Coastal Discovery Museum on Hilton Head Island, SC, Features Works by Local School Students

The Coastal Discovery Museum on Hilton Head Island, SC, is presenting the 1st Annual Beaufort County High School Regional, on view in the Museum's Main Gallery, through Apr. 15, 2022.

You will be amazed by the quality and creativity of our Beaufort County high school students. The Coastal Discovery Museum, in partnership with the USCB Center for the Arts, is hosting the first county-wide juried exhibition featuring the best artwork from area high school students.

This year we received submissions from Battery Creek High, Beaufort High, Bluffton High, Bridges Prep, Hilton Head High, Hilton Head Prep, Island Academy, and May River High. Works include painting, drawing, photography, digital art, mixed media, ceramics, and 3D design.

The exhibition was juried by internationally recognized collage and mixed media artist James Denmark, Savannah-based painter and gallery director Carmen Maria Aguirre, and photographer and educator Mel Schnur. They selected 115 works and monetary awards for the top entries will be announced at the opening reception.

According to our Director of Exhibitions who is organizing this show, "One Work by Camden Bernstein, Hilton Head High of the truly great things about a show like this is that it both encourages our young artists, while also inspiring our visitors to look at the world that surrounds us through the eyes of the next generation."

And look in your mail for a cool postcard from the Coastal Discovery Museum. In conjunction with the exhibition, the museum sponsored a competition to design the postcard invitation. We are pleased to announce that Chelsea Fleming of Hilton Head Island High School is this year's winner. All of the submissions were imaginative and visually engaging, so a selection will also be exhibited as part of the show.

Coastal Discovery Museum on Hilton Head Island Features Works by Hitnes

The Coastal Discovery Museum on Hilton Head Island, SC, will present Hitnes, The Image Hunter: On the Trail of John James Audubon, on view in the Museum's Main Gallery, from Apr. 23 through July 3, 2022. A reception will be held on Apr. 28, from 4:30-7pm.

The exhibition is a culmination of "The Image Hunter" project, in which Hitnes retraced Audubon's travels in the United States and created work during a residency at the Halsey Institute at the College of Charleston in 2017 and 2018. The Coastal Discovery Museum is pleased to host the final stop on this national touring exhibition.

In the early half of the nineteenth century, John James Audubon spent decades ist Hitnes embarked on a twenty-city road trip to retrace and rediscover the America that Audubon traversed in the making of his opus The Birds of America (1827-39). Traveling along Audubon's exploratory routes, Hitnes observed, sketched, and painted what he saw, creating an updated visual documentation of Audubon's birds. Hitnes's exhibition documents his journey, elaborating on what it is that drives a person to dedicate multiple decades of their life to pursuing an obsession like Audubon did.

The exhibition will feature a range of work informed by his own expedition, and will include other objects and ephemera collected on his trek. The exhibition will also be accompanied by a feature-length documentary film on Hitnes's trip, directed by filmmaker Giacomo Agnetti. From April 19-29, Hitnes will also paint three murals on the Honey Horn property. The public is encouraged to visit the museum and see Hitnes at work, call for details.

Birding at Pinckney Island will be held every Wednesday at 7:30am, reservations required.
