Gallery West in Columbia, SC, Features Works by Scotty Peek, Virginia Scotchie, and Bri Kinard

Gallery West in Columbia, SC, will present Scotty Peek, Virginia Scotchie, Bri Kinard: Recent Works, on view from Sept. 1 through Oct. 21, 2017. A reception will be held on Sept. 1, from 6-9pm.

Scotty Peek is a painter, while Virginia Scotchie and Bri Kinard work in ceramics. All three are educators in our community, and are passionate about sharing their knowledge and skill as they guide young people in their respective mediums.

Work by Scotty Peek

Peek teaches art at Heathwood Hall Episcopal School. Prior to joining the Heathwood faculty, Peek was an Assistant Professor of Art at South Carolina State University, and taught art courses at the University of South Carolina and Midlands Technical College. He received his MFA from the University of South Carolina. His work was included in the 2004 Triennial at the South Carolina State Museum and was one of four artists selected for 701 Center for Contemporary Art's Inaugural Exhibit in 2008.

Peek's work for this exhibit falls into three categories. The first series is a balance between drawing and painting using commercial properties as subjects. The second is a series of simple portraits of non-profit organizations whose purpose is to benefit varied members of our community. Dissatisfied with the disconnection he was feeling in these first two series, his third series began by looking around his everyday surroundings and his personal space. It was then that he began to paint exclusively from life, both indoors and outdoors. Some pieces have specific meaning and are of things that he loves, other objects he simply wanted to visually study, but the delight is greatest when both forces converge.

Virginia Scotchie is a ceramic artist and area head of ceramics at the University of South Carolina in Columbia. She holds a BFA in ceramics from UNC-Chapel Hill and an MFA from Alfred University in New York. Scotchie exhibits her work extensively throughout the United States and abroad, and has received numerous awards including the Sydney Meyer Fund International Ceramics Premiere Award from the Shepparton Museum in Victoria, Australia. She has exhibited widely, lectures internationally on her work, and has been an artist-in-residence in Taiwan, Italy, Australia and the Netherlands. Her clay forms reside in many public and private collections.

Scotchie's work for this exhibition is the result of a summer of creating in the studio, opening the kiln to a body of functional pieces, each marked with her unique touch. In her words, "Exploration in the studio is an ongoing visual investigation of man-made and natural objects. Usually these consist of small things, ordinary in many ways but possessing an odd quirkiness that pulls me to them."

Bri Kinard is a ceramic and mixed media artist. She is currently an Instructor of Ceramics and Head of Technical Operations of the ceramic studio at The School of Visual Art and Design at the University of South Carolina in Columbia. She holds a BFA in Ceramics from the University of South Carolina in Columbia, and received her MFA in Ceramics at the School for American Crafts at Rochester Institute of Technology in Rochester, NY. Exhibiting extensively throughout the Southeastern United States and Midwest, her sculptural forms reside in many private collections.

Kinard and Scotchie worked side by side throughout the summer in the USC Ceramics studio, experimenting with shapes, glazes and firings. Both artists created bodies of functional ceramic pieces that beg to be touched, used and treasured.
