: 828/350-8484 or at (www.blackmountaincollege.org).

Blowing Rock

Page Laughlin, "Flags at Sea," oil on Arches L'Huile, 2023, 51 ½ x 41 ¼ in.

Blowing Rock Art and History Museum, corner of Chestnut and Main streets, downtown Blowing Rock. Community Room Gallery, Mar. 1 - Apr. 26 - "A Cardboard History of Blue Ridge Music". This unique exhibition offers an in-depth look at the rich history of Blue Ridge music, including 36 original, letterpress-style posters dating back to as early as 1939. Each poster has detailed information about the life and legacy of the featured musicians. Originally, window cards and other announcement posters were created to advertise upcoming entertainment events staged by troupes of traveling performers. By design, they were printed on inexpensive paper or cardboard to last only a few months and were nailed to telephone poles, plastered onto the sides of buildings, and placed in store windows. Rankin West and East Galleries, Through June 8 - "Storybook to Storybook: The Beulah Campbell Collection at Appalachian State University," featuring an exhibition celebrating the creativity behind mid-20th-century children's literature. Featuring more than 30 original illustrations, collages and preparatory drawings, "Storybook to Storybook" offers a behind-the-scenes look at how artists crafted iconic children's stories. Spanning the 1950s to the 1980s, the collection explores themes of identity, heritage and imagination, reflecting the shifting cultural landscape of the time. Fort Gallery, Through May 4 - "SHIP/SHAPE: Page Laughlin and David Finn". The exhibition features more than 20 paintings and sculptures that explore and delight in the various manifestations of ships as image, symbol and metaphor. The exhibition showcases two distinct, but interrelated, bodies of work presented side by side. Although at first glance the two artists' work might appear radically different—in medium, use of color, physicality—on closer examination strong parallels emerge. Both artists' works subvert expectations with layers of complexity and meaning. This marks the first time in over 30 years that the two artists, who are a couple, have developed an exhibition together. For Laughlin and Finn, one could understand both these bodies of work as portraiture of a sort: studies of seemingly familiar subjects. Atwell Gallery, Through Aug. 10 - "Considerations: An Installation by Sarah Vaughn". Vaughn's "Considerations" invites visitors to step into a landscape of thousands of carefully crafted glass river rocks. Made using techniques like blowing, flame-working, casting, and laminating, these fragile stones are stacked and arranged to create an immersive installation that explores how we experience and remember the world around us. Each glass rock represents a moment in time—some tied to personal memories, others shaped from reclaimed glass, blending stories of loss and creation. Ongoing - "Reimagined Ginny Stevens Gallery: Blowing Rock, A History Exhibition," features a diorama of the iconic Mayview Manor Hotel. This immersive exhibition celebrates the town of Blowing Rock's rich history and features an extraordinary new highlight: a 1-to-87 scale diorama of the Mayview Manor Hotel, crafted by renowned Charlotte-based realist painter and diorama artist Dan Nance. The reimagined exhibition is a collaboration between Ashlee Lanier, a freelance curator with a master's degree in public history from Appalachian State University and a bachelor's degree in osteoarchaeology from North Carolina State University, and Ian Gabriel Wilson curator of exhibitions and collections at BRAMH. Samantha Burnette, graduate student in the public history program at Appalachian State University, supported the project through extensive review of available historical materials and photographs in partnership with the Blowing Rock Historical Society and BRAMH. Ongoing - the BRAHM will host exhibits, educational programs and classes that promote the visual arts, history and heritage of the mountains of western North Carolina. Admission: Yes. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun., noon-4pm. Contact: 828/295-9099 or at (www.blowingrockmuseum.org).

Hands Gallery, 543 West King Street, Boone. Ongoing - What began as the dream of a small group of craftspeople in 1975 continues today in a very personal and continually-changing environment. The history of Hands Gallery Co-op is as varied and intriguing as the artists who have come and gone over the years. Dozens of artisans have explored the business opportunities Hands has given their work, while donating time and ideas to the growth and success of the gallery. Today, the co-op serves as a role model for arts and crafts co-ops throughout the Southeastern US. Hours: daily, 10am-6pm, except Thanksgiving & Christmas. Contact: 828-262-1970 of at (<http://www.handsgallery.org/>).

Dr. Portia Maria, "Tears for Ta-tas"

Turchin Center for the Visual Arts, Appalachian State University, 423 West King Street, Boone. Hodges and Community Gallery, Through May 24 - "OAK SPRING: Seeding Artists". The Turchin Center is pleased to host an exhibition of works showcasing the work of many of the resident artists supported by the Oak Spring Garden Foundation. Since 2018, the Foundation has hosted over 120 residents. Their programs include the Interdisciplinary Residency, Botanical Artist Residency, Plant Conservation Science Fellowship, Plant Science Research Fellowship, Stacy Lloyd Fellowship for Bibliographic Studies, and the Eliza Moore Fellowship for Artistic Excellence. As Sir Peter Crane, president of the OSGF has written, the mandate of the Foundation is "to use this remarkable legacy to serve the public interest—by facilitating scholarship, inspiring public dialogue, and encouraging meaningful engagement with the history and future of plants—including especially their contributions to human well-being and significance in the culture of gardens and landscapes." Mayer Gallery, Through May 3 - "The Clothes I Wear," featuring works by Dr. Portia Marie York and Dori Settles. "Bras of Beauty by Dr. Portia Maria York," explores the profound beauty and spiritual resilience found within the real and metaphorical scars of breast cancer warriors. Through intricately crafted crocheted bras, this collection seeks to impart a sense of lightness and to lift the veil of shame associated with the loss of breasts, hair, nails, and changes in skin tone—challenges often mistakenly viewed as a loss of femininity. "Shoes: Storytellers of our Lives," by Dori Settles is an exhibit of glass shoes accompanied with stories written by the shoe owners. These stories, translated into glass, represent our common humanity. Like people, glass is both forgiving and easily shattered. Gallery A, Through Apr. 5 - "Prints from the Permanent Collection: Celebrating the Generosity of Donors". Like so many small and medium-sized university art centers, the Turchin Center for the Visual Arts relies on the generosity of donors to support the permanent collection which is enjoyed both on and off-campus by students, alumni, staff, and faculty as well as visitors to the center's galleries. "Prints from the Permanent Collection: Celebrating the Generosity of Donors" showcases both a recent donation by Julia Rothschild Gidney in honor of her parents, Dr. Judith Rice Rothschild and Dr. Gerard Harry Rothschild, as well as the ongoing generosity of long-time donors Peter and Joni Webb Petschauer. Petti/Peiser Gallery, Through Apr. 5 - "Master Printer: Bill Lagattuta and Friends". In 2024, Master Printer, Bill Lagattuta generously made a significant donation of his professional artwork to Appalachian State University, his undergraduate alma mater. Thirty of Lagattuta's fine art prints, created in collaboration with such well-known artists as Suzi Davidoff, Lesley Dill, Jim Dine, Tony Fitzpatrick, Tom Joyce, Louise Nevelson, Lilianna Porter, Johnnie Winona Ross, May Stevens, and Hollis Sigler, among others, are now part of the permanent collection at the Turchin Center for the Visual Arts. A master printer works diligently behind-the-scenes to assist artists in realizing their vision for fine art prints. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 10am-6pm; Fri., noon-8pm; & Sat., 10am-6pm. Contact: 828/262-3017 or at (www.turchincenter.org).

ALTERNATE ART SPACES - Boone Throughout Appalachian State University campus, Boone, Through May 14 - "38th Rosen Sculpture Competition and Exhibition". This is a national juried competition presented annually by An Appalachian Summer Festival and the Turchin Center for the Visual Arts. Since its establishment by Martin and Doris Rosen in 1987, the Rosen Competition continues a tradition of showcasing contemporary American sculpture in outdoor settings across the beautiful campus of Appalachian State University. The competition, in its 38th year, has become firmly established as a cultural treasure and a significant point of pride for Appalachian State University and our entire region. The competition has garnered national praise for the free access to the "best of the best" in contemporary sculpture it offers for countless residents and visitors across North Carolina and beyond. The Rosen Family proudly continues the legacy of Martin and Doris by generously supporting this important program dedicated to sharing the power and joy of public art, creating a fascinating glimpse into the world of contemporary sculpture, and building new audiences for the visual arts. This program is made possible by the generous support of the Martin & Doris Rosen Giving Fund/Debbie Rosen Davidson and David Rosen and the Charles & Nancy Rosenblatt Foundation. Hours: daylight hours. Contact: For more information, please visit (tcva.org). Free guided tours for classes and groups are available upon request. Please contact the Turchin Center by e-mail at (turchincenter@appstate.edu) or call 828/262-3017 to schedule a tour.

Watauga Arts Council, 377 Shadowline Drive, Boone. Ongoing - In 1981, a core group of Watauga County residents who love the arts and wanted to protect Appalachian culture and crafts gathered together and formed the Watauga Arts Council. Their goal was to create activities and events that shared their love of the community, to educate children, to continue the tradition of artistry and craftsmanship in the High Country, and to provide artists with the assistance they need to grow and develop their voice. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 8am-5pm. Contact: 828/264-1789 or e-mail to (info@watauga-arts.org).

Cary

Throughout Cary, Final Friday of the Month, from 6-8pm - "Cary Art Loop," featuring an evening tour of art spaces in Cary held on the final Friday of the month. Take the C-Tran to the Cary Art Loop! The free bus will make stops at Coffee and Crepes, Studio 180 Salon, Ashworth Village, Cary Arts Center and Page-Walker Arts & History Center/Cary Town Hall. Contact: (www.caryartloop.org).

Bond Park Community Center, 150 Metro Park Drive, Cary. Through Apr. 27 - "Joely Rogers: Night Creatures". A reception will be held on Feb. 28, from 6-8pm. This collection of 10 images is part of a larger series called "Night Creatures" based on nighttime images captured by game cameras around our home on Rainbow Mountain in Montreat, North Carolina. All images were created using a combination of hand-drawn sketches and Adobe Illustrator/Photoshop. They are printed on Epson Hot Press Natural paper using archival ink and framed with archival framing components. My goals with this series are to raise awareness about the animals living in North Carolina, educate the public about the important roles these creatures play in its cove forest ecosystem, and inspire a sense of wonder at the beauty and diversity of our Appalachian wildlife. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-10pm and Sat., 9am-6pm. Contact: 919/462-3970 or at (www.townofcary.org).

Cary Arts Center, 101 Dry Avenue, Cary. Cary Arts Center Gallery, Through Mar. 21 - "JoAnn Morgan". The wall-mounted hangings are constructed in layered cotton fabric. Because they resemble quilted comforters, which are familiar and approachable, the medium is ideal for addressing provocative topics related to social justice and inequality. Despite the unset-ting themes, these stitched fabric pictures offer a soothing counterpoint to the harsh events of contemporary reality. If there is a message running throughout this work is "seeking comfort in a fraught world." Art can be a way to process events and experiences that are almost too much to bear. Mar. 26 - May 18 - "Elaine Fleck: Interlacing Practices". A reception will be held on Mar. 28, from 6-8pm. "Interlacing Practices" presents a selection of paintings that are a rich blending of fabric combined with the vibrant color of oil paint. These complex surfaces and multi-layered works challenge the viewer to look beyond the ordinary and engage themselves in the story of what it means to be alive and rooted in the soul of living things. Cary Arts Center Principal's Hall, Through Mar. 23 - "Lisa Carl". Carl says, "My paintings celebrate color, organic movement, inorganic stasis, and objects left behind. Encaustic paint is the perfect medium for these celebrations: its lush, translucent colors, the organic liquid and accretion patterns it creates, and the endless possibilities it offers for layering, incision, and incorporating objects. These works explore color and movement in numerous ways. Many are re-visions of photographs I've taken. Abstracted from their familiar figurative contexts, these pieces highlight the many ways in which human-made structures interact with and inform the organic landscape. Similarly, other works isolate found objects (rusted metal, wood, shells, stones), inviting the viewer to contemplate the singularity of the humble and mundane. Mar. 26 - May 18 - "Sydney McBride". A reception will be held on Mar. 28, from 6-8pm. The inspiration for my artwork comes from reflections on my memories and the meaning and feelings that they evoke. Personal and family photographs are often used as references to create the imagery that reflects the memory's emotional significance and its impact on my own identity. Printmaking as a medium echoes the repetitive nature of memory recollection. Cary Arts Center Display Cases, Through Mar. 23 - "Annabelle Stein". Stein says, "Color, texture and pattern have been key components of my artist toolbox, and these elements have always informed my work, whether fabric printing and design, and now cement sculpture. These latest pieces are playful experiments with forms inspired by natural objects, botanicals, light, formations." Mar. 26 - May 18 - "Metals & Jewelry Artists". A reception will be held on Mar. 28, from 6-8pm. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 9am-10pm & Fri.-Sat., 9am-11pm. Contact: 919/469-4069 or at (www.townofcary.org).

Cary Gallery of Artists, 200 S Academy St, Ste 120, Ashworth Square, Cary. Ongoing - The gallery offers high quality art in a variety of styles. Paintings, pencil and colored pencil artwork varies from traditional still lifes and landscapes to abstracts. Portraits of people or animals are available. Photographic work captures magnificent landscapes, small moments in life, portraits, and far away places. The pottery and clay art includes edgy handbuilt pieces, thought-provoking sculpted masks, and decorative and functional pottery that captures images of nature. Our jewelry artists provide a wide range of hand-crafted necklaces, earrings, bracelets and other ornaments from metals, stones, beads and fused glass. Our glass artist creates stained glass hangings, custom stained glass windows and fused glass art. You can also find unusual hand-made books and hand-painted porcelain both antique and new. Hours: Wed.&Thur., 11am-3pm and Fri.&Sat., 11am-5:30pm. Contact: 919/462-2035 or at (www.carygalleryofartists.org).

Herbert Young Community Center, 101 Wilkinson Avenue, Cary. Through Apr. 6 - "Seed of Hope". This group show is a diverse collection of visual art inspired by everlasting hope found in the Word of God. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-10pm; and Sat., 9am-6pm. Contact: 919/4604965 or (www.townofcary.org).

Page-Walker Arts & History Center, 119 Ambassador Loop, Cary. Through Mar. 1 - "Eric McRay: Cultural Ambrosia". McRay, a Raleigh based artist, was born and raised in Washington, DC. McRay uses collage to explore visual storytelling while addressing the human figure as an entity of change in theatrical narratives. These chronicles are inspired by African American, Biblical, and art history, as well as pop culture. Yet, at the core are McRay's familial relationships. This continuum searches for personal and universal experiences. Mar. 5 - May 10 - "Professional Art Quilters Alliance - South". A reception will be held on Mar. 28, from 6-8pm. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 10am-9:30pm; Fri., 10am-5pm; & Sat., 10am-1pm. (It is strongly advised that you call ahead about hours this space will be open.) Contact: 919/460-4963.

Town Hall Gallery, City of Cary Town Hall, 316 North Academy Street, Cary. Through Apr. 4 - "Alexander Percy". Percy says, "We live in times of ambivalence daily, I take refuge in painting as a means of existential survival and a method of understanding. The oil paint and the palette knife become allies of my infinite artistic search and expression of ideas. Living the pandemic through painting has given me the opportunity to reconnect with feelings, emotions and uncertainties that we treasure for one reason or another. The time captured in each of the pieces reveals stages of uncertainty intrinsic to a state of mind hidden between colors. I am worthy and deserving of my sorrows, my joys, anger, sadness, unforgettable moments, every silent feeling and every lived experience that in turn allow me to explore the possibilities of color and its meaning, of the medium and its language, of expression and its domain". Hours: Mon.-Fri., 8am-5pm. Contact: 919/469-4061.

Chapel Hill - Carrboro

Robert Henri, American, 1865-1929, Sylvester, 1914, oil on canvas. image: 32 x 26 in. (81.3 x 66 cm); frame: 39 1/4 x 33 1/4 in. (99.7 x 84.5 cm). Terra Foundation for American Art, Daniel J. Terra Art Acquisition Endowment Fund, 2017.2, L2023.2.4

Ackland Art Museum, UNC - Chapel Hill, Columbia & Franklin Streets, Chapel Hill. Through May 11 - "Triple Take: Dialogues with the Terra Collection-in-Residence". The Ackland is fortunate to have American paintings on long-term loan from the Terra Foundation for American Art. These paintings are the centerpieces of the three sections of "Triple Take: Dialogues with the Terra Collection-in-Residence". Each section of about twenty objects has different curators, who have gathered works from the Ackland that connect in often unexpected ways with the Terra Foundation loans. This three-part exhibition begins with Lyonel Feininger's Denstedt (1917), a powerful and expressionistic view of a German village. This painting serves as the starting point for an exploration of the artist's achievements across his career, curated by Peter Nisbet. Dana Cowen explores themes of looking, the mirror, and privacy through Archibald Motley's Between Acts (1935). Ammi Phillips's Girl in a Red Dress (c. 1835) and Robert Henri's Sylvester (1914) anchor a selection of representations of children chosen by Lauren Turner and Carolyn Allmendinger. This final part of the exhibition explores how knowing or not knowing the names and biographical details of the people depicted can affect our experience of the artworks. Through July 13 - "Processing Systems: Bonding by Sherrill Roland". In the exhibition, monumental square grids of multi-colored numbers dominate the exhibition space like giant sudoku puzzles. To create them, artist Sherrill Roland reclaims United States Federal and State Correctional Identification Numbers and repurposes them through what he considers to be a systematized portrait making technique. The grids on view act as logic exercises that scramble and rework the former correctional IDs of the artist and his father. The resulting wall drawings create theoretical portraits of the two subjects. The shared system employed to create the two works emphasizes the various bonds shared by these family members at the same time that the formal qualities of the drawings evoke lone figures bound by cells. Permanent Collection Galleries, Through Dec. 31, 2025 - At any one time, there are about 250 works of art from the Ackland's distinguished permanent collection on view. The displays cover many eras and cultures, including most of the Museum's collection areas: the Ancient Mediterranean, Africa, Asia, the Americas, and Europe. Occasional galleries present small selections of prints, drawings, photographs, and other light-sensitive works. You can search our online collection database and filter by works on view. Try saving your own collection of objects using the new "favorites" function! Museum Store Gallery (Franklin and Columbia Street), Store hours: Mon.-Sat., 10am-5:30pm & Sun., noon-5pm. Museum Hours: Wed.-Sat., 1-5pm. Contact: 919/966-5736 or at (www.ackland.org).

FRANK, 370 E Main St. Carrboro, Carrboro's East Main Square, next to Hickory Tavern and the Hampton by Hilton hotel, Chapel Hill. Ongoing - Featuring work from over 70 artists, Frank offers more than you'd expect from an art gallery. Frank is a collective, founded by the area's finest artists working together to open the door for creative innovation in the arts. Hours: Tue.-Sat., noon-5pm or by appt. Contact: 919/962-0522 or at (<http://ncbg.unc.edu>).

Charlotte Area

South End Art Gallery Crawl - From 5-8pm on the 1st Friday of each month.

Bechtler Museum of Modern Art, Levine Center for the Arts, 420 South Tryon St., Charlotte. Through Mar. 3 - "Chance Encounters: Surrealism Then and Now." Surrealism was an artistic and literary movement formed in Paris in 1924 that emphasized the fantastical, dream imagery, and subconscious thought. Privileging experimentation and uninhibited modes of expression, Surrealism produced radical new techniques and visual forms that continue to inspire artists today. Celebrating the 100th anniversary of the publication of the Surrealist Manifesto, the Bechtler's new exhibition, Chance Encounters: Surrealism Then and Now, pairs examples of historical Surrealism from the museum's collection with works by contemporary artists whose practices extend the legacies of Surrealist exploration. Paying tribute to the inclusive and international scope of the movement, the exhibition includes Max Ernst, Meret Oppenheim, Rufino Tamayo, alongside Heri Dono and Naudine Pierre, and includes loans from local private and public collections. Ongoing - The Bechtler Museum of Modern Art is named after the family of Andreas Bechtler, a Charlotte resident and native of Switzerland who assembled and inherited a collection of more than 1,400 artworks created by major figures of 20th-century modernism and donated it to the public trust. The Bechtler collection comprises artworks by seminal figures such as Alberto Giacometti, Joan Miro, Jean Tinguely, Max Ernst, Andy Warhol, Alexander Calder, Le Corbusier, Sol LeWitt, Edgar Degas, Nicolas de Stael, Barbara Hepworth and Picasso. Only a handful of the artworks in the Bechtler collection have been on public view in the United States. Admission: Yes. Hours: Mon., Wed.-Sat., 10am-5pm; Sun. noon-5pm; and open until 9pm the 1st. and 3rd. Fri. of each month. Contact: 704/353-9200 or at (www.bechtler.org).

Bill and Patty Gorelick Gallery, at Central Piedmont Community College's Central Campus, North Classroom, 1320 Sam Ryburn Walk, Charlotte. Through June 30 - Featuring works by Tom Thoun and Amy St. Aubin. Thoun's artwork focuses on his hospital experience after a cerebellar stroke. For his self prescribed occupational therapy, he took on relearning many traditional visual art concepts, such as ancient Egyptian and Greek body proportions as well as revisiting color theory. His color study focused on harmonious recipes found on the "Pocket Color Wheel". Aubin's artwork represents an evolution of her practice over the past fifteen years, focusing on the figure as a portal between landscapes. She explores the interaction between the figure and the background, pushing the figure into the foreground or placing it within the landscape to manipulate depth. This series continues to incorporate collage and cold wax, expanding across different surfaces. In these pieces, the figure becomes either a presence or an absence, reflecting the spaces left after physical loss. Her work conveys the disbelief that what once was, is no longer—but still lingers. Hours: open while campus is open, but reservations help us alert our security team to visitors, provide directions to the galleries. Contact: 704/330-6869 or e-mail to (foundation@cpcc.edu) to schedule an appointment. For directions to Central Piedmont's campuses, visit (cpcc.edu/locations).

by Elizabeth Bradford. The exhibition highlights the talent of an artist who has spent fifty years diligently working within our own community, capturing the evolving landscapes she holds dear. She draws inspiration from a profound connection to nature through direct observations while hiking or kayaking primarily in the Southeastern United States where she resides. While her works are predominantly representational, they also maintain a relationship with abstraction. The exhibition's accompanying catalogue includes essays by Dr. Emily Stamey, Curator of Academic Programming & Head of Exhibitions at Weatherspoon Art Museum; Dr. Leo Mazow, Louise B. and J. Harwood Cochrane Curator of American Art, Virginia Museum of Fine Arts; and an interview between Bradford and Tyler Green, award-winning historian and critic who has produced and hosted "The Modern Art Notes Podcast" since 2011. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 10am-5pm and Sat. & Sun., noon-4pm. Contact: 704/894-2519 or at (www.davidsoncollegeartgalleries.org).

Harvey B. Gantt Center for African-American Arts & Culture, Levine Center for the Arts, 551 S. Tryon St., Charlotte. Through Aug. 17 - "Cherry, Khalif Tahir Thompson," is the first institutional solo exhibition in the United States, features eight large-scale paintings that explore themes related to identity, memory, and emotion. Imbued with a sense of nostalgia yet charged with a contemporary energy that bridges the tangible and the imagined, Thompson creates layered compositions that invite viewers into intimate spaces, drawing from the artist's personal experiences, family archives, and broader cultural narratives. "Cherry" invites viewers to explore how identity is remembered, shared, and reimagined, celebrating the complex layers of human experience. Through May 11 - "YoYo Lander: Between the Quiet, Selected Works from 2019-2024". Known for her portraits of solitary African diasporic subjects, contemporary artist YoYo Lander captures visual form via a psychological and empathetic drive to understand her subjects, not only through the features of their physical bodies but also through moments in which introspection prompts them to most fully reveal themselves. As a self-taught painter and collagist, Lander highlights the multifacetedness of Black identity while also exploring the expressive aspects of the human figure through which gesture, line, posture, and color convey meaning. Through Apr. 13 - "American Gurl," co-curated by Zehra Zehra and Kilo Kish. The exhibition is an ongoing curatorial project featuring work that explores all shades of American dreaming. This project's installment takes shape as a film exhibition that presents eight films by intergenerational artists with curiosity around the perspectives and nuances within the Black feminine experience and our relationships with beauty, success, freedom, and power in America. "American Gurl" is presented in collaboration with Womxn in Windows, a platform whose mission is to share the perspectives of women of color through video, art, film, and performance. Ongoing - Featuring selections from the John & Vivian Hewitt Collection of African-American Art, one of the nation's most important and comprehensive collections of African-American art. Hours: Thur. - Sat., noon-6pm & Sun., noon-6pm. Contact: 704/547-3700 or at (www.ganttcenter.org).

Lamba Gallery, Storrs Building, 100, 9201 University City Blvd. UNC Charlotte Main Campus, Charlotte. Through Mar. 28 - "Erin Fostel: To See Ourselves Seeing". Erin Fostel is a visual artist who creates representational drawings with charcoal. Her work often depicts the everyday moments of life, from images of intimate home interiors to the shared public space. She holds a BFA in Drawing and Art History from the Maryland Institute College of Art and has exhibited in venues throughout the United States and Europe, including the C. Grimaldis Gallery (Baltimore, MD); Virginia Museum of Contemporary Art (Virginia Beach, VA); Utah Museum of Contemporary Art (Salt Lake City, UT); Neon Gallery (Wroclaw, Poland); Moving Poets Novilla (Berlin, Germany); and the Academy Art Museum (Easton, MD). Fostel is a 2019 recipient of the Municipal Art Society of Baltimore City Artist Travel Prize and a Maryland State Arts Council Individual Artist Award. Her drawings are in the collections of the Baltimore Museum of Art, the Maryland Center for History and Culture, CFG Bank, and the Robert W. Deutsch Foundation. Her studio is based in Baltimore. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-5pm. Contact: 704/687-2397.

Latin American Contemporary Art Projects (LaCa), 1429 Bryant Street, in the heart of the revitalized FreeMoreWest neighborhood, Charlotte. Ongoing - LaCa Projects is a platform dedicated to the presentation, development, and promotion of Latin American art and culture within the United States. The gallery encourages cross-cultural dialogue by representing a small group of influential and thought-provoking contemporary, emerging and mid-career artists, as well as exhibiting a broader range of work by established and Master Latin American artists. The gallery, which has expertise in a number of different art media with a significant focus on paintings, will also be part of a larger planned expansion that includes open artist studios and a dining concept. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 1-5pm or by appt. Contact: Neely Verano at (neely@lacaprojects.com) or call 704/609-8487.

Levine Museum of the New South, 401 South Tryon Street, (former Wells Fargo Museum) Charlotte. Ongoing - "Charlotte: Moving Forward, Looking Back". To move forward and make the city a better place for everyone, we must look back and learn from choices made in the past. The exhibit tells the story of Charlotte from Native and early European settlement to today. The exhibition combines stories of people, places, and events in a foundational narrative of Charlotte history that answers thought-provoking questions about how we got here and where we are headed. Experience Charlotte stories through objects from the Levine Museum's collections, interactive media displays, and art by local creatives. Ongoing - Building a stronger, more equitable community by connecting people to Charlotte and to each other through history, culture, and celebration. Admission: Free. Hours: Tue.-Fri., 11am-5pm; Wed. till 9pm; Sat., 10am-5pm; & Sun., noon-5pm. Contact: 704/333-1887 or at (museumofthenewsouth.org).

Work by Ellen Lee Klein

Matthews Town Hall, 232 Matthews Station Street, Matthews. Through Mar. 26 - "Transformed - New Works by Ellen Lee Klein". This exhibition of bold and inventive nature inspired works includes oil and acrylic paintings on canvas and on paper. The artist interprets, while transforming, the mundane contemporary natural world in her North Carolina back yard, daily vistas and environs. Skillfully and generously employing the formal elements to evoke physical and emotional responses in the viewer, she reflects her tongue in cheek responses to contemporary life around her. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 8am-5pm. Contact: 704/847-4411.

McColl Center for Art + Innovation, 721 North Tryon Street, Charlotte. Through Jan. 18 - "The Audacity". McColl Center is pleased to present The Audacity, a group exhibition curated by Doris Kapner, featuring Studio Artists Maddie Foss, Melanee Hamilton, Bethany Salisbury, Melissa Stutts, Karina Walter and Betsy Rosen in collaboration with Héctor Vaca Cruz and Kass Small. The Audacity examines the conflicting and arbitrary expectations placed on women, often referred to as the "Goldilocks Dilemma." Women are criticized for being too much or too little: too loud, too soft, too assertive, too agreeable—rarely seen as "just right." Through Jan. 18 - "Ties That Bind: Portraits by Mitchell Kearney of Artists at McColl Center, 1999–2008," curated by Melissa Stutts. Twenty-five years ago, the dream of creating an urban artist's colony in a fire-ravaged church in uptown Charlotte became a reality. Since 1999, McColl Center's artist residency program has been a haven for artists—a place where they have the time, space, and resources to make their dreams a reality. Photographer Mitchell Kearney was there from the start. Founding president, Suzanne Fetscher, an artist herself, asked Kearney to capture the creative process. His charge was to offer a glimpse into how art is made by each resident artist, and to show a place that connects the community to the artist at work and not just the finished artwork. "Ties That Bind: Portraits by Mitchell Kearney of Artists at McColl Center, 1999–2008" reveals an intimate and collaborative approach. Both the artist and the photographer are at work, doing what they love. Although McColl Center is no longer a church, there is still something sacred in the act of creativity. Hours: Call about visiting. Contact: 704/332-5535 or at (www.mccollcenter.org).

Mint Hill Arts Gallery, 11205 Lawyers Road, Ste. A, Mint Hill. Ongoing - We are more than just a gallery; we are a vibrant hub of creativity, passionately committed to fostering a thriving arts community. Our gallery's mission is deeply rooted in our connection to the local community. From the moment you step through our doors, you'll be enveloped by the warmth and artistic spirit that defines our town. As artists ourselves, we understand the importance of cultivating an environment that nurtures and celebrates creativity in all its forms. Hours: Wed.-Sat., noon-3pm. Contact: 980/226-5532 or at (minthillarts.org).

Mint Museum Randolph, 2730 Randolph Road, Charlotte. Through Feb. 16 - "Objects of Affection: Jewelry by Robert Ebendorf From the Porter • Price Collection". This exhibition celebrates the work of artist Robert Ebendorf, one of the most influential artists in the studio jewelry movement, beginning in the 1960s to today. The exhibition features more than 180 works of jewelry, metalwork, drawings, and archival materials drawn from the Porter • Price Collection designed by Ebendorf, as well as faculty and graduates of the metal design program at East Carolina University. Ebendorf's work combines exceptional craftsmanship, acquired through traditional training in gold- and silversmithing, with the inventive use of found objects and other alternative materials such as acrylic and ColorCore. "Objects of Affection" follows the evolution of Ebendorf's designs from Scandinavian modernism of his early work to his first use of found objects, including tintype photographs in the 1960s; juxtapositions of colored acrylic and precious metals in the 1970s; use of found newspaper and other textual elements in the 1980s; his pivotal incorporation of animal parts in the 1990s; and the remixing and further development of many of these approaches in the 21st century. Delhom Gallery, Through June 8 - "The Delhom Service League: 50 Golden Years". The Delhom Service League (DSL) provided a half-century of generous support and impactful initiatives to The Mint Museum, helping to fund the acquisition of more than 200 works of art in the Mint's collection. The exhibition celebrates the Delhom Service League's enthusiastic support for the Mint by proudly displaying significant works funded or gifted by the affiliate group, plus selected publications, photographs and other memorabilia. In 2022, the Delhom Service League made the difficult decision to dissolve as a Mint affiliate. The league nevertheless remains an indelible part of the Mint's history, and its many contributions rightly deserve the museum's never-ending recognition and gratitude. Ongoing - "The Cole Family: A Dynasty of North Carolina Potters". From crocks, jars, and jugs to pitchers, candleholders, and vases, "turning pots" is one of the oldest and richest craft traditions in North Carolina. For more than 200 years, members of the Cole family have been potting in central North Carolina — Randolph, Moore, Lee, and Montgomery counties. Six generations of Coles, and no fewer than 18 individuals, are represented in The Mint Museum's permanent collection. More than 60 highlights of their wares are included in the installation "The Cole Family: A Dynasty of North Carolina Potters". One reason for its long-term success is that making pottery has so often been a family tradition in the state. Fathers taught the art of forming, glazing, and firing clay objects to their sons, and in later generations also to daughters, who in turn taught their children, and so on through the decades. These family dynasties not only helped to keep the potting craft alive, but ensured continuity in techniques and craftsmanship, as well as introduced artistic innovations in succeeding generations. "The Cole Family: A Dynasty of North Carolina Potters" presents a visual history of "turned pots" and the family that helped turn North Carolina into one of America's centers for handmade, traditional pottery. Bridges and Levine Galleries, Ongoing - "Contemporary British Studio Ceramics: The Grainer Collection". Focused on the collection of Diane and Marc Grainer, this installation is a survey of contemporary British studio ceramics. Comprising functional and sculptural objects made between the 1980s and today, the show features work by artists either born or residing in Great Britain, including established "contemporary classics" like Gordon Baldwin and Rupert Spira, and cutting-edge ceramicists such as Julian Stair and Kate Malone. Several recently-gifted works from the Grainers are included. Alexander, Spangler, and Harris Galleries, Ongoing - "Portals to the Past: British Ceramics 1675 - 1825". The Mint Museum's collection of eighteenth-century British pottery and porcelain is widely respected for its scope and quality. The collection numbers over 2,000 objects and includes important examples of both salt-glazed and dry-bodied stoneware from Staffordshire; tin-glazed earthenware from Bristol, Liverpool, and London; and cream-colored earthenware from Derbyshire, Staffordshire, and Yorkshire. Notable eighteenth-century porcelain factories represented include Chelsea, Bow, and Vauxhall in London, Longton Hall in Staffordshire, Worcester, Bristol, and others. Individual works in the collection are exceptional because of their rarity, craftsmanship, provenance, or as representative examples of particular types or methods of production or decoration. Ongoing - "American Glass". The nineteenth and early twentieth centuries represented a time of extraordinary growth for the American glass industry. Such companies as Boston & Sandwich Glass Company in Sandwich, MA; Steuben Glass Works in Corning, NY; and Libbey Glass Company in Toledo, OH, began operation and soon developed notable reputations for producing fashionable wares that were coveted by many middle- and upper-class consumers. "American Glass" showcases objects by these and other American glass companies, illustrating the variety of forms and styles that prevailed during this period. Glass-manufacturing techniques will be another focus of the exhibition, with representative examples of pressed, cut, blown, and molded glass. Nearly all of the works on view are from The Mint Museum's permanent collection of glass, which is second in size only to the ceramics collection in the museum's Decorative Arts holdings. Ongoing - "Arts of Africa". The African Art Gallery has been re-envisioned. We have some exciting updates from Mint Museum Randolph! Thanks to the collaboration with Lisa Homann, associate professor of art history at UNC Charlotte, and guest curator of the reinstallation, the African Art galleries have been refreshed with a renewed focus on provenance and a deeper exploration of the collection. The reinstallation offers fresh perspectives, examining the works through the lenses of global connections, domestic experiences, and ceremonial masquerades, while considering how Western perceptions have historically shaped African art. A standout feature of the transformation is the 2024 commission of a Kimi Masquerade Ensemble by artist David Sanou, created in Burkina Faso with fully documented provenance—an exceptional addition to the collection. This is an ongoing project, and we look forward to continuing our collaboration with Homann and others to share new insights as they unfold. Heritage Gallery, Ongoing - Feature works of art, archival documents, and photographs documenting the growth and evolution of the museum, from its beginnings as the original branch of the US Mint to its founding as an art museum to the present and beyond. Ongoing - "Art for the Millions: WPA Prints" and "Carolina Clay," featuring a display of colorful wares made between 1920 and 1950 as potters from NC adapted their works to a market economy. "Art of the United States," featuring contemporary works from the Mint's permanent collection, including works by Romare Bearden, Maud Gatewood, John Biggers, Juan Logan, Tarlton Blackwell, Radcliffe Bailey, Kojo Griffin, and others. "Art in the Americas," featuring paintings, precious metalwork, sculpture, furniture and decorative arts from the 17th through the 19th centuries illustrate the unique culture that emerged from the Spanish colonization of the Americas. Crosland Gallery - Featuring a presentation of portraits with many fascinating images presented. Rankin Gallery - Featuring a presentation of the Romare Bearden Collection, including two "new" Beardens. Admission: Yes. Hours: Wed., 11am-9pm (free admission 5-9pm); Thur.-Sat., 11am-6pm; & Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 704/337-2000 or at (www.mintmuseum.org).

and David J. Haemisegger Curator of Modern and Contemporary Art, Duke University; Victoria Ramirez, PHD, Executive Director, Arkansas Museum of Fine Arts; and Stephanie J. Woods, Assistant Professor, Interdisciplinary Art, University of New Mexico. Through Mar. 2 - "Kenny Nguyen: Adaptations". Adaptation is defined as "the process in which a living thing changes slightly over time to be able to continue to exist in a particular environment." Kenny Nguyen feels this process materialized within himself, his lineage, and his methodology of making. Born and raised on a coconut grove in the B n Tre province of Vietnam, the artist lived a quiet rural life and later moved to the States at the age of 19. This dispersion from his homeland mapped a new internal geography—a subtle double-consciousness that the artist works with—traversing the spiritual and physical, the contemporary and historical. Through Aug. 10 - "Women of Land and Smoke: Photographs by Graciela Iturbide and Maya Goded". The exhibition includes over 50 photographs that present an overview of Iturbide and Goded's careers that span the Americas. For the past three years, the Mint has been building a significant portfolio of works by Mexico City-based photographers Graciela Iturbide and Maya Goded. Over the decades, the two photographers have created revealing, poignant, and powerful images that examine the intersection of contemporary life and centuries-long practices throughout North and South America. Craft + Design Galleries, Ongoing - "Craft in the Laboratory: The Science of Making Things," is the first installation in the Southeast to explore how craft artists and designers use science and math concepts when creating works of art. Presented by M ller Corporation, Craft in the Laboratory also celebrates a reinstallation of the Mint's Craft + Design Galleries—the first since 2010. Co-curated by the Mint's Senior Curator of Craft, Design, and Fashion Annie Carlano and Assistant Curator for Craft, Design, and Fashion Rebecca Elliot, "Craft in the Laboratory" includes 100 works from the Mint's collection that are made from precious metals, wood, steel, polymers, and even agricultural waste, that emphasize the preciseness of science used to craft works of art. Made by nationally and internationally renowned artists, the objects are organized by material and subject throughout the galleries. Now - The Mint Museum's new four-story installation "Foragers" offers a transcendent experience while celebrating the tradition of women as makers and providers. Unlike anything ever seen at The Mint Museum before, Brooklyn-based artist Summer Wheat's "Foragers" is a monumental piece of public work of art spanning 96 windows, four stories, and 3,720 square feet at Mint Museum Uptown's Robert Haywood Morrison Atrium. The myriad of vibrant panels that give the illusion of stained glass and celebrates the tradition of women as makers and providers. "Foragers" is part of a larger exhibition "In Vivid Color," which brings together four innovative contemporary artists—Wheat, Gisela Colon, Spencer Finch, and Jennifer Steinkamp—who create works celebrating the power of color and its ability to permeate the space around us. Their work is juxtaposed with a selection of paintings and works on paper, drawn primarily from The Mint Museum's permanent collection, which showcase artists' more traditional exploration of color. Ongoing - The Mint Museum Uptown houses the world renowned collections of the Mint Museum of Craft + Design, as well as the American Art and Contemporary Art collections and selected works from the European Art collection. The building also includes a caf , a Family Gallery, painting and ceramics studios, classrooms, a 240-seat auditorium, a Special Events Pavilion with outdoor terrace, and an expanded Museum Shop specializing in crafts of the Carolinas. Admission: Yes. Hours: Wed., 11am-9pm (free admission 5-9pm); Thur.-Sat., 11am-6pm; & Sun., 1-5pm. Now Fri. till 9pm. Contact: 704/337-2000 or at (www.mintmuseum.org).

Pauline Dove Art Gallery, Central Piedmont Community College, located inside the college's new Parr Center, Charlotte. Through Mar. 14 - "Liliya Zalevskaya: Shadow Landscapes," includes print-based and collaged artwork on paper and fabric. The tapestries blur the line between fantasy and reality, by reimagining personal memories. The imagery explores identity, belonging, and politics of memory subtly hinting at trauma and displacement. Mar. 24 - July 31 - "2025 Annual Juried Student Art Show," featuring works by Central Piedmont visual arts students. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 10am-4pm or by appt. View outside The Museum of the Cherokee People

The Museum of the Cherokee People, 589 Tsali Boulevard, Cherokee. Ongoing - Welcome to a sweeping history of the Cherokee Nation, engaging and oftentimes heart-rending, from ice age beginnings to present-day life and culture. In the brushstrokes of this fascinating heritage, you'll discover the warp and weft of treaties, the roots of a naturalistic language, artifacts of particular periods, great figures and heroes and entrancing stories of a civilization along with the Cherokee's distinctive values and ways of being in the world before and after "the Trail of Tears." The museum offers courses and workshops that combine scholarly content with voices of Cherokee people and experiences on the Qualla Boundary. A perfect place to begin exploration of Cherokee heritage and traditions is the Museum of the Cherokee Indian in Cherokee, North Carolina. Visitors are greeted at the entrance by a 20-foot hand-carved statue of Sequoyah, the inventor of the Cherokee alphabet. An interpretive site for the Trail of Tears National Historic Trail, this state-of-the-art facility traces the story of the Cherokee from the earliest inhabitants of the area 11,000 years ago to the present. An extensive exhibit of artifacts and photos is enhanced with computer-generated holograms and other imagery, sound, and special effects that leave a lasting and haunting impression on the visitor. The museum gift shop is rich in Cherokee tradition. Locally created baskets, pottery, wood carvings, decorated gourds and beadwork are among the art available for sale. Books on Cherokee history, culture, language, and genealogy line the shelves, along with audio CDs and tapes by local musicians and storytellers. Admission: Yes. Durham Arts Council Building, 120 Morris Street, Durham. Allenton & Semans Gallery, Through Mar. 10 - "Viva la Vida ante la Adversidad/ Live Life in the Face of Adversity," the annual Inter-Latin American Artist Collective (ILAAC) exhibit. After reflecting on several options for the title of this exhibition, the Inter Latin American Artist Collective (ILAAC) decided on Live Life in the Face of Adversity. This title reflects the difficulties and challenges we have faced during 2024, from political and social contexts to migration challenges. We know that 2025 will be a year full of adversities, and for that reason, we believe it is crucial to highlight what we are experiencing as a community. Other titles we considered included: "Cultivating the Heart: Heart and Kindness", "Moving Forward" and "Overcoming Adversity, Living Life, and Surviving in the Face of Adversity". This exhibition showcases the work of the Inter-Latin American Artist Collective (ILAAC) and highlights the different ways in which each artist uses art to express their perspective on the difficulties we face, as well as on our culture and traditions. The exhibited works offer a rich and diverse perspective on each artist's creations and how each one approaches everyday adversities. ILAAC consists of the artists Pepe Caudillo, Luis MacKinney, Anton io Alanis, Lety Alvarez, Peter Mar n, Jos  Manuel Cruz, and Cornelio Campos. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 9am-9pm & Sun. 1-6pm. The Nasher Museum of Art, Duke University Central Campus, 2001 Campus Drive, Durham. Through May 11 - "By dawn's early light". The years 2024 and 2025 mark the sixtieth anniversaries of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Voting Rights Act of 1965. The two Acts transformed life in the United States for many marginalized individuals, including people of color, women, people with disabilities, elders, and others who had not had equal rights in the nation's history. This legislation was the culmination of nearly a century of work by activists and advocates. Participating artists include: Kathryn Andrews, Adrián Balseca, Bill Bamberger, Roger Brown, Diego Camposeco, Kennedy Carter, Mel Chin, Dario Escobar, Leonard Freed, Genevieve Gaignard, Scherezade Garcia, Titus Brooks Heagins, Barkley L. Hendricks, Ken Heyman, Henry Horenstein, Dapper Bruce Lafitte, Michelangelo Lovelace, Danny Lyon, Mary Ellen Mark, Vik Muniz, Kambui Olujimi, Bill Owens, Gordon Parks, Fahamu Pecou, Ad Reinhardt, Gary Simmons, Jaune Quick-To-See Smith, Erika Stone, Lou Stouman, Sage Sohler, Sarah Sudhoff, Hank Willis Thomas, Burk Uzzle, Nari Ward, Antoine Williams, Fred Wilson, Purvis Young, and George Zimbel.

Through July 15 - "Art of the Andes". Art of the Andes features ceramics, textiles, metalwork, and carvings produced by cultures across the Andes region, a 4,500-mile-long mountain range on the Pacific Coast of South America. These objects, many on view for the first time, reveal the diverse and sophisticated artmaking techniques through which ancient Andeans expressed ancestral beliefs and personal and political identities. The wall case provides a comparative view of the ceramic production of several prominent Peruvian civilizations, presented chronologically from left to right. From the colorful painted motifs of the Nasca and the sculptural realism of the Moche to the whistling vessels of the Chancay, the ceramics depict both realistic and stylized animals, people, deities, food, and scenes of warfare, performance, and pleasure. Through July 20 - "Art of the U.S.: American Stories/American Myths." What comes to mind when you think of the history of the United States? The "discovery" of the continent by European explorers? The American Revolution and founding of the country? Westward expansion, or perhaps the turmoil of the Civil War? This re-installed gallery incorporates historical and contemporary works of art from the United States to tell some of these stories and confront some of these myths. The gallery includes a variety of works to encourage visitors to think about how these narratives shape our understanding and may preserve or counter fallacies of nationhood and democracy. Ongoing - The Collection Galleries feature rotating installations of the Nasher Museum's extensive holdings of historical art. Eight galleries, as well as the entrance to Wilson Pavilion, are dedicated to the museum's strengths, which represent a brief history of human creativity from different times and parts of the world. Just beyond the entrance, visitors will find the Incubator, a flexible space for rotating student- and faculty-curated exhibitions. Visitors are invited to return again and again to The Collection Galleries, where Nasher curators continue to refresh the galleries with gems from the collection. The museum's contemporary collection is showcased through rotating exhibitions within a separate pavilion. Works from the contemporary collection create new conversations and connections among historical works in The Collection Galleries. A breakthrough work by New York artist Fred Wilson from 1990, Colonial Collection, anchors the Arts of Africa Gallery. A painting by Kehinde Wiley is on view in the European Art Gallery. Ongoing - Nasher Museum Café and Museum Shop. Admission: Yes, but free to Durham residents, courtesy of "The Herald-Sun" newspaper. Hours: Tue. - Sat., 10am-5pm; Thur. till 9pm; & Sun., noon-5pm. disabilities. Both individually and collectively, their narratives speak to the fact that while chronic conditions and disabilities are part of one's identity, they don't define anyone. This exhibition was organized by UNCG's Zeta Phi chapter of the Delta Alpha Pi International Honor Society, the Career and Professional Development Office (CPD), and the Office of Accessibility Resources and Services (OARS). Participant photographs were taken by Vivian O'Brien, employment data and marketing coordinator in CPD. Louise D. and Herbert S. Falk, Sr. Gallery, Through Mar. 29 - "Embodied: Finding Meaning in the Human Form." Hands, feet, lips, legs—when we call these individual body parts to mind, we might think first of their physical functions: the ways they allow us to hold, stand, speak, and move. But what about their capacity to produce gestures with cultural significance, to hold the tangible marks of living and aging across time, or to be wounded and healed? This exhibition presents the work of artists who address these broader themes and others. Collectively, their images and sculptures explore human experiences that are at once universal and unique: vulnerability and strength, social expectations and self-determination, hopes and memories, love and loss. Focusing on seemingly simple, singular parts of the body, these works open up ways to see and think about the shared complexity of being human. This exhibition has been curated by the students in Art History 490: Museums and Exhibition Spaces. It features artworks from the Weatherspoon's collection as well as generous promised gifts from artist and collector Carol Cole Levin. The Gregory D. Ivy Gallery, Weatherspoon Guild Gallery, and Gallery 6, Through July 5 - "Making Connections: Art, Place, and Relationships". Following the success last academic year of the collection exhibition, Making Room: Familiar Art, New Stories is Making Connections: Art, Place, and Relationships. Building on the museum's desire to engage its audiences in more personal and meaningful ways, this installation of works from the collection showcases the Weatherspoon as an academic museum with deep connections to and relationships with its campus, Greensboro, and broader communities. Back in 1941, the Weatherspoon was founded with the goal of serving as a teaching resource specifically for UNCG's department of art. Over the course of its 80+ years, the museum's mission has expanded to serve many more. Objects included in this iteration of collection highlights showcase the Weatherspoon's relationship over the years with various art collectors, UNCG fine art alumni and faculty, Greensboro community leaders, artists who taught at Black Mountain College and those who exhibited in the museum's signature exhibition, Art on Paper, as well as a few of the many UNCG departments that currently incorporate the museum's collection into their pedagogy. The Bob & Lissa Shelley McDowell Gallery, Through Apr. 26 - "Crip* | Artists Engage with Disability." This group exhibition features contemporary artists who engage with experiences and understandings of disability. They do so by thinking about the ways that one's personal experience of disability always intersects with other aspects of their life. Some of the artists in the show identify as disabled and some do not, but each has a relationship to at least one identity that is not perceived as normal. Too often, such artists are expected to "perform" these identities by making images of themselves. While those images can help diversify the art world, they can also pigeonhole artists, flatten our interpretations of their work, and make the distinctions between "normal" and "not-normal" more rigid. Artists whose work is featured in the exhibition include: Liz Barr, Emilie Gossiaux, Max Guy, Christopher Robert Jones, Carly Mandel, Darin Martin, Alison O'Daniel, Berenice Olmedo, Carmen Papalia, Brontez Purnell, Finnegan Shannon, Heather Kai Smith, and Alex Dolores Salerno. Weatherspoon Atrium Mural, Through Dec. 31 - "Sheena Rose: Pause and Breathe, We Got This". The Weatherspoon is pleased to feature a major new artwork by artist Sheena Rose, MFA '16 in its atrium. A multidisciplinary artist working in animation, drawing, painting, and performance, Rose's vibrant and energetic work is at once anchored in her Caribbean heritage and expansive in its explorations of culture and human experience. A native of Barbados, where she continues to live and work, Rose attended UNC Greensboro as a Fulbright Scholar from 2014 to 2016. "UNCG gave me a place to think about where I come from—my race, gender, sexuality, and culture as a Black woman from the Caribbean," she said, reflecting on her time in North Carolina. "It gave me a chance to face myself and move forward with brave steps and to take risks in the studio." Lobbies - Featuring works of art complementing current gallery exhibitions which are rotated in the atrium and public areas throughout both floors of the gallery. Tom Otterness' site-specific work, "The Frieze" is permanently installed in the atrium. Sculpture Courtyard - Featuring selections of American sculpture from 1900 to the present from the Weatherspoon Collection and on loan works from contemporary artists. Admission: Free. Hours: Tue.-Wed. & Fri.-Sat., from 10am-5pm and Thur., 10am-8pm. Contact: 336/334-5770 or at (<http://weatherspoon.uncg.edu/>).

ALTERNATE ART SPACES - Greensboro Creative Aging Network-NC (CAN-NC), 2400 Summit Ave., Greensboro. Ongoing - The mission of the Creative Aging Network-NC (CAN-NC) is to provide innovative arts programming and education to enhance the well-being and social connection among older adults throughout North Carolina. Greenville

Emerge Gallery & Art Center, 404 S. Evans St., Greenville. Ongoing - Featuring works in a variety of media by students, faculty, alumni (East Carolina University) and local artists. Hours: Tue.-Fri., 10am-9pm; Sat., 10am-4pm & Sun., 1-4pm. Contact: 252/551-6947 or at (www.emergegallery.com).

Greenville Museum of Art, 802 South Evans Street, Greenville. West Wing & Commons Gallery, Through Mar. 7 - "How We Got Over :: sayings from my kindred 'nem," an exhibition guest curated by Zacaria Sage. A reception will be held on Feb. 7, from 5-8pm. This exhibition showcases the work of seven North Carolina-based artists working in a variety of media in response to GMA's current exhibition, "Aphorisms & Verses: Works from the GMA Collection" by Ben Shahn and Marvin Saltzman, which will remain partially installed through Mar. 7. "An aphorism is an expressive truth, observation, or set of instructions," writes guest curator Zacaria Sage and curatorial consultant Sir Porte. "This concept transcends generational lines, cultures, and territory borders to equip people with life-sourced guidance. The work of Ben Shahn and Marvin Saltzman are some examples of sense-making with aphorisms through written or visual forms in the GMA permanent collection. Those works are in conversation with the seven invited artists of "How We Got Over" :: sayings from my kindred 'nem, who have unearthed other Aphro-isms. Aphro-isms, or Black Aphorisms, offer a rich legacy of sharing the wisdom gained from lived experience and the trials we have overcome. Aphro-isms are an oral tradition of learning, telling, remembering, and listening to truths. The embedded knowledge of these sometimes witty or metaphorical wisdoms often comes from those with the knowledge of danger, marginality, or precarity." The Francis Speight and Sarah Blakeslee Gallery, Ongoing - Is dedicated to the work of these two artists. Speight was born in Bertie County, North Carolina, and moved back to Greenville to teach at East Carolina University after spending a majority of his career at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts. Blakeslee was born in Illinois and met Speight at the Academy as a student. The couple lived outside of Philadelphia until moving to Greenville in 1961. The Kenneth Noland Gallery, Ongoing - Celebrates the art and legacy of Black Mountain College, an innovative liberal arts college that operated between 1933 and 1957. Kenneth Noland, born in Asheville in 1924, attended Black Mountain College on the G. I. Bill from 1946 to 1948. He studied under Josef Albers and Ilya Bolotowsky, who introduced him to the work of artists interested in geometry and color. The Rachel Maxwell Moore Art Foundation Gallery, Ongoing - Features rotating works purchased for the Museum by the foundation. Rachel Maxwell Moore was a leading civic figure and arts advocate in Greenville. and was central to the founding of the Museum's predecessor in 1939. She established the Rachel Maxwell Moore Art Foundation in 1963, and before she passed away in 1964, bequeathed funds to the foundation for the sole purpose of purchasing works of art for the Museum's permanent collection. Ongoing - GMAoA has a strong collection of North Carolina pottery, and especially from Jugtown Pottery in Seagrove, North Carolina. Jugtown Pottery was opened by Jacques and Juliana Busbee in 1921. They were influential at Jugtown and elsewhere in Seagrove by introducing local North Carolina potters to international ceramic styles and glazes. Much of our pottery collection was given to the Museum by Mrs. Lindsay Savage in 1948 and Dr. James H. Stewart in the 1980s. Admission: Free. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10-4:30pm. Contact: 252/758-1946 or at (www.gmoa.org).

Hendersonville/ Flat Rock

The Gallery at Art Place, 2021 Asheville Hwy., Hendersonville. Ongoing - The Art League of Henderson County provides access to the visual arts for our community and its visitors. At the heart of our mission is the belief that visual arts play a pivotal role in enriching our cultural tapestry. The visual arts are more than just a form of expression; they are a catalyst for cultural enrichment. As The Art League, we strive to contribute to the very fabric of our community by fostering a deep sense of identity and pride among our residents. Beyond the cultural realm, we recognize art's significant role in enhancing local economic vitality. Hours: Wed.-Sat., 11am-4pm. Contact: 828/490-5639 or at (ArtLeagueHVL.org).

Eric Canty, "Vase", Hickory Museum of Art Collection, Museum Purchase, 2016.

Hickory Museum of Art, Arts and Science Center, 243 Third Avenue NE, Hickory. Entrance, Shuford & Coe Galleries, Mar. 1 - Aug. 31 - "Virgil Ortiz: Indigenous Ancestral Memory". A reception will be held on Mar. 1, beginning at 7pm. Cochiti Pueblo artist Virgil Ortiz continues his REVOLT 1680/2180 saga at Hickory Museum of Art with a brand new chapter. The artist draws inspiration from the most successful Indigenous uprising against a colonizing power in North American History, the 1680 Pueblo Revolt. Ortiz keeps Cochiti pottery traditions alive but transforms them into a contemporary vision that embraces his Pueblo history and culture and merges it with apocalyptic themes, science fiction, and his own storytelling. Virgil Ortiz brings his narrative to life at HMA through immersive projection and sound, augmented reality, traditional Cochiti pottery, monumental contemporary pottery, and surprises being debuted at our Museum. This exhibition encourages repeat visitation as you engage with the story and meet the rebellion's protagonists. Third Floor Mezzanine Gallery, Mar. 1 - Aug. 31 - "Catawba Nation: Indigenous Ancestral Memory". A reception will be held on Mar. 1, beginning at 7pm. The Catawba have lived on their ancestral lands along the banks of the Catawba River dating back at least 6,000 years. Before contact with the Europeans it is believed that the Nation inhabited most of the Piedmont area of South Carolina, North Carolina and parts of Virginia. Early counts of the Catawba people made by Spanish explorers estimated the population of the tribe at the time as between 15,000-25,000. After settlers arrived in the area, two rounds of smallpox decimated the tribe's numbers, and by 1849 the once large group was down to under 100 citizens. Now there are currently over 3,300 enrolled members of the Nation. The Catawba have a long history and a rich culture that lives on today. Ongoing - "Discover Folk Art: Unique Visions by Southern Contemporary Folk Artists". A unique experience for the whole family to investigate the Museum's extensive Southern Contemporary Folk Art Collection. The Exhibition Features: • Re-creations of Artists' Working Environments • Over 200 Folk Art Objects • Sounds & Smells • and More! Free Family Guides for the exhibition are available at the Museum's check-in desk in the first floor shopHMA. Copies of the children's book, "Discover Folk Art: An Adventure with Artie at the Hickory Museum of Art", are also available in the store for $9.95. In the book, Artie (HMA's art-loving mascot) takes a group of children on a tour of the galleries and introduces them to work by several folk artists including Sam "The Dot Man" McMILLAN and Q.J. Stephenson. Little Hands, Big Hands Gallery, Ongoing - "Little Hands, Big Hands". Younger visitors can be imaginative through creative exploration and play. Includes a puppet theater, mini art gallery, giant reading throne and more. Admission: Free. Hours: Wed.-Sat., 10am-4pm & Sun., 1-4pm. Contact: 828/327-8576 or at (<http://hickoryart.org/>).

Highlands

The Bascom, a center for the visual arts, 323 Franklin Rd., covered bridge entrance at the end of Main Street, Highlands. Bunzl Gallery, Through Apr. 6 - "Emergence: A Survey of Southeastern Studio Programs". The exhibition places mentorship at its center, emphasizing the transformative role of teaching and guidance in nurturing artistic growth. This exhibition explores the collaborative relationships between faculty mentors and their students, offering a compelling perspective on the dynamic interplay between instruction and creativity. Featuring 37 pairs of artists from 30 higher education institutions across the Southeast, the exhibition reflects the rich and diverse landscape of contemporary art education. The works on display span a broad spectrum of artistic approaches, demonstrating both depth of subject matter and originality. Through inventive material use and a strong engagement with traditional techniques, the pieces exemplify the fusion of foundational skills and innovative exploration cultivated within today's studio programs. Joel Gallery, Through Apr. 12 - "Looking Forward with Bascom Instructors". This exhibition honors the vital contributions of visiting artist educators whose creativity and mentorship have enriched The Bascom's programming. Featuring works across various mediums, Looking Forward explores the symbiotic relationship between artistic practice and teaching. These works reveal how the exchange of ideas in the classroom and studio informs and elevates both the creative process and the learning experience. Each piece also serves as a sneak peek into the workshop programming offered by our instructors. Thompson Gallery, Through May 10 - "Thomas Schram: Winter Resident Artist Exhibition". Thomas Schram, The Bascom's 2024-2025 Winter Resident Artist, is an Asheville-based artist and educator whose work delves into the intersections of technology, consumption, and the natural world. Through installations that blend video, sound, and object-making, Schram creates immersive experiences that prompt reflection on the hidden costs of modern life. His forthcoming installation draws inspiration from the environmental and historical scars left by Hurricane Helene and the logging industry. By incorporating found objects and repurposed media, Schram crafts a poignant exploration of destruction, renewal, and shared histories, inviting viewers to consider humanity's impact on the environment and the potential for recovery. Currently a sculpture professor at Western Carolina University, Schram holds an MFA from Clemson University and a BFA from UNC Asheville. His practice is grounded in a profound understanding of materiality and process, coupled with a commitment to fostering dialogue through art. Education Gallery, Ongoing - The Bascom offers our students and instructors an opportunity to display their creative works from workshops and classes. The perspectives of these talented individuals reveal self-expression, cultural awareness and technical discipline. These ongoing displays expose the viewer to the analysis, invention, exploration and decision making processes used by students during the development of ideas into a work of art. Horst Winkler Sculpture Trail, Through Apr. 30, 2026 - "Biennial Outdoor Sculpture Program 2024 - 2026," including works by Georgia Watts, MG Morrow, Francis Akosah, Corrina Sephora, J. Aaron Alderman, Kristina Peay, and Matt Amante. In its fourth year, The Outdoor Sculpture Program features new works by celebrated local and regional artists on The Bascom Campus along the Horst Winkler Sculpture Trail and in Cashiers, through the efforts of our partner organization, Vision Cashiers. Winter Hours: Wed.-Sat., 10am-4pm Contact: 828/526-4949 or at (www.thebascom.org).

Congdon Yards, High Point. Through Mar. 21 - "Soul of Appalachia - Perspectives from Western North Carolina," featuring the work of 18 Western North Carolina Artists. Small communities across Appalachia have served as havens for artists for generations. From the traditional crafts of Penland to the avant-garde art of Black Mountain College and the murals and makers of Asheville's River Arts District, artists gathered and flourished. In the wake of Hurricane Helene, Western North Carolina demonstrated a generosity, resilience, and creativity that inspired many across the region and beyond. Those who have roots in the area understand it is the Appalachian way. Artists, craftspeople, makers, and families are the Soul of Appalachia. Join The Art Gallery at Congdon Yards as we celebrate the spirit of Appalachia and honor Western North Carolina-based artists impacted by Helene. Participating artists include: Tyler-James Anderson (Asheville, NC), Wade Asa (Weaverville, NC), Anna Bryant (Asheville, NC), Anna Buckner (Valle Crucis, NC), Christa Capua (Asheville, NC), Daniel Coffey (Asheville, NC), Lauren Crowe (Boone, NC), Sarah Jones Decker (Marshall, NC), Neil Goss (Asheville, NC), Asher Holman (Asheville, NC), Jane Jaskevich (Weaverville, NC), Chris Jehly (Asheville, NC), Lori Brook Johnson (Bakersville, NC), Kenn Kotara (Asheville, NC), Joseph Pearson (Asheville, NC), Peter Roux (Asheville, NC), Akira Satake (Asheville, NC), and Ricardo Tejada (Asheville, NC). Through Mar. 21 - "Annual High School Art Show." The Annual High School School Show highlights the incredible artistic talents of young students from 17 local schools. Mount Airy

Mount Airy Museum of Regional History, 301 North Main Street, Mount Airy. Ongoing - Ours is an all American story - typical of how communities grew up all across our great nation. While our story takes place in the back country of northwestern North Carolina at the foot of the Blue Ridge Mountains, it is likely to bear many similarities to the development of crossroads, towns, and cities throughout America. It had taken little more than 100 years for the corridors along the coastline of this still-new continent to overflow. As tensions grew and conflicts flared, the pioneer spirit set in. Families literally packed up everything they owned and headed into the unknown-searching for the "promised land." Admission: Yes. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun., 1-4pm. Contact: 336/786-4478 or at (northcarolinamuseum.org).

The Museum of the Southeast American Indian, Old Main (first floor) at the University of North Carolina Pembroke, 1 University Drive, Pembroke. Ongoing - As part of the Southeast American Indian Studies Program at UNC Pembroke, The Museum of the Southeast American Indian maximizes the capacity of the University to address the complex historical, cultural and contemporary issues facing American Indian communities in North Carolina and the American Southeast. The Museum's cross-disciplinary collaborations greatly enhance the University's programs of research, service, outreach and instruction. The Museum is a multi-faceted museum and resource for scholarly research and community outreach. While the Museum contains exhibits of authentic Indian artifacts, arts and crafts from Indian communities all over the Americas, our primary focus is on tribes from the American Southeast. Many items come from North Carolina Native communities, with special emphasis on Robeson County Indian people. Specific focus is placed on the largest North Carolina tribe, the Lumbee, but our outreach activities have extended into Virginia and South Carolina with plans for further outreach throughout the Southeast. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-5pm. We typically close for lunch from noon-1pm. Contact: call 910/521-6282 or e-mail to (nativemuseum@uncp.edu).

Penland

Works by Hitomi and Takuro Shibata

Penland Gallery & Visitors Center, Penland School of Crafts, 3135 Conley Ridge Rd, Penland. Focus Gallery, Mar. 11 - Apr. 12 - "Of Hand and Earth: Hitomi and Takuro Shibata," re-scheduled after Hurricane Helene. The exhibit features work by ceramicists Hitomi and Takuro Shibata. Originally from Japan, Hitomi and Takuro relocated to Seagrove, North Carolina in 2005. Their focus is to make simple and functional wood fired pottery and sculpture using locally sourced wild clays from North Carolina. Hitomi and Takuro rely primarily on their hands, simple tools, locally harvested clays, and wood firing methods which are renewable and sustainable in the North Carolina region. They choose hand processes and natural or non-toxic materials as much as possible. Firings take place in their hand-built wood kilns after many days of cutting and splitting firewood. Glazes are made from washed wood ash gathered from wood kilns and wood stoves. Rain water is collected for use in the studio, and pots dry in the sun. As a result of this intentional work, the Shibata's pottery and sculpture captures a natural, sustainable energy where process and form are one. Ongoing - Newly installed outside the gallery are two brightly-colored, billboard-sized murals based on paper collages by artist Anne Lemanski. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun. noon-5pm. Contact: 828/765-2359, e-mail at (gallery@penland.org) or at (<http://penland.org/gallery/>).

Frankie G. Weems Art Gallery, Gaddy-Hamrick Art Center, Meredith College, 3800 Hillsborough Street, Raleigh. Through Mar. 3 - "Charting the Uncertain, featuring works by Julie Anne Greenberg. A reception will be held on Feb. 6, from 5-7pm. Julie uses the visual vocabulary of weather and meteorology to create multilayered three-dimensional relief work and dramatic wall installations. The process begins with creating weather textures using sand, water, or ice and screen printing them onto painted paper and other surfaces. Just as meteorologists attempt to predict the weather, humans hopelessly attempt to forecast their own lives. Each work becomes a meditation for the many things that are out of our hands but that we try desperately to control. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-5pm & Sat.-Sun., 2-5pm. Contact: 919/760-8414 or e-mail to (gallery@meredith.edu).

Gregg Museum of Art & Design, The Historic Chancellor's Residence, NC State University, located at 1903 Hillsborough Street, Raleigh. Ongoing - "Selections from the Collections". Image of a beige quilt with a skeleton riding a wolf holding an American flag. The quilt is made out of old t-shirts. Drawing from the Gregg Museum's collections of over 54,000 objects, Selections from the Collections displays a sampling of the many different kinds of pieces in its holdings. Though objects in the exhibition will rotate from time to time to facilitate their preservation and so that different artists and kinds of objects can be exhibited, the same general themes, materials, and variety of work will remain a part of this ongoing exhibition. For many years, Gregg audiences have been treated to wide ranging but relatively short-term exhibitions that explore topics or present artists' works for a matter of months, and then get changed out and replaced by entirely new shows. While this will continue, most visitors have departed without realizing that the Gregg staff also maintains vast collections used for teaching, research, supporting student projects, and, on occasion, as source material for the exhibitions in the public galleries. The semi-permanent Selections from the Collections exhibition in the historic Residence seeks to remedy that. This new rotating installation will ensure that there will always be fascinating things to see and share at the Gregg! Historic Residence, Ongoing - One of NC State University's most historic buildings is now the permanent home of the Gregg Museum of Art & Design. The Historic Chancellor's Residence, located at 1903 Hillsborough Street, along with a 15,000 sq. ft. addition, increases the museum's visibility while significantly adding to its exhibition and programming space. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm. The Gregg does ask that larger groups (15+) call ahead at (919) 515-3503, to avoid crowding in the galleries. Contact: Zoe Staring, Curator of Education at 919/513-7244 or at (<https://gregg.arts.ncsu.edu/>).

North Carolina Museum of Art, 2110 Blue Ridge Road, Raleigh. Mar. 19 - 23 - Annual "Art in Bloom", Presented by PNC Bank. The North Carolina Museum of Art (NCMA) announces the return of its annual fundraiser "Art in Bloom", presented by PNC Bank. More than 30 floral designers from across North Carolina and beyond will interpret artwork and objects in the NCMA's People's Collection during this five-day festival of florals. This year's theme, Art in the Park, will be reflected in six large-scale gallery installations celebrating artworks featured in the Ann and Jim Goodnight Museum Park's 164 acres. Mar. 8 - June 29 - "The Time Is Always Now: Artists Reframe the Black Figure". The exhibit features the work of 23 contemporary African diasporic artists from the United Kingdom and the United States, with a focus on works of art that depict and celebrate the Black figure from the perspective of Black artists. Museum director Valerie Hillings states, "We are thrilled to bring this exhibition to North Carolina. It is a powerful and thought-provoking experience celebrating the unique experiences, narratives, voices, and perspectives of a remarkable group of contemporary Black artists." Curated by British writer and curator Ekow Eshun, The Time Is Always Now takes its title from an essay on desegregation by American writer and social rights activist James Baldwin. East Building, Education Gallery, Through Apr. 25 - "What's Happening: Survey of NC Master of Fine Arts Programs". Studio visits to MFA programs have always been a reliable way to assess new talent, engage in critical conversations, and understand emerging trends in the art world. In light of this tradition, we bring a survey of work from North Carolina MFA candidates to you. This exhibition shines light on 14 emerging artists and the output that comes from their dedicated study of the art-making process. Participating artists include: Celena Amburgey, UNC Greensboro; Katelyn Lux Brewer, East Carolina University; Paul Edwards, East Carolina University; Lynne Hudson, Western Carolina University; Ryan McDowell, East Carolina University; Nastassja Noell, Western Carolina University; Mort O'Sullivan, Duke University, YuWen Renjie, Western Carolina University, Brooklin Routt, Western Carolina University, Sansoy, Western Carolina University; Hannah Schneider, Duke University; Nill Smith, UNC Greensboro; Fangze Zhu, Duke University; and Sean Zou, Duke University. East Building, Level B, Galleries 3, Through Mar. 9 - "JP Jermaine Powell—Leadership Reimagined: Share Your Journey." The exhibition encapsulates the journey of JP Jermaine Powell as artist in residence at the North Carolina Museum of Art. Throughout the exhibition he reflects on and pays tribute to the remarkable work of NCMA staff, critically acclaimed artists, and everyday heroes who have dedicated themselves to making the local art scene vibrant and productive. The show is a celebration of human resilience and what the artist refers to as "postpandemic leadership." It showcases how members of both the local and global art communities discovered new ways to create, innovate, and lead during a challenging time in human history. Powell intentionally chose individuals who may not fit conventional definitions of leadership but whose stories of resilience and dedication inspire others. These people continue to grow, invest in themselves and others, share ideas, promote collaboration, and embrace adversity as a catalyst for success. He invites visitors to see themselves as part of a collective history being built by the leaders in all of us. West Building, Conservation Gallery, Through Nov. 9 - "Seeing Red". Red is arguably the most important color to human beings. Since ancient times red has colored our strongest emotions, warned of danger, distinguished our leaders, glorified our religious images, and underscored our life and death. For many, red was divine, a direct connection to gods and the supernatural. Today red seems much less important to us. Dimmed by time and technology, the color is something we hardly pay attention to. Seeing Red focuses on our long relationship with red and the dyes and pigments that humanity has developed to express ourselves. To represent a color that held such deep meaning, red dyes and pigments have nearly always depended on scarce materials and advanced technology, often resulting in rare

Cultural Arts Building, ground floor, corner of Randall Parkway and Reynolds Drive, UNC-Wilmington, Wilmington. CAB Art Gallery, Through Mar. 26 - "Rachel Gloria Adams: Bloom for Yesterday." The exhibition is a collection of 10 quilts that highlight moments of tenderness within the Adams family. A combination of paint and quilting are patched together to capture these seemingly small moments that reflect the happiness, pride and depth of motherhood. These moments are depicted in an illustrative style that distills the essence of its subjects. Subtle clues of the subject's identity are exposed whether it be the strong emphasis on hair to allude to the blackness of the subjects or patterning within their clothing. In many ways each piece serves as self-portraiture as they are moments that have evoked an emotional response from the artist. Hours: Mon., Tue. Wed. & Fri., 10am-4pm and Thur., 10am-7pm. Contact: Keltsey McKoy, Gallery Director by calling 910/962-3031 or e-mail at (cabartgallery@uncw.edu).

Fried Fruit Art Space, 615 S 16th Street in the Cargo District of Wilmington. Through Mar. 21 - "Parker James Reinecker". Parker James Reinecker is a visual artist, photographer, and educator based in Central North Carolina and Atlanta, Georgia (USA). His work within the Central Piedmont region of North Carolina has spanned to now three projects, "Two Cardinals in the Thicket" (2020-2023), "Ned Peek & The Pug Mill" (2022-2024), and "To Watch the Moon Move" (2024). The work and approach to photography and mixed media installation have changed drastically over these past projects, from working through strict themes and research to a more open-ended and abstract approach to making. All of the projects work from a place of visual connection to landscape, culture, and the investigation of conceptual identity in the American South - all working to maintain a dialog in visual literacy. Ongoing - Fried Fruit Art Space is an artist-run gallery. We are committed to education and freedom of expression. Housed in a retired cargo container, our space functions as a storefront. Fried Fruit is in the growing Cargo District, surrounded by small businesses, entrepreneurs and local restaurants. Claude Howell (American, 1915-1997), "Sorting Fish" [detail], 1957. Ceramic tile mosaic. Collection of Cameron Art Museum. Gift of Henry Burbank Rehder in loving memory of Barbara Beeland Rehder.

Louise Wells Cameron Art Museum, @ intersection of Independence Blvd. & South 17th Street, Wilmington. Reception Hall, Through Apr. 6 - The Cape Fear Area Painted: The Art of Jodie Rippy. The museum welcomes artist Jodie Rippy on Sunday, Mar. 30, at 2pm, to celebrate the launch of this beautiful book. The exhibition highlights local, historical and coastal landmarks, and the activities of our area. Rippy explored as far north as Poplar Grove and as far south as Bald Head Island to create the gouache (opaque watercolor) works.

The works on view range in size from 4 x 6 inches to 1 x 1.5 inches, delightfully miniature, a theme which has fascinated the artist for decades. Through Mar. 23 - "Close to Home," is a celebration of CAM's collection featuring works by artists with a connection to our state, our region, our home. Join us as we explore images of people and places that evoke the varied spirit of our community. Beloved familiar works are joined by hidden treasures in a showcase of artistic voices; a collective search for the meaning of home. Features work by Josef Albers, Romare Bearden, Mary Cassatt, Diego Camposeco, Elisabeth Chant, Minnie Evans, Maud Gatewood, Claude Howell, Hiroshi Sueyoshi, and others. Through Apr. 27 - "Elisabeth Chant". North Carolina artist Elisabeth Chant (1865-1947) made an indelible mark on Wilmington's art community. Born in England, she emigrated to the United States, eventually settling in Wilmington around 1922. Chant studied art in Minneapolis and Paris and was influenced by the Art Nouveau and Arts and Crafts movements. In Wilmington, she became known for her vibrant landscapes and scenes of the North Carolina coast. Ongoing - Cameron Art Museum presents the only sculpture park in the country created to honor the United States Colored Troops and their fight for freedom. The opening of PNC USCT Park marks the one-year anniversary of the unveiling of Boundless, the public sculpture by artist Stephen Hayes that commemorates the United States Colored Troops and the Battle of Forks Road. This park creates a gathering space for the more than 60,000 visitors from across the country who come to CAM each year and the 8,000 school children who visit the museum on field trips. PNC USCT Park will become a community space for gathering, field trips, classes, workshops, storytelling, live music and USCT living history events for years to come, in which the sculpture Boundless will be the centerpiece. Pancoe Art Education Center, Exhibition Cases, Ongoing - View some of the Seagrove and contemporary pottery from the museum's permanent collection in the cases. North Carolina Museum of Art, Winston-Salem (former SECCA), 750 Marguerite Drive, Winston-Salem. Main Gallery, Through July 20 - "David LaChapelle: Dear Sonja," a retrospective exhibition spanning four decades of the artist's career. This special retrospective exhibition features more than 80 works spanning 40 years of the artist's career. David LaChapelle was born in Connecticut in 1963 and attended high school at the North Carolina School of the Arts in Winston-Salem. Originally enrolled as a painting student with a reverence for art history, he developed his analog photograph-editing technique by hand painting negatives to achieve an abstract spectrum of color before processing his film. At age seventeen LaChapelle moved to New York City. Following his first photography show at 303 Gallery, he was hired by Andy Warhol to work at "Interview" magazine. Through his mastery of color, unique composition, and imaginative narratives, LaChapelle began to expand the genre of photography. By 1997 the New York Times predicted he "is certain to influence the work of a new generation ... in the same way that Mr. [Richard] Avedon pioneered so much of what is familiar today" in portrait and fashion photography. Potter Gallery, Feb. 3 - May 18 - Internal Review: NCMA Staff Exhibition. A reception will be held on Feb. 3, beginning at 6:15pm. The exhibiting artists represent almost every department at the NCMA across both campuses in Raleigh and Winston-Salem. The exhibition spans genres and mediums, from works on paper to sculpture, from photography to music. Much like the state of North Carolina itself, this exhibition brings together a diverse range of talents, backgrounds, and interests in ways that encourage conversation, promote creativity, and build community. "We are very proud to host the staff exhibition," said William Carpenter, executive director of the NCMA Winston-Salem. "The history of our institution - from downtown galleries through almost 50 years as the Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art - is one of supporting and promoting artists from across the state and region. This exhibition showcases the many talented and creative folks who make the museum a state treasure." The exhibition will be accompanied by a slate of programs, performances, and tours created and delivered by the museum staff. Ongoing - Founded in 1956, the Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art offers a front-row seat to the art of our time. Through visual art exhibitions, education, music, film, dance and theater, SECCA starts conversations that engage diverse communities and perspectives. SECCA is an affiliate of the North Carolina Museum of Art and a division of the NC Department of Natural & Cultural Resources. SECCA receives operational funding from The Arts Council of Winston-Salem and Forsyth County. Additional funding is provided by the James G. Hanes Memorial Fund. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm, Thur. till 8pm; Sun., 1-5 pm, and closed Mon. & state holidays. Admission is free. Contact: 336/725-1904 or at (www.secca.org).

Reynolda House Museum of American Art, Reynolda Road, Winston-Salem. Northwest Bedroom Gallery, Through Oct. 20 - "Good Impressions: Portraits Across Three Centuries from Reynolda and Wake Forest". Portraits are often taken at face value - as accurate representations of a person's appearance, sometimes removed by decades or centuries. But portraits are often the products of delicate negotiations between artist and subject. Sometimes they flatter, exaggerating the sitter's beauty or rich attire. Sometimes they capture the subject engaged in his or her occupation, whether pausing during study or painting in his or her studio. Sometimes they celebrate an auspicious occasion, such as a recent engagement or the imminent birth of a child. This exhibition features three centuries of portraits of men and women, Black and White, solitary and companionate, classic and modern. "Good Impressions" was mounted to mark the recent conservation treatment of John Singleton Copley's 1762 "Portrait of Mrs. Daniel Rogers" (Elizabeth Gorham Rogers) in the collection of Wake Forest University, and Reynolda House's recent acquisition of Kwame Brathwaite's 1973 photograph "Changing Times". West Bedroom Gallery, Through Oct. 19 - "Leigh Ann Hallberg: Phenoms". In her "Phenoms series", artist Leigh Ann Hallberg creates large-scale abstract paintings inspired by her journey through local landscapes, including the Reynolda landscape. Hallberg, who has taught painting at Wake Forest University since 1999, chose a square format for the series, which she says leaves the viewer's understanding of the work open - the abstract painting is neither portrait nor landscape. Instead, it is a pretend space in which the viewer is able to reconsider and reimagine their experience of nature through the works. Hallberg employs a variety of color palettes and metal leaf. She uses the medium of watercolor in order to pull out its inherent qualities of flow, dripping, and puddling, which she considers nearly indexical with substances of the natural world: water, soil, and vegetation. In fact, most of the watercolor pigments are derived from materials found in the earth. The metal leaf invokes the idea of time and its passage, as the viewer's perception of the leaf (reflective, a void, a light) shifts over the course of the day, under various lighting conditions and viewing angles. The works in the "Phenoms series" represent Hallberg's felt resonance with and sense of wonder about the natural world.

East Bedroom Gallery, Through Dec. 31 - "Still I Rise: The Black Experience at Reynolda". "Into a daybreak that's wondrously clear / I rise." Maya Angelou's poem "Still I Rise," published in 1978, was an assertion of dignity and resilience in the face of oppression. In the 1980s, Angelou used Reynolda as her stage, sharing words of humanity, survival, and triumph. But before her, numerous Black lives impacted and intersected with the story of Reynolda. "Still I Rise: The Black Experience at Reynolda" examines the lives of the Black women and men who helped shape Reynolda as it evolved from a Jim Crow era working estate into a museum for American art. From 1912 through the 1950s, during one of the most repressive climates for Black people in North Carolina history, Black men and women navigated Reynolda's segregated spaces - farming the land, constructing buildings, and working as domestic staff within Reynolda's walls. During this era, segregation, the exploitation of Black labor, and laws that regulated Black behavior affected the lives of all individuals in the Reynolda story, whether at Reynolda or at the R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company. While the struggle for equality did not end with the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the story of Reynolda pivoted to one of a public cultural institution. When it opened its doors in 1967, Reynolda's intersection with Black lives shifted as the young, fledgling museum provided a venue for Black artists to celebrate their art. Artists such as Jacob Lawrence, Romare Bearden, and Maya Angelou transformed the historic setting into a stage for their art and teachings. Through art, letters, photographs, and audiovisual recordings, "Still I Rise: The Black Experience at Reynolda" examines Reynolda's complicated past in a space designed for reflection and healing. This exhibition has been made possible in part by the National Endowment for the Humanities. East Bedroom Sleeping Porch, Ongoing - Featuring a condensed version of the fall 2023 exhibition "Smith & Libby: Two Rings, Seven Months, One Bullet". This semi-permanent exhibition presents a fascinating look at an unsolved shooting that rocked the Reynolda estate and made national headlines in 1932. Like most family homes, Reynolda House witnessed its share of tragedies, none more shocking than the death by gunshot of Zachary Smith ("Smith") Reynolds, youngest child of R.J. and Katharine Smith Reynolds. Soon after midnight on July 6, 1932, Smith was shot on a sleeping porch at the family's country estate. Smith died later that morning. Smith's wife Libby Holman and Smith's childhood friend and secretary Albert "Ab" Walker were ultimately charged with first-degree murder. In a stunning reversal, the case was dropped before coming to trial. To this day, it is not known whether Smith Reynolds, 20-year-old heir and renowned aviator, died by suicide, accident or murder. Ongoing - Collection of 18th through 20th century art, sculpture, American art, and pottery. Admission: Yes. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 9:30am-4:30pm & Sun., 1:30-4:30pm. Contact: 336/725-5325 or at (<https://reynolda.org>).

Work by Reuben Negrón

Blue Spiral 1, 38 Biltmore Ave., Asheville. Main Level Gallery, Mar. 7 - Apr. 23 - "Figuratively Speaking," featuring works by: Justin Archer, Tamie Beldue, Rafel Bestard, Tori Cherry, Andréa Keys Connell, Bill Killebrew, Jon Sours, David Samuel Stern, William Paul Thomas, and Adana Tillman. A reception will be held on Mar. 7, from 5-7pm. The rendered figure serves as a mirror to the intricate facets of human experience—resilience, empathy, sexuality, confidence, mystique, and humor. This group exhibition delves into these personal interpretations through a diverse array of mediums, including woven photographs, large-scale sculptures, paintings, and drawings. With its blend of distorted observations, unique narratives, and innovative material exploration, Figuratively Speaking offers a multifaceted celebration of the figure. Lower Level Gallery, Mar. 7 - April 23 - "Tattoo/Flash," featuring works by: Ekin Balciglu, Shawn Barber, Samuel Hung, Chris Musina, Peter Olson, Frank Oriti, Nadia Rosales and Adam Shrewsbury. A reception will be held on Mar. 7, from 5-7pm. "Tattoo/Flash" explores the rich history and modern artistry of tattooing, celebrating it as a dynamic and evolving art form. This exhibition showcases the cultural significance of tattoos, highlighting their ability to bridge tradition and innovation, personal expression, and visual storytelling. Featured works range from realistic paintings of tattoo shops to sgraffito tattoo imagery on clay. Adding an interactive element to the exhibition, a local tattoo artist will host a pop-up flash tattoo booth in the exhibition space of the Lower Level Gallery. Small Format Gallery, Mar. 7 - Apr. 23 - "Reuben Negrón". A reception will be held on Mar. 7, from 5-7pm. Negrón is a figurative realist known for his narrative watercolor paintings and charcoal drawings. His richly detailed and vulnerable scenes are an examination of the real-world stories and experiences of the people and places they depict. His work, often created in self-contained series, is grounded in themes of intimacy, identity, memory, and time. Showcase Gallery, Mar. 7 - Apr. 23 - "Jon Rollins and Justin Turcotte". A reception will be held on Mar. 7, from 5-7pm. Justin Turcotte sources raw steel from local yards, transforming it into striking geometric forms through a meticulous process that involves hydraulic rollers, presses, and heat. This labor-intensive technique is the result of years of experimentation and hands-on mechanical work. His steel sculptures are especially notable for their dynamic relationship with the surrounding environment and often employ the optical illusion known as a moiré effect. Similarly experimental, John Rollins' abstract paintings offer a careful study in process and resolution. Each piece incorporates layers of collaged scraps, altered with paint, drawing, and razor work, resulting in artifacts that encapsulate the questions, mistakes, and discoveries of their time. Ongoing - Featuring works in a variety of mediums by regional, national and international artists. Work by Damian Stamer

Craven Allen Gallery, 1106 1/2 Broad St., Durham. Through Mar. 1 - "MJ Sharp: Nightscapes". The exhibition features a selection of landscape and still life photographs exploring MJ Sharp's fascination with preserving the human relationship to night and darkness. As a Fulbright Scholar to the UK, MJ Sharp collaborated with a nocturnal ecologist who is also concerned about escalating light pollution and our loss of night and darkness. Archaeologists in Cornwall have newly discovered evidence that prehistoric peoples visited ancient megalithic sites in low light or at night. Sharp was intrigued and set out to photograph these ancient sites at night, hoping that it "might be restorative for present-day people who have lost access to their evolutionary birthright of experiencing darkness and night." Ongoing - Featuring local artists in various mediums. Work by Maud Gatewood

Gallery C, 540 North Blount Street, Raleigh. Through Mar. 4 - "A MAN OUT OF TIME: Bert Sult's Watercolor Interpretations of Historic Architecture". Bert Sult was born in Wytheville, Virginia and grew up in Kinston, North Carolina. His two loves were art and architecture, and he made a career of both. As a successful architect, Bert continued to make art in various mediums. In 2009 he decided that watercolor would be his chosen specialty. The spontaneity and the speed appealed to him. The possibilities were endless. Mar. 16 - May 24 - "Best of North Carolina 2025". Gallery owner, art historian, and North Carolina native Charlene Newsom employs her broad knowledge of NC art to curate an extensive exhibition celebrating the most influential NC artists of the 20th century. Every year in March, Gallery C presents "The Best of North Carolina" collection. The show includes landmark pieces by some of the biggest names and most important North Carolina art from the 20th century. Historic artists such as Francis Speight, Sarah Blakeslee, Hobson Pittman, and Edith London will be included. The special highlight of this year's exhibition is the "Portrait of Sir Walter Raleigh" from the year 1588. It is an oil on oak panel, painted in England soon after Walter Raleigh was knighted by Queen Elizabeth and his two attempts at settlements in Roanoke. This year's Special Guest is Perry Hurt, Director of Conservation at the North Carolina Museum of Art. He will make a brief presentation on "Preservation and Stewardship." Ongoing - Gallery C brings talented artists and fine art to the attention of serious private collectors and museums. Burk Uzzle Studio, 106 Douglas Street E, Wilson. Ongoing - Burk Uzzle's career, like his pictures, is a nuanced composition blending American culture, individual psyches of particular places and people, and an atypical way of seeing ourselves, our values, and our community. Always respectful yet locating the poignant or quirky, the history of his narrative belongs to all of us. Initially grounded in documentary photography when he was the youngest photographer hired by "LIFE magazine" at age 23, his work grew into a combination of split-second impressions reflecting the human condition during his tenure as a member of the prestigious international Magnum cooperative founded by one of his mentors Henri Cartier-Bresson. His archive spans almost six decades. His current work rests deep in photographic appreciation of the quiet, strong, and eloquent beauty he discovers in America's small towns and its people. It is along small back roads, limned with feelings and a surety of surprise for the heart wide open, that continue to support his understanding of how America keeps its personality out on a limb. Uzzle's current bodies of work (some of which are African-American) are artful and constructed reflections of his subjects. His hope is for a graphic presentation of something universal within the particular, and all the better when involving a gentle chuckle and knowing smile. He is represented by SOCO Gallery in Charlotte, NC and Tracy Morgan Gallery in Asheville, NC. Hours: by appt. Contact: 252/363-1812 or e-mail to (burk@burkuzzle.com).
