College of Charleston, SC, Offers Annual Student Competition and Exhibitions

The College of Charleston in Charleston, SC, is presenting the Young Contemporaries 2022, the 37th annual juried student exhibition and the Salon des Refusés, on view in the Halsey Institute of Contemporary Art and in the exhibition space of the Cato Center for the Arts, through Apr. 23, 2022.

Now in its 37th year, the Halsey Institute and the College of Charleston Studio Art Department are proud to present Young Contemporaries 2022, the 37th annual juried student exhibition. The annual exhibition is a celebration of talented artists at the College of Charleston. With works selected by a nationally renowned juror, the exhibition reflects the strength and diversity of practice in the School of the Arts' rigorous programs. Featuring a wide range of media, including paintings, sculpture, photography, and prints, the exhibition showcases the efforts of the student body at the College.

Artist Ron Bechet served as the juror and awards judge for Young Contemporaries 2022. Bechet was born in New Orleans and lives in the Gentilly neighborhood. He began his college career with an athletic scholarship at Mississippi State University but returned to study art at the University of New Orleans where he earned a BA degree. He went on to earn an MFA degree in Painting from Yale University School of Art. He is known for intimate large-scale drawings and paintings. This work is inspired by his experiences and observations of the consequences of forces of nature and time, on place and the human experience.

For Bechet, his improvisational mark making is grounded on those experiences and in the cultural practices of the African diaspora and New Orleans African-American culture and ritual. In the work, the revelation of the effects of terrain, light, and water symbolize human contention and harmony, and ultimately the hope of reconciliation and spiritual transformation. In addition to his studio practice, he has worked on several community-based projects using the arts in collaboration with other artists and community members. He is also the Victor H. Labat Professor of Art at Xavier University of Louisiana where he has been teaching for more than twenty years. Believing in reciprocity and giving, he is an active community member currently serving as Chair of the Joan Mitchell Foundation Board of Directors and as a member of the board of Trustees at the Ogden Museum of Art as well as Antenna Works in New Orleans.

Concurrent with Young Contemporaries is the Salon des Refusés, showing in the exhibition space of the Cato Center for the Arts. The works in the Salon are chosen by Studio Art faculty. The origin of the Salon des Refusés dates to Paris in 1863, when artists who had been rejected from the official Salon caused such a protest that Emperor Napoleon III ordered another exhibition held for them. Among the painters in the original Salon des Refusés were Camille Pissaro, Henri Fantin-Latour, James M. Whistler, and Edouard Manet.

For further information check our SC Institutional Gallery listings, call the Institute at 843/953-4422 or visit (<http://halsey.cofc.edu/exhibitions/>).

Redux Contemporary Art Center in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Taylor Lee Nicholson & Shelby Corso

Redux Contemporary Art Center in Charleston, SC, will present two new exhibitions including: Junk Food, featuring works by Taylor Lee Nicholson, on view in the Center's Main Gallery, from Apr. 1 through May 21, 2022, and Even further beyond thought- is the sky I watched as a child. With Love, from Earth, featuring works by Shelby Corso, on view in the Center's Gallery 1056, from Apr. 8 through May 21, 2022. A reception will be held on Apr. 1, from 5-8pm.

Redux's solo exhibitions showcase the practice of a single artist, emphasizing the unique mixture of media that can compose a retrospective exhibition.

Junk Food is a kitschy, irreverent, and at times unnerving exhibition that brings attention to our participation in consumer culture. Whether we're inhaling content from the internet or shopping on Amazon, consumerism depends on "junk food" - something we consume to satisfy a craving, but is ultimately temporary. Our addiction to consuming indicates a deep and significant void inside, a hunger that junk food cannot really satisfy.

Work by Taylor Lee Nicholson

Taylor Lee Nicholson (b. 1990, they/them) is a new media and conceptual artist who loves to mix kitsch and creepiness for comically grotesque results. As an absurdist and a surrealist, Nicholson has been told that they are like a depressed Pee Wee Herman. She transforms lowbrow, banal materials such as junk mail and tabloids into art to dissect themes of hyperreality, consumerism, and death. Nicholson is a studio artist at the McColl Center, and their work has been shown in numerous galleries and art spaces around the United States including Goodyear Arts, Charlotte; Artspace, Raleigh; and House of Venus, Boston. Nicholson has collaborated with brands like Vans, Microsoft Surface, Bojangles, and Almond Breeze, and their works have appeared in Vogue and Oprah Daily among others.

Redux Contemporary Art Center is pleased to announce a debut solo exhibition of work from Shelby Corso. The exhibition, Even further beyond thought- is the sky I watched as a child. With Love, from Earth, will be opening Apr. 8, 2022, from 5-8pm, and will run until May 21, 2022.

In her paintings, drawings, and sculptures, Corso explores her relationship to symbolism, ritual, and mythmaking. Her work renders bright images of flowers, bodies, windswept, dreamy fields and brightly colored atmospheres. She often sources imagery from nature, stories, found objects, dreams, and imagination, working somewhere between abstract and representational. Corso works to synthesize visual and emotional information to describe the phenomenon of being on earth. She

by Tom Starland, Editor and Publisher

On Our Cover

On our cover this month is a work by Rosalia Torres Weiner, a Charlotte, NC, artist, activist, and community leader. Her work La Reina Charlotte is part of her solo exhibition, Mi Gente, Un Reflejo / My People, A Reflection, on view at the Diamante Arts & Cultural Center in Raleigh, NC, through May 13, 2022. Read all about her exhibit and how she offers art education in Charlotte on Page 35.

Torres Weiner's work celebrates the rich history and changing demographics of the South. She uses her art to document social conditions and raise awareness about issues affecting immigrant communities like family separation, racism, and moving beyond common stereotypes.

I've been following her on Facebook for several years hoping that a time would come when we could feature her work and it finally came this month. She also operates an art truck, like a food truck, taking art to underserved parts of the greater Charlotte community. She also paints murals in Charlotte.

We don't often get an opportunity to feature LatinX artists in our publication, I hope you enjoy Torres Weiner's work - I sure do. It was also an opportunity to use the cover to focus on two areas - Charlotte and Raleigh.

Year After Year

Every year this month I have to tell you that the Artista Vista event will be taking place in Columbia, SC's Congaree Vista area. This year it's the 30th annual Artista Vista, taking place between Apr. 22 - 24, 2022. It's a pretty big event for Columbia's visual art community, but every year I can only tell you a few things about it.

The event takes place during the same time each year, but the organization in charge of this event, the Vista Guild, can't tell you many details, just 30 days before the event takes place. I can't understand that, but I'm used to it after all these years. So, here's a link to their website so you can check it out a few days before Apr. 22 to see if they have posted details yet. It's at (<https://www.vistacolumbia.com/special-events/artista-vista>).

I won't be checking it as by then I'll be working on events and exhibits taking place in May. I'm sure I'm not making any friends at the Vista Guild, but they are paid to promote this event and I don't think they are doing a very good job. Maybe they promote it in Columbia, but I bet they get some tourism money and I don't know where they promote Artista Vista outside of Columbia. There's always next year.

Like they say all publicity is good - good or bad, so I've given them more attention than they gave to sending me info.

It's A Busy Time Of Year

This is always a busy time of year in the Carolinas - not cold any more and not too hot yet - well, it's been colder and it could get pretty warm, but it will get hotter, so enjoy it while you can and get out and enjoy all the wonderful art exhibits and art events that will be offered. And, man are they offering stuff - exhibits of course, but now there are art tours, art festivals, and everyone will be offering their art walks, art crawls, and art strolls - every month. By Summer things will slow down until the Fall and then it all picks up again until it gets cold, very cold in some parts of both North and South Carolina, so enjoy.

Don't forget to take a mask with you.

typically works on smaller scales to create a more intimate experience between the viewer and the work.

Shelby Corso (b. 1997, New York) received her BFA in painting in May 2020 from the Maryland Institute College of Art (MICA) in Baltimore, MD. Her work has been featured in group shows at the Fox 2 Gallery (Baltimore, MD), The Lazarus Center (Baltimore, MD), The Annmarie Garden Center (Solomons, MD), the MICA Main Building (Baltimore, MD), Prince Street

Gallery (New York, NY), City Gallery (Charleston, SC), and Redux Contemporary Art Center (Charleston, SC). She has work hanging at the Met Council in New York City, the office of Charleston Behavioral Health and Wellness, and the MUSC Arts in Healing permanent collection. She lives and works in Charleston, SC.

Charleston Artist Guild in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Peter Finger

The Charleston Artist Guild in Charleston, SC, is pleased to present The American Landscape, an exhibition featuring paintings by Peter Finger, on view in the Guild Gallery, from Apr. 1 - 30, 2022. A reception will be held during the First Friday Art Walk on Apr. 1, from 5-8pm.

Finger paints primarily in both oils and acrylic mediums. He grew up in the shadows of the Catskill Mountains in Upstate New York. He started painting in his teens and was influenced by the artists of the Hudson River School who painted the wild landscapes of New England in the early 19th Century. Finger would trace the steps of these romantic painters and create his own interpretation of the scenes.

While studying fine art and art education in college, Finger would continue his Catskill Mountain journeys, now armed with a camera. Photography soon played a critical role in his development as an artist. His super-realistic paintings were based on his photographs and were quickly sought after by collectors, corporations, and galleries. Upon graduation, he quickly landed an art teaching job.

Corrigan Gallery Will Reopen in a New Location in Charleston, SC - May 2, 2022

We are pleased to announce that 38 Queen Street will be the new home of Corrigan Gallery. Renovations are almost complete. The dream of a business owning its own space comes true just half a block away from the initial manifestation of the gallery. It is both go big and go home.

This is a return to the neighborhood block for both the gallery and Lese Corrigan as the gallery began in 2005 on Queen Street and Corrigan's parents lived next door to the new location when she was born. Who says you "can't go home again?" And we like the idea of being a Queen better than a Broad – unless we are able to head abroad again!

The gallery will occupy the first floor (yes, bigger) of the building which has a garden and driveway/patio. The second floor will be a living space for someone lucky. The location is wonderful with Dock Street Theatre across the way, the French Huguenot Church diagonally across the street and the bells of St. Philips practically overhead. Although we will miss our friends on Broad Street, we are looking forward to catching up with old friends on Queen and making new ones.

The gallery will close at 7 Broad March 30. We can always be reached by phone and email. We will open at 38 Queen May 2 with a week-long open house/drop in and be open for the Friday, May 6 artwalk celebrating works by William Meisburger in a show entitled "Markings." Meisburger is a local artist who is a printmaker. There will be separate information on his work at a later date.

The space at 38 Queen has a long history of being used as an art gallery space, first as Nancy's Gallery, giving the first exhibit opportunity for many local artists, then as one of the many spaces Charleston Crafts Co-op used, and then as Hatfield I and II Fine Art Galleries.

We will celebrate our 17th anniversary and new location Sept. 1, 2022. Gallery artists are John Hull, Arthur McDonald, Paul Mardikian, Kristi Ryba, Mary Walker, John Moore, Susan Perkins, Nancy Langston, Daphne vom Baur, Max Miller, Bill Buggel, Lolly Koon, Lese Corrigan, Sue Simons Wallace, Jessica Foos Jones, William Meisburger, Midge Peery, Jennie Sumnerall, Case Jernigan, Gordon Nicholson, Allison Hull, Ann Igoe, Frances Humphreys Roosevelt, Lynne Riding, and Joe Walters.

Corrigan Gallery represents local artists who create works with thought and depth particularly in a nontraditional manner. Second market pieces are also available and works from the estates of both Elizabeth O'Neill Verner and Alfred Hutty and other notable artists.

Hours will return to normal in May for the first time since the pandemic so we will be open 10am-5pm six days a week, otherwise by appointment.

For further information check our SC Commercial Gallery listings, call at 843/722-9868, visit (corrigan-gallery.com) or email to (art@lesecorrigan.com).

Helena Fox Fine Art in Charleston, SC, Offers Works by Mary Erickson

Helena Fox Fine Art in Charleston, SC, will present an exhibit of paintings by Mary Erickson, on view from Apr. 1 - 30, 2022.

Erickson's paintings have been delighting Helena Fox Fine Art visitors for many years now. Her lyrical landscapes and bold birds catch the eye as well as the heart.

Join us in April as we highlight Erickson's achievements as an artist as well as go beyond the bio and learn more about Erickson.

Erickson has been painting since she can remember - she grew up sketching the beaches of Long Island Sound in Connecticut. She has always been able to find beauty in her surroundings, whether along a southern shore, a tiny European city, or along the rocky shores of Maine. After selling her first painting to Gulf+Western Industries in Stamford, CT, at age 13, Erickson knew she wanted to spend her life painting. Being a lover of the outdoors, she lives on a farm in North Carolina that she keeps as a bird sanctuary. She prefers to work on location, in the tradition of painters since the French Impressionists of the 1800's.

We asked Erickson in what ways do you relate to your art? "It is my life. It is never simply a career. Being a creative person is following a passion that fills your days and nights. I dream of painting. Every day I don't get to paint is a day I can never get back."

"The artist's life, to me, is a way of life, a lifestyle which includes a spiritual journey. I feel closest to God when I am out on location painting, so much so that I have been moved to tears by the splendor of my surroundings. To be able to share that beauty through my art is why I am here, and I am so grateful," adds Erickson.

"All that is beautiful leads to God," is a quote by Pope Francis from 2015.

and landscapes, which are characterized by detailed brushstrokes and vivid colors. Intrigued by the way the eye relates to the vibrancy that exists in the color spectrum, Regina has a tendency to use the full color spectrum in her paintings so the viewer's eyes can playfully enjoy bouncing from one color to the next. The variation in numerous brushstrokes gives her work a unique texture and pattern.

"In the process of painting, I find myself drawn to the relationship of colors, textures, patterns, and transitions," Lee explains. "My goal is for the viewer to become more attentive to the natural beauty around them and to notice the details of what the eye can see. Beauty is everywhere if we take time to observe the wonders of life."

Regina Lee was born in Fairbanks, AK. She and her family traveled often and though she relocated several times as a child, art was something constant in her life. She realized early-on that she loved art and took advantage of many opportunities to develop her talent.

Lee completed her Associates Degree in Fine Arts at Coastal Carolina Community College in Jacksonville, NC, in 2004. In 2007 she earned a bachelor's degree with distinction in art and emphasis in painting from the University of North Carolina in Asheville. Her work has been displayed in several solo and group exhibitions locally, as well as in Maryland and North Carolina. Lee is a member of the Charleston Artist Guild and creates out of her home studio in Charleston, SC.

Brenda Gilliam's acrylic paintings capture simple moments in life - a subtle expression on someone's face, something noticed while on a walk, a memory. Her work utilizes layers of color, texture, pattern, composition, and line, and stylistically reflects her background in graphic design and illustration.

In her exhibit, Here and There, Gilliam presents paintings that reflect the influence and inspiration drawn from the environments in St. Louis, MO, and Charleston, SC, both places the artist considers home. The darker, earthy colors with gray light in the Midwest contrast with the lighter sun colors that grace the Lowcountry. "In this exploration, I am discovering so many similarities in these two markedly different places," Gilliam explains. "It helps explain why I feel so grounded, here and there."

Brenda Gilliam has an extensive background in graphic design and illustration, with an appreciation for the aesthetics of mid-century to 70's. Never formally trained in art, she learns by doing and has been working as an artist since 1983. Her paintings have been displayed and won awards in a number of solo and group exhibitions throughout the Lowcountry, as well as in St. Louis, MO. Gilliam has also illustrated a number of children's books.

The Park Circle Gallery is located on Jenkins Avenue in North Charleston. Admission is free and free street parking is available on Jenkins Avenue in front of the gallery, as well as on the adjacent streets and in parking lots close by.

Art League of Hilton Head on Hilton Head Island, SC, Features Works by Kerrie Brown

The Art League of Hilton Head on Hilton Head Island, SC, will present Gullah Doll House, celebrating Gullah heritage through doll-making by Kerrie Brown, on view at Art League Academy, from Apr. 4 through June 3, 2022. An artist's reception, free and open to the public, will be held on Apr. 6, from 5-7pm.

Brown, a Hilton Head native and Gullah descendant, continues a family tradition and celebrates her heritage through making dolls. With snowflake eyes and triangle noses, these charming oversized dolls are both a commentary on current times and treasured keepsakes of the past. One doll sports a COVID mask, others wear military camouflage. Two have mermaid tails and button eyes.

"These dolls are an expression of Gullah culture that everyone can relate to," says Amy Wehrman, Art League Academy manager. "They are at once familiar and approachable - a wonderful use of fiber arts to evoke a time and place not easily understood by everyone."

Brown can trace her roots on Hilton Head Island since before the Civil War. For generations, the tradition of sewing has passed down through her family; she herself was taught the art of hand sewing by her great-grandmother, and the use of a sewing machine by her mother when she was 12. "I always think about that time when I am making the dolls." Brown continues the tradition by hand making dolls in the Gullah style - dyed muslin, patterned cotton, yarn and thread.

Coastal Discovery Museum on Hilton Head Island, SC, Features Works by Local School Students

The Coastal Discovery Museum on Hilton Head Island, SC, is presenting the 1st Annual Beaufort County High School Regional, on view in the Museum's Main Gallery, through Apr. 15, 2022.

You will be amazed by the quality and creativity of our Beaufort County high school students. The Coastal Discovery Museum, in partnership with the USCB Center for the Arts, is hosting the first county-wide juried exhibition featuring the best artwork from area high school students.

This year we received submissions from Battery Creek High, Beaufort High, Bluffton High, Bridges Prep, Hilton Head High, Hilton Head Prep, Island Academy, and May River High. Works include painting, drawing, photography, digital art, mixed media, ceramics, and 3D design.

The exhibition was juried by internationally recognized collage and mixed media artist James Denmark, Savannah-based painter and gallery director Carmen Maria Aguirre, and photographer and educator Mel Schnur. They selected 115 works and monetary awards for the top entries will be announced at the opening reception.

Work by Nikyta Olivera, Bluffton High

According to our Director of Exhibitions who is organizing this show, "One Work by Camden Bernstein, Hilton Head High of the truly great things about a show like this is that it both encourages our young artists, while also inspiring our visitors to look at the world that surrounds us through the eyes of the next generation."

And look in your mail for a cool postcard from the Coastal Discovery Museum. In conjunction with the exhibition, the museum sponsored a competition to design the postcard invitation. We are pleased to announce that Chelsea Fleming of Hilton Head Island High School is this year's winner. All of the submissions were imaginative and visually engaging, so a selection will also be exhibited as part of the show.

Coastal Discovery Museum on Hilton Head Island Features Works by Hitnes

The Coastal Discovery Museum on Hilton Head Island, SC, will present Hitnes, The Image Hunter: On the Trail of John James Audubon, on view in the Museum's Main Gallery, from Apr. 23 through July 3, 2022. A reception will be held on Apr. 28, from 4:30-7pm.

The exhibition is a culmination of "The Image Hunter" project, in which Hitnes retraced Audubon's travels in the United States and created work during a residency at the Halsey Institute at the College of Charleston in 2017 and 2018. The Coastal Discovery Museum is pleased to host the final stop on this national touring exhibition.

ist Hitnes embarked on a twenty-city road trip to retrace and rediscover the America that Audubon traversed in the making of his opus The Birds of America (1827-39). Traveling along Audubon's exploratory routes, Hitnes observed, sketched, and painted what he saw, creating an updated visual documentation of Audubon's birds. Hitnes's exhibition documents his journey, elaborating on what it is that drives a person to dedicate multiple decades of their life to pursuing an obsession like Audubon did.

The exhibition will feature a range of work informed by his own expedition, and will include other objects and ephemera collected on his trek. The exhibition will also be accompanied by a feature-length documentary film on Hitnes's trip, directed by filmmaker Giacomo Agnetti. From April 19-29, Hitnes will also paint three murals on the Honey Horn property. The public is encouraged to visit the museum and see Hitnes at work, call for details.

Greenville Technical College in Greer, SC, Features Upstate High School Art

Greenville Technical College in Greer, SC, is presenting the 32nd Annual Upstate High School Art Exhibit, on view at the Benson Campus Galleries, through Apr. 21, 2022. A reception and awards presentation will be held on Apr. 21, from 6-8pm. Both will take place outdoors in the newly completed Benson Campus plaza and amphitheater behind Building 301. The exhibition itself fills the galleries on the second floor of Building 301. The public is welcome.

The Department of Visual Arts at Greenville Technical College is thrilled to announce the 32nd Annual Upstate High School Art Exhibit. After a couple of quiet COVID years, the AUHSAE has roared back. 38 instructors from 20 Upstate high schools submitted a total of 143 works that represent the best of their programs. Upstate high school art students demonstrate proficiency in 13 different two- and three-dimensional categories, including traditional media such as drawing and painting but also the more specialized media of ceramics, fiber, metals, and animation.

AUHSAE is a juried exhibition. The initial jurors are the Upstate high school instructors who choose works to represent the quality and diversity of their own programs. All of their selections are on view. A professional artist with no connections to Upstate high school programs then chooses award winners from among the entries. Each AUHSAE cash award is divided between the winning student and that student's high school art program.

The 32nd AUHSAE juror was Janet Orselli, a multidisciplinary artist working in sculpture, site-specific installation, drawing and performance. She has enjoyed over fifteen solo exhibitions, including OK Harris Works of Art, New York City, Gibbes Museum of Art, Charleston, SC and 701 Center for Contemporary Art, Columbia, SC. She has been awarded a Pollack-Krasner Foundation Fellowship and three North Carolina Regional Artist Project Grants. A recipient of an MFA degree from Clemson University, Orselli lives and works in Columbus, NC.

With great care, persistence, and many trips back and forth through the galleries comparing works, Orselli singled out 30 works as award winners. She states, "As an artist and as a juror, I was greatly impressed by the quantity, quality, and variety of works in the 32nd Annual Upstate High

Works by Lanah Kelly, Hillcrest High School, 2021 Best of Show winner

School Art Exhibit. The vast majority of works were well executed and thought-provoking. Most addressed concerns about the state of our world from fresh perspectives using both new and known media. The large number of self-portraits in the exhibition provided a subjective view from the inside out, seeking a connection in a chaotic external world."

Thank you to the Metropolitan Arts Council, Netalytics, APCO Plastics, Reel Video and Stills, and the Greenville Tech Foundation for generously making the AUHSAE possible. Lander University's Department of Art also presents a Lander Merit Award.

Greenville Center for Creative Arts in Greenville, SC, Offers Group Exhibit

The Greenville Center for Creative Arts in Greenville, SC, will present Sight(s) Specific, featuring works by Charles Geiger, Julia Morrisroe, & Meredith Stoudenmire, on view in the Center's Main Gallery from Apr. 1 through May 25, 2022. Receptions will be held on Apr. 1, and May 6, from 6-9pm.

In Sight(s) Specific, artists Charles Geiger, Julia Morrisroe, and Meredith Stoudenmire investigate ideas ranging from narratives associated with monuments & contemporary events to the thrill of adventure. Through abstracted forms, environmental and social issues precipitate to create conversation surrounding our past and our future. Geiger uses abstracted botanical forms in his paintings that merge with social and environmental issues. Morrisroe's paintings examine the purpose of public monuments and who they served. Through imagery of volcanoes, Stoudenmire's paintings explore adventure and risk taking.

Work by Meredith Stoudenmire

Charles Geiger grew up in Charleston, SC, and currently lives and works full-time in New York's Hudson Valley region up along the Hudson River. He studied art at East Carolina University and Computer Science at Millersville University. Much of his art is informed by science concepts which are interlaced with current environmental and societal stresses. A recent exhibition of his paintings on climate change at NYU Abu Dhabi, U.A.E. was underwritten in part by the Rachel Carson Center, New York University Arts and Humanities Art & Art History, and eARTHumanities.

Julia Morrisroe is an artist and writer whose work has been exhibited internationally. Her abstract visual language examines the flood of images and information (relevant or not) to expose the impossibility of meaning in this oversaturated environment through installations, murals, prints and clusters of painting. Morrisroe is a professor in painting and drawing at University of Florida and serves on the Conference Committee of the College Art Association and the Curatorial Board for 352Walls for the city of Gainesville, FL. Morrisroe's paintings, drawings, and installations have been exhibited in museums and art galleries worldwide in over 17 solo exhibitions and 90 group exhibitions.

Meredith Stoudenmire is a visual artist and writer, born and based in Greenville, SC. She makes paintings and books focused on adventure, bravery, and a quest for answers, using volcanoes as a symbol and a character. After graduating from the Atlanta College of Art with a BFA in Printmaking, she lived in various cities before returning to her hometown in 2010.

Tiger Strikes Asteroid Greenville in Greenville, SC, Features Works by Jacolby Satterwhite

Tiger Strikes Asteroid Greenville in Greenville, SC, is presenting Worlds Apart: Jacolby Satterwhite, on view through Apr. 8, 2022.

The show will present two works by the internationally celebrated artist and South Carolina native. "Shrines" and "We Are In Hell When We Hurt Each Other" are examples of how Satterwhite's mix of digital film, animation, illustration, and performance fuse to create colorful, intimate and immersive worlds.

Satterwhite's work explores the idea of intimate worlds and spaces in these when people's sense of safe spaces - physical, virtual, emotional - are constantly in flux. His conceptual art draws on cultural zeitgeist, as well as personal iconography created by his mother and himself, to comment on themes ranging from identity and sexuality to gaming and virtual reality.

Satterwhite is a native of Columbia, SC, based in New York. His work has been presented in numerous exhibitions and festivals internationally, including most recently at Haus der Kunst, Munich (2021); Gwangju Biennale, Gwangju

Tiger Strikes Asteroid Greenville (TSA GVL) was founded in 2019 and is the newest part of the Tiger Strikes Asteroid (TSA) network of artist-run spaces and joins locations in Philadelphia, New York, Los Angeles, and Chicago. Our goal is to collectively bring people together, expand connections and create community through artist-initiated exhibitions, projects, and curatorial opportunities. We seek to build an ethos of cooperative achievement in the visual arts, creating the physical and emotional space for artists to show their work and exchange ideas on their own terms. Our artist-run model expands the artist's role beyond that of studio practitioner to include the roles of curator, critic, and community developer and provides an alternate model to the conventions of the current commercial art market. TSA GVL will specifically focus on connecting the art communities in Greenville and the greater Southeast to the global art world. TSA was founded in 2009 in Philadelphia, is a 501c3 non-profit organization, and is a 2021 recipient of a grant from the Warhol Foundation.

Maybe you're the owner of a commercial art gallery and you've never seen your exhibits included with others presented in your area. You might even be an individual artist who is having an exhibit in a non-profit space or commercial space and you don't see your exhibits included. Earth into Art... A Greenwood Clay Community is an event created by Greenwood Area Studio Potters (GASP) to promote the culture and craft of pottery in the South Carolina Heritage Corridor. It spotlights the evolution of ceramics in Greenwood where networking and professional development have expanded educational opportunities and studios locally.

This event is a collaborative sale and educational event between GASP, The Art Center of Greenwood, and Boys & Girls Clubs of the Lakelands Starz24 Teen Center. It will be held on Saturday, May 7, 2022, from 9am - 5pm at The Art Center of Greenwood in Greenwood, SC.

Included in the May 7th event is a display and sale of pottery created by the teens of the Boys & Girls Club with the support of GASP members and The Art Center. As in the previous year's sale, there will be wheel throwing demonstrations, tours of the studios in The Art Center, and opportunities to "feel" the clay process.

Children in attendance will have the chance to win a scholarship for The Art Center's Summer Clay Camp. All recommended safety precautions will be in place. Masks, if required, will be available; hand sanitizer will be in many locations throughout; guests will be spaced and limited in the

Works by Traci Wright Martin

Reception: Friday, April 29 | 6:30 – 9 p.m.

This series of charcoal and mixed media portraits explores the female perspective on what it means to be seen, to see the depth in others and to truly see oneself. It is a deeply personal autobiography on passage and reconstruction with a shared narrative honoring both the points of individuality and purposeful connections with all women.

Martin's skilled technique and her unique vision for the combination of charcoal and mixed media have earned top awards and accolades in a number of juried shows, regional and national. Her artwork is featured in private and public collections, both internationally and throughout the US.

Artists Collective | Spartanburg, SC, Features Works by Sally & Jim Weber

Artists Collective | Spartanburg, in Spartanburg, SC, will present Clayshapers Pottery: Made with Clay, featuring works by Sally and Jim Weber, on view in Gallery II, from Apr. 5 - 30, 2022.

The Upstate husband-wife potter team of Jim G. and Sally Y. Weber want to show the versatility of clay in their upcoming exhibition.

"We want visitors to the exhibition to have an appreciation of the versatility of mud from the earth," Sally Weber says. "They will see an array of colorful and whimsical pottery that will put a smile on your face and joy in your heart to witness the talent of two clay shapers."

Married 37 years, the Webers have exhibited their art in numerous shows through the Southeast together and separately. "As professional potters and retired from the rat race we continue to make pottery," she says. "I've been practicing my hand-building skills, reaching upward into vases, lidded coffers and decorating my husband's wheel-turned vases. This exhibit is a selection of my best at this time."

people to paint. They have my impressions on them so they're easy for any age to paint and is a delight for all."

Sally Weber has been making pottery since 1986, when she took part-time classes at Haywood Community College learning all kinds of different clay techniques. She excels at hand-building and carving on the things she makes. She was invited to be a clay hand-builder at the Village of Yesteryear 1988, and she is still part of the educational exhibit at the North Carolina State Fair. Her husband, Jim Weber, is a functional potter who influenced her art to make them functional, too, she says.

"I have been a member of the Artists Collective | Spartanburg since 2018," she says. "Everyone is very encouraging to my art and business. It is a great community for artists."

The 40 pieces of pottery in the exhibition will be offered for sale, with prices ranging from $20 to $400.

The Artists Collective | Spartanburg, located on W. Main Street, provides a forum and home for the arts and creative population of Spartanburg, providing facilities and services to artist members for exhibits, performances and creation. During Spartanburg ArtWalk on the third Thursday each month, hours are extended until 9pm.

Work by Sally Weber

Weber is mainly self-taught in her art. "Everything is an inspiration – texture, sights and history. The carving of the clay is my forte, using the clay as a canvas I portray the world around me. I've carved some of my favorite artists' works – Monet, Van Gogh, Alphonse Mucha, Georgia O'Keefe and Maxfield Parrish. My love of nature and fantasy glow through my work. I share my love of art with children and adults making bisque animal figurines and medallions for

Artists Collective | Spartanburg in Spartanburg, SC, will present Images and Treasures: Portraits, Landscapes and Glass Treasures, featuring works by Mary Verrandeaux, on view in Gallery III, from Apr. 5 - 30, 2022.

For Spartanburg award-winning artist Mary Verrandeaux, variety is truly the spice of life – variety she will show in an exhibition of works. The exhibition will include about 20 of Verrandeaux's paintings, drawings, portraits, landscapes and fused glass art.

"My art represents my ability to be creative, diverse and experimental," Verrandeaux, a native of Cortland, New York, says. "From children book illustrations to photo-realistic portraits, landscape paintings or fused glass, I am constantly experimenting and pushing my art to the next level."

While Verrandeaux has done hundreds of commissioned works of landscapes and homes, portraits are her favorites to paint. "I enjoy working closely with the client to achieve their vision. Painting and drawing allow creativity and freedom a camera can't achieve."

"I continue to work and accept commissions as a fine artist and recently have challenged myself experimenting with fused glass art – a more abstract and exciting new medium," adds Verrandeaux. "It's such a beautiful medium, but so different from the controlled environment of painting and drawing."

A graduate of Ringling College of Art and Design, with honors in illustration and graphic design, Verrandeaux has been a successful professional artist, businessperson and athlete since graduating in 1983. She has received awards and acceptance into multiple juried shows, including Artfields and the Artists Collective | Spartanburg Juried Show. She has illustrated countless fiction and children's books, was awarded the design for the Florida License Plate promoting the Florida Horse Park and was awarded the prestigious Hampton Classic cover and poster design for the Hampton Classic Horse Show.

Select pieces in the exhibition will be available for purchase, with prices ranging from $25 to $2,400.

Hodges Taylor Contemporary Gallery + Consulting Firm in Charlotte, NC, Features Works by Ashlynn Browning and Katy Mixon

Hodges Taylor Contemporary Gallery + Consulting Firm in Charlotte, NC, will present In Conversation: Ashlynn Browning + Katy Mixon, on view through Apr. 1 through June 10, 2022. A reception will be held on Apr. 1, from 6-8pm.

This series of exhibitions is about starting a conversation – between two artists, and with the viewer. We invited an artist partner to ask another artist that inspires them to exhibit their work together. In Conversation captures the exchange between two practicing artists that illuminates the parallels they recognize in their work and beyond.

"Your work came to mind as an interesting counterpoint to mine as far as material, but with some strong process oriented connections. At first glance, there is our mutual use of organic geometry. Even more than that, I think our process is quite similar... we layer, erode, dig, and excavate repeatedly to get to our final images," said Browning.

"Part of it, for me, is this back and forth with the surface and the texture of trial and error. I work in a circular way, painting across multiple supports simultaneously, taking from one adding to another," said Mixon. "I've tried to create a structure that will support this process while also paying attention to the by-products of this approach like the paint-stained rags from which I construct the quilts. I see this in your work, too – the way certain forms repeat so that each painting is a kind of stage on which various relationships play out. I'm interested to hear how you think about these interactions. Do you plan them out? Or, do you find them in the process of making and unmaking?" added Mixon.

Work by Ashlynn Browning

"Like you, I rely heavily on trial and error in my process, and on an intuitive approach over all," adds Browning. "I don't plan the work ahead but rather enjoy the stumbling and ups and downs inherent to following where each piece wants to go. And each feeds the next. We share that cyclical process. I think I have a certain vocabulary of forms that recur in the paintings but these variables are mixed in a different manner each time. Some of the forms are stand-ins for figures and some act more as a "place," a psychological landscape. I like to keep things fresh and surprising so I'm always open to new ways of using materials and creating the tension of opposites. Bold/muted color, organic/geometric forms, painterly/clean hardedge."

Ashlynn Browning (b. 1977) earned BA degrees in Studio Art and English from Meredith College in 2000 and her MFA in painting and printmaking from the University of NC at Greensboro in 2002. She has received grants and residency fellowships from the Joan Mitchell Foundation, United Arts Council, Vermont Studio Center, and Virginia Center for Creative Arts. Select exhibitions include the Weatherspoon Art Museum, Greensboro, NC, North Carolina Museum of Art, Raleigh, NC, Whitespace, Atlanta, GA, CUE Foundation, New York, NY, and Hemphill Fine Arts, Washington, DC. She has exhibited internationally in London, Paris, Ireland, and Hong Kong.

Browning's work was featured in the 2009, 2015 and 2020 Southern Edition of New American Paintings and has been reviewed by The Brooklyn Rail, Burnaway, The Washington Post, Washington City Paper, and The Atlanta Journal-Constitution. Browning's recent curatorial projects include the 2020 exhibition, Front Burner: Highlights in Contemporary North Carolina Painting, for the North Carolina Museum of Art in Raleigh, NC. Browning is an artist partner with Hodges Taylor. She lives and works in Raleigh, NC.

Katy Mixon (b. 1984) is a visual artist working in painting, sculpture, quilting and photography. She earned an MFA from University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill and a BA from Davidson College. She is an alumna of the School of the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston. Mixon is a recipient of a Working Artist Grant and a Ruth and Harold Chenven Foundation Award. She was invited as an artist-in-residence to the Gibbes Museum of Art, SC; VCCA, VA; Kimmel Harding Nelson Center, NE; The Hambidge Center, GA.; AICAD Studio Practice Residency, NY; and Byrdcliffe Art Colony, NY.

Select exhibition venues include the North Carolina Museum of Art, Raleigh; GreenHill Gallery, NC; the Southeast-

Jerald Melberg Gallery in Charlotte, NC, Features Works by Donald Sultan

Jerald Melberg Gallery in Charlotte, NC, will present Iconic Florals, featuring works by Donald Sultan, a titan of American art, on view from Apr. 23 through June 11, 2022. A reception will be held on Apr. 22, from 6-8pm.

Paintings, conte crayon drawings and screenprints will be presented in the artist's inaugural solo exhibition with the Charlotte, North Carolina-based gallery.

Work by Donald Sultan

Sultan is a painter, printmaker, and sculptor known for large-scale, multi-media compositions of flowers, fruit, dominoes, and other simple forms that are both representational and abstract. His first linoleum paintings of the 1970s were inspired by the unconventional 'found objects' used in the Arte Povera modern art movement in Europe. There have been over 50 solo exhibitions of his work that have appeared in museums and galleries worldwide, including the Guggenheim, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and the Whitney Museum

Central Piedmont Community College in Charlotte, NC, Offers Virtual Exhibition

Central Piedmont Community College's new Pauline Dove Art Gallery to feature works by its namesake, exhibition to be held virtually at (<http://blogs.cpcc.edu/cpccartgalleries/>), through July 21, 2022.

The new Pauline Dove Art Gallery, located inside the college's new Parr Center, will display a new exhibition virtually by its namesake - Pauline Dove - that will include an eclectic array of artwork featuring energetic swirling colors and highly creative compositions. The selection of works will present the full spectrum of Dove's skills, ranging from painting, silver point, prints, ceramics, and books. Dove's new exhibition honors her late sister, Selma, and celebrates life, love, sisterhood, and the joys of making art.

As a former chair of the Visual Arts Program and studio art instructor at

"Uncle Robert" by Pauline Dove

Central Piedmont, Dove's career at the college spanned three decades. During her tenure she taught a variety of visual arts classes. As a result, her legacy thrives in the college's halls to this day. After

Harvey B. Gantt Center for African-American Arts + Culture in Charlotte, NC, Offers Works by South Arts Fellows

Harvey B. Gantt Center for African-American Arts + Culture in Charlotte, NC, is presenting the South Arts 2021 Southern Prize & State Fellows Exhibition, curated by Wim Roefs, through May 29, 2022.

The South Arts State Fellows project, it seems, meets a critical moment in which calls for more equality, equity, and social justice are loud. The earth burns and floods all at once, while science deniers deny and monied interests whistle to the tune of après moi, le déluge. Citizens of color are killed by police and others, but now in plain, recorded view. Alternative facts, internalized fiction and doublespeak beat Orwell at his game. Some pandemic politics present protective masks as shackles of totalitarian rule. If it seems that humanity is quickly becoming irredeemable or its demise, irreversible, the South Arts artists didn't get the memo or haven't resigned themselves to such a fate.

This doesn't mean these artists are naïve or wide-eyed optimists; it's the very recognition of issues and problems that is the impetus for their work. And they push back, providing hope that improvement and reversal remain possible. Such engagement is no surprise; most of the artists have first-hand experience with issues surrounding race, ethnicity, identity, belonging, colonialism and gender – and typically not as members of dominant groups.

Work by Marielle Plaisir fellowship recipients of the South Arts Southern Prize & State Fellows project, which launched in 2017. The artists and State Fellows hail from the South Arts region – Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Tennessee.

The artistry on display is a testament to the strength of art in the south, presenting diverse themes, visions, and styles. The 2021 Southern Prize winner, Marielle Plaisir, creates lavish, grand, elaborate artworks in a wide range of media populated with contemporary, colonial, and other historical figures against lush, Caribbean-inspired backdrops.

Southern Prize Finalist, Fletcher Williams III, addresses Southern history and culture using found and natural materials, focusing on "our desire to establish a home and self" within the South. As a group, the 2021 South Arts Fellows bring multiple identities to the table, individually and combined. This cohort demonstrates not only the aestheticism of art, but the power of creativity to provide hope and perspective.

In addition to Plaisir and Williams, the artists in the current exhibition are Tameca Cole of Alabama, Raheleh Filsoofi of Tennessee, Joyce Garner of Kentucky, Myra Greene of Georgia, Jewel Ham of North Carolina, Ming Ying Hong of Mississippi and artists duo Keith Calhoun and Chandra McCormick of Louisiana. The 2021 cohort of South Arts fellows is the most diverse group to date. Of the six American-born artists, all but Garner are African American. Filsoofi is from Iran, Plaisir was born in France but has roots in Guadeloupe and Hong was born in China but raised in Los Angeles.

South Arts is a nonprofit regional arts organization empowering artists, organizations, and communities, and increasing access to arts and culture.

Wim Roefs is an independent curator, author, art consultant, exhibition designer, and the owner of if ART Gallery in Columbia, SC. He is the former chair and a co-founder of Columbia's 701 Center for Contemporary Art (CCA) and was the organization's founding volunteer Executive Director from 2008 until February 2013. He organized and curated numerous exhibitions for 701 CCA and edited a dozen catalogues and other publications for the non-profit. Roefs is the organizer, curator and catalogue editor for South Arts' annual Southern Prize & State Fellows exhibition. He has curated over 100 exhibitions for his own gallery and other art institutions. Through his gallery, Roefs has published more than two dozen exhibition catalogues and written a number of essays about artists and their work. Roefs, a native of The Netherlands, was a member of the Art in Transit Advisory Committee (ATAC) of the Charlotte Area Transit System (CATS), supervising the implementation of the light rail system's public art component. He has taught courses in contemporary art and African-

The Bechtler Museum of Modern Art in Charlotte, NC, Features Works by Annemarie Schwarzenbach

The Bechtler Museum of Modern Art in Charlotte, NC, will present Annemarie Schwarzenbach: Departure Without Destination, on view in the Fourth-Floor Gallery, from Apr. 2, through June 19, 2022.

The exhibition presented in collaboration with Zentrum Paul Klee in Bern, Switzerland, is the first major retrospective dedicated to the photography of this Swiss writer, photographer, and journalist Annemarie Schwarzenbach (1908–1942).

Despite her early death, she left behind an impressive body of work that is of great emotional intensity and political relevance. Consumed by wanderlust, a desire for social progress, and a sense of adventure, between 1933 and her death in 1942, she travelled extensively through Europe, Asia, Africa, and the United States, documenting in both text and image, the social and political struggles, tensions, and conflicts of the period leading up to World War II.

Schwarzenbach's photographs also convey personal themes, such as life in exile, the search for identity, homosexuality, or the desire to transgress conventional gender roles. Above all, though, they express Schwarzenbach's unbridled passion for travel - and her search for encounters with the unknown, the "departure without destination" as an existential experience.

When her literary work was rediscovered in the 1980s, she became celebrated as a writer, female pioneer, and gay icon. It was not until recently, however, that her contributions in photography have been recognized. The focal point of this exhibition is Schwarzenbach's estate of approximately 4,000 photographs, preserved within the Swiss Literary Archives (Schweizerisches Literaturarchiv), located in Bern. Relatively unknown to date and rarely exhibited, these photographs have recently been digitized by the Swiss Literary Archives and made available for research, exhibition, and publication. Here, for the first time, the parallels between both of her practices, as a writer and as a photographer, are presented in a compelling exhibition accompanied by archival materials and film.

Annemarie Schwarzenbach: Departure Without Destination is an exhibition produced by the Zentrum Paul Klee, Bern, Switzerland. The presentation at the Bechtler Museum of Modern Art will be adapted from the exhibition's first iteration to include English translations, regionally specific photographs, and a series of programs specifically designed for Bechtler audiences.

The Bechtler Museum of Modern Art is named after the family of Andreas Bechtler, a Charlotte resident and native of Switzerland who assembled and inherited a collection of more than 1,400 artworks created by major figures of 20th-century modernism and donated it to the public trust. The Bechtler collection comprises artworks by seminal figures such as Alberto Giacometti, Joan Miro, Jean Tinguely, Max Ernst, Andy Warhol, Alexander Calder, Le Corbusier, Sol LeWitt, Edgar Degas, Nicolas de Stael, Barbara Hepworth and Picasso. Only a handful of the artworks in the Bechtler collection have been on public view in the United States.

Hickory Museum of Art in Hickory, NC, Celebrates 75 Years of Student Art Shows

The Hickory Museum of Art in Hickory, NC, is celebrating 75 years of the annual Paul Whitener Student Art Show, featuring works by area school students. The Elementary School Division exhibition will be on view through Apr. 10, 2022. The Middle & High School Division exhibition will be on view from Apr. 16 - May 1, 2022. Awards will be presented at a reception held on Apr. 26, from 5:30-7pm.

This annual event, started by the Museum's founder and first director Paul Whitener (1911-1959), provides an opportunity for selected student artwork to be exhibited in the Museum and for family members and school representatives to demonstrate their support. Selected artworks are from home-school, private and public school students in the Hickory City, Catawba County and Newton Conover areas. "Understanding the creative process and being comfortable with experimentation empowers students to be innovative when solving problems. The Paul Whitener Student Art Show celebrates the importance of Art Education in positioning K-12 learners for success now and in the future" said HMA Executive Director Jon Carfagno.

Award categories for both divisions include: Coffee in the Coe's Most Creative Artist, First Place, Second Place, Third Place, as well as Honorable Mentions. Education Manager Ginny Zellmer expressed, "We are very excited that after two years both elementary and middle/high school exhibits will all be in person. We had the exhibits online the last two years but it isn't the same as seeing the artwork in person. Students are proud to bring their families to the awards reception too. Being the 75th year for this show, it is a milestone for the Museum and another reason to be excited about the walls being filled with student art."

The Museum is paying tribute to the 75th anniversary of the Paul Whitener Student Art Show with a special exhibition in the Whitener Gallery. This show includes historic photographs and articles from HMA's archives as well as artwork from past student art show winners and judges.

The exhibitions are sponsored by Rotary Club of Hickory, Chartered 1921, District 7670 and annual sponsors Shurtape Technologies, Beaver Family Foundation, Broyhill Family Foundation, Deal Financial Group, and Vanguard Furniture.

Hickory Museum of Art was founded in 1944 to collect, care for, and exhibit American art. Today, more than 75 years later, the Museum has evolved into an arts center featuring an extensive permanent collection of art objects across all mediums as well as education classes for all ages. Hickory Museum of Art is located on the SALT Block, on 3rd Avenue NE, Hickory.

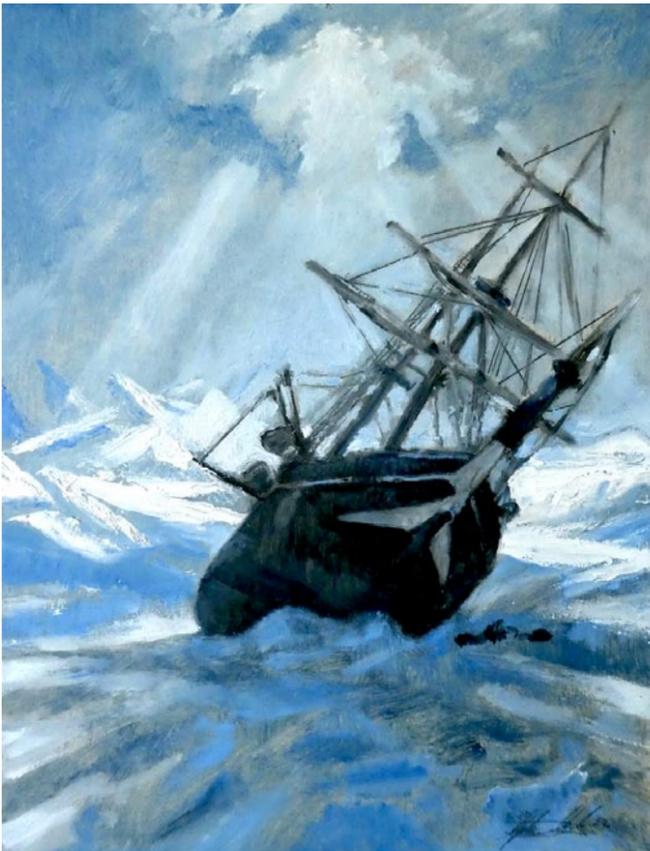

For further information check our NC Institutional Gallery listing, call the Museum at 828-327-8576, ext 201 or visit (www.HickoryArt.org).

The deadline each month to submit articles, photos and ads is the 24th of the month prior to the next issue. This will be April 24th for the May 2022 issue and May 24 for the June 2022 issue. After that, it's too late unless your exhibit runs into the next month. But don't wait for the last minute - send your info now. And where do you send that info? E-mail to (info@carolinaarts.com).

2022 Columbia Open Studios Tour Takes Place Throughout Columbia, SC - Apr. 2 & 3, 2022

The 2022 Columbia Open Studios tour will feature 42 artist's studios on Apr. 2 & 3, 2022. Explore artwork and artistic practices of area artists while poking around in their studios during the Weekend-long event presented by 701 CCA.

After a two-year hiatus due to COVID-19, 701 Center for Contemporary Art once again welcomes the public to visit local artists during the free, self-guided tour of artist studios in the City of Columbia, and Richland and Lexington Counties. This year's event takes place Saturday, Apr. 2, from 10am-6pm, and Sunday, Apr. 3, from noon-6pm. The public can see the list of participating artists, their studio addresses and directions to artists' studios at (<http://www.columbiaopenstudios.org>).

Columbia Open Studios presents the public with an opportunity to delve into the Columbia region's dynamic arts community. A step into artists' private studios unveils a behind-the-scenes look at the materials, techniques and creation of artwork in and around Columbia. Visitors can learn how various works of art are produced while chatting one-on-one with the artist about their creations and inspirations. They can experience the techniques behind hand-blown glass ornaments, ceramic mosaics, wooden sculptures, prints, paintings and more. Artist studios range from lively community spaces to backyard sculpture gardens to individual studios in Columbia and Richland and Lexington Counties.

Open Studios also provides a chance for the public to buy art directly from artists. Artists keep 100 percent of their sales.

Located inside the historic 701 Whaley building in downtown Columbia, 701 Center for Contemporary Art is a non-profit art center with free admission to the public. 701 CCA is one of the only centers in the region offering a live-in artist-in-residence program. The center hosts year-round exhibitions featuring work from regional, national and international artists as well as music, dance and literary events. 701 CCA offers workshops for adults and children including lectures, panel discussions, group tours and more. Children as young as six years old can enjoy their annual Youth Summer Art Workshops and gain hands-on experience with the arts.

701 CCA is able to present Columbia Open Studios for more than 10 years thanks to major support from the City of Columbia. Columbia Open Studios typically sees around 10,000 studio visitors over the weekend. In 2018 & 2019, over 30 percent of studio visitors were from outside of SC, coming in from places like Alaska, New York and California.

The 701 CCA's Columbia Open Studios - 2022 participating artists include: Christalyn Aitken, Sonya Brown, Ed Bryan, Julie Buckley, JJ Burton, Nancy Butterworth, Kimberly Case, Jean Capalbo, Mark Conrardy, Laura Day, D'Michelle DuPre, Elizabeth Edwards, Clark Ellefson, Charles Hite, Mary How, Hunt Howard, Laddie Howard, Jason Jaco, Peggy Jacobs, Jason Kendall, Laurie Kinne, Nina Knowlton, Christopher Lane, Alicia Leeke, Susan Lenz, Anthony Lewis, Deborah Life, Jean Lomasto, Chappy Manning, Michael McGuinness, Lee Monts, One Eared Cow, Jamie Peterson, Cameron Porter, Quincy Pugh, Susan Robertson, Mary Robinson, Jan Schwantes, Susan Shrader, Kevin Smith, Jan Swanson, Brittany Watkins, and Ellen Yaghjian.

wasn't there before," said Neil Gaiman.

Artists create visuals to encourage us to experience life with curiosity and awe. They use a silent language that stretches us to imagine, perhaps see things we've missed, and understand challenging happenings differently.

This exhibition, Rites of Spring: Endurance, explores themes of renewal during times of prolonged hardships. Spring revitalizes our senses and many times renews our outlook on life, while ushering in the acknowledgement of the gift of endurance. Our remarkable ability to withstand prolonged hardships continues to sustain and inspire an enthusiasm for the ephemeral nature of life.

For this 30th Annual Artista Vista, Stormwater's ten resident artists are featuring, not only a stunning thought provoking group show, but a chance for the public to visit their studios and experience art during Art Day. Stormwater Studios is Columbia's newest, most vibrant artist community as well as the only working artist's studios in The Vista. Stormwater Studios provides studio space to 10 artists and gallery space to community artists,

SVAD Studio at Stormwater Studios in Columbia, SC, Features BFA Thesis Exhibitions

The School of Visual Art and Design at the University of South Carolina is proud to present three BFA thesis exhibitions this Spring at the SVAD Studio at Stormwater Studios in Columbia, SC. These exhibitions feature work by graduating seniors in Graphic Design + Illustration, Printmaking, and Drawing.

As a community-facing extension of the School of Visual Art and Design, we value a diverse range of voices and backgrounds and aim to enrich and contribute to the cultural vibrancy of the Columbia arts community. We hope you'll join us for these upcoming exhibitions.

Up first is the exhibition, Impressions of the Ordinary, featuring works by Zoe Dohrmann, Jo Proctor, Zach Holtzclaw & Nancy Sexton, on view in the SVAD Studio from Apr. 4 - 8, 2022. A reception will be held on Apr. 7, from 5-7pm.

As artists, we are continually noticing beauty and meaning in the "ordinary". For example, in the images submitted, you can see an appreciation for the color, shape and pattern in a row of trashcans; the movement in a flow of tree branches; the complexity of form in backyard figs; and the distinctive forms and mannerisms of human beings.

As printmakers, we can use a variety of matrices and processes to explore the same idea in many ways. In our exhibition, we are expanding upon our initial encounters with the seemingly mundane, and investigating the extraordinary within the ordinary.

Zoe Dohrmann is a printmaker from the DC area. She has experience working professionally as a screen printer, graphic designer, and embroiderer. She incorporates this experience into her work. Jo Proctor is from Spartanburg, SC. He is interested in furthering his knowledge of multi-process prints and currently is experimenting with life-size images. Zach Holtzclaw is from the Simpsonville area. His work includes photographic and drawn techniques from the lithographic, silkscreen and intaglio processes. Nancy Sexton is from Columbia. She found her love of printmaking late in life and continues to find delight in exploring the many facets of the craft.

Also on view from Apr. 25 - 29, 2022, will be Withered Vim, featuring works by Baylee McCourt.

"The intention for this collection of work is to delve into the deeper parts of myself, encouraging an intimate connection between the viewer and their own inner voices," says McCourt. "The human experience is one that cannot be defined by a singular body, as our mortality is omnipresent. My purpose as an artist is to ignite a discussion that encompasses both lightness and darkness, through the comparison between life and death."

"Throughout my work, I implement a saturated color palette curated with fluorescent and vibrant colors, juxtaposed with muted and dull colors to create hypnotic scenes that appear both euphoric and unnerving. The use of symbols in my artwork allude to decay and death, along with energetic vitality."

"The deconstruction of life that appears in my work is in reference to the lack of control I feel in my own life. Feelings of insecurity, anxiety, and loneliness contribute to the process of creating gruesome, yet compelling and alluring pieces," adds McCourt.

"My intention is to communicate the correlation between life and death and how it is associated with the overwhelming insecurities and doubts that tangle around my mind."

Born and raised in Chapin, SC, McCourt has been captivated with creative expression since she was a toddler. Coming from a family of artists, She was encouraged to decorate nearly every blank surface she could find growing up. Today, McCourt is a 22-year-old senior in her last semester earning a Bachelor of Fine Arts at the University of South Carolina. She finds interest in a variety of mediums including acrylic paint, charcoal, collage, and photo manipulation. McCourt's intentions are to continue creating themed artworks, and she is eager to share her creations with the world.

The SVAD Studio at Stormwater Studios is located on Pendleton Street, Columbia, SC.

SVAD at Stormwater is funded through a grant from the John S. and James L. Knight Foundation.

Columbia Museum of Art in Columbia, SC, Offers Art Blossoms Display in May

Spring has sprung, Mother's Day weekend is around the corner, and the Columbia Museum of Art (CMA) in Columbia, SC, announces the return of Art Blossoms, a beautifully botanical exhibition experience and museum fundraiser on view Thursday, May 5, through Sunday, May 8, 2022, with a packed schedule of events including an opening celebration on Wednesday, May 4. Over four festive days of flowers, fun, and fine art, Art Blossoms showcases a kaleidoscope of fresh floral arrangements - located throughout CMA galleries, public spaces, and Boyd Plaza - created by local garden clubs, florists, and designers alongside the paintings and sculptures that inspired them.

"This annual springtime art and flower show is a must-do," says CMA Executive Director Della Watkins. "Breathtaking floral displays throughout the CMA and on beautiful Boyd Plaza will dazzle and delight one and all. Proceeds from Art Blossoms support ongoing exceptional programs and exhibitions at the CMA."

This year, the CMA is collaborating with three local partner organizations - Blue Bike SC, Historic Columbia, and Richland Library - to bring the Art Blossoms experience beyond the museum walls. Participants can plan to spend their weekend exploring Columbia with botanical adventures around the city.

Visitors are invited to marvel at living art arrangements and to participate in a full schedule of dynamic events, including the opening celebration, talks, workshops, a bike parade, brunch, demonstrations, and tours. During the run of Art Blossoms, Azalea Coffee Bar will offer refreshments for sale at a pop-up café inside the museum from 10am to 3pm each day.

In addition to the CMA Collection, exhibitions on view during Art Blossoms include Rodin: Contemplation and Dreams / Selections from the Iris & B. Gerald Cantor Collections (closing May 15), 22 South Carolinians (closing May 22), and Anila Quayyum Agha: Let A Million Flowers Bloom (closing May 29).

Now in its second year, Art Blossoms is a unique exhibition held annually on Mother's Day weekend that also serves as a fundraiser for the Columbia Museum of Art. Every ticket purchased for the exhibition and its related events supports the CMA's award-winning arts education and programming and helps to ensure a thriving creative community in the Midlands.

Art Blossoms general museum admission: $15 / $5 for members. General admission tickets are sold at the door and not available for advance purchase. Event tickets are on sale now.

The Art Blossoms Opening Celebration will be held on Wednesday, May 4, from 6-8pm. Join us for this exclusive preview of Art Blossoms the night before it opens to the public. Chat with the creators of the stunning floral arrangements and enjoy hors d'oeuvres from 8th Wonder Cuisine, specialty cocktails, and live music in the open air of Boyd Plaza. 701 Center for Contemporary Art in Columbia, SC, Offers Works by Jean-Marie Mauclet & Gwylene Gallimard 701 Center for Contemporary Art in Columbia, SC, is presenting Displacement, Memory, Erasure: Collaborative Challenges in Three Parts, featuring works by Jean-Marie Mauclet & Gwylene Gallimard, on view in the Center's Main Gallery, through Apr. 24, 2022. A closing reception will be held on Apr. 24, from 3-5pm.

The artist-activist duo Gwylene Gallimard & Jean-Marie Mauclet are back. A dozen years after their memorable, gallery-wide Olympia installation at 701 CCA, the French couple and Charleston, SC, residents present a three-part project.

Gallimard's massive canvases with drawings, collage and artifacts relay decades of the duo's unique art-and-activism collaborations with artists and non-artists alike. Mauclet's 3-D works are an installation-in-the-making, critiquing issues of wealth, class, culture and race in Charleston.

An Apr. 9 workshop of the Charleston collective TINYisPOWERFUL, of which artists are members, explores art tools and other techniques for social engagement. The event, Tiny is Powerful: A Day of Communicating & Learning Together, will take place from 9:30am-5pm.

Gallimard (b. 1948, Paris, France) and Mauclet (b. 1942, Meru, France), Charleston residents since 1984, have worked independently and collaboratively for some four decades. Their collaborative works include Charleston's popular community-oriented French café Fast & French, which they owned for decades, and which was conceived to offer "all the features of an art, social justice and economic sustainability project." The duo has created installations and exhibitions tackling the health insurance industry, fast food, religious beliefs, refugees and how the past is memorialized. A 2006-08 collaboration, You Comin, brought eight artists and educators to the World Social Forum in Nairobi, Kenya. Their long-running project The Future Is On The Table between 2001 and 2013 was at South Carolina State University in Orangeburg and in Lexington, KY, Charleston, SC, and Jackson, MS. The project led Gallimard and Mauclet to residencies in India and France and an experimental conference on the Trans-Siberian train. Why do they want to be rich without us? in 2007 was part of the project The Changing Face of Charleston. Gallimard & Mauclet 2009 residency and 2010 exhibition Olympia at 701 CCA explored the history and culture of the historic mill district in Columbia where the center is located. Conversations With Time was a 2011 intergenerational art project in West Baltimore, MD.

Gallimard & Mauclet's work has received support from France's Ministère de la Culture; the South Carolina Arts Commission; Charleston's Spoleto Festival; Alternate ROOTS; Alternate Visions; the Humanities Foundations; and the National Endowment for the Arts. Mauclet studied at the University of Paris, France; the State University of New York at Buffalo, where he received an MFA; and New York City's Cooper Union School of Art and Architecture. Gallimard studied at Paris' Ecole Nationale Supérieure des Arts Décoratifs and received an MFA from Concordia University in Montreal, Canada.

The TINYisPOWERFUL collective believes that art and tiny businesses are nimble, adaptable and profitable for the people. The collective argues that belonging means celebrating many histories and cultures and together becoming all we can be.

701 CCA's mission is to promote understanding, appreciation and enjoyment of contemporary art. With a gallery and live-work space for an Artist-in-Residence program, the Center provides artists with resources to develop, create and exhibit visual arts in conjunction with performing, literary and media arts. 701 CCA also offers year-round cultural programming, including contemporary art exhibitions and events that are free and open to the public.

University of South Carolina in Columbia, SC, Features MFA Thesis Exhibitions

The University of South Carolina in Columbia, SC, is presenting MFA Thesis Exhibitions, featuring works by Tori Lent, Nakisa Abdollahbeigi, Lauren Kennedy, and Nick Brutto, on view at the McMaster Gallery, through Apr. 22, 2022.

Annually, the School of Visual Art and Design at USC presents thesis exhibitions at McMaster Gallery that encompass work by MFA candidates who have completed their final year of the Studio Art MFA program.

Join us as we celebrate the work of our 2022 exhibiting artists including:

On view through Apr. 1 - Tori Lent: Meanderings.

"My work explores the effect of conversation through ceramic art and performance. The layers of color, texture, and form emphasize how all things change through growth, interaction, and time," says Lent.

"For this exhibition, I have reached out to the viewer so they may interact with the work and leave their stories behind. The interaction adds to the continuation of growth through community and storytelling."

"Each piece is a part of the whole body of work; through the interaction with the viewer, the exhibition will change each day to recreate the arc of growth we all experience throughout our lives," adds Lent.

Tori Lent grew up in the rural farming town of Afton, NY. The valley she grew up in relies heavily on family and community to function daily. Even in today's world, cellular service, and the internet are spotty and hard to get in some areas, making word of mouth and storytelling a prominent way to communicate.

Growing up in a culture of storytelling inspires Lent to listen and appreciate the many stories she hears from strangers and close friends. She has worked in many three-dimensional materials over the years, working first in steel and bronze and then falling in love with ceramics in her undergrad. She interned at C&P Studios in Afton for one summer, inspiring her to continue to study ceramics here at UofSC.

On view from Apr. 4 - 8 - Nakisa Abdollahbeigi: Carry On.

Work by Lauren Kennedy

"When I look back at my arrival to the US nearly four years ago, I remember feeling a sense of displacement because immigration to a new country seemed like entering an unknown world. I became pretty much disconnected from my family, which was the most challenging part for me. My new feelings of isolation and displacement were even more accentuated by my lack of ability to relate to the American culture and language," said Abdollahbeigi.

"After some time, I found making art is a way to maintain the connection with my background. Through this process, I found myself in a role of a storyteller who always loves using pictures to communicate with her audience. My stories use pictures based on a combination of artworks that even though, on the surface, seem to be showing ordinary people in their daily life, reflect on deep feelings that an immigrant develops because of living far away from her homeland. Each image will describe the emotions, intentions, and motivations that I have personally experienced during the process of immigration."

"I will discuss distinct qualities through symbolic visual language to demonstrate how the theme of our dreams, needs, and senses like homesickness, isolation, and missing our loved ones are universal. These interactions and elements are all motivated by my personal experiences, emotions that have developed after immigrations, and my exposure to a new culture and environment. These emotions constitute the central theme in my artworks, primarily derived from my personal feelings associated with a sense of displacement, being an outsider, and living in isolation. My work is a constant attempt to inspire people to learn how to relate to feelings that immigrants experience and to gain a deeper understanding of what these people lose and gain through this change in their lives. Breaking down walls and building bridges between the immigrants and the native residents is the main goal that I hope to address in this project," adds Abdollahbeigi.

Nakisa Abdollahbeigi is an Iranian-born visual artist. Her work is deeply connected with her own personal and cultural experiences in her homeland country, Iran. Her work aims to probe these experiences by integrating historical motifs with imagery taken from popular culture and contemporary media. She uses elements of the relationship between individual stories and collective memory. In her practice, Abdollahbeigi explores the possibilities of representing Iranian art and culture using inspirations from her personal background.

On view from Apr. 11 - 15, 2022 - Lauren Kennedy: Consequences of Our Actions: Fragility of the Body.

"I have loved and been fascinated by the human body my entire life. In the end, however, it has betrayed me time and time again. I watched my mother go through cancer and her body fail her. I feel my own body fail because of previous injuries or conditions that I have. I struggle with the idea of the fact that our bodies that are meant to sustain and protect us inevitably fail us, and that failure is painful. Pain and entropy are part of the human experience, but why? That is what I explore using plaster, once used to heal bones, and making books. I demonstrate my frustration and questioning of the human experience through performance and tearing these books apart, hoping that I will come to terms with the ideas of pain and entropy," says Kennedy.

Lauren Kennedy works and resides in Columbia, SC. She creates sculptural work using folded paper books and coats them in plaster before utilizing performance art to crush them and tear them apart, unveiling words underneath that are her own personal ramblings about the struggles of pain and entropy.

On view from Apr. 18 - 22 - Nick Brutto: Us. "This body of work examines topics in relation to three shared attributes of human nature: the mind, body, and soul. The experiences accumulated throughout life create an individual whose mind, body, and soul are unique. Careful examination of my own perspective allows me to address these ever-changing attributes in relation to concepts of connectivity, collaboration, and identity. Through the incorporation of collaborative pieces, this body of work also offers the viewer the opportunity to examine their own perspective and display it through participation. Encouraging the viewer to examine their own perspective as well as my own turns the conversation away from you and I towards Us, said Brutto.

Nick Brutto is an MFA candidate in Studio Art specializing in Ceramics and

USC-Lancaster in Lancaster, SC, Features Works by Fran Gardner

USC-Lancaster in Lancaster, SC, will present Over Time, featuring works by influential USC Lancaster Distinguished Professor Emerita of Art and Art History, Fran Gardner, on view in the Red Rose Gallery at the USC-Lancaster Native American Center, from Apr. 4 through Aug. 5, 2022.

On Thursday, Apr. 7, from 5-7pm, the Native American Studies Center is hosting a special reception in honor of the new exhibits, where Gardner will give a talk discussing her work at 6pm. In addition to being presented in person, the talk also will be presented via Zoom. Anyone wishing to attend the virtual program may register at the link available on any of the Center's social media platforms or on the Center's website at (www.sc.edu/Lancaster/NAS).

Featuring small works of stitchery and painting by Gardner, the retrospective includes artwork from the early 2000s to works completed as recently as a few months ago.

As the exhibit opens at the Center, a companion exhibit of some of Gardner's never-before-seen pieces also will be on display during the same time frame on USCL's campus in the Bradley Arts & Sciences Building. The exhibition, COVID Diary, chronicles work Gardner created as pandemic lockdowns began in March 2020.

Work by Fran Gardner

An award-winning fiber and mixed media artist, Gardner was one of the key faculty organizers of Native American Studies at USC Lancaster. She retired last August after a 32-year career at USCL. In addition to being a professor and artist, Gardner also has served as chair of the Native American Studies Advisory Committee and is credited for playing a role in the hiring of more than one Native American Studies faculty member.

In the spring of 2013, Gardner and her public art class worked with the Center's

During college, he has worked and volunteered with a large number of programs in Columbia including 701 Center for Contemporary Art, ARC of Columbia, and Palmetto Center for the Arts. His work has been shown in galleries throughout the state in both juried and invitational exhibitions. As a graduate student, Brutto has won awards for both Distinguished Service and Juried Student Exhibitions.

McMaster Gallery is located in the University of South Carolina's School of Visual Art and Design on Senate Street, Columbia, SC with accessible street parking on Pickens, Senate, and Henderson Streets.

Archaeologist Chris Judge to create the spear point installation located behind the reception desk in the Center. Judge identified the various arrowheads, spear points, and pottery sherds by date, while Gardner and her class created a curtain-like timeline installation of the artifacts.

"There likely would be no Native American Studies Center if it weren't for Fran Gardner," said Director of Native American Studies Dr. Stephen Criswell. "She was instrumental in getting this project off the ground and has been a longtime supporter of and contributor to our work. It is fitting her work be featured in the Center. Not to mention, she makes incredible art!"

The Center is a 15,000 square foot facility in historic downtown Lancaster. Guests will have the opportunity to tour the NAS Center's gallery spaces, archives, classrooms, and archaeology, language, and audio-visual labs. Home to the world's largest collection of Catawba Indian pottery, the NAS Center will offer exhibits of regional Native American Art, classes and programs focused on Native American history, culture, archaeology, folklore, and language.

Asheville Art Museum in Asheville, NC, Offers Photography Exhibition

Asheville Art Museum in Asheville, NC, will present Gillian Laub's Southern Rites, organized by the International Center of Photography, on view in the Museum's Appleby Foundation Exhibition Hall, from Apr. 1 through July 4, 2022.

American photographer Gillian Laub (born New York, 1975) has spent the last two decades investigating political conflicts, exploring family relationships, and challenging assumptions about cultural identity. In Southern Rites, Laub engages her skills as a photographer, filmmaker, and visual activist to examine the realities of racism and raise questions that are simultaneously painful and essential to understanding the American consciousness.

In 2002, Laub was sent on a magazine assignment to Mount Vernon, GA, to document the lives of teenagers in the American South. The town, nestled among fields of Vidalia onions, symbolized the archetype of pastoral, small town American life. The Montgomery County residents Laub encountered were warm, polite, protective of their neighbors, and proud of their history. Yet Laub learned that the joyful adolescent rites of passage celebrated in this rural countryside—high school homecomings and proms—were still racially segregated.

Laub continued to photograph Montgomery County over the following decade, returning even in the face of growing—and eventually violent—resistance from community members and local law enforcement. She documented a town held hostage by the racial tensions and inequities that scar much of the nation's history. In 2009, a few months after Barack Obama's first inauguration, Laub's photographs of segregated proms were published in the New York Times Magazine. The story brought national attention to the town and the following year the proms were finally integrated. The power of her photographic images served as the catalyst and, for a moment, progress seemed inevitable.

Then, in early 2011, tragedy struck the town. Justin Patterson, a twenty-two-year-old unarmed African American man—whose segregated high school homecoming Laub had photographed—was shot and killed by a sixty-two-year-old white man. Laub's project, which began as an exploration of segregated high school rituals, evolved into an urgent mandate to confront the painful realities of discrimination and structural racism. Laub continued to document the town over the following decade, during which the country re-elected its first African American president and the ubiquity of camera phones gave rise to citizen journalism exposing racially motivated violence. As the Black Lives Matter movement and national protests proliferated, Laub uncovered a complex story about adolescence, race, the legacy of slavery, and the deeply rooted practice of segregation in the American South.

Southern Rites is a specific story about 21st century young people in the American South, yet it poses a universal question about human experience: can a new generation liberate itself from a harrowing and traumatic past to create a different future?

Southern Rites was curated by Maya Benton and organized by the International Center of Photography.

Established by artists and incorporated in 1948, the Asheville Art Museum is committed to being a vital force in community and individual development and to providing lifelong opportunities for education and enrichment through the visual arts. Black Mountain College Museum + Arts Center in Asheville, NC, Offers New Spring Exhibitions

The Black Mountain College Museum + Arts Center in Asheville, NC, is presenting Black Mountain College: Idea + Place, on view in the Lower Level Gallery with a companion digital exhibition, on view through May 14, 2022.

How can an idea inform a place? How can a place inform an idea? Would Black Mountain College have had the same identity and lifespan if it had been located in the urban Northeast, the desert Southwest, or coastal California? How did BMC's rather isolated, rural, and mountainous setting during the era of the Great Depression and the Jim Crow South influence the college community's decision-making and the evolution of ideas upon which it was based?

Jacob Lawrence, "In the Studio", 1977. Lithograph, B.A.T. (final proof). Black Mountain College Museum + Arts Center permanent collection. Purchase of BMCM+AC Board of Directors.

This exhibition seeks to delve into these questions and others by exploring the places of Black Mountain College: its two very different campuses, its influential predecessor the Bauhaus in Germany, and the post-BMC diaspora. The exhibition was curated by Alice Sebrell, Director of Preservation.

adVANCE! Modernism, Black Liberation + Black Mountain College, will be on view in the Center's Upper Level Gallery, with a companion digital exhibition, through May 14, 2022.

Featuring the work of contemporary sculptor Larry Paul King in conversation with Black Mountain College modernist masters including Jacob Lawrence, Gwendolyn Knight Lawrence, Josef Albers, Leo Krikorian, and Sewell Sillman. Premiering three Jacob Lawrence lithographs new to the BMCM+AC permanent collection.

adVANCE! celebrates Black Mountain College's role in early civil rights and the ongoing role of Black, modernist artists in the pursuit of liberation and justice.

Asheville Gallery of Art in Asheville, NC, Features Works by Kate Coleman

The Asheville Gallery of Art in Asheville, NC, will present Avian Skies, featuring works by Kate Coleman, on view from Apr. 1 - 30, 2022. A reception will be held on Apr. 1, from 5-8pm.

April is a lovely month. Winter has passed, the transformation of Spring is upon us, and warmer days are ahead. The fresh skies of Spring flaunt beautiful clouds and ominous storms in the distance. "The colors of paint that I choose are warm and bright, echoing the Spring colors that are emerging in nature. In creating this body of work, I focused on birds and the amazing skies of Spring," says Coleman.

Coleman can't remember a time when she wasn't an artist. "I believe that all children are artists, and I never grew out of it." After she received her degree in Fine Art, she went on to design and create a studio pottery line with her husband. Upon discovery that she and her daughter share a passion for painting, Coleman began her newest creative journey. She began on this path of mixed-media due to her passion for nature and her love of painting, and through this journey, she has found herself immersed in painting her unique portraits of birds and nature.

Defining them by more than simple appearance, Coleman goes further by layering information, sourced by vintage books and maps, onto each specific piece. She searches used bookstores to find vintage books on birds and nature, and using the pages to apply visual texture to her paints, she applies more information specifically to each piece. The result is a very unique combination of visual texture and defining text, which presents a unique work. Her painted portraits of birds and nature are completed in acrylic paint on wood panels, and she often creates frames that further identify and explain each piece. Giving a warmth and light to each piece she creates, she attempts to reveal the true character of each distinctive image.

Coleman's painting of The Peacock is mixed media, acrylic, feathers, and book pages on wood. "I love the dramatic opening of the peacock's feathers. This unique bird brings beauty to the world."

The Tanagers is a 24" x 52" piece in mixed media, acrylic, book pages and wood. "The male and female Scarlet Tanagers' differences in color intrigues me. I truly enjoy spotting this beautiful bird from time to time," said Coleman.

On Sunset in the Blue Ridge Mountains, a work in acrylic, "This is a common scene from my home – the Red-Tailed Hawk with mobbing crows. Sunsets here are striking and each one is unique."

Groveswood Gallery in Asheville, NC, Celebrates 30 Years! - Apr. 9 & 10, 2022

Groveswood Gallery in Asheville, NC, will celebrate a milestone anniversary with a special event: Cheers to 30!, on Apr. 9 & 10, 2022, from 11am-4pm. Join them for a weekend of artist demonstrations, live music, and festive food and drinks. Shoppers will also save 10% on gallery merchandise (excluding sculptures by Lyman Whitaker.) This event is free to attend and open to the public.

Established in 1992 by Barbara Blomberg, Marilyn Patton, and S.M. "Buddy" Patton, Groveswood Gallery is noted for its charming, old-world setting and rich craft heritage. The gallery once housed the "Homespun Shops" of Biltmore Industries, an Arts and Crafts enterprise that played a significant role in the Appalachian Craft Revival during the early 20th century. Today, the gallery continues Biltmore Industries' tradition of supporting local craftspeople and also features the works of over 300 artists from around the United States.

During this weekend celebration, four North Carolina artists will be on-site demonstrating their craft and selling original works of art. Andrea Kulish will demonstrate the ancient Ukrainian art of pysanky, a wax-resistant method of decorating Easter eggs. Dollmaker Charlie Patricolo will demonstrate needle sculpting - the process she uses to create her cloth doll faces (Sunday only). Weather permitting, Bryan Koontz will demonstrate plein-air oil painting techniques in the gallery's sculpture garden. Wildlife sculptor Roger Martin will also be outside, working on a clay sculpture that will later be cast in bronze.

Guests can also enjoy old-world Scottish instrumental music by The Tune Shepherds, who will play two 1-hour sets on both days. This trio of Asheville musicians includes renowned flute maker and player Chris Abell, country dance fiddler Michael Garner, and Grammy-winning guitarist Bruce Nemerov.

Located in Asheville adjacent to the Omni Grove Park Inn, Groveswood Gallery offers two expansive floors of finely crafted jewelry, ceramics, textiles, furniture, and much more, contributed by over 300 artists and craftspeople from across the United States.

American Folk Art in Asheville, NC, Offers Annual Face Jug Show

American Folk Art in Asheville, NC, will present the 10th Annual Face Jug Show, on view from Apr. 5 - 21, 2022.

This year marks the 10th consecutive April that American Folk Art has dedicated to the storied regional tradition of Face Jugs. These jugs began to appear in these parts in the very early 1800s. Grimacing faces, snakes, and other examples of foreboding iconography were added to the jugs used to store moonshine as a clever way to frighten children away from the liquor. In those days, self-sufficiency ruled, and thus handmade, locally-crafted clayware was common. Our regional soils contain all the elements needed to make hardy clay, and our forests plenty of wood for the fueling of kilns.

Many of the potters represented in the Face Jug Show are still digging and creating their own clays and firing in wood-fired kilns. While these techniques are labor-intensive, the passionate pursuit by these skilled craftspeople is evident in the pottery they create. The Face Jug has become an eagerly sought after & widely collected part of our mountain heritage. American Folk Art curates a wide selection of these jugs, made by select potters who use their own knowledge & creativity to explore and expand upon the beloved & creative Face Jug concept.

The focus of the show is traditional face jug creators, such as 5th generation Georgia potter Wayne Hewell, whose expressive face jugs are ever-popular. Always on the hunt for new and different potters to include, this year American Folk will introduce collectors to Wisconsin potter Joel Huntley. Joel's delicately-featured and beautifully-hued face jugs will widen the circle of creative offerings.

"Our Annual Face Jug Show has introduced countless folks to an important part of our craft heritage. Each year, we endeavor to bring together the most skilled potters and a wide range of styles to pay homage to this unique living history" says Julia Mills, gallery director.

Whether you can visit the gallery in person or only visit online, please join us in celebrating a decade of Face Jugs at American Folk Art.

Pink Dog Gallery in Asheville, NC, Features Works by Ben Knight

Pink Dog Gallery in Asheville, NC, will present From the Artist's Lab, featuring works by Ben Knight, from Apr. 9 through May 8, 2022. A reception will be held on Apr. 9, from 6-8pm.

Ben Knight, a Chicago native, has transitioned well to the country, small town living of Eastern North Carolina. As co-founder of the acclaimed restaurant Chef & the Farmer and a Producer & co-star of the Emmy & Peabody award winning PBS series A Chef's Life, he has established himself as a leader in small town investment and job creation while maintaining a thriving career in the arts.

Knight's career in the arts took him to NYC in 2002 from Chicago to study with Larry Poons at the Art Student's League of New York. Knight also studied at the Art Institute of Chicago and Cooper Union. Over 20 years of art production has helped Knight become part of collections across the country.

Knight currently resides in Deep Run, NC. He is an active member of the community, a board member of the NC Rural Center and the Boys & Girls Club of the Coastal Plains, a coach and father of 10 year old twins.

The study of color is a discipline, not unlike physics, or literature or mathematics. Color and its impact on our emotional, cognitive, and physical states as human beings is the cornerstone of human experience. Color is both the beginning and end of our entire being, our first introduction to the world and our last memory. It is not merely a part of our 5 senses, but what defines our initial emotional reaction to life itself.

Knight's most recent work explores the nature of our emotional responses to primary colors. This basic and elemental relationship provides the foundation for human interpretation of much of our sensory experience in life. The process of layering thick applications of paint, or the physical manifestation of color, reflects the natural passing of time through the artist's journey of creating work. The use of primary colors is intended to awaken our buried memories and emotions related to our earliest experiences in life. Together, time and color intersect on the canvas creating a powerful and emotional connection to the work.

Mark Bettis Studio & Gallery in Asheville, NC, Features Works by Nabil El Jaouhari

The Mark Bettis Studio & Gallery in Asheville, NC, will present NAR an exhibition of mixed media collage works by Nabil El Jaouhari, on view from Apr. 9 - 23, 2022. A reception will be held on Apr. 9, from 5:30-7:30pm

NAR, is the Arabic word for fire, chosen because of fire's capacity to destroy and create. Jaouhari's interest in personal identity and its construction, deconstruction, and ultimate reconstruction is at the center of the collection. The works of NAR are collages comprised of cuttings from the artist's older paintings in combination with wood burning and painting. Jaouhari's personal experience with the Lebanese Civil War, his immigration, and identity have found a striking medium in these collages.

All the works on display will be offered for sale. The reception will give guests the opportunity to meet and talk with the artist about his creative processes, learn what shapes and fuels his work, and ask questions. Refreshments and light hors d'oeuvres will be served.

The Mark Bettis Studio & Gallery is

22 London in Asheville, NC, Features Works From Private Collection

22 London in Asheville, NC, will present Mirror Mirror, an exhibition of contemporary art from the Collection of Hedy Fischer and Randy Shull, on view from Apr. 2 through May 28, 2022. Receptions will be held on Apr. 28 & 29, from 5-9pm.

Self-portraits have been made since our first glimpsed our reflections in water, but it was not until the mid-fifteenth century when the mirror was made from more reflective silvered glass, that artists can be frequently identified depicting themselves as either the primary subject or as an important character in their painting. They were the one model always readily available.

The twenty-four artists in Mirror Mirror assert themselves into their work in a variety of ways. Abraham Cruzvillegas, in Blind self-portrait listening to the Beatles while scratching a notched stick so to invoke the universal magic of the power of destruction, presents himself in the accumulated detritus from his daily life, turned into a massive painting that, each time it is installed, takes on the space in a new way.

Trenton Doyle Hancock's Torpedo Boy Steps and Screws Wearing Some Cutty Black Shoes, sees himself as a superhero football star who tackles good and evil in his epically detailed painting.

Aaron Fowler uses mirrors in Blue, his full-size depiction of himself, which refers to Barkley Hendricks' self-portrait, Brilliantly Endowed. By using mirrors as both the background and the self-portrait, Fowler pulls the viewer into the work, creating a new "painting" in each reflected view. Margaret Curtis renders her anxiety during one of the world's most challenging times, in her obsessive painting, Portrait of My Anxiety (Wallpaper).

As we continue to navigate this devastating pandemic, we have all been altered in both small and large ways. We were forced to stay at home, if possible, and learned to work from home, go to school from home and "see" our friends and family from a computer screen while remaining at home. This forced pause in our normal lives caused a great deal of self-searching among many of us. We have reevaluated ourselves, reestablished our priorities and realigned our goals. In short, we have done a lot of personal reflecting and inward gazing. What do we truly want from my life? With this new self-seeking, what can we learn from how artists have portrayed themselves and is there relevance to be found in their self-seeking for our own?

Mirror Mirror follows the successful High Anxiety, an exhibition at 22 London in 2020 which examined our unstable times through a multiplicity of artistic positions and voices. High Anxiety brought new perspectives to bear on themes such as identity, forced migration, politics, technology, pandemics and corporate culture. 2018's exhibition SAY IT LOUD illustrated the struggles and achievements of African Americans and challenged dominant historical perspectives with powerful work that is visceral and squarely focused on narratives of ethnic identity, institutional racism, gender and beauty through contemporary art. SAY IT LOUD traveled to Denison University Museum in Ohio.

In 2017 ¡Viva!, examined important contemporary issues in Latin America through sculpture, painting, photography and video and traveled to the Projective Eye Gallery at the University of North Carolina, Charlotte, NC. The successful international video exhibit, Love, Devotion and Surrender in May, 2016 organized by Randy Shull & David Raymond and curated by David Brown included work from prominent contemporary video artists including Bill Viola and Tony Oursler.

Bender Gallery in Asheville, NC, Offers Works by Linda Gritta and Moni Hill

Bender Gallery in Asheville, NC, will present Place and Presence, a two-person exhibition featuring new works by Asheville artists Linda Gritta and Moni Hill, on view from Apr. 2 - 30, 2022. A reception will be held on Apr. 2, from 6-9pm.

different yet complementary styles reflecting the chaotic nature of the modern world and finding respite in nature and art. The exhibition celebrates the artists' vibrant abstract work and their interconnection with Western North Carolina and its longstanding arts culture.

Gritta grew up in Chicago and moved to Asheville in 2005. She has studied at the New York Studio School and holds a BFA from Converse College in Painting and Printmaking. Originally a figurative painter, she has steadily moved towards abstract work, as it gives her the freedom to dive deeper into aspects of the human condition. She paints in a pensive expressive style with a mastery of the interplay of color.

Gritta's work is reminiscent of Richard Diebenkorn's beautiful early Berkeley abstracts which, at times, can be read as landscapes. She has been featured in numerous solo and group exhibitions in North Carolina and the East Coast. Her work is included in many corporate collections in the Carolinas and Boston.

Gritta explains, "On any given day, we are surrounded by the relentless noise of social media. Unseen players offer up a non-stop barrage of words and virtual images from shiny devices of all shapes and sizes, each competing desperately for our attention and presence. Ironically, it is because of these forces that we are losing our ability to truly be present, to pay attention, and to slow down. More than ever before, in these times of dizzying change and chatter, we long for and need a place of quiet and repose".

Emerging artist Moni Hill was born in Berlin and was raised in Ohio. She knew she was destined to be an artist at an early age. In 2004, Hill moved to Asheville with husband and family and began painting in earnest. She has a love of the outdoors and a great respect for Eastern philosophy, which is reflected in her haiku inspired titles, vibrant colors, textured layers, bursts of energy, and a style uniquely her own.

Hill's upbeat works invite the viewer to pause and experience the energy and balance of the work. Her paintings have been included in numerous solo and group exhibitions throughout NC and can be found in healthcare, education, and business settings.

Hill's work in Place and Presence, is inspired by "komorembi", a Japanese term which eloquently captures the effect of sunlight streaming through the trees. She states, "On my daily walks in the forest I am constantly scanning for those moments when the light shines through the trees. As a lover of metaphors, I similarly go through life looking for light shining through moments both grand and mundane. I am drawn to visual proof of life's wear and tear, ups and downs, triumphs and failures and our attempts to recover".

Bender Gallery is a contemporary fine art gallery in downtown Asheville, NC. We specialize in figurative and abstract work by regional, national, and international painters and sculptors.

Caldwell Arts Council in Lenoir, NC, Offers Works by Tyler Stephens

The Caldwell Arts Council in Lenoir, NC, announces a new exhibition titled All Riot on the Western Front, featuring hand cut collage artwork by Tyler Stephens of Lenoir. The exhibition will be on view from Apr. 1 through May 27, 2022.

Tyler "Sour Steve" Stephens is the living embodiment of the new generation of DIY punk artists: a master of all trades from hand-crafted, surreal, tongue-in-cheek collage bits to writing, recording, and producing three full length punk rock albums from his studio apartment. Sour Steve has been creating thought-provoking collage works since 2019. By combining vintage pre-war and post-war adverts of the 1930's-1950's with more modern imagery of our current political and social landscape, Sour Steve's art challenges the viewer to confront incongruities and the political paradoxes of our modern society.

In 2020, Sour Steve became a member of Oakland, CA-based art collective, Destroy Art Inc. headed by legendary punk artist Winston Smith. Together, the team use their art as activism to fight off bigotry, hatred, and injustice as seen fit, and use their talents to promote love, empowerment and community. Since then, Sour

Work by Tyler Stephens

Steve's collage work has been featured in galleries and competitions across North Carolina as well as being featured in the first two issues of Destroy Everything Fanzine. Sour Steve has also created commission work for numerous venues and hardcore bands across the nation. Originally from West Virginia, Sour Steve has been wreaking havoc in the greater Lenoir area for the last two years. It really doesn't get any more DIY than Sour Steve.

The Caldwell Arts Council is located on College Avenue SW in Lenoir, NC.

Reynolda House Museum of American Art in Winston-Salem, NC, Features Works by Kwame Brathwaite

Reynolda House Museum of American Art in Winston-Salem, NC, is presenting, Black Is Beautiful: The Photography of Kwame Brathwaite, is on view in the Mary and Charlie Babcock Wing Gallery, through May 8, 2022.

The exhibition is the first major exhibition to focus on this central figure of the second Harlem Renaissance whose art popularized the "Black Is Beautiful" cultural movement that began in the 1960s in the United States. Through more than 40 iconic photographs of Black men and women with natural hair and clothes that reclaimed their African roots, Black Is Beautiful reflects how Brathwaite—inspired by the writings of famed activist and black nationalist Marcus Garvey—used his art to effect social change in the late 1950s and 1960s.

Tickets to Black Is Beautiful: The Photography of Kwame Brathwaite are available on (reynolda.org/beautiful).

The exhibition was organized by Aperture Foundation, New York and Kwame S. Brathwaite. The exhibition Black Is Beautiful: The Photography of Kwame Brathwaite and the accompanying Aperture publication are made possible, in part, with generous support from the National Page 30 - Carolina Arts, April 2022

Reynolda House Museum of American Art in Winston-Salem, NC, Offers Two New Exhibitions

The Reynolda House Museum of American Art in Winston-Salem, NC, is presenting two new exhibits including: Substrata, featuring the spirit of collage in 76 years of art will be on display in the West Bedroom Gallery, through July 31, and Louise Nevelson: Architect of Light and Shadow, on view from Apr. 22 through Sept. 18, 2022, and is in the Northwest Bedroom Gallery.

Substrata, the spirit of collage in 76 years of art examines the influence of collage. Beginning in 1912, Pablo Picasso, Georges Braque and Juan Gris were the first artists to explore collage in a self-consciously modern way, in relation to both the history of art and to the culture of their time. Their Cubist collages were a radical break with the "window on the world" depictions of Renaissance painting. But after the Cubists' defiant, "punk" attitude of those early years, they returned to painting.

With select works from Reynolda's collection and several borrowed ones, substrata seeks to "peel back" some of their layers to see how collage, as an artistic approach, has formed the basis for artworks that are not collages. The exhibition includes work by Robert Motherwell, Romare Bearden, Robert Rauschenberg, Stuart Davis and Jasper Johns among others. Substrata has been curated by Paul Bright, Director of Art Galleries and Programming at Wake Forest University Art Galleries and Collections.

The Louise Nevelson exhibition was curated by Dr. Jennifer Finkel, the Acquavella Curator of Collections at Wake Forest University. In addition to works from Reynolda's collection, the exhibition will include artworks from Wake Forest University's art collection, the Weatherspoon Art Museum and two private collections.

Sculptor Louise Nevelson (1899–1988) described her artistic goals in this way: "My total conscious search in life has been for a new seeing, a new image, a new insight. This search not only includes the object, but the in-between places, the dawns and dusks, the objective world, the heavenly spheres, the places between the land and the sea." This statement captures Nevelson's strikingly personal iconography—often centered around celestial or earthly bodies or phenomena such as moons, night, dusk, dawn, tides, skies, rain, light, wind, shadows, and stars—as well as her interest in structure, exploring, in her large-scale wooden assemblage pieces, the "in-between places."

Louise Nevelson: Architect of Light and Shadow is made possible in part by The Robert and Constance Emken Fund of the Winston-Salem Foundation and Richard D. Pardue in honor of Barbara Babcock Millhouse.

Artworks Gallery in Winston-Salem, NC, Features Works by Owens Daniels

Artworks Gallery in Winston-Salem, NC, will present Jazz and Blues, Owens Daniels Photography, and Spring to Life, featuring works by all members' exhibition, on view from Apr. 1 - 30, 2022. Receptions will be held on Apr. 1, from 7-10pm and Apr. 3, from 2-4pm.

Celebrate the magic of Jazz: innovation, creativity and art, and the Blues: down home, feelings and emotions of the human condition.

Daniels' work puts the viewer in the moment to experience the rhythm, time and movement of Jazz and the sadness, confusion, heartbreak, fear and bliss of the Blues.

Daniels has spent the past few summers capturing the magic of the Winston-Salem downtown music scene. He has photographed guitar, bass, keyboard and drummers performing on the streets of Winston for crowds of people who were cool, laid back, dancers and lovers.

Daniels is a photographer and visual artist based in Winston-Salem, NC. He was awarded the 2021 Kenan Institute Creative Catalysis Fellowship at Reynolda House of American Art and 2019 Lead Artist for the Presence Absence Project.

His photographic career started at the US Army Photographic School of Cartography, learning the basics of photography and photo printing. In addition to his formal training, he continues to work as a freelance photographer with a distinctive and intimate photojournalistic signature style in visual storytelling which has led to various opportunities that include: Artist in Residences, Fellowship of American Art, Public Art Installations, Grants and varied other commissions.

This collection of portraits of musicians speak to people through the simple fact it's all about the Music Baby! Come out and experience Daniels' visual interpretation of Jazz and Blues.

Art brightens our lives with something beautiful or thoughtful, calming or stimulating, vibrant or soothing. Artwork's Spring to Life group exhibition celebrates the emergence of a new season with fresh art. The show incorporates a wide array of mediums: painting, printmaking, photography, drawing, and sculpture. Our members look forward to sharing their creativity with you.

Francis Marion University in Florence, SC, Offers Works by Megan Mosholder

Francis Marion University in Florence, SC, is presenting Megan Mosholder: Vertically Challenged, on view in the newly named Steven F. Gately Gallery (formerly University Place Gallery), through Apr. 22, 2022.

Mosholder pushes the boundaries of painting and reacts to the social-political landscape through site-responsive installations. Her three-dimensional drawings, often enhanced by light, emphasize obscured elements within recognizable places correlating symbolism with lived experience.

In July 2020, Mosholder had her leg amputated. This surgery was one of over 30 surgeries that she has endured since a catastrophic car accident in 2018, where she was trapped inside her burning car. The result of this accident changed the installation artist's life forever. Mosholder currently relies on a wheelchair for long distances and a crew of assistants to help her build her larger-than-life installations. Due to her mobility issues, she has had the opportunity to see the world from a new vantage point.

Vertically Challenged was conceptualized while Mosholder was stuck in bed recovering from her amputation. This exhibition challenges the viewer to see the world the way she sees it from her wheelchair.

The Vertically Challenged exhibition is largely composed of a site specific installation which has been crafted specially for the gallery, keeping in mind the intricacies of the architectural and aesthetic space. The exhibition also includes medium scale sculptures.

A graduate of Savannah College of Art and Design with an MFA in painting, Mosholder boasts numerous awards from institutions such as the Foundation for Contemporary Arts and the Hambidge Center for Creative Arts and Sciences. She is often commissioned by leading corporations such as Google, and is included in public art programs, museum exhibitions, and art fairs. Interest in her installations have led to international projects, evidenced by her inclusion within the European Cultural Centre's 2022 Personal Structures exhibition presented during the Venice Biennale and a public art space in Sydney, Australia (2017). These works speak to the power of site-specific work to make a lasting impression upon the viewer.

Mosholder continues to create installations that relay her devotion to her work and the communities she engages. Currently, she resides in Atlanta, GA, is a Professor at Kennesaw State University and has worked as a full-time professional artist for seven years.

10th, from 10am to 4pm.

This year 195 artists submitted works to the juried competition and more than 200 works were accepted for display. The works selected for the show include oils, acrylics, watercolors, pastels, photography, and a section of 3-D art. In addition to the accepted displayed pieces, each accepted artist will be able to offer bin work for sale.

The WAA is pleased to have Beth Handler Riebe as the 2022 Juror/Judge for the show. She founded LOCAL: Art + Ideas, a cultural think tank based in Wilmington, in 2013. Handler Riebe worked in the NYC art world for twenty years, with curatorial stints at The Museum of Modern Art, the Whitney Museum of American Art, the Yale University Art Gallery, and the Paula Cooper Gallery. She also served as an art consultant to Donald B. Marron (one of ARTnews' top 200 collectors).

She is a former Trustee of the Cameron Art Museum and occasionally teaches art history at UNCW. Handler Riebe received a BA from Oberlin College, and an MA and a PhD. from Yale University, with all three degrees in art history. She and her family moved to Wilmington in 2010.

The WAA is excited to be one of the first live events of this year's Azalea Festival, and to present the show to the public after the constraints imposed by the Pandemic. Wilmington and its surrounding communities are home to many very accomplished and award-winning artists, and this show provides local residents and visitors a wonderful opportunity to see a great variety of high-quality artwork.

The event will include:

- Free admission
- Display of over 200 high-quality 2-D and 3-D works of art
- WAA "Art Ambassadors" available to answer questions or assist in any way needed
- Monetary prizes: First Place $1,000 Second Place $750 Third Place $500
- Other Awards: The Queen's Ribbon (new this year), Honorable Mention, Memorial Awards, Donor Awards,
- Visitors will be able to cast votes for the People's Choice Award
- Sale of exhibited art
- Sale of bin work art
- Portions of the sale proceeds will support programs of the Wilmington Art Association
- The show will observe North Carolina Covid-19 Executive Orders

The Wilmington Art Association is an all-volunteer organization founded over 50 years ago and dedicated to supporting arts and artists in the area through outreach efforts and scholarships. The WAA is a 501(c)(3) Non-Profit Corporation as defined in the IRS Code.

Guest Curators Bios:

Alejo Benedetti is Associate Curator, Contemporary Art at Crystal Bridges Museum of American Art. In his role at the museum, he has focused on art since 1960 and oversees the Contemporary Art Galleries and the outdoor sculpture program. This spring he will act as the venue curator for The Dirty South: Contemporary Art, Material Culture, and the Sonic Impulse, originally organized by the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts.

In 2020, he co-curated State of the Art 2020, bringing together 61 contemporary artists from across the United States in an exhibition that opened at Crystal Bridges and the Momentary in February 2020 and is now traveling. Benedetti also organized the 2019 exhibition, Men of Steel, Women of Wonder, which looked at art-world responses to Superman and Wonder Woman and traveled to the San Antonio Museum of Art and the Addison Gallery of American Art.

He is originally from Texas and earned his master's degree in Art History from Texas Christian University in Fort Worth and his bachelor of arts from the University of Missouri, Columbia.

Born in London of English and Māori (Ngai Tai) descent, Dr. Maia Nuku is Curator for the Arts of Oceania at The Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York. Nuku's doctoral research focused on eighteenth century collections of Polynesian art and she completed two post-doctoral fellowships at Cambridge University (2008-2014) in England as part of an international research team exploring Oceanic art collections in European institutions in France, Spain, the Netherlands and Russia. Researching the collections alongside Pacific artists, practitioners and scholars, the work was collaborative and sought to create access to these collections both in the physical and digital domains.

During her time at the Met, Nuku has evolved a curatorial approach that centers indigenous Pacific perspectives, grounding the presentation of visual arts from Oceania in the unique cosmological connections that make art from the region so compelling. Her most recent exhibition Atea: Nature and Divinity in Polynesian Art (2018 - 2019) explored the close material and genealogical relationships that bind Polynesian islanders with the natural world. She is currently working on a major reinstallation of the Oceania galleries that will reimagine the collection for 21st century audiences and animate the galleries with Pacific voices.

Michael Rooks joined the High Museum as Wieland Family Curator of Modern and Contemporary Art in January 2010. Besides his responsibilities at the High, Rooks was appointed Commissioner and co-curator of the US Pavilion at the 12th International Architecture Exhibition, La Biennale di Venezia in 2010 and was a committee member of ActArt, President Obama's initiative bridging contemporary art and social action.

Prior to joining the High Museum, Rooks held curator positions at the Museum of Contemporary Art Chicago, The Contemporary Museum Honolulu, and the Honolulu Academy of Arts. At Chicago's Museum of Contemporary Art, Rooks curated several group exhibitions and solo projects in addition to survey exhibitions of work by Roy Lichtenstein (1999) and H. C. Westermann (2001) for which he co-authored Westermann's catalogue raisonné. As curator at The Contemporary Museum, Honolulu, Rooks curated more than 15 exhibitions including projects by Michael Lin, Paul Morrison, and Yoshitomo Nara.

Cameron Art Museum provides a cultural gathering place that enriches the lives of museum visitors and the community through high-quality exhibitions, lifelong learning in the arts, dynamic public programs, and stewardship and interpretation of the collection. CAM's four core values: commitment to community, to lifelong learning in the arts, to support of artists, and to collecting, preserving, documenting and interpreting a permanent collection of art. The museum has been a collecting institution since inception, with approximately 4,000 objects in the permanent collection, with a primary and growing focus on modern art. The collection includes work by artists of national and international significance, used in changing thematic exhibitions, loan exhibitions, and for educational purposes. Cameron Art Museum is a non-profit fully reliant on the generosity of its donors.

North Carolina Museum of Art in Raleigh, NC, Offers Companion Environmental Exhibitions

The North Carolina Museum of Art in Raleigh, NC, is presenting The Altered Environment, on view in the East Building, Level B, Video Gallery, Photography Gallery 1 (Julian T. Baker Jr. Gallery) and 2 (Allen G. Thomas Jr. Gallery), through Aug. 28, 2022, and TO BE RATHER THAN TO SEEM, on view in the East Building, Level B, Gallery 3, from Apr. 2 through July 17, 2022.

Featuring landscape photography from the NCMA collection, The Altered Environment explores art and human geography to consider how we shape the natural world.

By building physical structures such as skyscrapers and suburban houses and using transit systems such as subways and airplanes, our collective actions often result in long-term physical changes to the planet. This exhibition evaluates how our social and economic activities regularly overlook environmental costs.

In a pendant exhibition adjacent to Fault Lines, the Museum explores its own environmental master plans with the exhibit, TO BE RATHER THAN TO SEEM.

The NCMA's environmental program originated in the experimental 1989 site plan Imperfect Utopia: A Park for the New World. Among its groundbreaking concepts was "throw[ing] the Museum outdoors" to create an open landscape within which sculpture and recreation complemented the Museum, expanding access to a more diverse public.

The Museum's 2021 Museum Park Preserve Vision Plan defines a new environmental plan for the Park Preserve, an expansive area featuring woods, a stream, the sunflower field, and more, designed by Andropogon, Biohabitats, and WK Dickson. It responds to historic impacts on the site, the climate emergency, and the NCMA's ongoing obligations as stewards of this land.

The North Carolina Museum of Art in Raleigh, NC, will present Fault Lines: Art and the Environment, on view in the Museum's Meymandi Exhibition Gallery and in the Ann and Jim Goodnight Museum Park, from Apr. 2 through July 17, 2022.

Contemporary artists respond to environmental concerns; related exhibitions explore environmental impacts of the NCMA and society. The exhibit highlights contemporary artists' responses to current environmental concerns through an immersive multimedia exhibition and outdoor sculpture installations. Curated by the NCMA, Fault Lines includes works by 13 artists, including John Akomfrah, Olafur Eliasson, LaToya Ruby Frazier, Allison Janae Hamilton, Richard Mosse, Jennifer Steinkamp, and Christine and Margaret Wertheim.

"We're excited to present these artists' perspectives on such critical topics as climate change, environmentalism, and what it means to interact with the natural

The North Carolina Museum of Art's collection spans more than 5,000 years, from antiquity to the present, making the institution one of the premier art museums in the South. The Museum's collection provides educational, aesthetic, intellectual, and cultural experiences for the citizens of North Carolina and beyond. world," said Museum director Valerie Hillings. "The experiential nature of the exhibition invites visitors to reflect on the future of the environment."

Focusing on humanity's relationship to nature, the featured artists address urgent environmental issues and the consequences of inaction as well as possibilities for environmental stewardship and restoration, presenting alternative ways to move forward that are sustainable and renewable. Exploring the transience and fragility of the natural world, the project features video, photography, sculpture, and mixed-media installations both indoors and outdoors.

"The North Carolina Museum of Art has a long history of exploring environmental topics and projects on its campus, which inspired the genesis for this exhibition," said Linda Dougherty, chief curator and curator of contemporary art. "Fault Lines: Art and the Environment is a timely response to the imminent threat of climate change, showcasing these leading contemporary artists' responses to present environmental concerns alongside the Museum's own work toward this cause."

Situated on 164 acres, the NCMA blurs the line between museum and park. The site, once a Civil War training camp and later the location of a youth prison, has been transformed from a degraded landscape into a welcoming and accessible public space that connects art, nature, and people. Among the largest of its kind in the world, the Museum Park expands the traditional museum experience by positioning site-specific, temporary, and permanent works of art throughout so visitors can explore sculpture informally on trails and paths.

As part of Fault Lines, the NCMA hosts a Satellite Reef, part of the Crochet Coral Reef project by Christine and Margaret Wertheim and the Institute For Figuring, a Los Angeles-based organization dedicated to the poetic and aesthetic dimensions of science and mathematics. North Carolina fiber artists, crochet enthusiasts, craftivists, and crochet beginners have been invited to create individual parts of the Satellite Reef included in the exhibition.

NC State University in Raleigh, NC, Offers Works by Martha Strawn, Eric Serritella, & Frank Lee Craig

NC State University in Raleigh, NC, is presenting three new exhibits on view at the Gregg Museum of Art & Design, including: Across the Threshold of India: Photographs by Martha Strawn, on view through Nov. 12, 2022; Reic Serritella: Trompe l'Oeil Ceramics, on view from Apr. 14 through Dec. 3, 2022; and Frank Lee Craig: Near Distance, on view through Aug. 20, 2022.

Across the Threshold of India: Photographs by Martha Strawn, features photographs that make up a work of visual ecology that perceptively portrays one of India's and the world's longest and least-known religious practices—the art of sanctifying space through the creation of threshold diagrams. Objects from the Gregg Museum's permanent collection will also accompany the photographs. Many of Strawn's photographs are in the permanent collection of the Indira Gandhi National Centre for the Arts, the nation's foremost research center for Indian culture and art, and are featured in her book, Across the Threshold of India: Art, Women, and Culture.

In the exhibit, Reic Serritella: Trompe l'Oeil Ceramics, Chapel Hill artist Eric Serritella creates his ceramic sculptures as conduits to emotion through inquiry, recognition, and familiarity. Through aging and decay, Serritella's sculptures challenge the viewer with both the nature of the material and the messages within. Each organic creation is filled with metaphor, both literal and implied. Anthropomorphic elements and vessel forms link humanity as timelessly inseparable from its interactions and relationships to its natural surroundings. Each sculpture in Eric Serritella: Trompe l'Oeil Ceramics fosters awareness to affect viewers' behaviors toward the environment. Through this consciousness they can acquire new appreciations and ways of seeing.

Finally we have the exhibit, Frank Lee Craig: Near Distance. Of the many forms

A two-day observance planned for Earth Day, Apr. 22–23, includes an outdoor film screening, a volunteer service project in the Park, and a Family Day with hands-on activities and environmental organizations distributing information about how people can take action.

Fault Lines reflects the Museum's ongoing efforts to present art that invites visitors to engage in new ways of connecting to the world around them, and its commitment to building climate resiliency, raising environmental awareness, and creating opportunities for future artist projects in all corners of its campus. Fault Lines includes a pendant exhibition, TO BE RATHER THAN TO SEEM, that explores the history of the Museum Park and its original master plan, Imperfect Utopia, as well as the new Museum Park Preserve Vision Plan, focused on an expansive area featuring the visitor-favorite sunflower field and beyond, connecting to the Greenway bridge through a wooded zone. The area is a popular place to spot songbirds, falcons, deer, and more.

of visual art that have emerged in the last two centuries, collage and its three-dimensional sibling, assemblage, probably come closest to representing the process of human memory. Most of us summon up the past only in scattered bits and pieces that require instantaneous reassembly in order to literally "make sense" of recollected experiences each time we need to remember something. Every memory is a new collage of ephemeral thoughts, feelings, and impressions.

Frank Lee Craig: Near Distance features multimedia work, collages, paintings, and sculptures by the late architect and NC State College of Design Graduate, Frank Lee Craig (B. Arch '77). The bulk of the very substantial body of work we celebrate in this exhibition parallels his efforts to make sense of the mortal circumstance he suddenly confronted when diagnosed with a fatal illness, as well as his need to keep seeing the world through the lens of endless opportunities and possibilities. The exhibition was co-curated by Dr. Margret Kentgens-Craig and Roger Manley.

Gregg exhibitions support and enhance the curriculum of the university's classroom teaching by offering opportunities for professors to incorporate class visits, individual assignments, or research projects as well. Contact the museum's Curator of Education to make arrangements; it may be possible to customize our offerings to meet the needs of particular courses or syllabi. K-12 teachers are also encouraged to consider making use of the Gregg's exhibitions and resources.

All exhibitions are accessible, and admission is always free. Large-print gallery guides for the seeing-impaired and other accommodations can be provided on request.

importantly, her art work supports women and encourages them to always believe in themselves.

Her exhibition could not be more timely in celebrating and championing women, considering that it started in March, National Women's History Month.

"From the tedious and mundane to the profound and universal, her Little Black Dress is the narrator, telling stories about how women move through the world. Her symbol, like the dress itself, is practical, versatile, durable and sexy when it wants to be, offering the wearer a sense of freedom and independence," writes Frances Gardner, Professor Emerita, University of South Carolina, Lancaster, and curator of the show.

Just think about some of Stroud's titles for the art and the everyday stories these paintings reveal about women as individuals, in their relationships, in politics or at work: When He Kisses Her Forehead, She Explodes into Flowers, If You Want Perfection, Find Yourself a Mannequin, and A Woman's Place is in the House, (US

Diamante Arts & Cultural Center in Raleigh, NC, Features Works by Rosalia Torres Weiner

The Diamante Arts & Cultural Center (DACC) in Raleigh, NC, celebrated Women's History Month by showcasing the art of Mexican Charlotte-based artist, Rosalia Torres Weiner, with a solo exhibition, Mi Gente, Un Reflejo / My People, A Reflection, started Mar. 25 and continues through May 13, 2022.

"We are delighted that this artist, activist, and community leader (Rosalia Torres Weiner) will be exhibiting her work at the DACC," said Lizette Cruz Watko, Founder & Executive Director of the Diamante Arts & Cultural Center. "Rosalia's exhibition is the first solo show at the new DACC location," added Cruz Watko.

Torres Weiner's work celebrates the rich history and changing demographics of the South. She uses her art to document social conditions and raise awareness about issues affecting immigrant communities like family separation, racism, and moving beyond common stereotypes.

Work by Rosalia Torres Weiner

"My work is focused on celebrating and sharing the stories of the LatinX community," says Torres Weiner. "Over the past 2 years, I have watched our community come through the Pandemic, often as unseen essential workers, and unsung heroes. At the same time, many of the issues that our community has been fighting to change are still here, so I feel it is important to continue to tell stories of people like the Dreamers, and stories about how LatinX people are enriching the communities that we live in and America as a whole."

"I'm honored to share Torres Weiner's work surveying different stages of her career that include paintings, mixed media, and furniture," said Peter Marin, DACC's Curator of Exhibitions. Mi Gente, Un Reflejo bears witness to her dedication to her community, Mi Gente, and her art," he added.

As part of the exhibition, selected paintings Torres Weiner is bringing to the exhibition will feature. RedCalacAR, is a free app developed by her husband Ben Weiner for her "Dreamers" series, which allows people to hear each painting's subject speak their own story.

This free iOS app allows iPhone and iPad users to unlock additional stories and narratives when viewing these images of the Dreamers series. To download the free app, visit the apple store and search from the Red CalacAR. Once the app is started, select "Live Gallery" and then use your phone's camera to listen to their stories.

This exhibition is made possible by funding from the NC Arts Council and First Citizens Bank. It is supported in part by a grant from the Mary Duke Biddle Foundation, the Triangle Community Foundation, and the Wells Fargo Foundation.

Editor's Note: I've added the following info which was taken from the PBS North Carolina feature, My Home, NC, about Rosalia Torres Weiner:

The activist's art truck

The food truck scene has been booming in recent years, making way for possibilities far beyond the typical ice cream truck. When Charlotte native Rosalia Torres Weiner saw this trend in her city, she too made the move to go mobile. This time, not with food, but with art.

"I thought about an art truck because it's necessary," she said. "Working with these children and the families... They don't have access to transportation or they're afraid."

Torres Weiner is an "activist," or artist and activist, whose paintings focus on immigration and social justice. She also brings art-making to communities that don't have access to art with her Red Calaca truck.

"Having an art truck and bringing the art truck and the art right outside their doors is very special. I remember a little boy, he came and hugged me, he said, 'This is the best day of my life,'" she said.

Helping children heal with The Magic Kite

Torres Weiner wants to help children specifically affected by the deportation of family members. She's provided them a way to heal through art with The Magic Kite project, inspired by her own childhood.

"In Mexico, when I was a little kid, my mom used to take us to kite festivals. A kite is a symbol of Mexico and I invited children to come to my studio and create a kite with me so they could tell their stories," she said. "My idea was to glue their little story that they drew on a piece of paper on the kite, and then fly it. For me, it was like a way to let it go. You're going to be ok."

Sending a message with her art

An established artist herself, Torres Weiner has paintings in the city of Charlotte and in the Smithsonian.

One of her murals in Charlotte depicts the skyline of the city with Our Lady of Guadalupe, and butterflies that represent members of the Latino community coming there.

She uses bright colors and purposeful details to tell their stories.

"These are heartbreaking stories. Families being separated by deportation. People didn't know that the deportations were happening in Charlotte, and I needed to do something with my art," she said.

Before her success as an activist, she encountered some who were skeptical about what she was trying to do in her career.

"When I started painting about immigration and social justice, a lot of my friends, artist friends, they said, 'You're not going to sell. You're not going to make it.' And I said, 'I'm not here to sell, I'm here to send a message.'"

As an artist, her continued focus is on her message and telling people's stories

"It's not like I just paint," she said. "I talk to people, I listen and then I create art. I tell them that they can tell their stories, they can express themselves and especially, I tell them, art heals."

Cedar Creek Gallery in Creedmoor, NC, Offers Annual Pottery & Glass Festival - Apr. 1 - 10, 2022

Cedar Creek Gallery in Creedmoor, NC, will present its 53rd Annual Spring Pottery & Glass Festival, held on Friday, Apr. 1, from 3-9pm; Sat. & Sun., Apr. 2 & 3, from 10am-6pm; and Sat. & Sun., Apr. 9 & 10, from 10am-6pm. Celebrate the joy of craft and creativity!

Click here to see the schedule of festival events at (<https://cedarcreekgallery.com/blogs/news/53rd-annual-spring-pottery-glass-festival-schedule-of-events>).

On a normal day at Cedar Creek, visitors browsing the gallery and gardens can catch glimpses of studio artists at work through an open doorway or window. During the Pottery and Glass Festival, we invite guests to come out, meet the artists, and learn what it takes to create the beautiful craft they see at the gallery.

The first two weekends in April, during our 53rd Annual Spring Pottery and Glass Festival, you'll have the opportunity to observe glass blowing, pottery, raku firing, and wood-turning demonstrations from Cedar Creek studio artists and visiting guest artists.

While you're here, purchase plants from the nursery and ask the horticulturalists your questions about plants and gardening, and learn the rich history of Cedar Creek on a History Walking Tour of the gallery and grounds.

Come see these nationally recognized artists sharing the techniques and skills they use to create their work, from the kernel of an idea through the process of transforming glass, clay, and wood. They'll take time to explain their creative process and answer your questions while creating original pieces of art.

There will be live music and a food truck on site each day, so you can grab a beverage, a delicious bite to eat, and stay all day.

Join us in celebrating what Cedar Creek is really all about: American craft - work created by human hands and born from the creativity and skills of each individual artist.

Events take place rain or shine! Artist demonstrations are held outside or in open air spaces.

Hillsborough Gallery of Arts in NC Features New Member Exhibition

The Hillsborough Gallery of Arts in Hillsborough, NC, is presenting Sweet Impossible Blossoms, featuring new work by jeweler Arianna Bara, painter Chris Graebner and woodworker Ian Herdell, on view through Apr. 24, 2022.

The title of the show comes from Arianna Bara's favorite poem "From Blossoms" by Li-Young Lee. The final stanza is, "There are days we live/as if death were nowhere in the background; from joy/to joy to joy, from wing to wing, from blossom to blossom to/impossible blossom, to sweet impossible/blossom." Says Bara "It reminds me that days of sweetness can exist even in the midst of loss and that the creative process can renew and spark even under difficult circumstances. I have used an ancient Korean gilding technique called Keum Boo to incorporate 24 kt gold into many of my new pieces. The gold is a brilliance arising from the blackness of the darkened silver. A sweet impossible blossom."

"the viewer as well."

Ian Herdell is inspired by the beauty and structure of forms found in nature and brings that into his furniture designs. "I find that each tree has a story to tell, a snapshot into its unique life. My designs incorporate and harness the knots, splits, rot, spalting, special grain and sculpting done by insects, wind and weather. At times I also highlight these 'imperfections' with inlaid shells to bring more attention to them." Among his influences are the simplicity and beautiful craftsmanship of Asian woodwork and the diagrams and sketches by naturalists of past centuries.

Owned and operated by 21 local artists, HGA represents these established artists exhibiting contemporary fine art and fine craft. The Gallery's offerings include paintings, sculpture, ceramics, photography, textiles, jewelry, glass, metals, encaustic, enamel, and wood. The gallery is located on N. Churton Street, Hillsborough, NC 27278.

This program is supported, in part, by a grant from the Orange County Arts Commission (funding from the North Carolina Arts Council, a division of the Department of Natural and Cultural Resources.) We also thank Orange County Emergency Small Business Funding Program.

Work by Chris Graebner

Chris Graebner wasn't familiar with the poem, but her new paintings are bouquets of flowers, so the title felt appropriate. "Now having read it, From Blossoms feels even more appropriate. The poem is about moments of joy and beauty and of living life in those moments with gratitude. Painting flowers is an exercise in taking something brief and mysterious and making it familiar and lasting. I find that the process of painting flowers makes them part of me. Perhaps it is some sort of Zen - paying close attention to each individual flower and petal - because it results in 'knowing' a plant in a way that makes it a permanent part of my world. I hope that spending time with my Sweet Impossible Blossoms will do that for

Work by Laura Berendsen Hughes

NC Wesleyan College in Rocky Mount, NC, is presenting works by Durham, NC, artist Laura Berendsen Hughes, exhibiting her dramatic, monumental silhouettes of horses and abstract expressionist paintings, on view in the Mims Art Gallery at Wesleyan College's Dunn Center, through May 6, 2022. Hughes is an acrylic painter; her recent work features both her equines and abstractions. Categorically all of her paintings reveal her painterly "dance" so to speak between designerly structure and freedom. There are her accessible and seemingly classical silhouettes of horses realized in sometimes wild color and improvisational brush strokes. With her designerly skill from years working as a graphic artist, Hughes's abstract expressionist works engage us with that exciting tensional equilibrium between hard-edge form and the freeing dynamic of loose brushwork. For further information call the gallery at 252/985-5268 or visit (www.nwc.edu/Arts/Mims/).

Work by Wilfred Spoon

The Sumter County Gallery of Art in Sumter, SC, is presenting two exhibitions including: Hands On, The South, featuring works by Micah Green and Quiet Ground, featuring works by Wilfred Spoon, on view through Apr. 22, 2022. Micah Green was born in Texas and lived much of his childhood in Mississippi. His nomadic way of life has taken him to Georgia, South Carolina and now Alabama. A graduate of Mississippi State University, Green began taking photographs while working at a short-staffed newspaper and has since become an accomplished photojournalist working with "The New York Times", Bloomberg, Reuters and numerous regional publications including "The Sumter Item". Wilfred Spoon is a Mt. Pleasant-based painter whose preferred medium is oils. Born in Charlotte, NC, he earned his MFA at Parsons School of design in New York in 1987. Spoon's influences include primitivism, early and pre-renaissance painters of religious icons, and Cubism whose artists explored new spatial relationships that finally broke with the Renaissance traditions of perspective. In his still lifes the division between foreground and background is not distinct and space, both interior and exterior, seems to be that of the Cubist-derived style. Greenville Center for Creative Arts in Greenville, SC, is presenting the exhibit, City of Women, to spotlight the impact of women in Greenville, on view in the Center's Community Gallery, through Apr. 27, 2022. City of Women, an initiative that aims to advance the role of women in our community and businesses, will launch in Greenville with a juried exhibition at Greenville Center for Creative Arts (GCCA). The initiative's community-based mission is to celebrate the legacy of impactful women who have played a significant role in making Greenville the vibrant community it is today. More than 50 Upstate artists submitted work in a variety of mediums through an open submission process that highlights historical and contemporary women who have made a significant impact in the Greenville community. Work by Carole Knudson Tinsley

Artists Collective | Spartanburg in Spartanburg, SC, is presenting Past to Present: Retrospective: 60 Years Painting, featuring works by Carole Knudson Tinsley, on view in Solomon Gallery, through Apr. 30, 2022. A reception will be held Apr. 21, from 6-9pm. When she was 10 years old, Carole Knudson Tinsley won a blue ribbon at the Sangamon (Illinois) County Fair for an ink drawing of a little girl. Six decades later, her artwork has developed from that "realistic" work to expressionistic to "imaginative abstraction." The exhibition relates to Tinsley's paintings from when she became a "serious painter" to the present, with examples of studies and paintings expressing her development through the years. The more than 45 pieces in the exhibition will be offered for sale, with prices ranging from $300 to $2,800; several paintings are owned by a collector or are in the artist's collection and will not be for sale. For further information visit (artistscollectivespartanburg.org).

on North Carolina's pottery tradition is a relatively recent development. It has its origins in some of the designs Jacques Busbee incorporated when he started Jugtown Pottery in 1917, most notably a Korean bowl form. Busbee drew inspiration for some of his designs from the collections of major museums such as the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City. Busbee was instrumental in integrating a variety of Chinese, Japanese, Thai, and Korean design elements and aesthetics, sometimes overlapping, into the work of Jugtown, which, in turn, influenced other fledgling art potteries in the state. As North Carolina's art pottery scene developed, other art potteries in the state mimicked some of those early forms created by Jugtown Pottery. Central Piedmont Community College in Charlotte, NC, is presenting Unpacked, The Works of Ellen Lee Klein, featuring a group of still life and genre paintings which span from the 1970's to the 2020's in this exhibition revealing her metamorphosis through time, on view in the Bill and Patty Gorelick Gallery at Central Piedmont Harris Campus, on view through Dec. 9, 2022. The artist's fealty to, mastery of and her continued fascination with color resonance, line and ambiguous space are employed unselfconsciously to describe her view of contemporary life seen through an artist's eyes using mundane objects collected, assembled and observed over time. These become her muses. The more recent smaller scale works employ garlic-like forms to explore and express her tongue in cheek observations of social dilemmas and interactions, almost like sociometric reports. Ellen Lee Klein was born, raised, and educated in New York City, earning a BA from City College of New York and an MFA from Pratt Institute. Her long career in the visual arts has included work as an educator, arts administrator, art critic and writer as well as representation in numerous solo and group exhibitions in New York City, other east coast galleries, museums and campuses. Charlotte Russell Contemporary Fine Art Gallery in Raleigh, NC, Offers Works by Peter Marin & Kelly Sheppard Murray

Charlotte Russell Contemporary Fine Art Gallery in Raleigh, NC, will present In Proximity: Peter Marin and Kelly Sheppard Murray, a two-person exhibition on view from Apr. 22 through May 24, 2022. A reception will be held on Apr. 22, from 5:30-7:30pm.

Working in different mediums, both artists draw on color, form, and structure. Peter Marin's abstract work references architecture, landscape, the handmade, sacred geometry, identity and uses the languages of color and abstraction. Kelly Sheppard Murray's multimedia sculptural work fashions a wide range of polymorphic, multicolored structures that have their roots in natural forms.

also share similarities.

As a Latino artist, Peter Marin's intention is to further the discussion on abstraction, moving it from formalist proposals to a more personal vision. Marin's paintings focus on the language of color and structure through repetition of colorful geometric shapes and forms. To Marin, color is a very important personal idiom that tells his story. His interest in structure is influenced by his father's work as an architect, who ensured that Marin's experiences would be rooted in the arts.

Charlotte Russell Contemporary Fine Art Gallery offers original artworks by emerging and mid-career artists in our art gallery in Five Points, Raleigh, NC. The gallery is located on Fairview Road, Raleigh, NC, 27608.

Work by Kelly Sheppard Murray

Kelly Sheppard Murray's sculptural works are grounded in the study of color and connective relationships. The objects are connected by color to those nearby, and subtle gradient shifts explore how interdependent the pieces are to one another; if you take away a single piece, the sequence is off. Featured artworks reflect on the need to find connection and common ground with those around us while also recognizing that we are part of a larger network or system where we are simultaneously unique but

In the areas of civic engagement, racial disparities, the environment and performance art/music, this exhibit will aim to connect the dots from historical data and archival information up to the present conditions of the Lowcountry. "Resilient". Local artist Chris "Kolpeace" Johnson will highlight the power of being resilient with this work that recognizes African Americans who have shown strength through adversity including the late local activist Muhiyidin D'baha and Cyntoia Brown, who faced life in prison after being convicted of homicide as a juvenile. These pieces are tributes to memorialize the impactful strength of an unsung hero in the community, engaging the soul and spirit. "The African Origins of Mathematics". Charleston resident and artist Robert "King David" Ross highlights the direct impact Africa has had on modern mathematics in this exhibit. Showcasing the first math instrument, the Ishango bone, the exhibit allows visitors to see the influence Africa has had on every aspect of life. Admission: Free. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 10am-5pm, with guided tours at 10:30am, 11:30am, 1:30pm, 2:30pm, and 3:30pm. Contact: 843/805-5507 or visit (www.cofc.edu/avery).

Charleston Artist Guild Gallery, 160 East Bay St., Charleston. Apr. 1 - 30 - "The American Landscape," an exhibition featuring paintings by Peter Finger. Finger paints primarily in both oils and acrylic mediums. Finger grew up in the shadows of the Catskill Mountains in Upstate New York. He started painting in his teens and was influenced by the artists of the Hudson River School who painted the wild landscapes of New England in the early 19th Century. Finger would trace the steps of these romantic painters and create his own interpretation of the scenes. Ongoing - Featuring an exhibit of works by over 80 plus members of CAG who display a wealth of talent in different media including, oils, acrylics, pastels, watercolors, photography, printmaking & sculpture. The Gallery is also home for the CAG office. Hours: Daily, 11am-6pm. Contact: 843/722-2454 or at (www.charlestonartistguild.com).

Work by Mary Edna Fraser

City Gallery at Joseph P. Riley, Jr. Waterfront Park, 34 Pringleau Street, Charleston. Through May 8 - "Creek by Creek," is a collaborative effort by artists Mary Edna Fraser and Jeff Kopish, underscoring the perils of plastic pollution and the importance of protecting the Lowcountry's unique waterways. Featuring an array of Fraser's batiks on silk and oil paintings and Kopish's ceramic and found object sculptures incorporating everything from recycled plastic to actual trash, this exhibition aims to further educate the public on environmental issues through the lens of art, and to remind viewers of the consequences of their own actions within the larger ecological systems of which they are a part. Due to the ongoing situation related to COVID-19 in South Carolina, City Gallery guests are requested to reserve in advance for free, timed admission online via (www.charleston-sc.gov/citygallery) or by phone by calling the gallery during business hours.

Face masks are required of all guests and staff. Contact: 843/958-6484 or (www.charleston-sc.gov/citygallery).

Work by Cameron Alexander

Gibbes Museum of Art, 135 Meeting Street, Charleston. Gallery 8, Through Aug. 7 - "Fighters for Freedom: William H. Johnson Picturing Justice". William H. Johnson painted his Fighters for Freedom series in the mid-1940s as a tribute to African American activists, scientists, teachers, performers and international heads of state working to bring peace to the world. He celebrated their accomplishments even as he acknowledged the realities of racism, violence and oppression they faced and overcame. Some of his fighters—Harriet Tubman, George Washington Carver, Marian Anderson and Mahatma Gandhi—are familiar historical figures; others are less well-known individuals whose determination and sacrifice have been eclipsed over time. Drawn entirely from the collection of more than 1,000 works by Johnson given to the Smithsonian American Art Museum by the Harmon Foundation in 1967, this exhibition is the first-ever presentation of this series in Johnson's home state of South Carolina. "Fighters for Freedom: William H. Johnson Picturing Justice" is organized by the Smithsonian American Art Museum with generous support from Art Bridges, Faye and Robert Davidson, and the Jacob and Gwendolyn Lawrence Foundation. Gallery 9, Through Aug. 7 - "A New Deal: Artists at Work". During the Great Depression of the 1930s, President Franklin Delano Roosevelt launched his ambitious Works Progress Administration (WPA) programs that sent millions of unemployed Americans back to work, including more than 5,000 artists. The Federal Art Project, formed under the WPA, afforded opportunities to a diverse group of artists, including women, African Americans and recent immigrants from China, Russia and Germany. This monumental effort to put artists back to work resulted in a collection of artworks intended to uplift the national spirit and encourage creativity in the face of great challenges. The Gibbes is one of a select group of institutions across the country that houses a historic collection of Federal Art Project prints. Gallery 2 & 3, Through Oct. 9 - "William Eggleston Photographs from the Laura and Jay Crouse Collection". It is said that William Eggleston's unique ability to conflate the epic and the everyday has made him one of the most impactful figures in late 20th century photography. A native of Memphis, TN, Eggleston first photographed his local environs in the 1950s in black-and-white but became one of the first fine art photographers to use color to record his observations in a more heightened and accurate way. Today, his strikingly vivid yet enigmatic images of parked cars, billboards, storefronts, diners and other artifacts of the ordinary world are considered groundbreaking. The photographs presented in this edition of the museum's Charleston Collects exhibition series were selected from the Laura and Jay Crouse Collection and represent many of the pioneering artist's most notable works. The exhibition will be accompanied by a full-color catalog with an essay on the artist by Simon Constantine, Ph.D., professor of photographic history at Birkbeck, University of London, and Sotheby's Art Institute. Galleries 1, 4, and 5, Permanent Exhibition - "18th and 19th Century American Paintings and Sculpture". American paintings, from colonial portraits to Civil War-era landscapes, occupy the Gibbes Main Gallery. Portraits of leading political, social, and military figures include works by Jeremiah Theus, Henry Benbridge, Benjamin West, Gilbert Stuart, Thomas Sully and Samuel F.B. Morse. The gallery also features landscape and genre scenes by Angelica Kaufmann, Louis Mignot, Eastman Johnson, Conrad Wise Chapman, and William Aiken Walker. The paintings collection is complemented by examples of neoclassical sculpture on view in the Campbell Rotunda, and decorative art objects on loan from the Rivers Collection. Gallery 5, Permanent Exhibition - "Miniature Portraits". The first American miniature portraits were painted in Charleston, and today the Gibbes is home to one of the most prestigious portrait miniature collections in the United States. Containing more than six hundred objects, the collection spans nearly two hundred years and represents the work of over a hundred artists. Small enough to fit in the palm of the hand, these tiny portraits were treasured remembrances of loved ones in the age before photography. Presented in state-of-the-art display cases, and in viewable storage drawers featured miniatures include works by Mary Roberts, Jeremiah Theus, Henry Benbridge, Charles Wilson Peale, Pierre Henri, Edward Greene Malbone, George Engleheart, and Charles Fraser. Gallery 6, Permanent Exhibition - "20th Century American Regionalism and the Charleston Renaissance". At the turn of the twentieth century, American artists looked to their European counterparts and beyond as they developed identifiably American artistic movements. Two particularly strong influences during this time period were French Impressionism and Japanese woodblock prints. Another prevailing theme during this period was the growing interest in American subject matter. American regionalism and social realism played important roles in the development of art in Charleston, which flourished as a destination for artists, particularly during the years of 1915 to 1945 a period now known as the Charleston Renaissance. Gallery 7, Permanent Exhibition - "Modern and Contemporary". Modern and contemporary art in America encompasses a wide range of styles, subject matter, and media. As a whole, the diversity of modern and contemporary art reflects the rich and varied heritage of our nation and the lowcountry region. Works in this gallery were created over the past forty years by artists who are native to the area, who have worked here, or who have created objects that reflect the complex story of the region. The works are grouped to reflect several themes including the southern landscape, the human figure, abstraction, and the legacy of slavery in America. Visiting Artist Series, Katy Mixon, Session I: Through Apr. 3 - Mixon, born in Orangeburg, SC, is a visual artist working in painting, sculpture, quilting and photography. She earned an MFA from University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill and a B.A. from Davidson College. She is an alumna of the School of the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston. Mixon is a recipient of a Working Artist Grant and a Ruth and Harold Chenven Foundation Award. She was a finalist for a William and Dorothy Yeck Young Painters Award and a VCUarts Fountainhead Fellowship. Mixon was invited as an artist-in-residence to VCCA, VA; Kimmel Harding Nelson Center, NE; The Hambidge Center, GA; AICAD Studio Practice Residency, NY; and Byrdcliffe Art Colony, NY. Select exhibition venues include the North Carolina Museum of Art, Raleigh; GreenHill Gallery, NC; the Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art, NC; Ackland Art Museum, NC; Spartanburg Art Museum, SC; Coker University, SC.; A.I.R. Gallery, Brooklyn, NY; The Painting Center, New York; Target Gallery, Va.; Rubber Stamp Projects, FL; Allcott Gallery, NC; 701 Center for Contemporary Art, SC.; among others. Maria White, Session I: Through Apr. 3 - White is a Mexican American studio potter and independent filmmaker. White was born in Las Vegas, NV, and raised in Summerville, SC. White first learned to make pottery while earning her degree in Art from Winthrop University. She continued to focus on ceramics with scholarship and studio assistant opportunities at Penland School of Craft and Haystack Mountain School of Craft, then went on to apprentice with sculptor and inventor, Michael Sherrill. White began her professional ceramics career in Los Angeles where she spent over a decade creating ceramics for celebrated chefs, top interior designers and the sets of major motion pictures and television series. Her ceramics have earned the Award of Excellence from the American Craft Council and her pieces have been published and collected internationally. Outside of her ceramic work, White's independent films have won awards from top international film festivals. While living in California, she co-founded the Los Angeles Women's Film Collective to help empower women working across all filmmaking disciplines. White is a survivor of postpartum anxiety and depression and an advocate for maternal mental health. In 2019, she founded Mugs for Moms, an effort that brings makers together to help raise maternal mental health awareness and find support for moms and their families. White is the mother of two and lives in Charleston, with her family. Ruth and Bill Baker Art Sales Gallery, Through May 1 - "Stranded," featuring works by past visiting artist Cameron Alexander. She takes viewers back in history to the Transatlantic Slave Trade, when over 500 ships were lost at sea over the 400-year period. Their works in the exhibition reconceptualize this historical phenomenon, depicting scenes particular to the cast away genre – chiefly isolation, survival, remembrance and homegoing. Themes of motherhood also inundate the collection, harkening back to our first home.

Through this thought-provoking exhibition, Alexander poignantly questions where we find security – whether in family, in religion, in spirituality or in our dreams. Alexander is a self-taught artist from Goose Creek, SC. Previously an artist-in-residence at the Gibbes, they have exhibited their work at Nefelibata, The Sparks Exhibition at Public Works and the Columbia Museum of Art. Museum Shop - Now offering the inventory of the Tradd Street Press, reproductions of works by Elizabeth O'Neill Verner among other exhibit related art objects. Americans: Charleston in the Revolutionary War". Charleston played a critical role in the Revolutionary War. South Carolina was the wealthiest of the thirteen rebellious colonies and Charleston was its key port to maintain its trade with the outside world. The British would make three attempts against the city during the Revolutionary War. Their defeat at the Battle of Sullivan's Island on June 28, 1776 was a crucial patriot victory, which convinced many that independence could be achieved. The Siege of Charleston, meanwhile, was the longest siege of the Revolutionary War and the largest battle in South Carolina. These events and others are chronicled in the new exhibit, which will also feature artifacts and period images that have not been exhibited at the Museum before. Ongoing - Featuring the most extensive collection of South Carolina cultural and scientific collections in the nation, it also owns two National Historic Landmark houses, the Heyward-Washington House (1772) and the Joseph Manigault House (1803), as well as the Dill Sanctuary, a 580-acre wildlife preserve. Admission: Yes. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 9am-5pm & through the Summer months, Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 843/722-2996 or at (www.charlestonmuseum.org).

Elizabeth Catlett, "Door Key Child", 1987, serigraph edition A/P, 21 x 14 3/4"

Columbia Museum of Art, Main & Hampton Streets, Columbia. May 5 - 8 - Spring has sprung, Mother's Day weekend is around the corner, and the Columbia Museum of Art announces the return of "Art Blossoms", a beautifully botanical exhibition experience and museum fundraiser, with a packed schedule of events including an opening celebration on Wednesday, May 4. Join us for this exclusive preview of Art Blossoms the night before it opens to the public. Chat with the creators of the stunning floral arrangements and enjoy hors d'oeuvres from 8th Wonder Cuisine, specialty cocktails, and live music in the open air of Boyd Plaza. Mingle inside the museum and view beautiful florals that interpret works of art throughout the CMA galleries and public spaces. Doors open at 6:00 p.m. $85 / $65 for members. Over four festive days of flowers, fun, and fine art, Art Blossoms showcases a kaleidoscope of fresh floral arrangements - located throughout CMA galleries, public spaces, and Boyd Plaza - created by local garden clubs, florists, and designers alongside the paintings and sculptures that inspired them. Visitors are invited to marvel at living art arrangements and to participate in a full schedule of dynamic events, including the opening celebration, talks, workshops, a bike parade, brunch, demonstrations, and tours. During the run of Art Blossoms, Azalea Coffee Bar will offer refreshments for sale at a pop-up café inside the museum from 10am-3pm each day. Through June 26 - "Richard Tuttle: Loose-Leaf Notebook Drawings". This exhibition of radically simple paintings offers a glimpse at an important post-Minimalist artist. Richard Tuttle (b. 1941) began working in the 1960s when Minimalism emerged as a major art movement. Minimalist artists wanted the viewer to respond to the materiality and abstraction that was in front of them, and not to any type of imitation of reality. Tuttle countered the cool precision and machine-tooling of many Minimalist artworks, as well as the idea of monumentality, with a handmade quality. Created in the '80s, these humble notebook pages, softly marked with watercolor gestures, are like stray thoughts caught in mid-air, quiet haikus, or restrained fireworks. Together, they question the preciousness of fine art and replace it with intimacy in a quietly exuberant progression. Through May 29 - "Anila Quayyum Agha: Let a Million Flowers Bloom". Pakistani American artist Anila Quayyum Agha's immersive installations upend traditional ideas about sculpture. Brilliantly lit from within, they cast their own images onto the walls around them like lanterns and create intricate patterns that dance over visitors as they move through the exhibition. The works in "Let a Million Flowers Bloom" use floral and geometric shapes inspired by Islamic architecture to explore notions of masculine and feminine, public and private, religious and secular, and particularly space and refuge, taking on the pain of losing one's home and agency and the hope of establishing them both anew. Agha's unforgettable art envelops viewers in an enchanting visual environment that inspires awe and invites contemplation about sanctuary and belonging. Through May 15 - "Rodin: Contemplation and Dreams / Selections from the Iris & B. Gerald Cantor Collections". Auguste Rodin saw the body as an envelope for the spirit, and the flickering surfaces of his modeled forms express this tension. His sculptures' poses, directly inspired by Michelangelo's powerful marble works, capture the human condition in all its elation and anguish. Rodin holds a prized place in the history of art, straddling the decades of the late 19th and early 20th centuries when the world was striving for a new modern form of expression. Visitors will learn about his processes for drawing, modeling, and casting as they immerse themselves in more than 40 examples of the artist's works in bronze. Guignard Gallery, Through May 22 - "22 South Carolinians" features the work of Cameron Alexander, Tarleton Blackwell, Jai-Anna Carter, Ija Charles, Robert Coffey, Angela Corbett, Michael Dantzer, B. Dukes, Raishad Glover, Malik Greene, Sanford Greene, Tonya Gregg, Roni Henderson-Day, Terry K. Hunter, Dogon Krigga, Ernest "Chicken Man" Lee, J. Renee, Ce Scott-Fitts, Isaac Udogwu, Cedric Umoja, Sabrina White, and Thomas the Younger. Through Jan. 1, 2025 - "The Collection". Come see the newly organized collection. We've gathered ancient and modern works of art, together in one space, that explore our shared archetypes, myths, and ideals. Galleries 5 & 6, Ongoing - "Modern & Contemporary Art from the Collection". Celebrating some of the CMA's greatest hits, this exhibition features over 30 paintings, drawings, photographs and sculptures from the Museum's collection that have not been on view recently. It offers the visitor experiences both serious and sensual and is designed to both entertain and enlighten. Notable works included are by Jasper Johns, Howard Thomas, Sally Mann and Edward Ruscha, whose famous image of the Hollywood Hills (on view) has become a staple of the art world. Ray Taylor Fair Gallery, Ongoing - Featuring a new and permanent installation of its ancient art collection. The installation includes approximately 50 objects that introduce the major ancient civilizations from the Mediterranean and Near East. Examples of the earliest form of writing from 12th century B.C. Mesopotamia, are shown next to Egyptian scarabs and Greek painted vessels. The world of the ancient Romans is represented by 2nd century glass and bronze items and portrait sculpture. Many of these works have not been seen since the Museum moved to its location on Main Street in 1998. The collection has grown over the last several years with the donation of 12 fine Roman sculptures in 2002 from Pennsylvania collector Dr. Robert Y. Turner. Admission: Yes, but there is no admission charge on Sun. Hours: Tue.-Sun., from 10am-5pm. Contact: 803/799-2810 or at (www.columbiamuseum.org).

McKissick Museum, University of South Carolina, USC Horseshoe, Columbia. Through July 15 - "Inheritance: Sustainable Farms of the South". Brett Schenning's photographs aim to capture the hope that drives southern sustainable farmers. Hope that they will succeed in raising foods to nourish their communities, pay their bills, and ensure that their land will continue to support future generations. These photographs present selected southern farms that differ in many ways but are united in their stewards' belief that sustainable agriculture can make the world a better place. Through July 15 - "Wild Bees: Photography by Paula Sharp & Ross Eatman". The exhibition asks us if we really know what our native pollinators look like. When most people think of bees, they think of the honeybee. However, honeybees are a single non-native species among thousands of native bees that inhabit North America. This exhibit showcases a collection of stunning macro photographs by Paula Sharp and Ross Eatman depicting the world of America's native bees. Ongoing - "Highlights from the Permanent Collections of McKissick Museum". Permanent - "Baruch Silver Collection," a collection of the Baruch family silver. And, "Natural Curiosity: USC and the Evolution of Scientific Inquiry into the Natural World". Hours: Mon.-Fri., 8:30am-5pm & Sat., 11am-3pm. Work by Jean-Marie Mauclet & Gwylene Gallimard 701 Center for Contemporary Art, 701 Whaley St., Columbia. Main Gallery, Through Apr. 24 - "Jean-Marie Mauclet and Gwylene Gallimard: DISPLACEMENT, MEMORY, ERASURE - Collaborative Challenges in Three Parts". A closing reception will be held on Apr. 24, from 3-5pm. The artist-activist duo Gwylene Gallimard & Jean-Marie Mauclet are back. A dozen years after their memorable, gallery-wide Olympia installation at 701 CCA, the French couple and Charleston, SC, residents present a three-part project. Gallimard's massive canvases with drawings, collage and artifacts relay decades of the duo's unique art-and-activism collaborations with artists and non-artists alike. Mauclet's 3-D works are an installation-in-the-making, critiquing issues of wealth, class, culture and race in Charleston. An April 9 workshop of the Charleston collective TINYisPOWERFUL, of which artists are members, explores art tools and other techniques for social engagement. Hours: Wed.-Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 803/238-2351 or at (www.701cca.org).

SC State Museum, 301 Gervais St., Columbia. Through July 24 - "Face to Face: Portraits from the South Carolina State Museum Collection," an art exhibition which features works never before displayed. This new display explores the visual expressions of human connections featured in works from the museum's collection. "The themes presented in Face to Face speak specifically to our current culture of isolation, mask-wearing and social distancing," says State Museum Curator of Art Amy Chalmers. "This past year has taught us all the value of facial expressions, physical closeness and contact with the people in our lives. So much of our sense of shared humanity resides in what we see when we look at one another, and in our in-person interactions." Ongoing - "Bindings and Betweens: South Carolina Quilts". This new display traces the history and art of South Carolina made quilts. Featuring pieces from the museum's collection, the exhibition highlights both the objects and their makers for an in-depth look at the quilt making process and how it relates to cultural traditions throughout South Carolina history to the modern day. Dating from the early 19th century to the modern day, Bindings and Betweens will feature 43 quilts with a wide variety of styles and designs on display, highlighting traditions that were brought across oceans and passed down through generations. Through exploring these pieces, the exhibition aims to reveal the things that bind us together and the spaces and connections between us. Ongoing - "Early American Face Vessels from the George H. Meyer Collection". This new exhibit features collection of more than 100 early American face vessels, this exhibition offers a rare opportunity to trace the development of this tradition as it unfolded in regions east of the Mississippi River and Texas, from the 1820s to circa 1945, including around 20 early face vessels from South Carolina. Ongoing - "A Voice of Her Own: South Carolina Women in Politics". This exhibit celebrates the 100th Anniversary of the 19th Amendment, which guaranteed women the right to vote. This exhibit features objects, images and stories showing the ways South Carolina women engaged with the political history of our state. From tribal women leaders, to the first female Governor of the state, this exhibit shows how women worked to gain a voice of their own. The exhibit is free with museum general admission. The Crescent Café, second floor mezzanine of the Museum. The house menu offers a variety of baked goods, juices, coffee, hot chocolate and tea. Lunchtime offerings include deli sandwiches and alternating daily soups, as well as grilled chicken salads and sandwiches. And let's not forget the house specialty: spectacular fudge, handmade on-site. Hours: Wed.-Sat., from 10am-5pm and Sun., from noon-5pm. Admission: Yes. Florence

Florence County Museum, 111 West Cheves Street, across the street from the Francis Marion University Performing Arts Center, Florence. Ongoing - "Kindred Spirit: The Personal Worlds of William H. Johnson". William H. Johnson (1901 - 1970) was a man between worlds: raised in the rural South, but educated in New York; black, but his unknown father was white; American-born, but lived much of his adult life in Europe. This diverse heritage gave Johnson a unique perspective and insight, but at times it was also a difficult shadow which followed him as he traveled the world in search of his true artistic voice. Eventually, after many years away from his hometown of Florence, SC, Johnson returned to the United States. Although living in New York, his art began to focus almost entirely on the lives and experiences of African Americans in the rural South. "My travels taught me that an artist must live and paint in his own environment... This development shall continue for the rest of my life, and it is the painting of my people," said Johnson in 1941. Special Exhibits Gallery, Through July 3 - "[Non]Fiction: Margaret Curtis". Curtis is a contemporary painter living in Tryon, NC. Reviews and features of Curtis' work have appeared in Art Forum, The New York Times, Art in America, Art News, and Modern Painters. Her work is in permanent collections throughout the United States. She taught painting at The School of Visual Arts in New York for several years, and has been on the boards of both The Flood Gallery in Asheville, NC and The Upstairs Gallery in Tryon, NC. Community Gallery, Ongoing - This exhibit introduces visitors to the history of the museum and its formative collections. This gallery also exhibits the histories and diversity of the City of Florence, and the incorporated municipalities of Florence County. Additionally, the Community Gallery communicates the lives, stories and accomplishments of significant past and present citizens of Florence County and members of its communities. This gallery is one of two permanent exhibit spaces designed by award winning exhibit design firm, HaleySharpe Design. Pee Dee History Gallery, Ongoing - This is the largest gallery space in the facility, comprising 3,300 sq. ft. of exhibit space. This permanent collections gallery occupies the entire second floor, east wing of the building. Artifacts are supported by historical images and narrative interpretation, giving a comprehensive introduction to the Pee Dee region from prehistory to the present. This gallery is one of two permanent exhibit spaces designed by award winning exhibit design firm, HaleySharpe Design. Waters Gallery, Through Apr. 8 - "Pee Dee Regional Art Competition". The Museum is proud to present the "2022 Pee Dee Regional Art Competition", sponsored by Chick-fil-A of Florence. The competition aims to highlight the best contemporary art in the Pee Dee region. One of the state's oldest juried art competitions, the first "Pee Dee Regional" dates back to 1954 where the competition was held at the former Florence Museum on Spruce Street in Florence, SC. Admission: Free. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun. 2-5pm. Contact: 843/676-1200 or visit (www.flocomuseum.org).

Hyman Fine Arts Center, Francis Marion University, Florence. Adele Kassab Art Gallery, Through Apr. 7 - "Natalie Daise: Going to Seed." Daise says, "I am a storyteller. I think I was born that way. From my earliest memory I was fascinated with Bible stories and fairy tales and the narratives of the real lives of real people. I listened to the grown ups talk and I sucked down bedtime stories like milk. The day I learned to read for myself may have been the most magical day of my life." Apr. 12 - 28 - "Senior Shows by Graduating FMU Visual Arts Majors". Apr. 12 - 28 - "Works by Ceramics and 3-D Design Classes." Steven F. Gately Gallery (formerly the University Place Gallery), Francis Marion University, 142 North Dargan Street, Florence. Through Apr. 22 - "Megan Mosholder: Vertically Challenged". Visual artist Megan Mosholder pushes the boundaries of painting and reacts to the social-political landscape through site-responsive installations. Her three-dimensional drawings, often enhanced by light, emphasize obscured elements within recognizable places correlating symbolism with lived experience. In July 2020, Mosholder had her leg amputated. This surgery was one of over 30 surgeries that she has endured since a catastrophic car accident in 2018, where she was trapped inside her burning car. The result of this accident changed the installation artist's life forever. Hours: Tue.-Fri., 10am-5pm. Work by Charles Geiger

Greenville Center for Creative Arts, 25 Draper Street, Greenville. Main Gallery, Apr. 1 - May 25 - "Sight(s) Specific," featuring works by Charles Geiger, Julia Morrisroe, & Meredith Stoudenmire. A reception will be held on Apr. 1, from 6-9pm. In "Sight(s) Specific", artists Charles Geiger, Julia Morrisroe, and Meredith Stoudenmire investigate ideas ranging from narratives associated with monuments & contemporary events to the thrill of adventure. Through abstracted forms, environmental and social issues precipitate to create conversation surrounding our past and our future. Charles Geiger uses abstracted botanical forms in his paintings that merge with social and environmental issues. Julia Morrisroe's paintings examine the purpose of public monuments and who they served. Through imagery of volcanoes, Meredith Stoudenmire's paintings explore adventure and risk taking. Community Gallery, Through Apr. 27 - "City of Women," an initiative that aims to advance the role of women in our community and businesses, will launch in Greenville with a juried exhibition at Greenville Center for Creative Arts (GCCA). Thompson Gallery, Thomas Anderson Roe Art Building, Furman University, Greenville. Through Apr. 6 - "Artist-in-Residence Show," featuring works by Azita Moradkhani. Moradkhani was born in Tehran where she was exposed to Persian art, as well as Iranian politics, and that double exposure increased her sensitivity to the dynamics of vulnerability and violence that she now explores in her art-making. Moradkhani's work in drawing and sculpture has focused on the female body and its vulnerability to different social norms. It examines the experience of finding oneself insecure in one's own body. In her drawings, unexpected images incorporated in intimate apparel intend to bring humor, surprise and a shock of recognition. Apr. 12 - May 7 - "Senior Art Exhibition". A reception will be held on Apr. 12, from 6-8pm. Art by members of the Class of 2022 will be on display. Hours: M-F, 9am-5pm. Contact: 864/294-2400.

Tiger Strikes Asteroid Greenville, 4 Smith Street, 2nd Floor, Greenville. Through Apr. 8 - "Worlds Apart: Jacolby Satterwhite". The show will present two works by the internationally celebrated artist and South Carolina native. "Shrines" and "We Are In Hell When We Hurt Each Other" are examples of how Satterwhite's mix of digital film, animation, illustration, and performance fuse to create colorful, intimate and immersive worlds. Hours: Fri., 4-8pm; Sat., noon-6pm or by appt. Contact: e-mail to (greenville@tigerstrikesasteroid.com).

Visual Arts Institute, on the Greer Campus of Greenville Technical College about 4 miles north of Greer on Highway 290, Locust Hill Road, Taylors. Benson Campus Galleries, Through Apr. 21 - "32nd Annual Upstate High School Art Exhibit". A reception and awards ceremony will be held on Apr. 21, from 6-8pm. After a couple of quiet Covid years, the AUHSAE has roared back. 38 instructors from 20 Upstate high schools submitted a total of 143 works that represent the best of their programs. Upstate high school art students demonstrate proficiency in 13 different two- and three-dimensional categories, including traditional medias such as drawing and painting but also the more specialized medias of ceramics, fiber, metals, and animation. AUHSAE is a juried exhibition. The initial jurors are the Upstate high school instructors who choose works to represent the quality and diversity of their own programs. All of their selections are on view. A professional artist with no connections to Upstate high school programs then chooses award winners from among the entries. Each AUHSAE cash award is divided between the winning student and that student's high school art program. The 32nd AUHSAE juror was Janet Orselli, a multidisciplinary artist working in sculpture, site-specific installation, drawing and performance. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 9am-7pm & Fri., 9am-2pm. Contact: Laraine Wells, Administrative Assistant at 864/848-2023 or e-mail at (laraine.wells@glvtc.edu).

Work by Traci Wright Martin

ALTERNATE ART SPACES - Greenville Centre Stage Theatre Gallery, 501 River Street, Greenville. Through Apr. 1 - "The Last Train Home," featuring works by Grace Pouch. This collection of images honors the liminal, quiet time between work and home - the spaces where we catch our breath, where our minds can wander or focus, where we can recollect ourselves and remember. Apr. 19 - June 3 - "Screen Doors," featuring works by Traci Wright Martin. A reception will be held on Apr. 29, from 6:30-9pm. This series of charcoal and mixed media portraits explores the female perspective on what it means to be seen, to see the depth in others and to truly see oneself. It is a deeply personal autobiography on passage and reconstruction with a shared narrative honoring both the points of individually and purposeful connections with all women. Martin's skilled technique and her unique vision for the combination of charcoal and mixed media have earned top awards and accolades in a number of juried shows, regional and national. Her artwork is featured in private and public collections, both internationally and throughout the US. Ongoing - Featuring works by visual art members of MAC. Exhibits are offered in collaboration with the Metropolitan Arts Council. Hours: Tue.-Thur., 2-5pm & 2 hr. prior to shows. Work by Alice Ballard

Franklin G. Burroughs • Simeon B. Chapin Art Museum, 3100 South Ocean Blvd., beside Springmaid Beach, Myrtle Beach. Through Apr. 16 - "Synchronicity: Alice Ballard + Brian Rutenberg". The rich beauty and wonder of the South Carolina landscape permeate the work of ceramist Alice Ballard (b. 1945 Florence, SC) and painter Brian Rutenberg (b. 1965, Myrtle Beach, SC), who both share a deep connection with and great love of our region's natural surroundings. Synchronicity is a nod not only to this thematic tie that harmonizes their markedly different art forms, but perhaps even more so to the serendipitous connections - both geographical and philosophical - that the artists continue to discover about the paths their lives and work have taken Rutenberg remarks: "Synchronicity is when two people respond to one another from two different vantage points to make one expression. It is that personal response to nature that the viewer will come away with. We do it in very different ways: my work is 2D and filled with saturated color; Alice's is 3D with focus on value/monochromatism. We land in the same place, but in the middle, we diverge. It's that place in the middle where viewers will have the biggest takeaway with their experience." Through Apr. 2 - "Bill Scott: Where I Long To Be". American artist Bill Scott (b. 1956) of Philadelphia, PA, is an abstract painter and printmaker, whose compositions - while inspired by nature - evoke imagined spaces into which one might enter in order to temporarily escape reality. Scott's color, paint application and composition yields exquisite imagery that ignites the senses. His work compels viewers to delve into his utopian settings, which are fully realized by the sensory experience more so than by literal representation of reality. Jennifer Samet, who interviewed Scott in 2016, attests, "They feel like experiences multiplied, rather than synthesized." It is this kind of emotional and contemplative interaction with Scott's paintings and etchings that leaves the work lingering in viewer's minds. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-4pm & Sun., 1-4pm. Contact: 843/238-2510 or at (www.myrtlebeachartmuseum.org).

Newberry

Newberry Arts Center, 1200 Main Street location, Newberry. Ongoing - The Newberry Arts Center was established in 2014 and is operated by the City's Parks, Recreation and Tourism Department. In less than a year a solid arts program was established that includes programs for all ages. The mission of the Newberry Arts Center (NAC) and Newberry Arts Program is to provide quality arts experiences to all interested citizens and increase support for working artists while creating appreciative current and future art patrons by involving the diverse population and fostering local economic growth while enhancing the quality of life for all residents. The NAC also established and hosted the first ever South Carolina Clay Conference, an annual conference for clay enthusiasts held in Newberry each year. Hours: Call for hours. Contact: 803/597-1125 or at (www.NewberryArtsCenter.com).

North Augusta

North Charleston

Park Circle Gallery, formerly the Olde Village Community Building, 4820 Jenkins Avenue, in the bustling Park Circle neighborhood of North Charleston. Apr. 6 - 30 - Featuring concurrent solo exhibitions of paintings by Regina Lee (Charleston, SC) and Brenda Gilliam (St. Louis, MO). A reception will be held on Apr. 8, from 5-7pm. The acrylic paintings in Regina Lee's exhibition, "Arise", take inspiration from her original photography as well as the Bible. The artist is passionate about visually communicating both her love of nature and her faith through her expressive and bold florals and landscapes, which are characterized by detailed brushstrokes and vivid colors. "Here and There," features paintings by Brenda Gilliam. Gilliam's acrylic paintings capture simple moments in life - a subtle expression on someone's face, something noticed while on a walk, a memory. Her work utilizes layers of color, texture, pattern, composition, and line, and stylistically reflects her background in graphic design and illustration. In her exhibit, Here and There, Gilliam presents paintings that reflect the influence and inspiration drawn from the environments in St. Louis, MO, and Charleston, SC, both places the artist considers home. Ongoing - In addition to the monthly exhibitions, the "gift shop" at the North Charleston City Gallery, which features a variety of items by local artists, will also be moved to PCG. Cultural Arts will also continue to host art workshops and recurring meetings for art groups and guilds in the space once gatherings are safe to resume. Admission: Free. Hours: Tue.-Fri., 10am-6pm & Sat., noon-4pm. Contact: 843/740-5854, or at (northcharleston.org/residents/arts-and-culture/).

Orangeburg

Cecil Williams Civil Rights Museum, 1865 Lake Drive, Orangeburg. Ongoing - Established in 2019, the exquisite ultra-modern facility displays 1000 images of the Civil Rights Movement, but from the perspective of The Epochal South Carolina Events That Changed America. The massive archives comprise the largest collection of images of this type among all museums in the United States; including the Atlanta based High Museum which archives 300 images. The images were created by the founder, Cecil Williams, who began photography at age 9 and covered almost all historically significant events in South Carolina; from 1950 Briggs v. Elliot in Summerton, thru the 1969 Charleston Hospital Workers' Strike...and Beyond. From 1955 through 1969, Williams was a freelance journalist for "JET" magazine. His images have appeared in thousands of magazines, newspapers, historical publications, and motion picture productions. The museum design itself is part of the founders' DNA because; upon graduating from high school, Williams wanted to attend Clemson University to study architecture but denied because of his race. He then purchased a drafting board and through the years, designed three residences; including one featured in "EBONY", and the museum's design which has evolved into a living history facility. Hours: call ahead for hours. Contact: call 803-531-1662 or at (www.cecilwilliams.com).

Lusty Gallery, Orangeburg County Fine Arts Center, Edisto Memorial Gardens, 649 Riverside Drive, Orangeburg. Through Apr. 27 - "Creative Spirits: Works by Chris Bilton, Dianne MunKittrick and Lisa Gilyard-Rivers". A reception will be held on Mar. 9, beginning at 6pm. The conjunction of artists in this show represents three cultures: Gullah, the legacy evolved from the African diaspora; naturalism, celebrating the wilderness; and still life portraiture, perhaps a tribute to the futurism thought to have been inspired by Italian Painting. The harmony in the paintings of the three artists, nevertheless, communicate a coherence in creativity that transcends styles, themes and cultures. Ongoing - Featuring works by local artists. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 8:30am-4:30pm & Fri., 8:30am-noon. Contact: Vivian Glover at 803-606-7770 or at (<https://orangeburgarts.org/>).

Spartanburg

Throughout downtown Spartanburg's Cultural District, Ongoing - The Creative Crosswalk Project is a public art initiative in which local artists and designers design and paint a series of crosswalk murals, transforming the crosswalks into works of art, on Main Street in Spartanburg, SC. The downtown cultural district area is often bustling with events and pedestrians, and the pedestrians rely heavily on a multitude of crosswalks to safely traverse the downtown Spartanburg area. The problem is that crosswalks are incredibly easy to overlook, they are rarely visually appealing, and they can even be quite dangerous. In an effort to remedy these issues, Chapman Cultural Center, the City of Spartanburg, and the Spartanburg Area Chamber of Commerce came together to organize the Creative Crosswalk Project. For more info visit (<https://www.chapmanculturalcenter.org/pages/blog/detail/article/c0/a1555/>).

Work by Carole Knudson Tinsley

Artists Collective I Spartanburg (formerly West Main Artists Cooperative), 578 West Main St., Spartanburg. Solomon Gallery, Through Apr. 30 - "Past to Present: Retrospective: 60 Years Painting," featuring works by Carole Knudson Tinsley. A reception will be held April 21, from 6-9pm. When she was 10 years old, Carole Knudson Tinsley won a blue ribbon at the Sangamon (Illinois) County Fair for an ink drawing of a little girl. Six decades later, her artwork has developed from that "realistic" work to expressionistic to "imaginative abstraction." The exhibition relates to Tinsley's paintings from when she became a "serious painter" to the present, with examples of studies and paintings expressing her development through the years. "Interests earlier were of more realistic subjects, but later I became interested in abstracting my compositions," she says. "Many works will reflect my interest in ancient cultures, especially Native Americans characteristics of their dwellings. One will observe earlier works which were created with oils, then went to watercolors. Presently I paint with acrylics and mixed media collage." Gallery II, Through Apr. 2 - "Elemental Journeys: A Mixed Media Collection of Energy, Light, Crystals and Color, featuring works by Robyn Crawford. Crawford asks viewers to "feel the energy of each piece and travel through the elements of the Earth, starting with water and air and transitioning to fire and earth." She adds, "We are all connected to everyone and everything," says Crawford, who lives in Hendersonville with her two children. "I have always been inspired by nature, life cycles, patterns, color and music. It occurred to me that I was actually using all the elements in the creation of these works and began to intentionally work though having all the elements represented." Apr. 5 - 30 - "Clayshapers Pottery: Made with Clay," featuring works by Sally and Jim Weber. "We want visitors to the exhibition to have an appreciation of the versatility of mud from the earth," Sally Weber says. "They will see an array of colorful and whimsical pottery that will put a smile on your face and joy in your heart to witness the talent of two clay shapers." Married 37 years, the Webers have exhibited their art in numerous shows through the Southeast together and separately. Gallery III, Apr. 5 - 30 - "Images and Treasures: Portraits, Landscapes and Glass Treasures," featuring works by Mary Verrandeaux. For Spartanburg award-winning artist Mary Verrandeaux, variety is truly the spice of life - variety she will show in an exhibition of works. The exhibition will include about 20 of Verrandeaux's paintings, drawings, portraits, landscapes and fused glass art. "My art represents my ability to be creative, diverse and experimental," Verrandeaux, a native of Cortland, New York, says. "From children book illustrations to photo-realistic portraits, landscape paintings or fused glass, I am constantly experimenting and pushing my art to the next level." Ongoing - The Collective features a twenty thousand square foot facility offering affordable studio space, retail space, three galleries, a full ceramics studio, printery, and works by 50 local artists. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-4pm; with extended hours on the 3rd Thur. of each month until 9pm for Spartanburg's Art Walk. Contact: 864/804-6501 or at (artistscollectivespartanburg.org/).

Beer and wine are available for those 21+. Ongoing - Works by Carl Tait and Harold Krisel are on display. Tait was a successful painter, textile designer, and interior designer. His ties to the Spartanburg community originate from his longtime employment at Milliken and Company. Tait was born in Old Town, Maine in 1917 and graduated from the New Hampshire Institute of Arts and Science. In the late 1940s, he moved to New York City where he designed an exclusive line of ladies' handkerchiefs for the department store B. Altman, now considered vintage, collectible items. He also became associated with the American Artist Group designing Christmas cards, an occupation which he kept up throughout the majority of his artistic career. Krisel was a distinguished artist, architect, and teacher as well as a loving father and husband. Though Krisel may not be a household name among Spartanburg residents, he has made a significant artistic contribution to the Spartanburg community. Born in Brooklyn, NY in 1920, Krisel's interest in art and design started at a young age. He attended the American Artist School in New York city as a teenager where he met renowned modern artists, including Piet Mondrian, who greatly influenced his abstract style. After studying architecture at the New Bauhaus in Chicago from 1946-1949, he received his graduate degree from Illinois Institute of Technology in 1952. The following year, he began working for architectural firm Skidmore, Owings and Merrill when Roger Milliken hired them to design Milliken's new research facility in Spartanburg. Upon realizing Krisel was also a sculptor, Milliken hired him to design the spray fountain outside of the facility which functions as a recycler of air conditioning water. He then went on to design the Trident Fountain located outside of the Papadopoulos building on Wofford College's campus. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 10am-7pm & Sat, 9am-3pm. Sumter

Sumter County Gallery of Art, Sumter County Cultural Center, 135 Haynesworth St., Sumter. Through Apr. 22 - "Hands On, the South," featuring works by Micah Green. Green was born in Texas and lived much of his childhood in Mississippi. His nomadic way of life has taken him to Georgia, South Carolina and now Alabama. A graduate of Mississippi State University, Green began taking photographs while working at a short-staffed newspaper and has since become an accomplished photo-journalist working with "The New York Times", Bloomberg, Reuters and numerous regional publications including "The Sumter Item".

Through Apr. 22 - "Quiet Ground," featuring works by Wilfred Spoon. Spoon is a Mt. Pleasant, SC-based painter whose preferred medium is oils. Born in Charlotte, NC, he earned his MFA at Parsons School of design in New York in 1987. Spoon's influences include primitivism, early and pre-renaissance painters of religious icons, and Cubism whose artists explored new spatial relationships that finally broke with the Renaissance traditions of perspective. In his still lifes the division between foreground and background is not distinct and space, both interior and exterior, seems to be that of the Cubist-derived style. Artisan Center Gift Shop - Featuring art objects from local and regional artists. Hours: Tues-Sat 11-5pm & Sun., 1:30-5pm. Contact: 803/775-0543 or at (www.sumtergallery.org).

City Art, 1224 Lincoln Street, Columbia. Main Gallery, Ongoing - "Luminous Abstracts," featuring works by Patton Blackwell. Blackwell's work is deeply rooted in her experience of her surroundings, and her desire to translate this experience to the canvas. Blackwell captures the essence of atmosphere and landscape in her use of color, action, and brush stroke. Infused with beauty and passion, Blackwell's paintings embody both the tangible and the intangible. From the lush green rolling fields and dense foliage of Camden, SC, where she maintained a studio and home for over twenty years, to the streets of Rio de Janeiro during Carnival, to time spent on the Aegean Sea, Blackwell creates mosaics of swirling paint that radiate light and power, reflecting moments and spaces in time that are both active and meditative, universal and timeless. Ongoing - Featuring works by Jane Aldridge, Jim Arendt, Randolph New Armstrong, Penny Baskin, Jo Dean Bauknight, Robbie Bell, Kimberly Betchman, Tarleton Blackwell, Angela Bradburn, Betty Bramlett, Joe Byrne, Carolita Cantrell, Kathy Casey, Anne Cunningham, Bob Doster, Gerard Erley, Claire Farrell, Amy Fichter, Tim Floyd, Michael Fowler, Teri Goddard, Harriet Goode, Vanessa Grubbs, Randy Hanna, Shelley Hehenberger, Mana Hewitt, David Kessler, Jan Kransberger, Robert Lyon, Rena MacQueen, Doug McAbee, Fred McElveen, Esther Melton, Max Miller, Lee A. Work by Stephen Chesley

Stormwater Studios, 413 Pendleton Street, behind One Eared Cow Glass Gallery & Studio and Lewis + Clark Gallery, Columbia. Main Gallery, Apr. 12 - 14 - "Rites of Spring: Endurance," featuring works by the 10 resident artists, in celebration of the 30th Vista Guild's Annual Art Crawl, Artista Vista. The exhibition cast a shining light on the resilience and fortitude found within the human spirit. On Friday Apr. 22, from 5-8pm, will be the 30th Vista Guild's Annual Art Crawl, a reception + open studios. Meet the artists, ask questions and celebrate their work. On Saturday, Apr. 23, from 10am - 3pm, will be Art Day in the Vista. Experience the arts: Artist demonstrations. Try your hand at gestural sketching, inspired by dancers moving slowly through space. Learn the art of creating a mandala and much more. Enliven your Saturday with art, music, food & beverage trucks along with other family friendly activities. SVAD Studio, Apr. 4 - 29 - The School of Visual Art and Design is proud to present their BFA thesis exhibitions this Spring at the SVAD Studio at Stormwater Studios! These exhibitions feature work by graduating seniors in Graphic Design + Illustration, Printmaking, and Drawing. Apr. 4 - 8 - "Impressions of the Ordinary by Zoe Dohrmann, Jo Proctor, Zach Holtzclaw & Nancy Sexton". A reception will be held on Apr. 7, from 5-7pm. As artists, we are continually noticing beauty and meaning in the "ordinary". For example, in the images submitted, you can see an appreciation for the color, shape and pattern in a row of trashcans; the movement in a flow of tree branches; the complexity of form in backyard figs; and the distinctive forms and mannerisms of human beings. Apr. 25 - 29 - "Withered Vim by Baylee McCourt". The intention for this collection of work is to delve into the deeper parts of myself, encouraging an intimate connection between the viewer and their own inner voices. The human experience is one that cannot be defined by a singular body, as our mortality is omnipresent. My purpose as an artist is to ignite a discussion that encompasses both lightness and darkness, through the comparison between life and death. Ongoing - Resident artists include: Eileen Blyth, Stephen Chesley, Gerard Erley, Heidi Darr-Hope, Pat Gilmartin, Robert Kennedy, Sharon Licata, Michel McNinch, Kirkland Smith, and David Yaghjian. Hours: Wed.-Sat., 10am-5pm; Sun.

Virtual Exhibitions

Through Apr. 15 - "The 2022 Online Watercolor or Society of North Carolina (WSNC) Member Exhibition," can be found online at (ncwatercolor.org). Winners have been selected in the Western, Central and Eastern Divisions. The judge Donna Jill Witty, AWS/NWS/WHS/TWSA Master Status, had a difficult time choosing the winners from the 115 pictures submitted. All pictures submitted are on the website and are for sale. The WSNC is a non-profit art organization founded to encourage and recognize professional and artistic excellence through competitions and by elevating standards in watermedia. WSNC strives to promote watercolor throughout the state by hosting workshops featuring nationally recognized artists, by sponsoring juried exhibitions, and by educating all through informational programs.

Work by Pauline Dove

Ongoing - Central Piedmont's new Pauline Dove Art Gallery is featuring works by its namesake at the link (<http://blogs.cpc.edu/cpc-cartgalleries/>). Central Piedmont Community College's new Pauline Dove Art Gallery, located inside the college's new Parr Center, will display a new exhibition virtually by its namesake - Pauline Dove - that will include an eclectic array of artwork featuring energetic swirling colors and highly creative compositions. The selection of works will present the full spectrum of Dove's skills, ranging from painting, silver point, prints, ceramics, and books. Dove's new exhibition honors her late sister, Selma, and celebrates life, love, sisterhood, and the joys of making art. As a former chair of the Visual Arts Program and studio art instructor at Central Piedmont, Dove's career at the college spanned three decades. During her tenure she taught a variety of visual arts classes. As a result, her legacy thrives in the college's halls to this day. After her retirement from the College in 2001, Dove worked as a freelance artist, while also participating in Continuing Education courses in visual arts at Central Piedmont.

This exhibition places Harvey and Bess Littleton's collection into the context of their lives, as they moved around the United States, connected with other artists, and developed their own work. This exhibition—organized by the Asheville Art Museum and curated by Whitney Richardson, associate curator. Harvey K. Littleton (Corning, NY 1922–2013 Spruce Pine, NC) founded the Studio Glass Movement in the United States in 1962 when, as a teacher, he instituted a glass art program at the University of Wisconsin in Madison, the first of its kind in the United States. The Van Winkle Law Firm Gallery, Through May 23 - "Stained with Glass: Vitreograph Prints from the Studio of Harvey K. Littleton". The selection of works from the Asheville Art Museum's Collection features imagery that recreates the sensation and colors of stained glass. The exhibition showcases Littleton and the range of makers who worked with him, including Dale Chihuly, Cynthia Bringle, Thermon Statom, and more. This exhibition—organized by the Asheville Art Museum and curated by Hilary Schroeder, assistant curator. Ongoing - The Asheville Art Museum, the hub for 20th- and 21st-century American art in Western North Carolina, has re-opened to the public. The $24+ million, state-of-the-art facility encompasses 54,000 square feet and adds 70 percent more Collection gallery space. For the first time in the Museum's history, it has the capacity to host major traveling exhibitions from nationally recognized museums. The expansion increases its physical space and dramatically increases its role as a community center, educational resource, economic engine for WNC, and cultural concierge for the region's residents and visitors. Opening exhibitions include: "Appalachia Now! An Interdisciplinary Survey of Contemporary Art in Southern Appalachia," is the inaugural special exhibition of the newly renovated Museum. Curated by Jason Andrew, the juried exhibition features 50 artists of diverse backgrounds from the Southern Appalachian states of North Carolina, Georgia, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia. The exhibit provides a regional snapshot of the art of our time—a collective survey of contemporary Southern Appalachian culture. "Intersections in American Art," is the largest presentation ever drawn from the Museum's Collection of 5,000+ works and 4,000+ architectural drawings. It celebrates the unique qualities of art from Western North Carolina, placed within the context of art from across the United States. The intersections of regional and national art are highlighted throughout the galleries, as are three specific ways of understanding the works here: Time & Place; Experiments in Materials & Form; and Collaboration & Interdisciplinary Dialogue. Admission: Yes. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm; Fri. till 8pm & Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 828/253-3227 or at (www.ashevilleart.org).

The Guild's Permanent Collection is comprised of approximately 2400 craft objects and dates from the late 19th century to present. Beginning with a donation from Frances Goodrich in 1931, the Permanent Collection serves the Guild's mission of craft conservation and education. This new installation will feature over 200 works that highlight our holdings in traditional art: wood-carving, pottery, dolls, basketry, weavings and furniture. The subject of this ongoing exhibition is craft history – that of the Southern Highland Craft Guild and the Studio Craft Movement. Wells Fargo of Asheville has donated Hardy Davidson's Carvings to the SHCG's Permanent Collection. Hailing from Swannanoa, NC, woodcarver Hardy Davidson became a Guild Member in 1944 and was awarded Life membership in 1973. The Bank of Asheville commissioned these carvings sometime between 1930 and 1940, according to Hardy Davidson's great nephew, Glen Campbell. Almost eight decades later, the carvings have found a new home at the Folk Art Center on the Blue Ridge Parkway. "We are pleased to donate the wooden carvings by Hardy Davidson to the Southern Highland Craft Guild," said Neal Diqatro, District Manager for Wells Fargo in Asheville. Focus Gallery, Through May 24 - "Beautiful Mystery, featuring works by Judi Harwoods (clay), Colin Richmond (clay), Cori Saraceni (mixed media), Lyn Lyndall (leather), and Lauren Faulkenberry (paper). Blowing Rock

Blowing Rock Art and History Museum, corner of Chestnut and Main streets, downtown

Blowing Rock. Rankin West Gallery, Through July 31 - "Imminent Perils: To Wonder at Trifles in the Paintings of John Beerman". Fort Gallery, Through Apr. 16 - "Potters & Patrons: The Gorelick Collection at BRAHM". Carol Gorelick (1939-2019) began building her collection of pottery in 1970. Along with her husband Shelton (1929-2014), the Gorelicks were drawn to the medium's texture and tactility and built a substantial collection of predominantly North Carolina pottery and ceramic objects over the proceeding decades. The Gorelicks purchased what they liked, with Carol once saying, "I collect by the seat of my pants." As the couple collected, they formed long-lasting friendships with the artists from whom they purchased work. Amassing a collection representing many of the state's most prominent ceramic artists, the pair left an indelible mark on the tight knit pottery community as tireless and compassionate patrons. With works by Steve Abee, Michel Bayne, Herb Cohen, Josh Copus, Christina Córdova, Burlon Craig, Kim Ellington, Mark Hewitt, Daniel Johnston, Matt Jones, Stacy Lambert, Charles Lisk, Alex Matisse, The Owens family, A.V. Smith, and many others, the Gorelick collection serves as a testament to their fidelity to and love for the medium and to the individual makers who enliven it. Schaefer Gallery, Through May 8 - "Wildflowers: Glass Sculptures by Ronnie Hughes". Born and raised in the Blue Ridge Mountains, Ronnie Hughes' passion for working with glass came as a surprise. Despite his aptitude for fine detail, Ronnie's technique of flameworking durable borosilicate glass is largely self-taught. Initially inspired by an unexpected field of Pink Lady Slipper orchids during a hike in 1980, Hughes has devoted his studio work exclusively to wildflowers native to North Carolina ever since. His sculptures are characterized by an exacting attention to accurate flower structures and the organic forms that support and reinforce these delicate compositions. Seen here in clear glass, the artist's forms, while drawn from Nature, are almost ethereal in their ability to capture and diffuse light. Ongoing - the BRAHM will host exhibits, educational programs and classes that promote the visual arts, history and heritage of the mountains of western North Carolina. Admission: Yes. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun., noon-4pm. Contact: 828/295-9099 or at (www.blowingrockmuseum.org).

Universe as the source of inspiration, the Celestial exhibit is a series of multimedia works that explore the metaphor of creation. Dare Coulter is an award-winning artist, muralist, and sculptor. Her mission for her artwork is primarily to create positive and magical imagery of Black people and families. She hopes to have a mural on every continent within the next five years, and a series of sculptures depicting Black joy all over the world. Gallery A, Through May 7 - "To Remain Connected: Jenny Irene Miller, Raven Moffett and Shauna Caldwell, Guest Curators". By bringing together work grounded in Inuit artmaking across generations, as well as through multifaceted and evolving practices, we hope to kindle conversations around the meaningful stories that are deeply rooted in community, placemaking and engage with ongoing legacies of creation. The featured artworks were selected because of the stories they tell and the connections they visualize. Our curatorial model stems from an embrace of the collective and highlights community through thoughtful portraiture as well as collaborative, familial and multigenerational art making. To Remain Connected presents rich layers of stories told through a multitude of interwoven voices rooted in land, memory and Inuit ways of being. While Inuit are linked together through art, language, food, and more, there are many unique Inuit communities, dialects, and lifeways across lands that have been renamed Alaska, Russia, Greenland, Canada and beyond. Gallery B, Through May 7 - "In the Garden of Healing: Dara Mark". "The paintings in this exhibition were made over the five year period after my husband died. Each of them reflects my emotional state during the process of grieving and healing and describes in abstract terms an arc of personal growth. The paintings were not conceived of as therapy per se, but as the only way forward for me as an artist. The medium - watercolor on Yupo paper - and the formal issues of transparency, flow and balance, were and are a continuation of my longtime studio practice. Color is always key. For the first year I used black, white and blue exclusively, because that felt right. Two years later, diagnosed with breast cancer, I was drawn to the warm colors of the spectrum: red, pink, orange, yellow," said Mark. Hodges Gallery, Through June 4 - "The New West: An Old Story, Photographs by Joan Myers and Steve Fitch". Photographers have been reimagining the American West ever since cameras were ferried across the Mississippi River in the 1850s; photographs being the primary way people in the East could see what wonders lay in the then uncharted and mythical territories far to the West of the "Great River." According to the Native Languages of Americas website (www.native-languages.org/state-names), "Misizibii" is the native name of the river in the Ojibwe language. Since the 1860s when the first photographs of Yosemite Valley were made, photographs—both still and moving images—have been instrumental in promoting the West as an unexplored wilderness and the land of opportunity. Although unacknowledged when convenient, as it often was, the lands west of the Mississippi were traditional homelands to many First Peoples and a diverse cross-section of Hispanic peoples who moved into the land with the Spanish Friars and Conquistadors funded by the Spanish Crown long before the West was Anglicized. Community Gallery, Through June 4 - "To Be & Become: Corn Wagon Thunder". "My photographic self-portraiture is borne of a fascination with the Existential questions 'Who am I?' and 'Why am I?'. I am interested in dissecting the mode and manner of my own being. With a nod to the absurd, I use symbolism to visualize the riddle of life. Yet, with tenderness toward the mysterious edges of self-discovery. I use language to dance with the visual, to provide wayfinding but also to reinforce mystery. I focus the camera on myself as a method of examining my personal mythology and to consider how one constructs and transforms meaning in relation to existence. "To Be & Become" (Lost in the Becoming) chronicles my journey into midlife. Becoming the thing I didn't want to be - yet became, was becoming. This project began as the ten-year anniversary of my mother's death approached. I was thirty-five years old when she succumbed to cancer. As my adult life unfolds in her absence, I long intensely for her guidance and support. This work is an effort to summon her wisdom and guidance from beyond the grave and acknowledges the mysterious presence of absence." Hours: Mon.-Thur., 10am-6pm; Fri., noon-8pm; & Sat., 10am-6pm. Contact: 828/262-3017 or at (www.turchincenter.org).

ALTERNATE ART SPACES - Boone Throughout Appalachian State University campus, Boone. Through May 31 - "34th Rosen Outdoor Sculpture Competition & Exhibition". Made possible by the continued generosity of the Rosen Family: The Martin & Doris Rosen Giving Fund/Debbie Rosen Davidson and David Rosen/Charles & Nancy Rosenblatt Foundation. The "Rosen Sculpture Competition and Exhibition" is an annual national juried competition presented by An Appalachian Summer Festival and the Turchin Center for the Visual Arts. Since its establishment by Martin and Doris Rosen in 1987, the Rosen competition continues a tradition of showcasing contemporary American sculpture in outdoor settings across the campus of Appalachian State University. Hardin's work in watercolor is organic, with forms inspired by nature, experience, and imagination. The paintings are created using transparent watercolor in a traditional manner - no white or black pigment. Some works contain the additional elements of embroidery thread or watercolor pencil. Subject matter includes mandala imagery, moon influenced creation theories, circular energy and natural phases. All explore a visual language. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-10pm and Sat., 9am-6pm. Contact: 919/462-3970 or at (www.townofcary.org).

Cary Arts Center, 101 Dry Avenue, Cary. Cary Arts Center Gallery, Through Apr. 23 - "Tom Spleth: Costa Rica to Lubbock," featuring works of digital artworks. "As with all my ways of working, these pieces followed a particular path designed to produce images resulting from, in this case, digital drawings. I used an iPad and drawing apps to create works from travels to Costa Rica and reflections on my Lubbock family. Printing on aluminum plates took the images from the computer to physical form and felt in keeping with the contemporary digital environment," said Spleth. Through Apr. 23 - "Jim Wallace: Woodturning". Wallace has been turning wood and making furniture for over 40 years and teaches wood turning at Alamance Community College and the NCSU Crafts Center. His work is made from locally grown hardwood trees, many harvested from his farm in Wake Forest. Apr. 29 - May 28 - "Dawn Surratt & Sal Taylor Kydd: Two Women, one road, two thousand miles and less than a minute". A reception will be held on Apr. 29, from 6-8pm. The Touchstones Project is a visual conversation between artists Sal Taylor Kydd and Dawn Surratt exploring themes of connection, isolation, and loss as well as adaptability and creativity during a time of pandemic. Through a series of photographic diptychs and poems, the work has evolved as a call and response as they each responded to the other's work, pairing photographs and writing. The artists' will be launching a book accompanying the exhibition. Cary Arts Center Principal's Hall, Through Apr. 23 - "Jean McLaughlin: After 40 Years--A Return To Printmaking". Since retiring from an arts management career, first with the North Carolina Arts Council and then as director of Penland School of Crafts, McLaughlin has returned to her love of printmaking. Monotypes, lithographs, and woodcuts drawn from observations of nature and other favorite subjects will be on exhibition. Display Cases, Apr. 29 - May 28 - "Natacha Villamia Sochat: I Create Retablos," featuring works in mixed media. A reception will be held on Apr. 29, from 6-8pm. A retablo is a frame or shelf enclosing revered objects above and behind an altar. The Merriam Webster dictionary states: "A votive offering made in the form of a religious picture typically portraying Christian saints, painted on a panel, and hung in a church or chapel especially in Spain and Mexico." "As a child I was exposed to the displaying of personal altars of worship in many homes that I visited. For me it was a normal part of life to see these niches of importance and reverence. These altars housed images of loved ones as well as objects of sentimental value as a respectful offering. As an adult, I realized that beyond my Latino culture, there are many iterations of this practice across many other cultures as well, in one form or another. I create Retablos that are hung on the wall as an appropriation of this personal practice for ideas or sentiments that are valuable to me as a human being, woman, mother, child, wife, artist, and healer." Hours: Mon.-Thur., 9am-10pm & Fri.-Sat., 9am-11pm. Contact: 919/469-4069 or at (www.townofcary.org).

Herbert Young Community Center, 101 Wilkenson Avenue, Cary. Through Apr. 1 - "Zeynep Guvenc: Magical Colors Dancing on Water," featuring water marbling on paper. Guvenc is a wearable art designer. She holds an MA degree in History from Istanbul University, Turkey. She lives in North Carolina with her husband and her two children. She lived in Miami and San Francisco Bay Area for ten years before moving to North Carolina. Zeynep research extensively about the problems and challenges of youth, homeless people, religion, and different cultures and she has published her novel "Homeless". Since moving to North Carolina, Zeynep has developed interest in water marbling. Her passion is to create unique, original, authentic, and one-of-a-kind art each time through water marbling. Apr. 6 - June 3 - "Charu Nagi: Harmonious Deviation," featuring works in watercolor. Watercolor Inspired from nature-based photography, my work is a collection of different aspects of creation occurring in nature. Every painting is different from each other so there is deviation but is in harmony as they are all part of the same nature. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-10pm; and Sat., 9am-6pm. Contact: 919/4604965 or (www.townofcary.org).

Page-Walker Arts & History Center, 119 Ambassador Loop, Cary. Through May 7 - "ARTQUILT Semerge Professional Art Quilters Association - South". A reception will be held on Mar. 25, from 6-8pm. During the past few years, much of life has been tamped down - shrouded by pandemic and blown off course by shifting economics. Now it is time to emerge, to move away from the restrictions we have endured, and to realize what has become paramount in our lives. Members of the Professional Art Quilters Alliance - South are proud to offer their works of fiber art expressing what "emerge" means to them. What becomes important? What can be left behind? What does the future look like? Hours: Mon.-Thur., 10am-9:30pm; Fri., 10am-5pm; & Sat., 10am-1pm. (It is strongly advised that you call ahead about hours.) Contact: 919/460-4963.

Town Hall Gallery, City of Cary Town Hall, 316 North Academy Street, Cary. Through Apr. 1 - "Beth R. Page Golemo: Engaged Impressions," featuring photographs. Photography emulating the old-world painting masters through the lens. Composing moods and impressions for a timeless portrait. Apr. 6 - June 3 - "Barbara Rizza Mellin: A Joy Forever," featuring works in watercolor and ink. Asian Brush Painting is the simple elegance of the natural subjects, plus the real and apparent spontaneity of the process. Less is more. A few strokes can capture the beauty of a blossom or the fragility of a falling leaf. Mellin creates each image at one sitting, with no preliminary drawing and very little overpainting or modification. The idea is to capture the natural essence of the image rather than a detailed botanical copy. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 8am-5pm. Contact: 919/469-4061.

Chapel Hill - Carrboro

Ackland Art Museum, UNC - Chapel Hill, Columbia & Franklin Streets, Chapel Hill. Through Apr. 3 - "Peace, Power & Prestige: Metal Arts in Africa". The exhibition explores the roles of metal objects in sustaining, unifying, and enhancing life in African communities while demonstrating the aesthetic and expressive power of metal arts. For millennia, African metalsmiths have drawn upon the inherent power and beauty of metal to create dazzling and enduring objects, including body adornment and currency items, for proclaiming wealth and social status; staffs, scepters, weaponry, and other regalia as emblems of leadership and authority; and amulets and sacred objects used in spiritual mediation and healing. The exhibition of over 140 pieces includes a diverse range of iron, brass, bronze, gold, copper, silver, and alloyed works created by artists in Sub-Saharan Africa between the twelfth and twenty-first centuries. Through Apr. 17 - "Focus on the Peck Collection: Idle Sleep". Artists have depicted the theme of sleep for centuries. The meaning of such images can be numerous depending on who sleeps, where and how they sleep, and their reasons for doing so. Using a drawing attributed to seventeenth-century Dutch artist Jacob Duck of a slumbering youth as inspiration, this Focus on the Peck Collection installation explores the ways in which artists have assigned moral judgments to people who have fallen asleep unintentionally. Ranging in date from the fifteenth to the nineteenth century, these works warn against sleep obtained through idleness and laziness, illustrating how slumbering without earning it can have detrimental effects. Through July 3 - "Ghost of a Dream: Aligned by the Sun (through the revolution)". In a time of travel bans, immigration debates, climate change, and a global pandemic, the artist team Ghost of a Dream has created their multi-faceted project Aligned by the Sun in an effort to bring hope to our collective experience and unify our fractured planet. To assemble the footage necessary for this endeavor, Ghost of a Dream has collaborated with artists in over 220 nations by asking them to capture a short video of the sunset. All but seven of the 195 countries recognized by the United Nations, as well as many non-UN nations and territories, are represented by these videos. These videos provide the source material for many iterations of the project, including large installations, video collages, and still-image composites. Through July 25 - "Ancestral Altar Ram Heads from the Collection of Rhonda Morgan Wilkerson, PhD". This fifth installment of the Ackland's ongoing series of presentations featuring important works of art from the distinguished collection of Rhonda Morgan Wilkerson, PhD, showcases three ram heads carved for ancestral altars in the cultures of what is now south-central Nigeria. Formally inventive and stylistically diverse, these powerful heads would have been the focus of honoring and commemorating paternal ancestors within a chief's shrine. Museum Store Gallery (Franklin and Columbia Street), Store hours: Mon.-Sat., 10am-5:30pm & Sun., noon-5pm. Museum Hours: Wed.-Sat., 1-5pm. Contact: 919/966-5736 or at (www.ackland.org).

Charlotte Area

Bechtler Museum of Modern Art, Levine Center for the Arts, 420 South Tryon St., Charlotte. Fourth-Floor Gallery, Apr. 2 - June 19 - "Annemarie Schwarzenbach: Departure Without Destination". The exhibition is presented in collaboration with Zentrum Paul Klee in Bern, Switzerland, is the first major retrospective dedicated to the photography of this Swiss writer, photographer, and journalist Annemarie Schwarzenbach (1908-1942). Ongoing - The Bechtler Museum of Modern Art is named after the family of Andreas Bechtler, a Charlotte resident and native of Switzerland who assembled and inherited a collection of more than 1,400 artworks created by major figures of 20th-century modernism and donated it to the public trust. The Bechtler collection comprises artworks by seminal figures such as Alberto Giacometti, Joan Miro, Jean Tinguely, Max Ernst, Andy Warhol, Alexander Calder, Le Corbusier, Sol LeWitt, Edgar Degas, Nicolas de Stael, Barbara Hepworth and Picasso. Only a handful of the artworks in the Bechtler collection have been on public view in the United States. Admission: Yes. Hours: Mon., Wed.-Sat., 10am-5pm; Sun. noon-5pm; and open until 9pm the 1st. and 3rd. Fri. of each month. Contact: 704/353-9200 or at (www.bechtler.org).

Bill and Patty Gorelick Gallery at Central Piedmont Community College's Cato Campus, Cato III, 8120 Grier Road, Charlotte. Through June 30 - "Perceptions," featuring works by Samuel Spees. Perfect: (adj) having all the required or desirable elements, qualities, or characteristics; as good as it is possible to be. Absolute. (v) make (something) completely free from faults or defects, or as close to such a condition as possible. Spees' pursuit of perfection is the foundation of his inspiration as an artist and why he is drawn to glass as a process. "Each of us renders the world through a distinctive lens. This observation is biased in many ways pertaining to memories and experiences, in addition to our own emotional construct. This body of work is evidence of how

I decipher the beautifully perfect world around me. It is shaped with pieces of glass both found and purposely made that have been previously pulled, pinched, and cut. When melted together, they seamlessly flow throughout the body creating a colorful vignette of time and memory. These landscapes of pigment yield a much deeper understanding of my perception, helping to explore distortion in pattern together with my emotional connection to color in our natural world," says Spees. Through Dec. 9 - "School Lunch," featuring works by Lisa Weinblatt. "The School Lunch series is a visual essay of contemporary student life in real educational settings. Contemporary, cross-cultural issues and their emotional attitudes are explored in the shared lunch experience. School Lunch is generated from direct observation, drawing on location in the lunchrooms of high schools, universities and colleges of Queens, New York. Visual images have the power to transform and enlarge our perceptions, as well as, confirm identity and validate experience. "The School Lunch paintings seek to promote discussion and understanding of one another, while encouraging tolerance and acceptance. Each individual in my paintings, drawn in the moment, is an actual person. School Lunch underlines perceptions which affirm cultural identity, brings together ideas espousing contemporary social justice, gender and political concerns while encouraging a belief in the quality of human spirit. My objectives include continuing to forge a bridge connecting a multi-cultural society with achievement; through cooperation and tolerance," says Weinblatt. Work by Paul Hastings

Bill and Patty Gorelick Gallery at Central Piedmont Community College's Central Campus, North Classroom, 1320 Sam Ryburn Walk, Charlotte. Through June 16 - "The Escape Artist," featuring works by Paul Hastings. Hastings is an artist who easily segues from landscapes to still life to surrealism in his chosen medium, oil painting. Blatantly versatile, his landscapes feature bright, intense color bordering on the surreal with an emphasis on amplified perspective. His paintings offer a brief escape from reality — a magical, if only momentary visual journey into the mystic, thus his self-proclaimed title, "The Escape Artist." His artistic quest is to capture a specific moment in time on each canvas. Enhancing the subtleties of light and shadows in cloud formations against an artfully blended sky has become a trademark of Hastings's work. Accompanying his hyper-realistic works is a body of surrealistic paintings that combine his mastery of realism and his unbounded creativity to couple seemingly disparate elements of the natural world into cohesive and plausible flights of fancy. Fish fly, animals change their spots and earn their stripes, and landscapes are transformed into intensely colorful showcases for these adventures on canvas. Hours: open while campus is open, but reservation help help us alert our security team to visitors, provide directions to the galleries, and COVID-19 security protocol instructions to the visitors. Bill and Patty Gorelick Gallery at Central Piedmont Community College's Harper Campus, Harper IV, 315 W. Hebron St., Charlotte. Through Dec. 9 - "Everyday Poems," featuring works by Tim Bowman. Photographer Tim Bowman "collects" urban landscapes and arranges the city's architectural shapes and textures to create formal compositions while simultaneously recording the histories of use and reuse evident on the building exteriors. "We assume that cities are hard and immutable, but this is not true. They adapt to meet new requirements as the needs of their inhabitants change. The Winston-Salem Project is a record of that change, watching as our city continues its transformation from manufacturing and tobacco town into the City of Arts and Innovation," says Bowman. Through Dec. 9 - "The Sculptures of Kevin O'Toole". "Over the past 35 years I have developed an increasingly spare vocabulary of forms. At one time more organic, my pieces have gradually become more geometric through the influence of both process and choice of material. Wood was initially a choice of convenience, a permanent material, readily available and easily worked with common tools. Although I have never considered myself a "woodworker," I now rarely think in terms of another material. Although formal and abstract in design, my pieces are intended to be appreciated on a more intimate level as objects we encounter on a very human scale, said O'Toole. Hours: open while campus is open, but reservation help help us alert our security team to visitors, provide directions to the galleries, and COVID-19 security protocol instructions to the visitors. Work by Ellen Lee Klein, photo by Darnell Vennie

Bill and Patty Gorelick Gallery at Central Piedmont Community College's Harris Campus, Harris II, 3210 CPCC Harris Campus Drive, Charlotte. Through Dec. 9 - "Unpacked, The Works of Ellen Lee Klein". "Stretching the formal elements, I structure my own dynamic philosophical microcosm. My works reflect the marriage of my internal and external worlds and their influence upon each other as they and my life evolve through time and experience. The works reflect my tongue-in-cheek responses to contemporary life. The merging of my training and the processes involved in the making of each and every work combined express and inspire their structure and form. I remain faithful to the essence of what has continued to fascinate and drive me through the years — the searching yet delusive lines, color resonance, spatial ambiguity, and layers of delicious pigment along with the unmistakable clutter and vestiges of contemporary life. The works reflect the profound noise and ambiguity, as well as the transitioning and turbulence of the human condition," said Klein. Klein was born, raised, and educated in New York City, earning a BA from City College of New York and an MFA from Pratt Institute. Her long career in visual arts has included work as a teacher, arts administrator, art critic and writer, as well as numerous group and solo exhibitions in New York galleries and campuses. Through Dec. 9 - "Glasscapes, Nature-Inspired Blown Glass," featuring works by Thomas Spake. "This exhibition is a tribute to the places that I hold dear, from my travels in the past and from the adventures yet to come. Our planet is changing, the seas are rising, the ice caps are melting, wildfires are ravaging our forests. My hope is that there is still time. I work with hot glass. I strive to create patterns and textures that mimic the natural world, stone, water, earth. I create these patterns by layering and fusing glass chips and powders to the surface of the glass. Heavily influenced by impressionistic painters Monet, Klimt, and Van Gogh and their mixture of color and patterns, this style of work aims to express the idea of a landscape as opposed to creating a representation. The simple flattened forms create a canvas, a front and a back, where I can fully express my intentions. In the final phase of creation, I carve into the sandblasted, opaque exterior to reveal the translucent glass just beneath the surface. All of these techniques come together to give the pieces a raw complexity, conjuring explorations of our memories," said Spake. Hours: open while campus is open, but reservation help help us alert our security team to visitors, provide directions to the galleries, and COVID-19 security protocol instructions to the visitors. Bill and Patty Gorelick Gallery at Central Piedmont Community College's Levine Campus, Levine II, 2800 Campus Ridge Road, Matthews. Through Dec. 9 - "Ceramic Art," featuring works by Ju-lan Shen. A native of Taiwan, Shen came to North Carolina for graduate study in landscape architecture at NC State's College of Design. She took up pottery as a hobby in the early 2000's after attending the National Council on Education for the Ceramic Arts annual conference and exhibitions in Charlotte. After 30-plus years as a landscape architect, Ju-lan, now retired, continues to learn and make art. "Sculpting, drawing, and painting on clay pots is my way of journaling; I jot down what I hear, what I see, what I think, or what my brain was doing at that moment. I enjoy the contemplation of the experiences in my environment and I like this form of visual reflection. The late artist, Jean Dubuffet, said it best about art: '... Art must make you laugh a little and make you a little afraid. Anything as long as it doesn't bore.' And I intend to do just that," says Shen. Through Dec. 9 - "School Lunch," featuring works by Lisa Weinblatt. "The School Lunch series is a visual essay of contemporary student life in real educational settings. Contemporary, cross-cultural issues and their emotional attitudes are explored in the shared lunch experience. School Lunch is generated from direct observation, drawing on location in the lunchrooms of high schools, universities and colleges of Queens, New York. Bill and Patty Gorelick Gallery at Central Piedmont Community College's Merancas Campus, Merancas IV, 1930 Verhoeff Dr., Huntersville. Through June 16 - "Nature Reimagined," featuring works by Ann Prock. Prock fell in love with clay in 2003, beginning with the wheel and evolving to hand-built sculptural forms. Inspired by the beauty she finds in nature, she hand-builds the forms, creating each piece with the shape and gentle movement she has envisioned. Prock focuses on colors, shapes, and textures found in the living sea, the woodlands, and rock formations. She combines her imagination of those natural forms with multiple glazes, underglazes, stains, and textures. Many of her works are brushed with at least 10 glazes or underglazes in order to give them unique colors and textures that capture the viewer's eye and invite them to touch the piece. Through June 16 - "Frieze," featuring works by Tom Stanley. Stanley's series are often hung as a frieze even as he works on groups of paintings. Size, imagery, color, and format for each series is distinct and help to create a visual theme within the group of related works. His series include six to eight works of acrylic on canvas. Drawing with paint, Stanley uses common graphic strategies, such as mechanical drawing, silhouette, and sgraffito to make something he has never seen before. His works are a conversation between hands and eyes. Hours: open while campus is open, but reservation help help us alert our security team to visitors, provide directions to the galleries, and COVID-19 security protocol instructions to the visitors. Work by Fletcher Williams III

Harvey B. Gantt Center for African-American Arts & Culture, Levine Center for the Arts, 551 S. Tryon St., Charlotte. Through Apr. 24 - "Visible Man: Art and Black Male Subjectivity," curated by Michael D. Harris, PhD. The exhibition offers a creative look at the complexity of African-American males through cultural, racialized, and personal lenses. For two centuries, African-American masculinity has been demonized or challenged visually in art and popular culture. Physical differences were turned into symbols of deviation or inferiority or a lack of civility, and the social position of African-American males was distorted into icons of inferiority. Through May 29 - "South Arts 2021 Southern Prize & State Fellows Exhibition," curated by Wim Roefs. This exhibition presents the nine 2021 fellowship recipients of the South Arts Southern Prize & State Fellows project, which launched in 2017. The artists and State Fellows hail from the South Arts region - Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Tennessee. The artistry on display is a testament to the strength of art in the south, presenting diverse themes, visions, and styles. Through June 26 - "FuturePresent: Acquisition Highlights from the Permanent Collection," organized by the Harvey B. Gantt Center. Since the organization's inception in 1974, the Gantt Center has primarily built its collection from works gifted to the institution. Over the decades, John and Vivian Hewitt collected paintings, prints, and drawings from artists near and far. And in 1998, Bank of America acquired the collection from the Hewitts and pledged it to the then-named Afro-American Cultural Center. Ongoing - Featuring selections from the John & Vivian Hewitt Collection of African-American Art, one of the nation's most important and comprehensive collections of African-American art. Hours: Thur. - Sat., noon-6pm & Sun., noon-6pm. Extended hours from noon-8pm on Fridays, Oct. 2, Nov. 6 & Dec. 4. Contact: 704/547-3700 or at (www.ganttcenter.org).

Admission: Yes. Free on Sat. Parking: next door in Seventh Street Station. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun., noon-5pm. Contact: 704/333-1887 or at (www.museumofthenewsouth.org).

Mint Museum Randolph, 2730 Randolph Road, Charlotte. Through May 1 - "The World of Anna Sui," presenting 100 looks from the iconic designer's archive with a roll call of 12 archetypes that capture the Sui aesthetic. No other fashion designer captures the zeitgeist of a historic period, place, or artistic movement in such a timeless yet contemporary look as Anna Sui. She does so by designing the entire look - from dress to accessories, hair styles to makeup, and even sound and scent. Bridges and Levine Galleries, Ongoing - "Contemporary British Studio Ceramics: The Grainer Collection". Focused on the collection of Diane and Marc Grainer, this installation is a survey of contemporary British studio ceramics. Comprising functional and sculptural objects made between the 1980s and today, the show features work by artists either born or residing in Great Britain, including established "contemporary classics" like Gordon Baldwin and Rupert Spira, and cutting-edge ceramicists such as Julian Stair and Kate Malone. Several recently-gifted works from the Grainers are included. Alexander, Spangler, and Harris Galleries, Ongoing - "Portals to the Past: British Ceramics 1675 - 1825". The Mint Museum's collection of eighteenth-century British pottery and porcelain is widely respected for its scope and quality. The collection numbers over 2,000 objects and includes important examples of both salt-glazed and dry-bodied stoneware from Staffordshire; tin-glazed earthenware from Bristol, Liverpool, and London; and cream-colored earthenware from Derbyshire, Staffordshire, and Yorkshire. Notable eighteenth-century porcelain factories represented include Chelsea, Bow, and Vauxhall in London, Longton Hall in Staffordshire, Worcester, Bristol, and others. Individual works in the collection are exceptional because of their rarity, craftsmanship, provenance, or as representative examples of particular types or methods of production or decoration. Ongoing - "American Glass". The nineteenth and early twentieth centuries represented a time of extraordinary growth for the American glass industry. Such companies as Boston & Sandwich Glass Company in Sandwich, MA; Steuben Glass Works in Corning, NY; and Libbey Glass Company in Toledo, OH, began operation and soon developed notable reputations for producing fashionable wares that were coveted by many middle- and upper-class consumers. "American Glass" showcases objects by these and other American glass companies, illustrating the variety of forms and styles that prevailed during this period. Glass-manufacturing techniques will be another focus of the exhibition, with representative examples of pressed, cut, blown, and molded glass. Nearly all of the works on view are from The Mint Museum's permanent collection of glass, which is second in size only to the ceramics collection in the museum's Decorative Arts holdings. Ongoing - "Arts of Africa". The African continent is remarkable in its geographic, social, political, and cultural diversity. This impressive diversity is reflected in the visual arts through a variety of media and forms including ceramics, masks, textiles, sculptures, prestige staffs, and shrines. With exceptional loans from private collectors and The Mint Museum's own collection of African Art, the museum is pleased to announce the expansion of its presentation of Arts of Africa, thereby providing visitors a more in-depth, meaningful, and exciting overview of African art. Heritage Gallery, Ongoing - Feature works of art, archival documents, and photographs documenting the growth and evolution of the museum, from its beginnings as the original branch of the US Mint to its founding as an art museum to the present and beyond. Ongoing - "Art for the Millions: WPA Prints" and "Carolina Clay," featuring a display of colorful wares made between 1920 and 1950 as potters from NC adapted their works to a market economy. "Art of the United States," featuring contemporary works from the Mint's permanent collection, including works by Romare Bearden, Maud Gatewood, John Biggers Juan Logan, Tarlton Blackwell, Radcliffe Bailey, Kojo Griffin, and others. "Art in the Americas," featuring paintings, precious metalwork, sculpture, furniture and decorative arts from the 17th through the 19th centuries illustrate the unique culture that emerged from the Spanish colonization of the Americas. Crosland Gallery - Featuring a presentation of portraits with many fascinating images presented. Rankin Gallery - Featuring a presentation of the Romare Bearden Collection, including two "new" Beardens. Delhom Gallery, Ongoing - The European Collection of ceramic works. Admission: Yes. Hours: Wed., 11am-9pm (free admission 5-9pm); Thur.-Sat., 11am-6pm; & Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 704/337-2000 or at (www.mintmuseum.org).

The Young Affiliates of the Mint, in collaboration with The Mint Museum, presents "Coined in the South: 2022". This juried exhibition, highlights artists from across the Southeast. Jurors selecting artists from this exhibition include: Hallie Ringle, Curator of Contemporary Art, Birmingham Museum of Art; Lydia Thompson, Mixed-Media Sculptor and Professor of Art, Art & History Department, UNC Charlotte; and Ken West, Photographer, Digital Experience Designer & Winner of the Inaugural "Coined in the South People's Choice Award". Through Mar. 2023 - "Rendezvous With Rothko". For the first time in its 85-year history, The Mint Museum has not one, but two, Mark Rothko paintings on view. Through a long-term loan with the National Gallery of Art in Washington, DC, two paintings by the Abstract Expressionist painter Mark Rothko are on view in the Modern Contemporary galleries at Mint Museum Uptown. The two works - "No. 17 [or] No. 15" and "Untitled 1951" - are the only paintings by Rothko currently on view in North Carolina. Craft + Design Galleries, Ongoing - "Craft in the Laboratory: The Science of Making Things," is the first installation in the Southeast to explore how craft artists and designers use science and math concepts when creating works of art. Presented by Müller Corporation, Craft in the Laboratory also celebrates a reinstatement of the Mint's Craft + Design Galleries—the first since 2010. Co-curated by the Mint's Senior Curator of Craft, Design, and Fashion Annie Carlano and Assistant Curator for Craft, Design, and Fashion Rebecca Elliot, "Craft in the Laboratory" includes 100 works from the Mint's collection that are made from precious metals, wood, steel, polymers, and even agricultural waste, that emphasize the preciseness of science used to craft works of art. Made by nationally and internationally renowned artists, the objects are organized by material and subject throughout the galleries. Gorelick Galleries on Level 3, Through June 5 - "Continuing Conversations," is designed to include works of art that spark conversation about relevant cultural happenings. The gallery is divided into a project space with a thematic installation and a new works space that includes recent acquisitions, items on loan, or objects rarely seen in the Mint's collection. Now - The Mint Museum's new four-story installation "Foragers" offers a transcendent experience while celebrating the tradition of women as makers and providers. Unlike anything ever seen at The Mint Museum before, Brooklyn-based artist Summer Wheat's "Foragers" is a monumental piece of public work of art spanning 96 windows, four stories, and 3,720 square feet at Mint Museum Uptown's Robert Haywood Morrison Atrium. The myriad of vibrant panels that give the illusion of stained glass and celebrates the tradition of women as makers and providers. "Foragers" is part of a larger exhibition "In Vivid Color," which brings together four innovative contemporary artists—Wheat, Gisela Colon, Spencer Finch, and Jennifer Steinkamp—who create works celebrating the power of color and its ability to permeate the space around us. Their work is juxtaposed with a selection of paintings and works on paper, drawn primarily from The Mint Museum's permanent collection, which showcase artists' more traditional exploration of color. Ongoing - The Mint Museum Uptown houses the world renowned collections of the Mint Museum of Craft + Design, as well as the American Art and Contemporary Art collections and selected works from the European Art collection. The building also includes a café, a Family Gallery, painting and ceramics studios, classrooms, a 240-seat auditorium, a Special Events Pavilion with outdoor terrace, and an expanded Museum Shop specializing in crafts of the Carolinas. Admission: Yes. Hours: Wed., 11am-9pm (free admission 5-9pm); Thur.-Sat., 11am-6pm; & Sun., 1-5pm. Now Fri. till 9pm. Contact: 704/337-2000 or at (www.mintmuseum.org).

The Nasher Museum of Art, Duke University Central Campus, 2001 Campus Drive, Durham. Through July 10 - "Reckoning and Resilience: North Carolina Arts Now," brings together 30 emerging and established artists working across the state. This group survey, featuring approximately 100 works, presents an expansive view of contemporary art in North Carolina both in terms of regional geography and artistic approaches. Through May 8 - "In Relation to Power: Politically Engaged Works from the Collection." The last decade has been one of the most politically divisive in recent memory. The rise of cable television and the twenty-four-hour news cycle in the 1980s, followed by the ubiquitous spread of information (and misinformation) online and through social media in the subsequent decades, has led to a fevered pitch of political rhetoric in recent years. Ongoing - The Collection Galleries feature rotating installations of the Nasher Museum's extensive holdings of historical art. Eight galleries, as well as the entrance to Wilson Pavilion, are dedicated to the museum's strengths, which represent a brief history of human creativity from different times and parts of the world. Just beyond the entrance, visitors will find the Incubator, a flexible space for rotating student- and faculty-curated exhibitions. Visitors are invited to return again and again to The Collection Galleries, where Nasher curators continue to refresh the galleries with gems from the collection. The museum's contemporary collection is showcased through rotating exhibitions within a separate pavilion. Works from the contemporary collection create new conversations and connections among historical works in The Collection Galleries. A breakthrough work by New York artist Fred Wilson from 1990, Colonial Collection, anchors the Arts of Africa Gallery. A painting by Kehinde Wiley is on view in the European Art Gallery. Ongoing - Nasher Museum Café and Museum Shop. Admission: Yes, but free to Durham residents, courtesy of "The Herald-Sun" newspaper. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm; Thur. till 9pm; & Sun., noon-5pm. Contact: 919/684-5135 or at (www.nasher.duke.edu).

Weatherspoon Art Museum, University of North Carolina - Greensboro, Cone Building, Tate and Spring Garden Streets, Greensboro. Through Apr. 30 - "Lorraine O'Grady: Both/And," featuring the first comprehensive retrospective of pioneering conceptual artist Lorraine O'Grady, was organized by the Brooklynn Museum. "Lorraine O'Grady: Both/And" spans four decades of the artist's career and features nearly all the artist's major projects, including the "Mlle Bourgeoise Noire" trilogy, "Rivers, First Draft", and "Body Is the Ground of My Experience", plus a wide selection of archival materials on view for the first time. The exhibition also features the critically acclaimed new body of work titled "Announcement of a New Persona" (Performances to Come!). The exhibition is the first comprehensive overview of the work of Lorraine O'Grady (b. Boston, 1934), one of the most significant figures in contemporary performance, conceptual, and feminist art. The Louise D. and Herbert S. Falk, Sr. Galleries, Through Apr. 2 - "Make My Presence Known". As humans, we are subject to the perception of others at any moment. And yet, what they see—our physical, outward appearance—is not synonymous with our identity. We are more than our faces, our bodies, and the clothes we wear. We are the sum of our lived experience. The artists whose work is exhibited in "Make My Presence Known" challenge notions of identity as visible by using sculptures that both interrogate and celebrate the unseen self. Artists Magdalena Abakanowicz, Nick Cave, and Alison Saar are each represented in the show by a single, dynamic figurative sculpture. Working from deeply personal perspectives, the artists employ everyday objects and materials recognizable to many. With wood, beads, canvas, bottles, and even ceramic bird figurines, their artworks collectively underscore the complexity and diversity of lived experience. We invite you to make your presence known in the gallery by engaging with these sculptures and finding your points of intersection with the stories they offer and the content they engage. This exhibition is curated by Angelica Henry '22, with support from Dr. Emily Stamey, curator and head of exhibitions. Apr. 16 - May 15 - "2022 UNC MFAThesis Exhibition," organized by Dr. Emily Stamey, curator and head of exhibitions. This exhibition features new work by MFA students in the UNC Greensboro School of Art. Reflecting on various studio areas, their work represents the culmination of each student's unique University experience. The exhibition demonstrates the research, reflection, experimentation, critical thinking, and artistic skills honed by these artists while in the program. 1st Floor: Weatherspoon Atrium Mural, Ongoing - "Pause and Breathe, We Got This," a mural by Sheena Rose. A homecoming is in the works. The Weatherspoon is excited to announce its commission of a major new artwork by artist Sheena Rose, MFA '16. A multidisciplinary artist working in animation, drawing, painting, and performance, Rose's vibrant and energetic work is at once anchored in her Caribbean heritage and expansive in its explorations of culture and human experience. Lobbies - Featuring works of art complementing current gallery exhibitions which are rotated in the atrium and public areas throughout both floors of the gallery. Tom Otterness' site-specific work, "The Frieze" is permanently installed in the atrium. Sculpture Courtyard - Featuring selections of American sculpture from 1900 to the present from the Weatherspoon Collection and on loan works from contemporary artists. Piedmont Ave in the Kings Mountain Art Center, Kings Mountain. Through Apr. 22 - "I Am Woman Art Competition and Exhibit". Artists from around the region have entered over sixty works of art dedicated to the feminine or the essence of being a woman. Artists have created works in oil, acrylic, watercolor, photography, sculpture, fiber and mixed media to interpret their view of "I Am Woman". Many pieces in this year's show reflect both the strength and the serenity that women exude over the course of their lives, in good times and bad. Women are shown as the mother figure – hardworking and resilient throughout all the trials and pain that life brings. And some pieces show that women are still girls who just want to have fun. Artwork in this exhibit will be judged with prizes awarded for first, second and third place prizes along with three merit awards. Judging this year's show is Susan Carlisle Bell, former Professor of Art at Gardner Webb University. Ongoing - Exhibits, gift shop & classes. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-2pm and by appt. Gregg Museum of Art & Design, The Historic Chancellor's Residence, NC State University, located at 1903 Hillsborough Street, Raleigh. Apr. 14 - Dec. 3 - "Reic Serritella: Trompe l'Oeil Ceramics". Chapel Hill artist Eric Serritella creates his ceramic sculptures as conduits to emotion through inquiry, recognition, and familiarity. Through aging and decay, Serritella's sculptures challenge the viewer with both the nature of the material and the messages within. Each organic creation is filled with metaphor, both literal and implied. Anthropomorphic elements and vessel forms link humanity as timelessly inseparable from its interactions and relationships to its natural surroundings. Each sculpture in Eric Serritella-Trompe l'Oeil Ceramics fosters awareness to affect viewers' behaviors toward the environment. Through this consciousness they can acquire new appreciations and ways of seeing. Through Aug. 20 - "Frank Lee Craig: Near Distance". Of the many forms of visual art that have emerged in the last two centuries, collage and its three-dimensional sibling, assemblage, probably come closest to representing the process of human memory. Most of us summon up the past only in scattered bits and pieces that require instantaneous reassembly in order to literally "make sense" of recollected experiences each time we need to remember something. Every memory is a new collage of ephemeral thoughts, feelings, and impressions. "Frank Lee Craig-Near Distance" features multimedia work, collages, paintings, and sculptures by the late architect and NC State College of Design Graduate, Frank Lee Craig (B. Arch '77). The bulk of the very substantial body of work we celebrate in this exhibition parallels his efforts to make sense of the mortal circumstance he suddenly confronted when diagnosed with a fatal illness, as well as his need to keep seeing the world through the lens of endless opportunities and possibilities. The exhibition was co-curated by Dr. Margret Kentgens-Craig and Roger Manley. Through Nov. 12 - "Across the Threshold of India: Photographs by Martha Strawn," features photographs that make up a work of visual ecology that perceptively portrays one of India's and the world's longest and least-known religious practices—the art of sanctifying space through the creation of threshold diagrams. Objects from the Gregg Museum's permanent collection will also accompany the photographs. Many of Strawn's photographs are in the permanent collection of the Indira Gandhi National Centre for the Arts, the nation's foremost research center for Indian culture and art, and are featured in her book, "Across the Threshold of India: Art, Women, and Culture". Ongoing - One of NC State University's most historic buildings is now the permanent home of the Gregg Museum of Art & Design. The Historic Chancellor's Residence, located at 1903 Hillsborough Street, along with a 15,000 sq. ft. addition, increases the museum's visibility while significantly adding to its exhibition and programming space. Hours: The Gregg Museum is suspending the need for timed entry reservations. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm. The Gregg does ask that larger groups (15+) call ahead at (919) 515-3503, to avoid crowding in the galleries. Contact: Zoe Starling, Curator of Education at 919/513-7244 or at (<https://gregg.arts.ncsu.edu/>).

Burk Uzzle, "Desert Prada", 2006, archival pigment print, 20 x 24 in., Gift of the artist in honor of Lawrence J. Wheeler

North Carolina Museum of Art, 2110 Blue Ridge Road, Raleigh. Through May 15 - "Container/Contained: Phil Freelon Design Strategies for Telling African American Stories". Exhibition highlights the career of the storied NC architect who designed the National Museum of African American History and Culture in DC. The exhibition celebrates the accomplished North Carolina architect Philip G. Freelon (1953–2019) and his remarkable career of over four decades designing public buildings with his firm, The Freelon Group, and later as design director of Perkins&Will North Carolina. "We're honored to help tell the story of Phil Freelon and his incredible accomplishments. The symbolism and metaphors in the buildings he designed celebrate Black communities and histories in a lasting way," said Museum Director Valerie Hillings. "Freelon served on the North Carolina Museum of Art Foundation Board from 2008 to 2012, so we are especially pleased to present this exhibition focused on his groundbreaking career." This exhibition, organized by a team of faculty and students led by Dr. Emily Makas from the School of Architecture at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte, debuted at the Harvey B. Gantt Center for African American Arts and Culture in Charlotte, NC. It examines Freelon's work, which includes museums, libraries, cultural centers, and public parks, with a focus on projects that embrace Black communities and identities.

Meymandi Exhibition Gallery and in the Ann and Jim Goodnight Museum Park, Apr. 2 - July 17 - "Fault Lines: Art and the Environment," highlights contemporary artists' responses to current environmental concerns through an immersive multimedia exhibition and outdoor sculpture installations. Curated by the NCMA, Fault Lines includes works by 13 artists, including John Akomfrah, Olafur Eliasson, LaToya Ruby Frazier, Allison Janae Hamilton, Richard Mosse, Jennifer Steinkamp, and Christine and Margaret Wertheim. Ongoing - "Break the Mold: New Takes on Traditional Art Making". The exhibit showcases contemporary artists who use traditional modes of art making and crafting to tackle timely subject matter. Innovative takes on embroidery, ceramics, quilting, furniture, interior design, and fashion accessories serve to explore diverse topics such as gender assumptions and inequalities, prison reform, racial justice, memory, and loss, as well as how objects transmit and transform social and cultural history. This show features 25 contemporary artists, including Sanford Biggers, Elizabeth Brim, Maria Britton, Julie Cockburn, Rodney McMillan, Rachel Meginnes, Katy Mixon, Gabriel de la Mora, Yasumasa Morimura, Thomas Schmidt, Shinique Smith, and Do Ho Suh, whose artworks are displayed alongside some of their historical predecessors.

West Building, Through Apr. 10 - "To Be Young: Coming of Age in the Contemporary". Where does childhood end and adulthood begin? Using both figurative and abstract images from the Museum collection, "To Be Young: Coming of Age in the Contemporary" offers an introspective overview of coming of age across various communities throughout the 20th and 21st centuries. The exhibition explores how youths process development through concepts such as identity, community, and kinship to form new perspectives on the world. East Building, Through July 3 - "PARTICIPATE: Activate the Senses Exhibition". The exhibition encourages visitors to interact with art through a variety of experiences tailored to the senses. Using their own sense of sight, sound, touch, and even smell, visitors can engage with select works of art. Participants can experience the whistle of an ancient vessel, the feeling of the beadwork on a ceremonial belt, and even the scent of the food featured in a still-life painting. PARTICIPATE displays objects from five Museum collections, including Ancient American, African, American, Contemporary, and European. Ann and Jim Goodnight East Building, Level B, Video Gallery, Photography Gallery 1 (Julian T. Baker Jr. Gallery) and 2 (Allen G. Thomas Jr. Gallery), Through Aug. 28 - "The Altered Environment". Featuring landscape photography from the NCMA collection, "The Altered Environment" explores art and human geography to consider how we shape the natural world. By building physical structures such as skyscrapers and suburban houses and using transit systems such as subways and airplanes, our collective actions often result in long-term physical changes to the planet. This exhibition evaluates how our social and economic activities regularly overlook environmental costs. East Building, Level B, Gallery 3, Apr. 2 - July 17 - "To Be Rather Than to Seem". In a pendant exhibition adjacent to "Fault Lines", the Museum explores its own environmental master plans. The NCMA's environmental program originated in the experimental 1989 site plan Imperfect Utopia: A Park for the New World. Among its groundbreaking concepts was "throw[ing] the Museum outdoors" to create an open landscape within which sculpture and recreation complemented the Museum, expanding access to a more diverse public.

NCMA Park - The North Carolina Museum of Art (NCMA) announces new works of art to be installed in the 164-acre NCMA Park. The works include a bronze tree by Italian artist Giuseppe Penone, a playful pair of benches designed by Hank Willis Thomas, and a 10-day installation of 23-foot-tall illuminated rabbits by Australian artist Amanda Parer. The sculptures will be featured at the NCMA's Park Celebration on Nov. 6, when the public is invited to experience the newly expanded Park with a variety of outdoor activities. Ongoing - Featuring 10 additional sculptures by the celebrated French artist Rodin on loan from Iris Cantor's private collection. Ongoing - "John James Audubon's The Birds of America". The state has owned this treasured volume since 1848, but it has never been exhibited. Ongoing - The North Carolina Museum of Art has an outstanding permanent collection of more than 5,000 objects spanning antiquity to the present day. On the occasion of the expansion, the Museum has acquired more than 100 new works of art. Representing commissions, gifts, and purchases, the new works encompass important and diverse examples of historic and contemporary art from around the world, and will be installed in the Museum's new building and the surrounding landscape. Highlights include a gift of 28 sculptures by Auguste Rodin, and work by such internationally acclaimed artists as Roxy Paine, Ursula von Rydingsvard, El Anatsui, Jaume Plensa, Jackie Ferrara, Ellsworth Kelly, and David Park, among others. Admission: Yes for some exhibits. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 9am-5pm; Sun., 10am-5pm; & open until 9pm on Fri. Contact: 919/839-6262 or at (www.ncartmuseum.org).

R. A. Bryan Foundation Inc. Gallery, at The Crafts Center, on the first floor of Thompson Hall on the NC State University campus, 210 Jensen Drive, Raleigh. Through Apr. 9 - "Davis Choun: Pattern Assemblage". Raleigh-based artist, Davis Choun, is a process oriented artist who works with many different discarded or everyday materials, most notably, clothespins. After taking apart the clothespins, the wood pieces are then burned, dyed, and/or stained. Using those pieces, he composes a pattern to affix to the panel, allowing the clothespins to interact and layer on one another. Choun was born and raised in Rutherford County in western North Carolina and graduated from the School of Design at NC State in 2015. His work has been supported by various galleries around North Carolina, including Artspace in downtown Raleigh, where he was awarded an Emerging Artist Residency in 2017 and where he currently works out of his studio. The work you will see in this exhibition is born out of an attraction to benign or discarded materials and a process of manipulations. The work relies on improvisation and continuity. Hours: Mon.-Fri., noon-10pm; Sat., 10am-5pm; & Sun., noon-5pm. Contact: 919/515-2457 or at (<https://crafts.arts.ncsu.edu/>).

Winston-Salem

Work by Owens Daniels

Artworks Gallery, 564 N. Trade Street, Winston-Salem. Apr. 1 - 30 - "Jazz and Blues, Owens Daniels Photography". Celebrate the magic of Jazz: innovation, creativity and art, and the Blues: down home, feelings and emotions of the human condition. And, "Spring to Life," an all members exhibition. Receptions will be held on Apr. 1, from 7-10pm and Apr. 3, from 2-4pm. Daniels' work puts the viewer in the moment to experience the rhythm, time and movement of Jazz and the sadness, confusion, heartbreak, fear and bliss of the Blues. Daniels has spent the past few summers capturing the magic of the Winston-Salem downtown music scene. He has photographed guitar, bass, keyboard and drummers performing on the streets of Winston for crowds of people who were cool, laid back, dancers and lovers. Ongoing - The gallery is the longest running cooperative gallery established by artists for artist members, showing 12 exhibits per year in the heart of Winston-Salem's Art District. "Black Is Beautiful: The Photography of Kwame Brathwaite" is on view at the Reynolda House Museum of American Art in the Mary and Charlie Babcock Wing Gallery.

Reynolda House Museum of American Art, Reynolda Road, Winston-Salem. Mary and Charlie Babcock Wing Gallery, Through May 8 - "Black Is Beautiful: The Photography of Kwame Brathwaite". This is the first major exhibition to focus on this central figure of the second Harlem Renaissance whose art popularized the "Black Is Beautiful" cultural movement that began in the 1960s in the United States. Through more than 40 iconic photographs of Black men and women with natural hair and clothes that reclaimed their African roots, Black Is Beautiful reflects how Brathwaite—inspired by the writings of famed activist and black nationalist Marcus Garvey—used his art to effect social change in the late 1950s and 1960s. West Bedroom Gallery, Through July 31 - "Substrata: the spirit of collage in 76 years of art," examines the influence of collage. Beginning in 1912, Pablo Picasso, Georges Braque and Juan Gris were the first artists to explore collage in a self-consciously modern way, in relation to both the history of art and to the culture of their time. Their Cubist collages were a radical break with the "window on the world" depictions of Renaissance painting. But after the Cubists' defiant, "punk" attitude of those early years, they returned to painting. Northwest Bedroom Gallery, Apr. 22 - Sept. 18 - "Louise Nevelson," the exhibition was curated by Dr. Jennifer Finkel, the Acquavella Curator of Collections at Wake Forest University. In addition to works from Reynolda's collection, the exhibition will include artworks from Wake Forest University's art collection, the Weatherspoon Art Museum and two private collections. Sculptor Louise Nevelson (1899–1988) described her artistic goals in this way: "My total conscious search in life has been for a new seeing, a new image, a new insight. This search not only includes the object, but the in-between places, the dawns and dusks, the objective world, the heavenly spheres, the places between the land and the sea." Ongoing - Collection of 18th through 20th century art, sculpture, American art, and pottery. Admission: Yes. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 9:30am-4:30pm & Sun., 1:30-4:30pm. Contact: 336/725-5325 or at (<https://reynolda.org/>).

SEED Collective Gallery, 205 W. Sixth Street, entrance is on "Soho Alley", Winston-Salem. Ongoing - Featuring works by a cooperative group of artists in various mediums. Hours: Sat. from 11am-5pm & by appt. Contact: 336/722-2345.

Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art, 750 Marguerite Drive, Winston-Salem. SECCA's grounds and Overlook Gallery, Through 2022 - "Inside/Outside: Charlie Brouwer". This Virginia-based artist brings evolving outdoor sculpture project to SECCA's scenic grounds over the course of 17 months. Planning "Inside/Outside: Charlie Brouwer" has been a collaboration between the artist and Wendy Earle, Curator of Contemporary Art. The exhibition will have a unique format and schedule, beginning in August and running until December 2022. Every 40 days for one year, the artist will install outdoor sculptures on SECCA's grounds, along with indoor works and installations in spaces throughout the museum. Beginning in August 2022, the artist will begin removing works every 40 days until the exhibition closes in December. Main Gallery, Through Apr. 17 - "Black@Intersection: Contemporary Black Voices in Art," a special group exhibition featuring more than twenty artists, organized by guest curator Duane Cyrus. In Jan. 2021, SECCA posted an open call for guest curator submissions, seeking new voices and new perspectives for an upcoming project. SECCA hoped to develop a collaborative exhibition that showcases work being produced in response to the current moment, primarily the onset of and quarantine surrounding COVID-19 and the protests and events surrounding the death of George Floyd and the wider Black Lives Matter movement. After evaluating numerous exceptional applications, SECCA selected Duane Cyrus for the guest curator position based on his proposal for Black@Intersection. The exhibition features Black and African Diasporic artists from North Carolina and beyond. The artists simultaneously exemplify and defy—yet continue to redefine the perceived norms around concepts of Blackness as we see it in our world. They resist the nullifying commodification of blackness into a type of monolith and do so by creating works that reify the world on their own terms. Potter Gallery, Through June 5 - "Sherrill Roland: The Odds," explores innocence, justice, and chance with works informed by the artist's wrongful incarceration. A reception will be held on Mar. 10, from 6-8pm. Roland's interdisciplinary practice examines innocence, identity, and community, reimagining those concepts in the context of the American criminal justice system. For more than three years, Roland's right to self-determination was lost to a wrongful incarceration. After spending ten months in prison for a crime he was later exonerated for, he returned to his artistic practice, which he now uses as a vehicle for self-reflection and as an outlet for emotional release. Ongoing - Founded in 1956, the Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art offers a front-row seat to the art of our time. Through visual art exhibitions, education, music, film, dance and theater, SECCA starts conversations that engage diverse communities and perspectives. SECCA is an affiliate of the North Carolina Museum of Art and a division of the NC Department of Natural & Cultural Resources. SECCA receives operational funding from The Arts Council of Winston-Salem and Forsyth County. Additional funding is provided by the James G. Hanes Memorial Fund. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm, Thur. till 8pm; Sun., 1-5 pm, and closed Mon. & state holidays. Admission is free. Contact: 336/725-1904 or at (www.secca.org).

Work by Michael Gates

American Folk Art & Antiques, 64 Biltmore Ave., Asheville. Apr. 5 - 21 - "10th Annual Face Jug Show". This year marks the 10th consecutive April that American Folk Art has dedicated to the storied regional tradition of Face Jugs. These jugs began to appear in these parts in the very early 1800s. Grimacing faces, snakes, and other examples of foreboding iconography were added to the jugs used to store moonshine as a clever way of frighten children away from the liquor. In those days, self-sufficiency ruled, and thus hand-made, locally-crafted clayware was common. Our regional soils contain all the elements needed to make hardy clay, and our forests plenty of wood for the fueling of kilns. Ongoing - Featuring antique folk art, functional and contemporary folk pottery, furniture and paintings. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 10am-6pm & Sun., noon-5pm. Contact: 828/281-2134 or at (www.amerifolk.com).

Blue Spiral 1, 38 Biltmore Ave., Asheville. Main Gallery, Through Apr. 27 - "Still Life 2.0". Our second exhibition paying homage to a traditional source of artistic inspiration, "Still Life 2.0" provides contemporary interpretations of inanimate subject matter in our periphery. Artists in this exhibition use paint, metal, glass, clay, and wood to reimagine natural objects and material culture. Artists included are: Michael Fitts, Charles Ladsen, Rob Levin, Chris Liberti, Heather Marshall, Carol Milne, Ward Nichols, Tom Pfannerstill, Jon Sours, BA Thomas, and Kari Woolsey. Lower Level Gallery, Through Apr. 27 - "The Beauty In The Beast. Animals have served as the inspiration for myriad works of ceramic art throughout all of human history and across all cultures.

From the cave paintings of Lascaux, the horses of the Tang Dynasty, the animal vessels of the Moche people, to artists and artworks of more contemporary times, animals have been used as symbols, archetypes, and motifs in ceramic art. Animals are a vehicle to address human relationships with nature and human psychology and emotions. The artists in this exhibit all have unique reasons for using the animal form to investigate various concepts, including social issues, gender and sexuality, memory and narrative, and ultimately, the human condition. These artists represent various racial and cultural identities, gender identities, methods of working, and career stages. This exhibition will provide an opportunity for these artists to connect with one another as well as instigate a conversation with the viewer through the rich symbolism and history of animals in the ceramic arts. The exhibit was guest-curated by Ariel Bowman, Shelsea Dodd and Taylor Robenalt. Artists included are: Rebekah Bogard, Ariel Bowman, Karmien Bowman, Julie Clements, Shelsea Dodd, GV Kelley, Grace Khalsa, Christine Kosiba, Bethany Krull, Tyler Quintin, Taylor Robenalt, George Rodriguez, Naomi Stein Cooper, and Travis Winters. Small Format Gallery, Through Apr. 27 - "Garden of Memory, New Work by Jen Blazina". Blazina's glass and bronze sculptures, cast from salvaged items from antique and thrift stores, evoke memory, nostalgia and history. In this recent body of work she recreates objects of the home - tools, furniture and clothing - building a narrative which connects viewers to mementos of the past, offering an intimate space from another time. Showcase Gallery, Through Apr. 27 - "Human+Nature: Photographic Explorations". "Human+Nature" presents photographic explorations of the interconnected relationship between humans and nature. These images reveal not only our individual perception of nature, but also our own nature made manifest through changes inflicted on the environment and the adjustment of humankind within self-created structures. Our primary human instincts drive us to control and dominate while also nurturing and finding connection in our surroundings. Artists included are: Ralph Burns, John Dickson, Bill Green, Brian Kelley, Micah Mackenzie, Peter Olson, Susan Patrice, and David Samuel Stern. Ongoing - Featuring works in a variety of mediums by regional, national and international artists. the creation of their work. There remains, however, those who are convinced that "my five-year old child could paint that!" While abstract art is often defined as art that does not depict a person, place or thing in the natural world by taking away all likeness of figure and content, others define it as art that removes elements of a subject to make it less complicated and more simplistic. The debate of what actually defines abstract art has continued since it was introduced in the early 1900s. This exhibition presents painting by four artists who have created work with varying degrees of abstraction. While the paintings of Javier Lopez Barbosa, Sheri Skeahan, and Bill Jensen are totally abstract, another artist, Carl Plansky, reduces certain components of subject matter in the creation of his paintings. The exhibition is sponsored by Hines Charlotte Carillon LP (<https://www.hines.com/properties/carillon-charlotte>). Hours: Mon.-Fri., 8am-8pm; Sat., 8am-7pm & Sun., noon-8pm.
